EDITORIAL

THE Clark celebration at Vincennes was conceived in a spirit of patriotism and consummated with an enthusiasm that made the day one of the most meaningful of the year. The anniversary was acclaimed with pomp and pageantry, and the ceremonies were well-ordered and impressive. The spirit of the occasion was not confined to the borders of the proud State of Indiana, but nationally the citizens were aware of the bestowal of honors on the intrepid George Rogers Clark, one hundred and fifty years after his valorous deed. In the exercises of February 25th, stamps had an honorable place, and in fact, they were in the lead on the program of events, since they were put on sale at 7 A. M. The special issue gave not only a sentimental interest to the ceremonies but also advertised the Vincennes memorial in an effective manner. We can think of no more gracious national tribute to an event of the kind than a special stamp. It will be admitted that the issue is the ideal courier to proclaim to the whole country that its thoughts should be centered on the services of celebration and veneration.

AS early as Monday, letters were received in Chicago, bearing the postmark of the same day, February 25, 8 P. M., and it may be that this hour was later than when the postmarking was actually done; and if such was the case, collectors should cherish this evidence of regard for them. The WEEKLY had a special representative at Vincennes and he tells a story that stirs imagination. Mr. W. H. Gilley, our correspondent, was at the post office early on Monday morning, but even so, he was second to Mr. Harry Ioor of Indianapolis, who in the gray dawn at 6.45 A. M., bought one hundred dollars' worth of the stamps. The stamps sent to Vincennes numbered 700,000, and up to 10.30 A. M., 400,000 had been sold. At this hour, it was estimated that 80,000 covers had been mailed, and it was said that the Chamber of Commerce handled 35,000 for collectors and dealers. There was no cachet and no inverted centers! Large numbers of specially designed envelopes were used, and one originated by Mr. M. A. Vogel of Chicago, showed the copyrighted Youths' Companion picture with appropriate wording, permission having been given Mr. Vogel to use it. The postmaster at Vincennes was kind enough to take Mr. Gilley to the canceling room where he beheld a scene of activity. The covers were run through the machine without interruption and on blocks of four, a handstamp was used. Too, the hotel sold the stamps over the counter. There were a good many visiting philatelists in the crowd at the hotel. Mr. Gilley adds that the plate-numbers of the sheets of fifty are at the top in black and red, and gives the following numbers: black, 19731-2-4-5-7; red 19720-2-4.

THE Vincennes Sun of Feb. 25th, flared the headline clear across the front page: "Stamp Sale is Record," with the sub-headings: "New Stamp Sold only in Vincennes; Hundreds Waiting at Post Office," and "$741 Worth Issued in First Ten Minutes; Post Office Clerks Besieged With Greatest Demand in History of United States Post Office Department; 700,000 to Be Available for First Day Sale." The paper said that scores of customers waited in line for the service window of the post office to open at 6.45 A. M., and "within ten minutes after four post office employees began the sale, $741 worth of Clark stamps had been purchased and stamp sales amounted to more than $1,000 at 7 A. M." Soon after that hour, the office was thronged with buyers of the Clark stamps. While 700,000 stamps were on hand, a reserve stock of 500,000 was held in Washington. All day Monday, requests from persons living at a distance poured in and the staff was kept busy filling the orders.

ACCORDING to the Vincennes Sun, the first stamp was cancelled at 6 A. M.; and the first stamp used was on a letter directed to the postmaster at Princeton, Indiana, Fred Ewing. We quote: "The Vincennes Historical society, in which society was born the idea of the Clark celebration, was sent the first stamp printed. It was received by W. C. Mason, the present president of the society from Postmaster General New." We have referred previously to the huge number of letters sent to Vincennes by collectors, which are said to have come in "faster than they could be opened." However, the officers and employees of the post office worked unremittingly to get the stamps in the mail for patrons on the first day, and the thanks of collectors are due to W. M. Willmore and T. M. Jackson, postmaster and assistant-postmaster, respectively, who directed the task. Mr. Eidsness, superintendent of the stamp division at Washington, was present as the representative of the post office department, and he certainly had his share in the handling of the details of the activities. The Clark stamp was presented with èlan and èclat.

* * *

OUR friend, Mr. E. W. Determann, A. P. S. 5874, Vincennes, Indiana, had his hands full during the dedicatory period of the Clark stamp. He received many requests for the stamps from all sides, and as a philatelist his services were in demand. He gave out interviews and was a fount of inspiration generally, we have no doubt. One newspaper said that Mr. Determann estimated that approximately 10,000 "have adopted the hobby of collecting stamps." We are sure that a zero or two was lost in the shuffle. Among the first day covers addressed to the editor were some nicely embellished ones; and thanks are due to the following friends: J. Lynn Avery, Long Beach, California, president of the Long Beach Stamp Collectors Club; Arthur L. Briggs, Chicago; E. W. Determann, Vincennes, Ind.; Eldon N. Ertz, Cincinnati; E. L. Hendrickson, St. Paul; Kenneth Loucks, Indianapolis; L. X. McNally, Boston; Harry Ioor, Indianapolis; LeGrand Payne, Indianapolis; C. A. Ploch, Indianapolis; Gordon L. Jar... Chicago; and Victor M. everal weeks ago, the Cleveland Press tained a picture of W. W. MacLaren, "stamp hunter" of that city, accom-ied by text that paid tribute to him, one who joined the Cleveland Press r twenty-eight years ago, and who resigns. We regret that poor health caused Mr. MacLaren to sever his nection with the newspaper with ch he joined forces in 1900, and of ch he was promoted to the cashiership months later. None will say that er the circumstances, Mr. MacLaren s not deserve a rest, but we doubt he will remain inactive for any gth of time, especially as he is so well ipped to enter the stamp business in.

Air Mail News

BY DONALD E. DICKASON,
Wooster, Ohio

(Our subscribers are urged to send air mail news direct to Mr. Dickason and especially advance news concerning first flights, with names of cities served. The scope of this department will not allow the treatment of flights from other than the purely philatelic standpoint.)

Department copy this week is by Mr. Markee as usual.

The past week has been the quietest one for months—from the standpoint of new flights or covers. Probably due to the storms and cold weather. However, we can always dig up something, so let's go!

*****

Mr. Lester Marmorstein sends in word that an article recently appeared in Aero Digest to the effect that a new airline is in the making, the route probably being Winnipeg, Superior, Ladysmith, Wausau, Marshfield, Wisconsin Rapids, and connecting at Appleton with the leg of CAM No. 9, which opened in December. Nothing definite, as yet, but it is a possibility to keep in mind as spring approaches.

*****

Here's one to get busy with! Buffalo, N. Y., March 23rd to 30th, Aircraft Show. Frank Herget, 553 Suffolk Street, Buffalo, N. Y., will do the honors for readers who send covers ready to go. Special cachet will be applied by the contractor of CAM No. 20, Colonial Airways, Inc., 1819 Hotel Statler Bldg., same city, and covers can be sent to them, if you prefer. Mr. Herget further states that the Scout Philatelic Club may affix a little cachet themselves. You Boy Scouts will like this! Thanks, Mr. Herget.

Elton Manuel reports that covers sent to Breckenridge, Tex., for despatch on the dedication date of their Airport, have been returned by the Postmaster with a note saying no definite date is known.

*****

Mr. Otto Weismann reports that the last Dutch plane to make the flight from Batavia to Amsterdam arrived at the latter point on January 23rd. This is the sixth plane to make the round trip. Incidentally, the new Dutch Indies Air Mail stamps are quite effective.

*****

The expected flight from Worcester, Mass., did not occur on the first date announced—Feb. 17th—but it is expected that this city will go on CAM No. 1, April 1st. It is expected that a special cachet is to be used, and if our expectations are realized we may expect to see our covers while the expecting is good!

*****

Mr. Benjamin Cadbury sends in a copy of the Phila. P. O. Foreign Mail Bulletin, and calls my attention to the Air Mail Service paragraphs. Postmaster Kemp is right up to date and keeps this information constantly before the Philadelphia personnel. Wonder how many of 'em can give the Mexico-U. S. rate without looking it up!

Here's a nice letter, received from Mr. C. J. McAhon, Tom's River, N. J., under date of Feb. 18th. Mr. McAhon writes, "As I am under the impression that the 'Graf Zeppelin' will make one more flight to Lakehurst this summer, I am offering my services to the boys who want to send letters or cards on the same. I am connected with the Post Office at this point (Tom's River), 7 miles from Lakehurst and will make it a point to see that all letters sent me ready to mail, will be taken care of personally. Am an amateur collector and would be glad to give the boys a hand." Fine work, Mr. McAhon! You will have your hands full, believe me! Readers will please note that letters must be ready to mail. The rate will probably be published long enough in advance of the trip to permit your complying with the above requirement.

*****

Mr. J. H. Jost sends in a clipping from a Halifax, N. S., newspaper, which intimates that this point will have an Airport in the summer, in order to hold the permanent Air Mail service that will follow the experimental flights of January.

*****

I received a large number of clippings from Mr. Harry Leonard the past week, giving all the details of the landing and departure of Col. Lindbergh at the Canal Zone. It is stated that 800 lbs. of mail came up on the two planes, so you can figure that about 72,000 letters made the flight. Evidently this First Trip was one of the most popular we have had. I understand from Mr. Leonard that the Miami-Cristobal covers are in great demand down in the Canal Zone, as the larger part of the load carried down there was forwarded back to collectors soon after the arrival.

*****

De Kalb, Ill., will dedicate in the near future, so Mr. Roy Weston writes. * * * Miss Anna M. Schafer sends a copy of a letter received from the C. of C. and Mines, Douglas, Ariz., under date of Feb. 19th, in which the Secretary states that the rate from Agua Prieta Airport to U. S. points will be 17½c per cover. An Air Mail envelope—Mexican—is available for 5½c, and the Chamber will be glad to purchase and address the envelopes for collectors sending the amount

PAPER VARIETIES

Quadrillé—Lower right.

Many of the queries I receive refer to the rather difficult subject of the papers on which stamps have been printed. The paper most generally used for stamp printing is described as "wove." Such a paper has a plain, even texture, like that usually employed for books and newspapers.

"Laid" paper, which is probably second to wove in philatelic importance, is watermarked with a series of parallel lines, close together. When these lines run the vertical way of the stamp, the paper is said to be "vertically laid," while horizontal lines give the name to "horizontally laid" paper.

"Granite" paper shows coloured fibres in its texture, but the description is sometimes applied to coarse paper of the cheaper kinds, which does not show the fibres. The "G.C." paper of France, used during the War, is a greyish granite paper, and the coloured fibres can usually be clearly seen.

"Quadrillé" paper is watermarked with crossed lines, forming small squares or oblongs.

"Pelure" paper is a very thin, semi-transparent paper, usually greyish in colour, about the thickness of tissue paper, but much tougher and harder. This description is often applied incorrectly to many kinds of very thin paper.

Readers who are interested in this subject are advised to get our Publishers' book, Stamp Issuing Countries, which, in addition to full geographical and historical details about the countries which have issued stamps, prints the official glossary of philatelic terms, which gives full explanations about paper, perforations; and other technical matters relating to our hobby.—Gibbons Stamp Monthly.

One Who Believes in the Boy

By H. W. SCHAEFFER.

In your "Stamp News for the Juniors" appears an article entitled "Some Don'ts for the Beginner," which contains some excellent advice, but which also embodies a sentiment with which I beg leave to differ, i.e., the admonition to refrain from sending for free packets unless it is the intention to buy from approvals, people who do that sort of thing being termed "cheap skates."

I have boy customers in every State in the Union, and in various foreign countries. In addition, I am a physical director and spend a great deal of time with boys and girls of the "teen" age, and as a student of child psychology it seems to me that it is a great mistake to offer something for nothing and then bestow an opprobious term upon those who take advantage of the offer.

Personally, I believe in the more sound economic policy of selling the "initial offer" instead of giving it away, but if I did make a free offer I should not consider all applicants as being potential approval buyers, but rather as so many additions to my mailing list.

Last fall I placed an advertisement in your "Adlets" column. Cost 90c. Returns, 16 inquiries. Permanent customers, that is customers with whom I have transacted business up to date, 13. I shall certainly turn to the WEEKLY when I feel that I need new blood in my mailing lists.

Paraguay Notes

By A. C. LEDUC.

Now, while the world is watching with interest, the disagreement between the two South American countries of Paraguay and Bolivia, our thoughts turn to the album pages for those countries.

Let us see what stamps of especial interest these countries have issued during the last few years. Since 1920 we find that most of the stamps of Paraguay have been of apparent high value, as its money has depreciated in value necessitating the use of many peso values.

The 1920 issue shows a picture of the Parliament House in Asuncion and was issued to commemorate the fiftieth anniversary of the constitution. This was followed in 1922 by a similar series, but without the words "Constitucion Nacional." In 1922-23 the national independence was commemorated with the issue of one peso and five peso stamps in various color combinations. These stamps show a picture of a building which was used as headquarters by the conspirators.

Beginning with the year 1920, many stamps have been surcharged with a large letter "C." Such surcharged stamps are sold in the country (Campana) districts.

In order to show the world its geographical position, Paraguay issued a set of map stamps in 1924. These show Paraguay and its neighboring boundary republics of Brazil, Argentina and Bolivia. The map stamps were followed in 1925 by several values showing a portrait of General Diaz. At about the same time two stamps were issued showing a seascape and above, in a circle, a portrait of Columbus.

Since 1927 Paraguay has been using a new series. Several values have the star and numeral design, and several show portraits of famous men in early Paraguayan history. The five peso shows a public building, while the 1½ peso shows a map of the country.

OUR BOOK REVIEW

Stamp Collecting—Why and How," Prescott H. Thorp, is the title of a rb book just published by the Scott np and Coin Co., 1 W. 47 St., New k City. Price, $2.50. We quote n the jacket:—

HY Because it is the outstanding avocation of all time; furing amusement, knowledge, education pleasure to more people than any r hobby. Further, Stamp Collecting is most democratic of all hobbies ining in its followers the rich man, man, beggar man and (to our re-) thief. Neither wealth nor poverty, lect nor immaturity prevents anyone ying this fascinating pastime; the f of which lies in its very name, "the y of kids and kings."

OW "Stamp Collecting goes infinitely farther than the mere ering of pretty bits of paper ———." v much farther is forcibly told in mp Collecting—Why and How. But Mr. rp has not been content to stop with explanation. He has himself "gone itely farther" and in the same ening manner that has won for him so y friends over WOR, has made this ritable textbook on the subject. In ord, he has debunked Stamp Collect--made it easy for everyone to take the hobby without fear of being ed by the unscrupulous.

he book is printed in a very attract-style and is illustrated with many ip pictures. It is just the book to in the library, or on the living-room and when someone asks you: "Why you collect stamps?" just pass over Thorp's volume.

here is no book on either side of the ntic that approaches Philately so ingently or presents it so attractively. certain to be a great missioner for hobby. It runs to nearly 200 pages, ound in cloth, and wears a jacket that ks right out in a no uncertain man-Mr. Prescott dedicates the book to h M. Clark, to whom "all credit" is owed "if this book should meet with ess." As to success there can be no tion.

THE MAN WHO WOULDN'T BE HELPED

There was once a collector who thought catalogues, stamp magazines, and philatelic books were no use to him. He didn't want to read a lot of stuff about stamps. The stamps themselves were good enough for him.

We draw a veil over his painful history,—the junk he acquired, the bargains he missed, the pleasures he failed to enjoy.

We merely remind you that GIBBONS' STAMP MONTHLY, the most helpful and informative stamp magazine ever published, can be had for sixteen months by sending us a dollar bill, and that our lists of literature, albums, packets and sets, etc., are FREE on request.

WHO WAS MOLLY PITCHER?

Many articles have been published, both prior to, and since the issuing of the Molly Pitcher overprint, giving short histories of her life, but, most of them have greatly distorted the facts of her life, while others failed to embody the principal happenings; and still some others have confused her deeds with that of entirely different persons. All of which helps to lend a feeling that "Molly Pitcher" was more legendary than historical. Two such articles have appeared in stamp magazines within the past few days, and altho the stamp, to most collectors was a disappointment. Molly should be given proper credit for what she has done.

Mary Ludwig was born near Trenton, N. J., on October 13, 1744, but moved to Carlisle, Pa., while very young. When old enough she became a domestic in the home of Doctor, afterwards General William Irvine of the Continental army. On July 24, 1769, Mary, or Molly as she was called, was married to John Hays, a barber in Carlisle. Early in the Revolution, Hays joined Procter's Artillery, and when his enlistment expired, he re-enlisted, January 1, 1777, in a regiment of Pennsylvania infantry, and became a Sergeant; but shortly before the battle of Monmouth he was again detailed to artillery duty.

Molly, like many other wives, followed their enlisted husbands, from one camp to another during the war, and altho some were looked upon as the low rabble of common camp followers, her time, as well as that of many of the other wives, was spent in nursing, sewing, cooking and washing for the officers and men. On the hot June 28, 1778, while the battle of Monmouth was being fought, Molly, for hours, carried water to the thirsty men in battle, until her husband fell wounded, when she took his place, helping man the cannon. Gen. George Washington personally commended and honored her with same rank as her husband, a Sergeant. It was this day she won the sobriquet "Molly Pitcher".

The heroine returned to Carlisle with her husband, where a few years after the war he died, never recovering from his wounds. Unfortunately, she later married the worthless George McCauley, or McKolly, and lived a life of penury, having to make her own scanty living until after his death, when she was pensioned, February 21, 1822, by the State of Pennsylvania. On January 22, 1832, she died, and was buried with military honors in what is known as the Old Graveyard, where a beautiful and imposing memorial designed by J. Otto Schweitzer, of Philadelphia, is erected over her grave.

The writer, as a boy, often passed the old log house in which she once lived, and knew old people who claimed to have known Molly when they were children; the site was marked where the house stood, until torn down in 1900.

The lack of adequate records, in the years of the molding of early history, has left a question as to the correctness of the dates of birth and death of this heroine, but the ones given above generally regarded as the most authentic.

Just how she became called Molly Pitcher is largely speculative, but the sight of her (to the thirsty soldiers) carrying a pitcher of water, no doubt, brought many a call, Molly! bring the pitcher here, or, Molly! a pitcher, please, or get Molly and her pitcher, some such cry, which subsequently brought about, Molly Pitcher.—Jos. K. WILLIAMS, A. P. S. 9463.

NOVEL "AROUND THE WORLD" COVER

By NELSON F. GERKEN.

I have just received an extraordinary "first flight under new air mail rates" cover, the same having been around the world, although not in record time for more than six months were required for the journey.

August 1, when the new air rates became operative, I deposited in St. Louis, with the Robertson Aircraft Corp., operating C.A.M. 2, a Sesqui envelope bearing a 2c Bennington stamp, and the new 5c air mail, this addressed to myself, routed viz., Calcutta, India and Sydney, N. S. W. The Robertson people applied the special unofficial cachet used by them on this occasion, and letter was postmarked in St. Louis at 1 p. m. It was flown St. Louis to Chicago by Pilot E. L. Sloniger (now in China on an aeronautical mission), thence to New York and backstamped at the Varick St. Station at 3 p. m., Aug. 2nd.

It bears a Calcutta backstamp, Sept. 2nd, and on the face was applied a phrase in the native tongue—indecipherable to me. Where the letter spent the ensuing four months will probably remain a mystery, but on January 9, 1929, it was machine face-stamped in Sydney.

On arrival in San Francisco—and here is the most interesting feature of its long journey—the cover was placed in the air mails and flown to Chicago, being backstamped at the latter point, air mail division, at 1.30 a. m., February 19. It was sent on to St. Louis by rail and delivered at my residence Feb. 20.

An outstanding feature of this cover is its almost perfect condition, notwithstanding its having covered a distance approximating 30,000 miles, and being physically handled at several points. Moreover, after it was originally flown St. Louis to New York, and franked only with the domestic rate—9c—required on air mail from this country to India, it was again flown San Francisco to Chicago on its return, for which no additional fee was levied. This latter service is all the more remarkable considering the envelope was not an air mail cover and there was nothing about it to attract special attention—even the most cursory inspection would have revealed it was not again eligible for air mail service. A possible solution is that when San Francisco postal employees opened the trans-Pacific mail and discovered an envelope bearing a U. S. air mail stamp (although same was cancelled) they assumed it was used to expedite delivery and tossed it into the air mail bag without discovering the letter had previously been flown here.

JUNIOR NIGHT

The Chicago Philatelic Society is entitled to a few pats on the back for having conducted a successful innovation that paves the way to even greater accomplishments in this field. On the evening of February 21st, the meeting was given over to the juvenile collectors of Chicago, who were invited to an "At Home" where the entertainment was gauged to meet the inclinations of the boys and girls, many of whom were members of the numerous school and other stamp societies which abound in the city. There was an attendance of sixty-two young people with a sprinkling of parents and teachers, and with the members of the society, over one hundred persons crowded the large room in the Bismarck Hotel that was especially engaged for the occasion. The intention was not to make a numerical showing so much as to experiment in the work of development of closer relations between the society and the philatelists of the future. Mr. North, who is much interested in young collectors, did his share of the work in marshalling the hosts, but with space limitations in mind, he restrained himself somewhat in recruiting the eager young folks. When he does extend himself, the injunction to "hire a hall" will have to be obeyed literally.

There were stamp displays, the most formal of which was made by Mr. J. M. Westphal of Joliet, Illinois, whose match and medicine of the Civil War period were almost complete in a condition that would be hard to equal. He may be proud of the evidences of many years' attention to these historical issues. In behalf of the young people, Mr. Westphal had an encouraging word to say when he was called upon by Chairman Rech; and likewise Mr. Severn had a welcoming remark and a few hints to give. Then Dr. Hennan had the floor and the fun began. There were drawings and stamp prizes galore; and the intention to see that none of the young visitors departed stampless was carried out. Donors of a new album, packets, sets and single stamps were Dr. Hennan, C. J. Rose, A. F. Boehm, and others. Mr. Armstrong was a tactful sergeant-at-arms, and he with Mr. North may know that they have done something worth more than a nod of approval. It was proved that there is an opportunity for the Chicago Philatelic Society to achieve an object of real benefit. A contact has been established between those who are entering the stamp school and those who, by comparison, are well advanced in their studies. When another meeting of the kind is held the members of the C. P. S. will be even more alive to the possibilities of the occasion.

GUATEMALA

By HERMANN FOCKE.

I take pleasure in reporting the additional values of the new issue in the quetzal currency, and at the same time wish to correct my statement that the value of this new currency unit is the same as the Mexican dollar. Later developments show conclusively that the quetzal is on a par with the U. S. dollar.

In your paper, dated February 11, I reported the 3c value to which must be added:—

2c de quetzal indigo blue, similar to type A-74 with portrait of Justo Rufino Barrios.

15c de quetzal ultramarine, type A-36 with monument of J. Rufino Barrios.

30c de quetzal blue-green, type A-76 with La Aurora Park.

1 quetzal black, with Coat of Arms of the Republic.

As forerunners to the above permanent issue there were various provisionals created by surcharging stamps of the old issues with the new currency, but I have seen so far only the $2.50 stamp, dark violet, Scott's No. 217, surcharged in red: 1928—UN CENTAVO—DE QUETZAL in three lines.

COLLECTORS CLUB VISIT TO THE RHODE ID. PHILATELIC SOCIETY, PROVIDENCE

Reported by CHARLES J. PHILLIPS.

On Tuesday, February 19th, the Annual Banquet of the Rhode Island Philatelic Society was held at the Biltmore Hotel in Providence. This occasion was selected for one of the exchange visits between the Collectors Club of New York and the Rhode Island Philatelic Society.

Eleven members of the Collectors Club went up, the list being as follows:—S. F. Barrett, G. Burger, A. F. Lichtenstein, V. Mozian, J. Nicklin, Elliott Perry, C. J. Phillips, O. Reichelt, Geo. B. Sloane, T. E. Steinway and H. Toaspern.

A. W. Claflin, the President of the Rhode Island Philatelic Society, presided, and a fine banquet was served. The menu was interesting, the front page being a reproduction of a sheet of the Providence stamps.

The following exhibits were made by some of the delegation:—

Mr. Barrett showed the W. E. Hawkins collection of United States Revenue and Telegraph stamps, all unused; Mr. Lichtenstein his magnificent collection of the Newfoundland pence stamps; Mozian a small collection of Mulre Envelopes; Mr. Perry a remarkably collection of United States M Stamps; C. J. Phillips a selection f the collection of Afghanistan of David Masson; and T. E. Steinway very fine collection of the stamps Hamburg.

Each of these members gave particu of their collections and anecdotes of stamps which seemed to be much ap ciated by the exceptionally large g ering.

Mr. Phillips, who was in charge o delegation as Chairman of the Enter ment Committee, called on all the members of the Club who did not h any exhibit to make a speech or some anecdotes, which were very r appreciated.

These Inter-Club visits are turning a great success, and I am told that deavors are being made by local soci to try and institute other exchange visits in the near future.

Sevard's Twinkles

Kansas and Nebraska are out with commemoratives in the shape of neat little overprints, precancels, or call them what you will. When the Molly Pitcher stamps came out with the neat surcharge, we just knew they were propaganda for Al Smith with the Pitcher slogan. Now Curtis comes across with after election propaganda for KAN to which the reply is formed NEBR—never, never, never. Whether these things are precancels or surcharges, one can never tell, and if we are not careful, somebody will start an A. P. S. Unit for them.

ONE TELLS US TOO THAT THE OLD GOLD BLINDFOLD TEST STARTED WHEN DOC. CHASE USED TO SAUNTER DOWN NASSAU STREET AND PICK UP 3C 1851'S WITH HIS EYES SHUT. WHICH REMINDS US THAT THE DOCTOR'S BOOK IS COMING OUT THIS MONTH, AND STAMP CLUB SECRETARIES SHOULD DEFER PAST DUE FEES TO ALL MEMBERS WHO HAVE A DOC. CHASE COPY. SANDY CABEEN IN COMMENTING ON THIS BOOK, SAID, "I HAVE LOST WEIGHT CONSISTENTLY SINCE READING YOUR BOOK." C'EST UN LIVRE EN GRANDE PARURE.

We hoped to get our weakly scribe in on classifications, but find little to describe. The following named items have grown to commonness: the 2c Standard Type C permit, the 2c 1922 perf. 11, dark carmine shade, the die H2 1916 white envelope, the Box Type Frank Permit, the 3c 1879 soft paper, the 2c 1922 horizontal coil with slogan cancels, and the Universal Model D 20mm town with seven line wave. This last presents a peculiar circumstance in that the 1-2-3 town does not run to as high an average as in other types of cancels and marks. We have no reasonable explanation for this, any more than we have for the sitting on the flag pole fad.

The machine cancel, we had always thought, began in 1879, or 1878, when the first Leavitt machine was tried out in Boston for cancelling post cards. We have located a post card showing an 1876 dating, and the postmark agrees with the one shown on the Leavitt patent papers of 1877. This machine mark closely resembles a steel handstamp duplex die with the letter C in the auxiliary mark. The townmark has no surrounding lines of any sort. As far as we can learn, this is the earliest use of a cancelling machine anywhere, and quite reverses data previously furnished us that this machine was tried out in 1879, or 1878. Leavitt's patents of 1877 are for improvements on his earlier machines, and 1876 would be just about right for a first trial. Then again, maybe we're wrong. The official installation of cancel machines was in Boston in 1884, when four machines were placed in use, and copies of these are frequ seen.

NOW THAT WE HAVE A NEW PLA CARD STAMP, WHAT ARE YOU GOING WITH IT? DO YOU EVER LISTEN TO BRIDGE GAMES OVER THE RADIO, W ONE GUY HOLDS ALL THE ACES AND K AND QUEENS, AND THEN EXPLAINS HE WON? THE FELLOW THAT HOLDS DEUCES AND FIVES AND THOSE ME THINGS NEVER SAYS A WORD, AND BET HE'S THE ONE THAT SAVES STAMPS.

THE STAMP AND THE CHILD

A Solemnocholy Article

By H. BEDFORD-JONES.

do not know much about stamps or ldren, either one, I find, I have a good ny stamps, three children of my own, some acquaintance with other chil-n; and having endeavored to inculcate younger generation with what a Hel-ic gentleman in the Echo rightly calls ilotely, I find certain concrete prob-is which may be of interest to others. iat I have to say applies only to chil-n under twelve; those above constitute entirely different class.

Getting the collection started, seems be a general problem—that is, discov-ng if the child has a philatelic interest not. The temptation is to provide the ior collector with an album, and a usand-variety packet, and let nature e its course. I find this the worst ssible beginning, strange to say, for y simple reasons. The huge packet of mps requires a deal of sorting, which s up an enormous amount of time npared to the hinged and placed re-t. The finished product is too hard attain. Also, each inroad on the mass ms to have so little effect that the ld is discouraged. Here is a huge ntity of stamps to be worked over—l there are so many other things to do the world!

The response that the stamps can be ed out does not suffice. The business sorting out stamps is not to the taste the beginning junior by a long shot. ving discovered this, I tried other peals.

First the financial appeal—supplying junior album with good stamps, em-asizing their value. This was a flat lure, of course, for a child cannot vis-ize values in terms of dollars and nts, and likes what he likes regardless money worth; just as the ten-cent re doll may have more appeal than ten-dollar beauty.

What met with more success, was the taining of a special album. I tried the um for China, produced in that coun-and sold here by Mr. Klein. Some-iat to my surprise, it worked out cellently. The notes on each issue, with ir quaint touches of Chinese English, re read and studied, provoked an eager-ss to learn, and the collection is going ng swimmingly.

From much failure, certain suggestions ve been evolved. There are children, course, who simply do not care for mp-collecting, but they are rare. How r the matter will go eventually, lies th the child himself; but the interest n usually be awakened—if gone about the right manner. To find the man-r, in each case, is the difficulty. In my vn case, the chance remark of a junior owed the way and evolved the follow-g suggestions.

The gift of the 1915 Victoria Falls set Rhodesia had apparently passed with-t any particular interest, until the young vner began to crow over the others: Huh! Niagara ain't the biggest falls in the world! I learned better at school, and I got pictures of 'em too!"

So there we had it. From experience, therefore, I would suggest:

A Junior Album, or else a specialized album, depending on the person and the interest. As, for example, the son of a Japanese truck-farmer and a damsel of the Golden State would no doubt find his interest in the stamps of Japan. With this, hinges and the way to use them; and no big variety packet.

Instead, let the stamps come in driblets. A set here and a set there; pictorials, commemoratives, what you like. Try and strike the individual interest first of all—that's the prime requisite. The prize of a stamp set for school work, for cleaning the walks, for anything at all; connect the Nyassa Triangles with some other achievement, for example, and the junior's mind is awakened. I find the junior cannot be plunged in medias res; philately itself is so unconnected with other things of his world, that the connection must be established. For example, I am ordering today a lot of the Pro Juventute Swiss issues—not for myself, but to use in this manner.

These remarks, remember, apply to children under twelve—to the formative instinct. Most collectors who have children are apt to mistake the child's mind for their own; but juniors must grow into collectors. They do not view a collection as the paterfamalias does. To him, perforation and watermark and error mean much; to them, the world is vast, and they can pause only for the highlights. Age alone can condescend to minor varieties, for which spectacles are needed.

If Paterfamilias can give a little time to the business, too, he can deftly make the junior connect up this or that set with school-work. Especially where American history is being taught—here the thing is obvious. What the educational authorities of this country call "social studies"—we used to call it Geography—is an equally obvious field. A few questions of a Sunday night, a stamp or a set that fits into the work—and the connection is established. Personally, I find that this connection is everything, and that it is all too easy to short-circuit the individual battery without it.

Naturally, editors of a stamp journal have quantities of stamps to give away free. Now, it seems to me that our benevolent MEKEEL'S editor might well give away some of the stacks and stacks of stamps he does not know what to do with, by offering them as prizes on his Junior page—prizes for the younger juniors. Not as prizes for the best collection, nor for how much is known about paper and engraving and errors; but as prizes for "Why I Collect" or "Why I Like Stamp Collecting."

The prizes may be as worthless as the Nyassa Triangles; that's not the point at all. The reaction is two-fold. Youngsters all over the country are moved to tell the editor a lot they won't tell or can't tell anyone else—they get it down in written words, and so they find it out for themselves, and we all learn. Second, imagine a kid here and another kid there pointing with pride to the fine set MEKEEL'S sent them as a prize. The appreciation from somebody viewing it; the fact that their notions actually won a prize; there it is, right on view.

Well, it might be a fine thing or it might not. It might be carried farther, with a whole list of first prizes offered by famous collectors. "Set of 1847 in blocks offered by Mr. Hinds." "Set of Patriotic Envelopes offered by Mr. Brooks." "Set of U. S. 1869 mint offered by Mr. Ashbrook," and so forth. There's intimate contact!

THE DUTY ON USED STAMPS

During the tariff hearings now going on, an effort will be made to persuade the committee to recommend a repeal of the duty on United States cancelled postage stamps.

Perhaps it ought not to be repealed, as one of the few delightful things about the present tariff schedules. That it is one of the few is because it does not seem to be a result arrived at by any of the conventional tariff logic and its existence might be unsuspected even by those most permeated by the protective economic doctrine. Foreign postage stamps, whether used or unused, are admitted free. Unused United States stamps are also admitted free, just as a $1 or a $10 bill would be admitted free. Why, then, are cancelled United States stamps taxed?

Under the analogy of other domestic products that are exported and then brought into the country again, they would be on the free list. A duty does nothing toward equalizing differences between production costs at home and abroad nor to protect the toiling American worker against the more or less indigent labor in foreign parts.

A matter of interpretation explains the curious tax, which also explains more things remote from congressional intent and economic theories than may be suspected in practical custom-house routine. The used stamps thus imported are stamps to which rarity gives a putative value greater than their uncancelled face value—often extravagantly greater. Ruling soundly that uncancelled stamps are not goods, wares or merchandise within the meaning of the act, an Assistant Secretary of the Treasury once held that they became something else after being cancelled. They are then "printed matter," dutiable at the rate of 25 per cent of what they might bring in the foreign curio markets, which may be cited as a great triumph in official reasoning. Even to admit, duty-free, foreign collections for exhibition purposes only requires the adjustment of much red tape.

Not even any claim is made that American stamp dealers are protected against a "dumping" of stamps by dealers in other countries, and it is not a source of more than a few dollars in revenue. If the request for its abandonment made by philatelists and their organized bodies, and by stamp dealers is unheeded, stamp collectors among the country's Boy Scouts might be turned loose on the committee.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

WANTED TO BUY

My sales during the last several months have been as large as ever and in order to continue to supply my many clients with the finest things that the market affords, necessitates my constantly purchasing unusual pieces, as well as accumulations and collections.

As usual, I am after those items in fine condition and especially want mint blocks and singles. In the way of our early issues, I can use any of the outstanding pieces of the 1847 issue and desire pairs and strips of the 10-cent value. Early covers previous to 1860, with rare early U. S. nicely tied, will find a ready market. Can use any of the 1869 inverted centers in fine condition.

In the early Bureau issues, I am especially looking for mint blocks of the high denominations, and in the late twentieth century varieties, I desire to replenish my stock of inverted centers, part perforates and other errors of importance.

Also offer a ready market for scarce Departments, Carriers, Revenues and Confederates. In fact, everything in the way of scarce U. S. Issues, with the exception of envelopes.

PRIZE PICTORIALS

The largest sale of old postage stamps this year and one of the largest at private sale for some time was made last week when Robert S. Emerson, a lawyer of Providence, R. I., and a former judge of the probate court there, purchased the patriotic envelope collection owned by William S. White of Englewood, N. J. The price paid for the collection was said to be close to $35,000, but Mr. White, while admitting the sale yesterday, would not comment on the price.

Among philatelists the White collection has been known for several years as the finest of its kind. While consisting of only about 600 envelopes, chiefly of the Civil War period, all of them bearing patriotic emblems, the feature of the collection is that a large proportion of the envelopes were addressed to foreign countries, and so contain postage stamps of the 1861 issue of the higher denominations. Several contain the 24-cent stamp and one has the value of the rare August, 1861, issue, the design being slightly changed the following month. There also are a number of the 5- and 10-cent values, some envelopes having pairs.

Mr. White's collection was exhibited in the international stamp show in this city in 1926, and won the gold medal in its class.

Judge Emerson has been well-known in the philatelic world for many years, and his collection of United States stamps is one of the most valuable in this country. He also has a very choice general collection of foreign stamps. Within recent years he has devoted considerable attention to the postal-used patriotic envelopes of the Civil War period, and, with the addition of the White collection, his collection of patriotics, in respect to rarities and value, ranks superior to all others in the United States.—New York Times.

United States

New "Vincennes" Stamp

The new 2c red and black postage stamp, issued to commemorate the sesquicentennial of the George Rogers Clark Revolutionary activities, was placed on sale, as per our previous announcement, in Vincennes, Indiana, on Monday, February 25th. We learn that upward of 350,000 first-day covers were sent out, the largest quantity ever sent out before from one point at one time. Previous announcements that have been made to the effect that the stamps were to have been placed on sale elsewhere, in Virginia, on the first day are erroneous, as the stamp was placed on sale at no other place on February 25th other than the Vincennes post office.

The new stamp, without the slightest doubt, is one of the most attractive that has ever been issued by our post office department, and it is comparable with the finest issued by other countries. Nothing but the highest praise has been heard on all sides, and the engraved center is set off to great advantage by the border, which in this case, is much deeper than found on our other bi-colored issues. The stamp will undoubtedly attract attention and create interest among the non-philatelic public, and will possibly result in many new collectors. A detailed description of the new omission has been previously furnished, so that repetition is unnecessary. By the time these notes are read, the stamps will be on sale throughout the country, but if your post office has not made a requisition for them, they may be ordered from the Philatelic Stamp Agency at Washington. It is suggested in ordering these stamps, that the letter call for the one variety alone, which will facilitate the handling of the order. The outgoing administration may well be pleased with the last of the Coolidge varieties, and it is to be hoped that the new Postmaster General will be as considerate of the philatelists as has the retiring gentleman. We wish to thank Hon. Ernest R. Ackerman and Mr. W. Austin Amory for first-day covers.

1879, 10c Secret Marks

Those who have studied the 10c Jefferson bank note issues, have noted that the soft paper American print of 1879 is found both with and without the secret mark. Pairs are obtainable showing the two varieties, so that we know they are printed from the same plate. If one will glance over a number of copies, he will note a third variety, showing a small mark, which can be considered neither the without secret mark or the with secret mark, but is an in-between variety worthy of collecting. It is of interest to note that the 1880 soft paper special print is of this type, or rather those which have been inspected recently, show the faint marking. It is quite possible that the special print may exist in the other two types. The two main varieties should certainly be listed in the next specialized catalogue, and it would not be a bad idea to list the third one.

More New Envelopes

Through the courtesy of Mr. P. R. Crooker, we are enabled to list a number of new envelopes made under the new 1929 contract showing the new watermark. They are all, of course, of the round die type.

Austria.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 31 groschen postage due stamp Type D11 in dark blue.

Canada.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the 8c blue, in the new King's Head design, same as the 1c and 2c mentioned some time ago. The perforation is 12.

Dominica.—Mr. R. Roberts has shown us the 6p in the two medallion design in a pale lilac rose and black. Mr. R. Roberts notes that this is a very distinct change of color.

French Guiana.—Copies of a new series of stamps has been sent to us by Mr. R. Roberts, and are of three designs, viz., type "a" being upright format and picturing a native bowman, type "b" is oblong in shape and features a native canoe, while the third type "c" is a view of a Government building. Values and shades are 1c purple, 2c red and green, 4c brown and mauve, 5c slate green, 10c mauve and brown, 15c yellow-brown and orange, 20c blue and pea green, 25c red and brown, all in the first type; 30c green, 40c red-brown and grey, 45c gre and brown, 50c blue and grey, 65c p red and green, 75c deep blue, 90c c mine and vermilion, 1fr mauve a brown, design of type "b". The oth values are all in the last mentioned sign, 1fr05c vermilion and pea gre 1fr10c brown and mauve, 1fr50c da and pale blue, 2fr slate green and ro 3fr dark red and mauve, 5fr violet a pale green, 10fr brown and deep bl 20fr deep blue and pale red. This i most unattractive series, and as our c respondent writes "ghastly designs a outrageous mixture of colors."

Guatemala.—Whitfield King & C advises that they have received, in ad tion to those values noted in issue 1988, the 25c orange-brown, 30c gre 50c rose and 1 quetzal black.

Leeward Islands.—Mr. R. Robe informs us that the 1p rose (reversio quite a distinct color from the origi carmine-red, and the 1½p yellow-bro have been issued.

Maderia.—A very handsome set engraved stamps of a new type w overprinted value in black has b shown us by Mr. R. Roberts. The star are perf. 13½ with no watermark, are of the following values and shad 3c purple, 4c orange, 5c pale blue, brown, 10c vermilion, 15c green, red-brown, 25c mauve, 32c blue-gr 40c bistre brown, 50c slate, 64c peac blue, 80c sepia, 96c bright rose, 1E gr black, 1E 20c pale rose, 1E 60c blue, 40c bright yellow, 3E 36c olive-gr 4E 50c terracotta, 7E deep blue.

Italy.—The 15c orange and 35c g in the type of the 7½c brown and bright violet noted last week have b received from Mr. R. Roberts.

Persia.—Mr. R. Y. Mottahedeh vises that a new 2 Kran stamp has b issued. It is in rose, with portrait Reza Shah, and similar to the one K No. 733.

Paraguay.—Information has b received from Mr. R. Roberts and Wh field King & Co. regarding a provisio Air Mail issue. BUREAU PRINT PRECANCELS

C. A. CARROLL, Editor,
300 the Prado, Atlanta, Ga.

Collectors are urged to send new issues of Bureau Prints to the editor for inspection and prompt return.

Since the publication of Dr. Mitchell's excellent specialized Bureau Print Catalog, thirty-eight new varieties have made their appearance, including both old and new types of perforates and coils. Ten of these are in the old types, which proves the contention of H. M. Southgate, in his recent article in the Precancel Bee, that it will be considerable time before these old types disappear.

Old Types, Perf. 11 x 10½

Binghamton, N. Y., 1c; Birmingham, Ala., 10c; Forth Worth, Tex., 1c; Grand Rapids, Mich., 1c; Houston, Tex., 10c; Nashville, Tenn., 4c; and Waterloo, Iowa, 1c.

Old Type, Coils

Oklahoma City, 1c; Providence, R. I., 10c; and Seattle, Wash., 1c.

Type B-11, Perf. 11 x 10½

Atlanta, Ga., 1½c, 6c, 10c; Beloit, Wis., 1c; Boston, Mass., 6c; Brooklyn, N. Y., 3c, 8c, 10c; Dallas, Tex., 3c; Denver, Colo., 1c; Detroit, Mich., 1½c; Indianapolis, Ind., 4c; Memphis, Tenn., 10c; Minneapolis, Minn., 2c; Nashville, Tenn., 2c; Omaha, Nebr., 3c, 4c; Richmond, Va., 6c, 9c; St. Louis, Mo., 3c, 10c; St. Paul, Minn., 1c; and San Francisco, Calif., 1c, 1½c.

Type B-11, Coils

Cincinnati, Ohio, 1½c; East Point, Ga., 1c; Los Angeles, Calif., 3c; and St. Paul, Minn., 1½c.

NEW COUNTRIES IN EUROPE

"Would you please tell me how many new countries there are in Europe since the world war? Also what are their names? R. C."

The new countries in Europe created by the World War are Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia and Poland.

Czechoslovakia includes the old Bohemia, Moravia, Slovakia and Silesia.

Jugoslavia includes the old Serbia, Croatia, Slovenia, Montenegro, Macedonia, Bosnia-Herzegovina, Dalmatia, Carniola, Bachka, Banat and parts of Istria, Styria and Carinthia.

Poland is made of those parts of the old German empire, Russia and Austria inhabited by Poles; in others words the old Poland, which was divided among the countries named, has been reconstituted and is now again an independent nation.

Old Russia is known now as the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. It is made up of six more or less autonomous republics known as the Russian Socialist Federated Soviet republic and the Ukraine, White Russian, Transcaucasus, Turkmen, Uzbek Socialists Soviet Republics.—Chicago News.

WHAT CAN THE POOR MAN DO?

By GERARD GERARDZOON.

Said Bill Bloss, some months ago: "One of the Brethren was inspired to write us, after reading our first article in this department, urging general collecting for the average collector in preference to intensive specialism. Brother C. asks how we figure he can collect the world, when he cannot afford to complete his U. S." And then Bill gave us two pages about different kinds of general collections—good stuff.

Now I happen to be one of those chappies who cawn't afford more than about ten dollars a month on stamps, don'tcherknow. I've a family and a flivver to support; besides, I have the wife's collection to finance—got to make her share of the income big enough so she can buy a fancy precancel whenever Allen or Hoover or Rotnem offers one that she likes. So ten dollars a month is about all I can get for stamps and stamp-society memberships, besides two or three stamp journals, a catalogue or two, hinges, albums, etc. And yet I vow there is hardly a collector I know who is having more fun than I am out of collecting.

Therefore, I know it can be done. The poor man can do it; for philatelically I am dern poor and philatelically I am having a tremendously good time. I quite agree with Bill, part way. I combine intensive specializing with some sorts of general collecting.

Bill doesn't mention one of the most fascinating specialized collections possible: interprovincials. There was an article in MEKEEL'S on them about the end of 1924; it went into the matter very thoroughly. Interprovincials are nothing more or less than the old stamps of the various divisions used when a number of states or colonies consolidate. For example, after 1900, and till the first issue of the Australian Commonwealth came out, the stamps of all the colonies that preceded this kingdom were used through the new country. New South Wales stamps with Victoria cancellations, Western Australias cancelled in Victoria, and the like, all occur. The low-value stamps are more common as interprovincials, in all countries, than are the higher ones. A dollar's worth of wholesale stuff of the last issue of any Australian colony is apt to yield a month's fun in tracing interprovincials. I now go so far as to want the date—at least the year date—for any interprovincial. It is interesting to see how the various interprovincials within a country go in and out of use. In of South Africa, for example, Natal stamps used in Cape and Transvaal vanish suddenly along in 1912; Cape of Good Hopes as interprovincials are mostly 1911; but Transvaals increase right to the end of the interprovincial period.

Canada from 1869; Germany after 1870; various British West Indies as reversed interprovincials; Australia; South Africa; these are some of the interprovincial-producing countries.

I go a bit further than most persons would. I take interprovincial cut-square envelopes and wrappers, and interprovincial entire postcards and letter cards. Yes; I even take an interprovincial revenue when it comes my way. So I really make a pretty general collection out of what might be a specialty.

Right in my home town is a collector who has cultivated a specialty that makes little call on money, but that runs into the thousands of stamps. He collects European precancels: Belgium, Luxembourg, Netherlands and France.

My own really general collection has cost me mighty little, for it is of the things that most collectors despise. I collect stamped envelopes and wrappers from all countries except the U. S. I grab entires when I can get them; but I get mostly cut-squares. There is one auction dealer that has one lot of these, and often several, in every sale; and many of these come my way for very little money.

Recently I have started collecting automobile stamps. I take every kind of motor vehicle except airplanes. There are not many of these stamps, but some are certainly hard to find. Just try to get the motorcycle stamp, Dominican Republic No. 303 (302 is easy enough).

If anyone wants fun for little money, let him try to get the British colonials marked "Postage" only, used as revenues. They exist, I mean those inscribed or surcharged "Postage." Try to get Natal No. 76 in revenue use, for example. I've seen this one.

As a philatelically poor man, I save money on albums. I don't own a printed album; I don't even use the "Daisy," which is inexpensive and good. I buy black spring-back binders, for 8½x11 typewriter paper, at 75 cents to $1.15 a time, and buy typewriter paper, a good, thick, firm, bond paper, for the pages. To prevent bulging, I fasten a strip of cardboard about half an inch wide to the left edge of every ninth or tenth page. Thus I get a nice album for $1.50. I usually rule a few light pencil lines on each page as I make it up, to guide me in getting the stamps into line.

Yes: There is plenty that the poor man can do. But you'll ask how the ordinary poor man can get to know about the various cancellations. That's easy. I write to the U. S. Dept. of Commerce, and find out where there is a trade commissioner of the country I am interested in. Then I inquire of this trade commissioner as to how to get a postal guide of the country. With the guide on hand, I can find out what province an interprovincial belongs to, simply by consulting the list of post-offices. The state, province, or division is always given in the postal guides. These guides cost a quarter to a dollar each, delivered to me; once in a while I get one free.—American Philatelist.

The following is from the Stourbridge and County Express: A CURIOSITY.—The stamp-collecting mania is still extending. A correspondent informs us that a New Zealand postage stamp was found in the stomach of a mackerel, the other day, by a resident at High Street, Lye, when the fish was being prepared for dinner. The stamp plainly bore the Auckland postmark. We always knew that the finny tribe collected all manner of odds and ends, from Jonah downwards, but turning stamp collector must be a new departure, even for a mackerel.

The Commemorative Postage Stamps of the United States

By GEORGE ELIOT HOEFT.

Most people think of a postage stamp as a useful but uninteresting detail of our daily business; if, indeed, they think about it at all. However, a little closer attention and analytic thought about the subject will prove pleasantly interesting and quite instructive.

It is true that the commonplace red 2c stamps, which most of our mail bears, is dull and lacks variety, but on parcels there are likely to be stamps of higher denominations and they are interesting. The most unusual and interesting postage stamps, though, are the ones which are specially issued in limited quantities from time to time, and known as commemoratives.

A commemorative issue of postage stamps differs from an ordinary issue in that it is intended to serve a twofold purpose; to prepay postage and to publicly commemorate an event of national importance or interest. The issue is specially authorized by act of Congress, and is intended to be but temporary, that is, only one uninterrupted printing is made (usually), and when the stamps are all sold, that is the end of it, no more stamps are made. They do not replace the regular stamps of like value, but are sold at post offices concurrently. It is an effective, inexpensive and pleasant method of attracting, and for a time, holding wide-spread public attention. To December, 1928, our Post Office Department issued 27 sets consisting of 73 adhesive stamps and 5 stamped envelopes.

The first commemorative is the Columbian issue of 1893, consisting of 16 values, 1c to 6c, 8c, 10c, 15c, 30c, 50c, $1.00 to $5.00. It was intended to issue the set in 1892, when the World Fair at Chicago had been scheduled to open, but the fair was delayed until the next year, and so the stamps also were not issued until January, 1893, although the date 1892 appears on them. Most of the pictures on the stamps are self-explanatory; they portray events connected with Columbus' discovery of America in 1492, which the issue commemorates. The 1c shows in the center medallion, Columbus on the deck of his ship, and in the lower corners an Indian woman and man. The 2c shows the landing of Columbus. The 4c shows the complete fleet of ships, Santa Maria, Nina and Pinta. The 3c shows the Santa Maria, Columbus flag ship. The 5c shows Columbus asking Queen Isabella of Spain for aid. The 6c shows him welcomed at Barcelona upon his return and is copied from one of the beautiful bronze doors of the Capitol. The 8c shows Columbus restored to favor with Ferdinand and Isabella after his suffering under the malicious attacks of enemies. The 10c shows the presentation of American Indians at the Spanish court. The 15c shows Columbus announcing his discovery to the king and queen. The other denominations show various scenes related to the voyage of discovery.

The idea is rather over done as there are too many denominations; values higher than the 10c were little used. Then, to make sure there wasn't anything missing, four stamped envelopes were included, 1c, 2c, 5c and 10c. These are in different colors, but of like design; a circle bearing embossed heads of Columbus and "Liberty." As this is the first issue of its kind, errors due to inexperience can be pardoned. The set is unique in several respects; it contains the first U. S. postage stamps to bear a picture of a ship, an American Indian, a woman and a foreigner.

The next special issue appeared in 1898 during the fair at Omaha, Nebraska, and commemorates the discovery of the Mississippi, settlement and development of the West, discovery of gold, etc. The pictures well illustrate the theme, showing an old "prairie schooner," Marquette on the Mississippi, hunting bison, etc. It is a pictorially interesting and beautiful set of stamps of rather large size, consisting of 9 values, 1c, 2c, 4c, 5c, 8c, 10c, 50c, $1.00, $2.00.

In 1901, when the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo, N. Y., opened, there was issued a set of stamps to commemorate the development and perfection of transportation at that time. On the 1c is a picture of a Great Lake steamship. The 2c shows the "Empire State Express" railroad train. The 4c shows an electric automobile of that day. The 5c shows the railroad bridge over the river at Niagara Falls. The 8c shows one of the locks of the Sault St. Marie Canal at Duluth. The 10c shows an Atlantic Ocean steamship. These stamps are printed in two colors; the central picture black and the border in the color of the corresponding denomination of the ordinary issue.

The "Louisiana Purchase" issue appeared in 1904. This commemorates the

I'm going to try to fill this little space as well as the larger territory in the Air Mail Department.

I'm not a dealer, but simply an ordinary collector with lots of duplicates and more blank spaces.

From week to week I'll tell you more of both. In general, I have contracts, from the first to latest; airports—in fact, about everything since Henry Ford became a mailman.

I need early, middle, and some late government flights. If you have some to trade, tell me about it.

If you have a tough want list on the last two years, I can probably do you some good. [tf purchase from France in 1803, of this enormous tract of mid-west land. Livingston portrayed on the 1c, was U. S. Ambassador to France at that time; Monroe on the 3c was special representative of the U. S., conducting negotiations, and Jefferson, on the 2c, was president. President McKinley is shown on the 5c, and the 10c bears a map of the U. S. with the purchased area marked. This little set of five denominations is historically full of interest. They are the first special stamps to bear the dates of birth and death of the person whose picture is shown.

In April, 1907, to celebrate the beginning of English colonization of North America in 1607 at Jamestown, Va., there was issued a special set of three stamps. The 1c has a picture of Capt. John Smith. The 2c shows the landing of the settlers. The 5c shows Pocahontas, who saved Smith from death at the hands of the Indians.

In 1909, three issues of commemorative stamps appeared. First (on February 12th) the Lincoln, for the 100th anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln. The stamps bear the head of Lincoln and is considered an excellent likeness. Also the date, February 12, 1809, is shown, and this is the first time a full date appears on a U. S. stamp. Also it is the first commemorative stamp to be issued in unperforated sheets, which are used for making coils to be used in mailing machines.

The "Alaska-Yukon-Pacific" stamp commemorates the acquisition of Alaska, the subsequent development of the Yukon territory and its connection with the Pacific coast mainland by navigation. W. H. Seward, as Secretary of State, whose picture is shown, was the chief official negotiating the purchase from Russia for $7,200,000.00.

The "Hudson-Fulton" stamps commemorate two important events, the discovery of the Hudson River by Hendrick Hudson in 1607, and the settlement of New Amsterdam (later New York) by the Dutch in 1614, and the beginning of the mechanical navigation of water as signalled by Robert Fulton's steamboat "Clermont" traveling up the Hudson from New York to Albany in 1809. The picture shows the replicas of the "Clermont" and Hudson's "Half Moon" on the Hudson River during one of the river parades, with which New York celebrated the events. Both the "Alaska-Yukon-Pacific," and "Hudson-Fulton" stamps also were issued imperforate.

In 1912, the "Panama-Pacific" stamps were issued. They were in use intermittently for three years, and more than one printing was made. The issue commemorates the discovery of the Pacific by Balboa in 1513, settlement of San Francisco, and also the construction of the Panama Canal and its opening in 1910. The 1c has a central medallion with picture of Balboa. The 2c shows one of the locks of the canal. The 5c has a picture of sunset at Golden Gate harbor in San Francisco. The 10c depicts a group of early settlers on a hill overlooking the bay. The World Fair at San Francisco was held in 1915, and the date and name appear on the stamps.

Not until 1919 was the next commemorative stamp issued, an intermission of seven years, the longest interval since the beginning of special issues. The World War ended on November 11, 1918, and during the next year many of the countries of the Allies celebrated the victory by means of a postage stamp or stamps. Newfoundland issued a special set of 12 values. The United States, on March 3rd, brought out one commemorative stamp, the 3c "Victory". The denomination 3c was chosen because that was the current single letter rate of postage, consequently, the one most used by the public. The design is a female figure symbolizing "victory" surrounded by flags. In this picture the U. S. flag is shown for the first time accompanied by foreign flags, those of Great Britain, France, Italy and Belgium. It is the first U. S. Postage stamp to have an allegorical human figure as the central theme of the design.

Everyone knows of the arrival of the ship "Mayflower," at Plymouth, Mass., on December 20, 1620, bearing the "Pilgrims," the English Protestant Christians, the first settlers of northern New England. The 1c bears a picture of the ship. The 2c shows the landing of a group of pilgrims from a rowboat, and the 5c bears a picture copied from the well-known "Signing of the Mayflower Compact." The design shows the English Mayflower, or hawthorn blossom at one side, and the American Mayflower, or "trailing arbutus" at the other side. The design is unique in that there is no indication of what the pieces of printed paper are to be used for, nor who issued them; they might be souvenir seals or advertising labels. The letters "U. S." are not used, nor the word "postage." It is undetermined whether the important omission was not noticed by the Post Office Department Officials, who decided upon the design, thereby making it an error, or if it was known and officially approved. In either case, the omission is wrong and they are the first U. S. stamps to lack proper information.

The special issue of September 1, 1923, was a single stamp commemorating an event characterized by sorrow; the death of President Harding on August 2nd. It is the 2c denomination, black in color, and bears his portrait. An enormous quantity were printed, and for several weeks mail of all kinds bore this stamp, so that throughout the U. S., and even in other countries, many people saw it. The capacity of the printing bureau was strained to the utmost to deliver the large quantity of stamps, and both the flat-bed press and rotary press were used. It was also issued in unperforated sheets.

The Huguenot-Walloon issue appeared on May 1, 1924, commemorating the arrival in America, in May, 1624, of one of the first groups of Protestants from France and Belgium, who had wearied of religious persecution and sought ea and freedom in the new land of Am The ship, "New Netherland," show the 1c carried about thirty famili Walloons from the southwestern pa Belgium, and Huguenots from the n eastern part of France, under Jes Forest. Most of the colonists sail the Hudson and settled Fort O (Albany, N. Y.), and their arri portrayed on the 2c. A settlement Laudoniere was started in 1562, i vicinity of the present Mayport, Fl and the 5c bears a picture of the monument now marking the site. N all of the settlements started b Huguenots and Walloons died out there remains only one which has th tinctiveness of the original name: Rochelle, N. Y. This city was fo in 1689 by Huguenots from La Roc France.

FIRST IN THE WORLD

The United States has issued the first stamped envelope for air mail. It is very striking in appearance, with its red, white, and blue border and its uniquely designed embossing.

It was issued on January 12, 1929, at Washington, D. C., and, because of the little advance information as to the definite date of issue and the fact that it is the first of its kind, offers one of the scarcest and most interesting first day covers.

We were fortunate in being able to prepare several hundred first day covers of the air mail envelope, in addition to our regular requirements. This was done for the express purpose of making you one of the best offers you ever received.

We KNOW you'd like to have a first day cover of this envelope, so we're making it very easy for you to get one.

Send $1.00, in any convenient form, for a year's subscription to WASHINGTON STAMP NEWS. We will send you ENTIRELY FREE a first day cover of the air mail envelope. Each cover was actually flown in an airplane and has the backstamp to prove it.

C. E. NICKLES, 213 Seaton Pl., N. E., WASHINGTON, D. C

DOUBLE FIRST FLIGHTER

By NELSON F. GERKEN.

As Miami-Canal Zone first flight covers are still the order of the day in philatelic circles, it may not be amiss to describe a rather unusual cover that has just come into my hands, interesting from the fact it is a double first flighter off widely divergent air lines, having originated in Canada, and been flown Miami to Cristobal, when Col. Charles A. Lindbergh recently inaugurated F.A.M. 5.

This cover, franked with 2c, 10c and 20c Canadian stamps, was posted at St. John, N. B., Jan. 31, and flown from that city to Montreal on the first westbound plane opening special temporary air mail service over the Canadian Maritime Provinces. It bears a notation, "Via Air Mail St. John-Montreal, U. S. Air Mail via New York-Atlanta-Miami, Fla." Stamps were cancelled at 11 a. m., Jan. 31, and the neat first flight cachet used at St. John post office was applied on both the face and back. It was hand backstamped in Montreal at 6 p. m., Jan. 31.

At Miami the special first flight cachet designed for F.A.M. 5 was applied in black to face of the cover, but in such way as not to overlap the Canadian cachet. It was machine backstamped at Cristobal, C. Z., 4.30 p. m., Feb. 6.

The envelope bears no U. S. stamps. The cover was evidently flown the entire distance—somewhere around 4,000 miles. Considering weather conditions prevailing, and the hazards necessarily encountered in the air mails, together with unavoidable delays at Montreal, and possibly New York, it is indeed surprising this cover succeeded in making the Miami-Cristobal plane for the margin of time at best could not have been long.

NAPOLEONIC PRE-STAMP LETTERS

By BEACH CONGER, JR.

Recently Orla B. Taylor gave a collection of autographs of Napoleon, his marshals, generals and cabinet to the University of Michigan Library. I was looking these over the other day and noticed several interesting postmarks. Unfortunately most of the letters were face up, and the cancellations on the reverse invisible. But I will describe a few of the letters that I was able to see.

The first one was an epistle from General Bertrand, at St. Pierre, Martinique, to Captain Bunberg, Barbados. The letter is dated March 7, 1843, and postmarked Fort Royal. Evidently the St. Pierre station had no post office.

WHEN ordering stamps write "As per advt. in MEKEEL'S".

The second letter was from Marshall, Duke of Valmy, at Johannisberg, to General Trigny at Cologne. Dated August 23, 1810, the letter is postmarked with a single lined black MAYENCE, and directly above it a black 100.

The third and last letter of whose postmark I was able to catch a glimpse was from Count de Grouchy to John Vaugn of New York. It has a very nice single red line SHIP on it besides a circular NEW YORK inside a circle with a FEB 1. The letter itself was dated October 23, 1820.

If the letters are ever taken out of their shelves on any occasion, I will attempt to see the backs of the other letters and describe their postmarks for the stampless cover collectors.

DOUGLAS ARMSTRONG in the Bazaar.

They are the 2d "Post Office" Mauritius, an original water-colour sketch by Rowland Hill for the first penny postage stamp, the 4d "Inverted Swan" error of Western Australia, the rare and beautiful 12d Canada, 1851, and a unique block of 5 of the 2d "Post Paid" Mauritius showing the error "Penoe" on the first stamp.

POSTAL HISTORY

OLD POST BAGS. The story of the Sending of a Letter in Ancient and Modern Times. By Alvin F. Harlow. Introduction by Joseph Stewart. Illustrated. 500 pp. New York: D. Appleton & Co. $5.

Romance has always blossomed round about the letter, and it richly garlands this most interesting account of how the sending of letters to and fro, far and wide, over the surface of the earth began in ancient days and developed through the centuries to the present time. It is doubtful if any other institution of civilization could show a career so constantly and in such degree romantic and fascinating as the institution of the post. Mr. Harlow has gone whole-heartedly at the task of digging up all the facts about it—ancient, medieval and modern—and then of classifying and organizing them. He has woven them into a narrative so interesting that the reader forgets how full of information it is, so absorbed is he in the entertainment it affords. If one stops to think about it one is constantly impressed by the diligence, the patience, the hard work that must have gone into getting together the amazing mass of material that recounts the slow development, century after century, in Europe, Asia and America of that which has become the modern postal service, with all its marvels. But one is so interested and fascinated by the telling of the story that one does not stop to think until the last page is reached.

Beginning with the means by which messages were sent—they were many and varied—in the ancient civilizations, Mr. Harlow goes on to an account of the earliest organized postal system, the relay system of carrying messages which existed in the sixth century B. C., in the kingdom of Darius of Persia. This system is described by Herodotus, who says of it, in the translation carved on the façade of the New York Postoffice: "Neither snow nor rain nor heat nor gloom of night stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds." How the carrying of letters was done in Greece and Rome, and later in both Europe and the Orient during the middle ages, how the first city mail service was established in Paris, how that remarkable family of postmen, T and Taxis, developed the business i eral European countries, fill the chapters and bring the author t struggle, the romance and the gr development that attended the grow the British post. But it is to our United States that he devotes the part of his narrative. For here th velopment of the postal service has so much part and parcel of our h that it takes on both historical an mantic features that are distinctive tells the whole story with much down to the present time. The bo as valuable for reference as it is int ing for straight reading. The ill tions, of which there are a hundr more, are mostly from old prints.— Times.

OUR BOOK REVIEW

We have received from the Vallancey ress, 15 St. Bride St., London, E. C. 4, ngland, a book on "The Colonial Postal ystems of Vancouver Island and Brit-h Columbia, 1849-1871." Collectors ho are interested in the stamps of this lony will find much useful information this little booklet. It covers the origin d development of the postal service on e Pacific Coast, and there are chapters aling with the early days, the postal dministration, stamps for the combined lonies, and the separate stamps for ch colony. The price of the booklet is c.

The publisher of Die Postmarke, a bi-onthly stamp paper of Vienna, Austria, as favored us with a copy of pamphlet o. 9, of a series of publications on pecialized collections of postmarks, per-aining to members of the Austrian Phi-telists' Club, Vienna. The number efore us deals with the postmarks of the ormer kingdom of Naples, by Eng. Vin-nso Vittozzi, translated into German r Dr. Rudolf Mendl.

Not being sufficiently familiar with the nguage in which the pamphlet is print-d, we can only surmise from the richly ustrated work that it is the result of deep and far-reaching study of this rticular side-line of philately, and do ot hesitate to recommend it to all col-ctors who specialize in the stamps of he former Italian Kingdom. The book ill be sent against a remittance of 36c the above mentioned publisher, at No. Kolingasse, Wien IX, Austria.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY

JAMAICAN 1 1-2d 1929

By HARRY E. HUBER.

The new 1½d Jamaican Postage and Revenue stamp, in the Cayman Islands design (notified in the Crown Agents Bulletin of October-December, 1928, as having been dispatched) was announced for issue on January 18th, in the Jamaica Gazette of January 17, 1929.

"Stamp Office, KINGSTON,
10th January, 1929.

The following is a description of a penny halfpenny Postage and Revenue stamp which will be put into circulation on 18th January, 1929.

The design of the stamp is denoted by a profile of King George the Fifth, on a ground of horizontal lines, in a rectangular frame, surmounted by a Crown, on each side of which the denomination, 1½d, is shown.

To the left and right of the frame, respectively, impinging on labels, are the words 'Postage', 'Revenue,' and under the rectangular frame, 'Jamaica'.

The colour of the stamp is brown, printed on white script Watermarked paper.

Signed, C. C. MANTON,
Deputy Stamp Commissioner."

The stamps were line engraved and recess printed by Messrs. Thomas De La Rue & Co., Ltd., London, on multiple Crown and script CA paper, comb perforated 14, in sheets of 120, divided into two panes of 60 each (6 x 10), with a narrow margin between the panes. There is no marginal line, inscription, or plate number, but "T" marks appear in all four margins (for aid in perforating), in the upper margin between the 3rd and 4th stamps of each pane, and above the narrow gutter separating the panes; in corresponding positions in the lower margin; and in the side margins between the 5th and 6th horizontal rows.

The stamp design measures 18 x 22mm, with the head of King George V, facing the left, within a vertical rectangle, on a horizontally lined ground. At the top is a Crown, and on octagonal tablets in the upper corners, the denomination "1½d" in colorless. "Jamaica" in large colorless caps appears at the bottom. Scroll work at the sides, and the word "Postage" at the left, and "Revenue" at the right, complete the design.

Jan. 18, 1929. King George V (Cayman Islands design). Line engraved and recess printed by Messrs. Thomas De La Rue & Co., Ltd., London. Watermarked multiple Crown and script CA. Perforated comb 14.

1½d Nyasaland Type, July 13, 1916

On March 30, 1916, Sir W. H. Manning, Governor of Jamaica, assented to a bill, which thereupon became Law No. 8 of 1916, Post Office (War Tax) Law of 1916, by which a special war tax of ½d was imposed, from 1st April, 1916, on all inland letters, and those "addressed to the United Kingdom, or any of His Majesty's Colonies or Dominions."

As there was great need for 1½d stamps for the combined letter and war tax rate, the Crown Agents were cabled to dispatch a supply of this denomination, at the earliest opportunity. These were printed in brown-orange, from the Nyasaland King George V keyplate, No. 1, in sheets of 240 stamps, four panes of sixty each, and issued on July 13, 1916. On September 1, 1916, the stamp appeared with the overprint, WAR STAMP, in two lines of small 6-point caps, locally applied; and in March, 1917, with the overprint in larger, 8-point caps. In all 48,157 sheets (11,557,680 stamps) were dispatched to Jamaica, the greater proportion of which was overprinted locally.

1½d Contingent Embarking, July 4, 1919

Late in 1917, consideration was given by the Colonial authorities to replacing the 1½d Nyasaland type stamp with one showing the departure of the first Jamaican contingent for service across seas. This was suggested by Mr. Ellis Wolfe, Postmaster for Jamaica, and was probably inspired by the 1½d brown-orange, of New Zealand, issued in February, 1901, to mark in a philatelic way, the sending of a local contingent to the South Africa war area. Much difficulty attended the adapting of the photograph of the departure of the first Jamaican contingent to a stamp design, and although the Colonial Secretary of Jamaica, under date of July 24, 1918, advised that "a new series of 1½d war stamp is in contemplation," the stamp was not issued until July 4, 1919, (having been announced in the Gazette of July 3, 1919).

The vignette shows a portion of the troop-crowded decks of the transport "Verdala," in Kingston harbor, on Nov. 9, 1915, on which the first contingents from British Honduras, Bahamas and Jamaica, were conveyed to England.

The first and second consignments sent out in 1919 were from a plate without number; that received in November, 1919, from plates 1, 2 and 3, and the unnumbered plate, while the March, 1920, receipt contained sheets from these four plates, and in addition, plate 4. All these were on Roman CA watermarked paper, a total of 7,975,160 stamps.

In December, 1921, the Crown Agents advised that "The execution of the order for 1½d Postage and Revenue stamps has required the manufacture and use of the following additional plates: Nos. 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12". In June, 1922, another printing was made from the 13 plates in hand, and two new ones, 13 and 14. The script CA variety was first issued Feb. 2, 1921.

Due to the large size of the stamp, 42x22mm, the line engraved plates bore only 40 subjects, and the expense incident to the manufacture of these, and printing the large quantities required for inland and British Empire mails, was so great that in each year the estimate for stamp supplies was greatly exceeded. Consideration was being given to a stamp of smaller size, and in a different design, when on August 2, 1923, the inland letter rate, after much opposition from the Government members in the Legislative Council, was reduced from 1½d to 1d. The letter rate to the British Empire, however, remained unchanged, 1½d.

When the reduction in inland letter rate took place, a large stock of 1½d stamps on hand, and with the decreased demand, no additional supplies were ordered. Due to the slow moving of this stock, it was found towards the end of 1927, that a large portion of it had become affected by dampness, and was rendered unfit for use. Accordingly, in January, 1928, 351,720 were destroyed in the furnaces of the Kingston & St. Andrew Corp. pumping station, and those remaining (380,000) were re-issued in February, 1928, after having been off sale for the three months preceding.

Inland and International Mail Service, 1926-1927

The following tabulation shows the movement of local mails, in 1926 and 1927, and gives a good idea of just how the demand for 1½d stamps fell off when the local letter rate was reduced from 1½d to 1d on August 2, 1923.

Letters, ordinary	8,951,629	9,060,850

" registered	536,933	558,840
Post cards	261,757	259,480
	11,080,959	11,108,670

It is estimated that the letter carriers in Kingston took out 2,084,836 letters for delivery, in 1927, an increase over 1926, of 424,398.

The cost of inland mail conveyance was £22516, which is £101 in excess of the figure for 1926.

During 1927, 2,822 mails were received from abroad, and 1,755 dispatched. The amount paid to the shipping companies for conveyance of mails from Jamaica was £3877, and the sum of £1347 was paid to the postal authorities of the United Kingdom, and U. S. A., for mail in transit through those countries. The United Fruit Co., Elders & Fyffes, Ltd., the Atlantic Fruit Co., and the Canadian Gov't Merchant Marine were the principal transporters of mail.

Sevard's Twinkles

Recently we visited Detroit to sell our tool room perfection to automobile manufacturers. One manufacturer of a low priced car wanted us to keep wrist pins to a half thousandth, whereas the manufacturer of a very high priced car said .002 was sufficient for his pins. We traveled back and forth, and dealt in thousandths of an inch as if we ever saw a thousandth or could even feel it, except thru a micrometer. We were talking in terms of comparison about something that creates a cumulative or a compensating error. When you see the insides of a motor car, the bar steel, the SAE properties, the specifications, the cutting speeds, the tool room needs, you realize that there's a lot of talk about body beauty, Grecian lines, a good name, dynamic potentiality that is mere twaddle. This one has drilled holes, that one, reamed seats; another has drop forgings, the other, malleables; one laps by hand, another, hones. After it all, we came back with orders for the high priced car, where we could wobble the wrist pin to .002, but the low priced car we had to give up, we couldn't find the .0005 man.

If we ride in the high priced car, we are swank, prosperous, dignified, and if we ride in the low priced car, we are ordinary, common, undistinctive. A car is no better than the service you can get when you have a breakdown.

In collecting stamps, often you reach the breakdown period. You approach the disillusionment gradually, you feel it coming on, you see the cataclysm ahead. Duplicates pile up, an odd bit here, a choice rarity there, a side line stamp, a plate number, a first flight cover, a precancel, all of them, oh! every bit of them pile up and pile up in higher ascending mounds of antipathies, until you just know that house cleaning time is ahead and the bonfires are awaiting your arson. Load up your arms with priceless treasures of a yesterday, fling carelessly your former treasures upon the kindled mouse nest, and fan the conflagration to a holocaust, if it give you pleasure.

If you travel in the high priced car, your swankness is mere junk, and you hail the first motivation as a dependable method of progression. If you travel in the low price vehicle, you let it howl its lusty cries to the seven seas before you become annoyed with its wheezes, and coughs, and pulmonary distresses.

DON'T COLLECT STAMPS FOR MERE SPECULATION, UNLESS YOU KNOW THAT YOUR INVESTMENTS ARE BASED ON REAL MICROMETERED VALUES. DO NOT BUY STAMPS IF YOU DO NOT COLLECT THAT PARTICULAR BRANCH OF THE HOBBY. A MAN IS KNOWN BY THE FRIENDS THAT HE KEEPS, NOT THOSE HE DISCARDS.

If you collect haphazardly, sooner or later, you will reach the breakdown, you will kindle the bonfire, you will send along your collection, and your friend the stamp dealer will have to list it as a mystery lot, containing several thousands, "as is."

Perhaps this mystery lot will catalogue $400.00. But there is no perhaps about what you will get. It will be $2.00 in cold cash.

Everywhere in this good land of ours, we have friends who collect stamps. And often they write to us, succinctly with an ultimatum that we must either accept their stamps as a free gift, or else—the bonfires. In January, we have received exactly twenty of such letters, and we have purchased four of the so-called mystery lots, ranging from 60c to $2.00. Can it be true that air mail covers cataloging (?) $400.00 can go for two bucks?

THESE THREATENING BONFIRES, THESE DEATHLESS PYRES, THESE SHOWY PYROTECHNICS! ARE THEY REALLY FIRES OF DISASTER, OR ARE THEY THE FIRES OF SAINT JOHN, SO THAT I MAY BEHOLD MY LOVED ONE BEAUTEOUS IN THE LOWERING TWILIGHT OF A MOMENTOUS DAY.

Mayhap the poet had that in mind when he wrote:

He came here one bright summer's day,
To see the works which his own God
In all the years through Mary made;
The Cross in evidence of shrine,
And church, cathedral, gargoyle, too,
So built in times when all for Him
Was done, created, fashioned, thought.
He went to see our Notre Dame,
And while he stood reflecting there
Alooking at the wondrous sight,
From out the church itself there came
A matron young who glanced at him
With asking eyes and curving brows.
She halted long enough to smile,
Then turned away with sudden twist
And walked from him with swaying pace,
Yet ever turned her head to pierce
The space between with livid eyes
Of slowly falling lashey nets.
He did not follow her, but stood
A long, long time to contemplate,
And then he walked around the church
And saw a plot of ground in rear
Where many souls have gone their way
In self-destruction to forget
A moment's racing breath of Life!
Too young he was to know that Death
Is but forgetting self-made smiles.

CLEVELAND ITEMS

By P. A. FINLAYSON.

At the Garfield-Perry Stamp Club the first meeting of the month is always a business meeting that gives the members an extra hour in which to buy, sell, trade, or just talk stamps. Last meeting there were thirty present, including friend Glaze from Springfield, Mass.

The banquet committee reported everything all set for the banquet. We know that Doc Schneider ably assisted by Ham Barnum and Jim Young will give us something out of the ordinary.

H. H. Griffin is coming along nicely, expects to go to Florida this month.

March 8th, our Mr. Bruce exhibited his British Colonies.

THE BOOK OF THE DECADE

The volume, "The Postal Service the Confederate States of America," August Dietz, that has been awai with keen anticipation for some mon has made its appearance, and in this stance, realization so completely eclip expectation that exceptional honor is the book. In a few words, it is the h exemplification of the philatelic the that the collector has ever rejoiced o The book is about as perfect a union the artistic and the practical as could created by the human mind and hands the subject, the stamps of the Lost Ca is fascinating and the format is the spired work of a master exponent of typographical profession. Dietz, author and historian, is a craftsm whose fame stands in capitals, and the history has a setting that is a deli to the eye of the layman and a joy to soul of the connoisseur. Proud may stamps of the Confederacy be to h this handsome memorial.

While much has been printed about issues of the South, yet the material been sketchy and widely-scattered, in main; and until now, it has suffe from a lack of cohesion. There have articles on the stamps, from the stu of Major Evans and C. B. Corwin, w ten forty years ago, to a host of isol paragraphs, all of which gave an imp to the more serious consideration that been given the stamps during the twenty years by a number of student whom their appeal has been irresist It has remained for August Dietz crystalize his sentiment for the Con erate stamps into a beautiful ter where the discriminating, and if you reverent, collector may resort at will

Through having been the recipien special opportunities for examining government archives and having had sonal contact with men who worke the actual production of the stamps, Dietz has a solid foundation of rese for his history. He has amplified m that has been the subject of discussio printed pages heretofore, and has a discoveries that have been made by self and others until he has filled pages with an exhaustive inquiry into stamps in all their phases. Then, he illustrated the pages in a most la manner with specimens of the graphi that are unapproachable in their ex tion. Next week, we shall delve into contents of the book and speak of subject-matter, although it will be a cult task to tell the story in a way patible to that of the book itself, w truly, must be seen to be appreciate

DE PINEDO BID $55.50, NOT $2.90

In our issue of March 4, in gi prices on items realized in the last bert auction sale, we erroneously st that the De Pinedo cover with the black Newfoundland stamp brought $2.90 The cover actually brought $55.50, we make this correction so that exact price may be noted by ever interested.

AIN HITTING ON HIGH AGAIN

t of Stamps Commemorating the Barcelona Exhibition

News is at hand that the already over-e Spanish Exposition Commemoratives l now definitely appear in March. ere can be no doubt that this will be rather strong dose, appearing so soon er the issuance of the Pope and King described in No. 1987 by Hermann cke. We are called upon to again est our good money in a new specula-e issue. Alas, we know, or rather uld know from experience, that stamps ich, at first, are severely criticised and pised, are later on in great demand. Philately is a many-sided hobby. The rkman and the director-general, the iatic and the European belong to its nerents, and to gather them all around boycott flag, which in the face of multiplication of these speculative mp issues would be desirable, is an possibility.

Speaking objectively, one cannot very ll pronounce the issue in question as irely uncalled for, because a set of iking appearance, as the one under dis-ssion, will always be a most attractive vertisement of a country. What was d in 1924 for the Munich Exhibition, certainly also good for the Universal rcelona Exhibition. However, the crux the matter is that the issue will com-se no fewer than 104 stamps, repre-ting seven units and values from 1c 10 ptas. Issues of Spain 50,000 to),000 and dependencies 10,000 to 55,000. The above quantities are comparatively all if one considers that the stamps ll be on sale throughout the coming mmer at Barcelona and Seville. Very ny non-collectors of the millions of sitors will get for their friends, a set, a souvenir of the show.

FLOATING SAFE STAMPS

We learn from Stamp Collecting that is not serene with the proposed sale the "Floating Safe" remainders. The tch stamp dealers on Jan. 22, voted to bid for parcels of the stamps for reasons: "firstly, the trade has been cluded from any particular advantages d, secondly, there is no guarantee that Company may not after the sale ow the stock on the market regardless price."

STAMP TALKS ON KEJK

A New Stamp Club to be Formed at this Western Station

BEVERLY HILLS, CAL., Mar. 7.

My friend, Palmer Stoddard, and I have made arrangements with radio station KEJK, owned by the MacMillan Petroleum Co. of Beverly Hills, to broadcast stamp talks and news over that station every Sunday morning. The first talk will be given the first of April.

It is our plan to establish a stamp club to be known as the KEJK club, which will be free from dues. We are being helped in the project by the station announcer, Edmund Lytton, who was formerly a stamp collector.

We would like to have your paper print this notice as it will reach many collectors in the area covered by KEJK, and thus create an interest in our new club, and an enlarged interest for philately.

SOCIETY OF THE PLAINFIELDS

First Anniversary of this Lively Stampic Organization

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Mar. 9.

About 25 members of the Philatelic Society of the Plainfields gathered Wednesday evening, March 6, at the home of the president, L. W. Hudson, 1439 East Seventh Street, to celebrate the first anniversary of the local organization.

Much of the time of those present was spent admiring the artistic mounting and hand lettering of the collection of Dexter Cook; the specialized collection of Austria of A. S. Halperson, and the enormous stock of Mr. Hudson, who has become a dealer in stamps since coming to the Queen City less than a year ago. O. Q. Arner scored 100% in the query contest based on facts concerning U. S. issues, thereby being presented with a complete sheet of the newly issued George Rogers Clark adhesives; while A. S. Halperson and J. E. Lee tied with 60% in the guessing contest, with ships, castles and coats of arms cut from stamps as subjects.

An enjoyable evening was brought to an end with the serving of refreshments, with a single candle beside a new Clark stamp attached to a toothpick as favors.

The Philatelic Society of the Plainfields was organized on March 1, 1928, largely through the publicity given to stampdom by the Plainfield Courier-News. Clarence D. R. Clark, formerly of this city, but now of Mountainside, was the first president of the organization. The present officers are: President, L. W. Hudson; vice president, O. G. Loeser; secretary, Dexter Cook; treasurer, Nicholas Popp; and sales manager, A. S. Halperson. The club meets every Wednesday evening in the recreation room of the Y. M. C. A.

CHESTER (PA.) ORGANIZES

Dr. Egbert Elected President of the Chester Stamp Club

The philatelists of Chester, Pa., on a recent Saturday afternoon, gathered in large numbers in the council chamber at City Hall, in response to an invitation extended by Dr. Walter E. Egbert. After discussing the desirability of organizing, the group decided to make the club a permanent one and elected the following officers: Dr. Egbert, pres.; Milton H. Bickley, vice-pres.; James H. Baxter, sec.; Arthur H. Noyes, treas.; and William N. MacIntyre, chairman of the Membership Committee.

Clarence W. Brazer, well-known architect of Chester, who is one of the foremost collectors of postage stamps in Delaware county, gave a very interesting talk on the manufacture of United States stamps. Mr. Brazer explained to the collectors the process, step by step, from the time the pen-and-ink drawing is made by an artist until the stamps are printed in sheets.

HONDURAS LIKES BLUE STAMPS

N. Y. CITY, March 11.

The 6 centavos stamp, Scott's No. 247 arrived on the last mail in a light blue color, similar to that of the 10c and 50c values of the present set, and unless this happens to be an error, it would make the sixth value of the series to come in blue. It seems that the stock of dyes is running very low in Honduras, because of the ten varieties comprising the set there are now six in various shades of blue, two in red, one in brown, and one in dull violet, a mixture of blue and brown. Three of the blue stamps, the 10, 15 and 50c have the national flag as a background, and this being in blue, the color of the stamps is excusable, but the postal clerks must have a hard time in distinguishing one value from the other. Collectively speaking the set is about the ugliest one running loose at the present time.

JUVENILE STAMP NIGHT

Twin Cities Interesting Juniors in the National Stamp Show

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., Mar. 11.

Local publicity for the National Stamp Show was started with the March meeting of the Twin City Society being featured as Minneapolis Juvenile Stamp Night. As a result of inviting the school children of Minneapolis to a specially arranged junior exhibit and talk, over 300 junior collectors, parents and teachers were in the audience. At the next meeting the performance will be duplicated in St. Paul. Over 90 junior collections were on display and a local committee awarded prizes for the collections of merit.

At this meeting plans were announced for a city-wide contest to be held in the spring, at which time the junior collections which are deemed worthy of display in the National Show in August, will be selected.

Policies and plans for the Stamp Show are being formulated with care. The main topic of conversation at the first meeting of the Board of Directors of the Show was "What can be done in formulating the first National Show under A. P. S. guidance so as to make possible, and to make easier, yearly shows?"

"IN LIGHTER VEIN"

Under the above caption we shall shortly open a column in the WEEKLY in charge of R. E. Farr, Hot Springs, Ark. The scope of the department is indicated in its title, and Mr. Farr will be glad to have the coöperation of our readers.

NEW CLUB IN PHOENIX, ARIZ.

R. W. Graham has been elected president, and K. H. Ennis, secretary, of the newly organized Phoenix Philatelic Association, which comes into existence with 16 members. Permanent headquarters will be established. We extend our congratulations to the new club.

A WORTHY SHUT-IN

Last year we published an appeal to our readers to favor Lancelot G. Reeves, 518 So. Summit Ave., Charlotte, N. C., with a shower of postage stamps. The request met with a hearty response, and Mr. Reeves wrote the WEEKLY his thanks for the many courtesies extended. We have no hesitation in making another appeal to our readers to again remember Mr. Reeves in a similar manner. His birthday comes March 22, and he will be 22 years old.

Mr. Reeves writes that he is some better than last year, and hopes to continue to improve in health. He writes: "It is bad enough to be a shut-in without being sick." We who are in health and strength may well favor our friend with some remembrances for his collection. He likes used U. S. and foreign, and particularly enjoys first day covers, but anything will be acceptable.

Mr. Reeves thinks philately is fine for anyone as a pastime, but especially for shut-ins. A local organization has installed a radio set, which he is enjoying hugely, and between his stamps and the radio his time is well engaged. We urge our readers to mail Mr. Reeves something that will be of interest to him so that the letter will reach Charlotte around March 22.

EDITORIAL

THE following letter has come from Mr. Clark Cooper, Charlottesville, Virginia: "It was somewhat of a disappointment to residents of Charlottesville, as well as to the hundreds of outsiders who made reservations for the first day covers that the new George Rogers Clark stamp did not go on sale there until February 26th. Advance notices had lead to believe that they would go on sale here on the 25th, so the local postmaster was deluged with covers. These were sent out by the postmaster on the 26th. Four were cancelled at 1 A. M., one to the Postmaster General, one to the Third Assistant General, one to the postmaster of Washington, D. C., and one to the Charlottesville postmaster. Twenty-four covers were cancelled at 2 A. M.; one hundred at 3 A. M.; five hundred at 4 A. M.; and the rest at 5 A. M. From what I could learn there was no favoritism shown in mailing the covers at the various hours, as they were chosen merely in order of receipt of application. While, in the strict sense of the word, these could not be called first-day covers, since they were not sold until a day after the sale of the stamp in Vincennes, still they are of interest as showing the first use of the stamp in the birthplace of Clark. It may be added that the first order for the stamps was for 10,000. These had all been sold in advance by noon of the twenty-third, so 5,000 more were ordered from Washington by telephone. These were all gone on the morning of the twenty-sixth. Only twenty copies were allowed per person for Charlottesville residents." Here, we thank those who remembered the WEEKLY with Feb. 26th covers from Charlottesville.

THE receipt of two letters from persons interested in campaigns for special or commemorative stamps asking that we support their claims for recognition by congress, impels us to say that while we refer in our columns to printed references to movements of the kind, it must be understood that the news is given without bias in any way. A correspondent in Washington has written at different times to tell of the numerous requests that come to the department with the object of special stamps in view; and if we read between the lines, the subject of commemoratives is becoming somewhat of a bete noir to the authorities. In the natural trend of events, extra issues may be looked for, no doubt; and we are willing to let nature takes its course.

THE Postal Bulletin of March 2, 1929, contains a notice signed by Postmaster General New, as follows: "It is ordered that special consideration be given to the collection, preservation and the assembly in the department of historical postal data, including that of departmental and field service. The object should be to make, as near as practicable, a collection of such information, which should be preserved and made available for use, and avoid the possible destruction or loss which otherwise may occur. . . . Postal officials are therefore requested to make a survey from time to time of matter under their jurisdiction and communicate with the department with reference thereto. Among the objects which may fall under such a survey would be old records, early maps and post routes, graphic or photographic representations of the service in any of its features, local postal histories, either printed or manuscript, old reports, personal recollections of the service reduced to writing or printed, etc. The collection will be assembled by and in charge of Mr. Joseph Stewart, Executive Assistant to the Postmaster General." The foregoing proposal is well-advised and if the collection of postal data is to be available for reference purposes by persons outside of the service, the desirability of aiding in the movement is admitted. In the possession of different collectors, there is a mass of data in the aggregate that is in the scope of the proposed assemblage. U. S. cover collectors have items of the kind that reflect old usages, and they preserve circulars and other printed matter relating to the workings of the department. It is probable that here and there, a collector will care to contribute material, although it must be acknowledged that the collector is the one who attaches a sentimental value to these memorabilia.

MR. EDWIN C. BAILEY, Decorah, Iowa, the newspaper proprietor, writes that he is "enjoying his first long vacation in over forty-five years," and that is to say that he has retired from the hurly-burly of his profession. He will now have time to become really acquainted with his stamps. Mr. Bailey writes: "I am advised by Mr. C. F. Stinson of Pasco, Washington, formerly of Decorah, who is now representing his district in the Washington legislature, that the Pasco airport will be dedicated on April 6th, and that a special cachet will be applied to all letters on that date."

WE have to thank Mr. P. J. Drossos, Athens, for instructing his Cairo correspondent to send us under date of Cairo, February 11, 1929, the day of issue of the set, the four values of the Prince Farouk, Crown Prince of Egypt, set, bearing the portrait of the Prince. The number of sets is given as 200,000, and the stamps are to be on sale for seven days only.

MR. JOHN R. DUNFEE, New Castle, Pennsylvania, is doing his bit to bring about favorable action on the cause at Washington, i.e., the removal of the duty on used stamps imported into this country; he is writing to several of the Pennsylvania M. C.'s. Mr. Dunfee says: "It is anticipated on substantial grounds that New Castle will be made a stop on the Pittsburgh-Cleveland Air Mail Route in the very near future. Should this be done, it will occur with only a couple of days' notice and collectors would be unable to avail themselves of the opportunity to obtain first flight covers. The Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. James Cole, has agreed that any covers forwarded to him prior to the first day would be placed on this flight. Therefore, if collectors wish to avail themselves of this opportunity, covers may be forwarded to the Chamber of Commerce at once."

FROM Mr. H. R. Jansen, Topeka, Kansas, we received the following sentimental soliloquy in time for insertion around St. Valentine's day, but since collectors of valentine covers are at the wheel every day in the year, what's the difference: "In looking through the Art Institute at Chicago recently, I ran across old framed valentines, of the soft tinsel perforated paper sort of the days of 1860; sentimental lines, etc., and some of the original envelopes were in the case, with the stamps and markings; but, oh, how a hard-boiled specialist would snort at the 'condition' of some of them. However, they fill a nook in this room set aside for art work for children, and there are many lovely exhibits of the other sorts of valentines and picture books of the early days, bringing back vividly thought of some of us fellows who are getting along in life and given more to browsing than active work at times. I wish that I had put aside the many of this sort of valentine I received in the '70's and '80's. How many of us old Chicago men can forget the times when we dropped valentines at the doors of our best girls? It seems but a short time ago, but to me it means fifty years and more. And on New Year's Day, mothers would receive and young men and old men with their Prince Albert coats, paid formal calls and left their cards. . . . I have only valentine in original cover, among my philatelic treasures, and it is enclosed for your inspection." Mr. Jansen's valentine is one of the scarce "illuminated" kind and is in an envelope that bears a 2c Jackson black. There are a few superb collections of valentines in covers owned by philatelists; and one of the first men to favor this line was the late F. R. Cornwall of St. Louis.

ORE LAURELS FOR BOERS

the meeting of the Wayne Stamp ety, Detroit, on Feb. 28, John Dol- proposed Herman W. Boers as a el for a "perfect member," paying ite to his many good qualities. When d upon to reply, Mr. Boers was pre- d with a portfolio containing one each of the 2c and 5c ICAC stamps, sheet being autographed by Orville ght, Dayton, Ohio; Harry S. New, master General; Chas. C. Kellogg, master, Detroit; and Frank J. Priest, stant Superintendent, in charge of ails, Detroit.

r. Boers, who is probably the best vn stamp collector in Detroit, has publicity manager of the Wayne up Society, and its present standing ue in a large measure to his untiring rts.

ne Wayne Society holds weekly tings (each Thursday) at the Fair- Recreation Centre, Fairview and rester, Detroit, and all local stamp ectors, as well as visitors, are cordial- rged to give us a call.

Air Mail News

BY DONALD E. DICKASON,
Wooster, Ohio

(Our subscribers are urged to send air mail news direct to Mr. Dickason and especially advance news concerning first flights, with names of cities served. The scope of this department will not allow the treatment of flights from other than the purely philatelic standpoint.)

Notes by Mr. Dickason

Here's a little list of airports which are likely to get dedicated in the near future: Amarillo, Tex.; Albany, Ore.; Auburn, Maine; Burlington, Iowa; Bridgeport, Conn.; Big Springs, Tex.; Douglas, Ariz.; and Agua Prieta, Mexico (covers and 18c for the A. P. to the Chamber of Commerce and Mines, Douglas); De Kalb, Ill.; Fort Collins, Colo.; Hutchinson, Kans.; Kalispell, Mont.; Mobile, Ala.; Matamoras, Pa. (covers to G. I. Strunk); Montgomery, Ala.; Norristown, Pa.; Pasco, Wash.; Row, Okla. (covers to C. W. Davenport, Skelly Field); Red Bluff, Cal.; Redding, Cal.; Somerset, Pa.; Shawnee, Okla.; Storm Lake, Iowa; Winters, Tex.; Springfield, Mass. (to L. H. Bowles, 1618 Main St.); Watertown, N. Y. There may be a few here you haven't covered yet. Send to the Chamber of Commerce as the best bets for cachets, unless otherwise noted.

Plans to revive the Victoria-Vancouver-Seattle passenger, mail and express service, have been completed by the B. C. Airways, Ltd., of Vancouver. Worth keeping an eye on.

Instead of abandoning it, as had been previously announced, the Mexican government will continue the Mexico City-Nuevo Laredo route by private contractor soon after the opening of the Brownsville-Mexico City line. The 20-hour layover of mail at Nuevo Laredo will be eliminated by a revision of the schedule. You folks who like to play safe know what you'd better do.

Louisville, Ky., got quite worked up over Airmail Day. They sent over 2,000 lbs. of mail in seven planes. However, they didn't all get the cachet. Only such mail as was sent in with the request for the special cachet—which was furnished by the Continental Airlines, Inc.—received it. About 700 letters were so treated. Several of mine came back nicely autographed by Waldo Robey, Pilot. The Aero Club of Kentucky, also applied a neat cachet, to about 300 letters.

All reports of the handling of the mail at the New York Aviation Show seem to be favorable. Different colors were used each day of the show, and the total number was about 16,000 for the eight days, varying from 1,400 on the 10th, to 2,600 on the 6th. Not all for collectors, of course. * * * The Springfield Chamber of Commerce applied their very attractive Lincoln's Birthday cachet to about 2,500 airmail letters. * * * The new catalog surely boosts the early contracts. I know some later ones that will be pretty decent one of these days. Do you realize, for example, that some towns on the Michigan route last spring mailed as few as 1,000 covers on the first flight?

This isn't exactly hot news, but it ought to go on the record. Mr. C. S. George, of Grinnell, Iowa, writes as follows: "In reference to the reason the Postmaster at Kitty Hawk used the new aeronautics stamps from his office—the writer, who is a life-long acquaintance of Mr. Lars Eidsness, Jr., the Supt. of the Division of Stamps, wrote to him stating that it would be a fine service if his department could supply the Postmaster at Kitty Hawk with the new stamps as soon as they were issued so he could use them on the day of the anniversary of the first flight by the Wright brothers, and he immediately replied and said that he personally would see that that office was duly supplied. So you can see that Mr. Eidsness is entitled to the credit." And save a little share for Mr. George, too.

Col. Paul Henderson, former Second Asst. P. M. G., and now manager of the N. A. T. company, made an address at our local college recently, taking as his subject the progress of aviation. The speech was interesting, but what I liked most were a number of his autographs on some of my covers, carried while he was Asst. P. M. G., and by his company over the New York-Chicago, and Chicago-Dallas routes.

Los Angeles C. of C. writes all who have sent in covers for the Metropolitan Airport dedication stating that the date is some months ahead, and that the matter of a special cachet has not been decided. However, they'll keep covers already sent, pending the dedication date, unless asked to return them.

Madison, Wis., slipped over a fast one with the dedication of their new post office on Feb. 15th. Covers sent in for an announced airport dedication, which is still some distance in the future, were mailed on this date, instead. The Chamber of Commerce says they sent out about 1,300.

Just got back some nice ones. Sent my Miami-Cristobal covers addressed to my sister in Colombia. They went by fruit boat from Cristobal to Cartagena, and were carried with the official mail of the SCADTA as a special courtesy to Barranquilla, though they had no SCADTA stamps. They have the special airmail cancellation of these two cities, and a 3-line cachet Oficial—Correo Aereo—Cartagena. They were delivered

Stamp News for the Juniors

This page is primarily for you, the Junior collector. We are interested in what interests you and we want you to take possession of it, if in any way it can serve you.

We also invite the Senior collector to extend words of advice, encouragement and stimulation and thus develop in the Junior a real passion for Philately.

Bear in mind that two short articles of from 50 to 75 words read better than one long one. Address all communications to the Beverly office.

Belgium.—The new Belgian set, which recently made its appearance, has for the design of the lower values the usual lion, above him the royal crown, and on each side the sceptres. The values are 1 centime, orange, 3c red-brown, 5c grey-green, 10c olive-grey, 20c lilac rose, 25c red, 35c green, and 50c blue. The 10fr sepia, 20fr myrtle green, 50fr purple, and 100fr claret, all show a portrait of King Albert of Belgium.

Morocco.—40,000 sets of the current charity stamps of Morocco have been surcharged "Tangier," and will be sold only at the Tangier Post Office until June 30th. Remainders, if any, will then be destroyed.

Paraguay.—More airmail provisionals from South America. This new stamp has the queer value of $5.65, and is surcharged on the 10c green value of the 1913 official type. It is to be used on the new airmail line between Asuncion and Buenos Aires. A third value seems to be forthcoming, namely the $11.30 stamp, provided the new permanent series does not arrive before that time.

Transjordania. — Current postage stamps have been overprinted in Roman and Arabic numerals to do postage due duty. They are 1 on 3 mill, red; 2m, green-blue; 4 on 15m blue, 10m carmine, 20 on 100 blue-green, 50m lake. Only 5,000 complete sets issued, pending arrival of a permanent set from London.

RECENT BOLIVIAS

Centenary of the Republic Issue 1925

Since 1916, Bolivia has issued 82 major varieties of postage stamps.

The 1916 issue was an attractive set even though the stamps were produced by lithography, and do not show up as well as they would if they had been engraved. The ½ centavo shows a monolith at Tiahuanacu; the 1 centavo a view of the snow-capped mountain Potosi; and the 5 centavo, the snow-capped peaks of Mt. Illimani. The 2 centavo, which is printed in red and black, shows a view of a man in a small sail boat on Lake Titicaca. The 10 centavo, also bicolored, being blue and orange, shows the Parliament building at La Paz. We find two varieties of the 5 centavos stamp of this issue, one in which the shields containing the numerals have a background of lines and the other has a white background.

Since 1919 the regular issues have been of a general type, showing the coat-of-arms of the country. To the beginner, these stamps are confusing as there are many minor differences. However, by watching the catalogue carefully and with the aid of a perforation gauge, there should be no difficulty in getting them properly classified. The 1919 issue was made by the American Bank Note Co., and is perforated 12. The 1923-27 set was made by Perkins, Bacon, Ltd., and is perforated 14. In 1925, three values were printed by Waterlow & Sons. These are perforated 12½ or 13. Then in 1927 a set of 13 varieties appeared in a similar design, but as they are lithographed and perforated 13½ they can readily be distinguished from the other three sets of similar type. To be sure that you have the stamp that you think you have, it should be measured for its perforation to be positive.

Several provisional surcharges appeared in 1924 and 1927 to change the face value of existing varieties, but three values also appeared with the surcharge "Octubre 1927," and an ornament in the center of the stamp.

In 1925, Bolivia celebrated the 100th anniversary of its existence as a republic by issuing ten varieties of large pictorial stamps covering a wide range of unusual subjects, mostly allegorical. They were made by Perkins, Bacon, Ltd., and are attractive. Owing to their scarcity, probably many collectors will have to be content with pictures of these stamps.

Along with many other countries, Bolivia issued a stamp in 1928, which shows the location of that republic in its relation to other parts of western South America. This stamp shows plainly the section of land near the boundary of Paraguay, over which there has been considerable trouble. They may be trying to offset the advertising effects of Paraguay's map stamps of recent years.

To promote the modern methods of carrying mail, Bolivia issued a set of seven airpost stamps in 1924. These really commemorated the establishment of the National Aviation School, and could be used for ordinary postage. Further airpost stamps appeared in 1928, each bearing conventional designs.

Helps for Our Readers

For Mr. Harry Barber we give some explanations below which ought to be of interest to others as well:—

Offset printing is a complicated process for making postage stamps, using various photographic processes instead of engraved plates. This method was used by the U. S. Bureau of Engraving and Printing in 1918, to print the then current 1c, 2c and 3c stamps.

A double print would come about from having a sheet of stamps printed twice on the same side of the paper. These are very rare.

A shift shows up in a printed stamp as a flaw, which was made in the plate when the transfer roll slipped. These can usually only be seen with the aid of a magnifying glass.

Many flat press printed stamps show some color and impressions on the backs caused by the ink coming off from a sheet of stamps below that is freshly printed and still wet. Sometimes these impressions are quite clear.

NEWSY ITEMS:—

IT will be noted in our Honor Club that H. S. Williams of Elgin, Ill., has just taken out a membership. At the same time he remits $5.00 for the membership of the Gail Borden Library of his city. This act upon the part of Mr. Williams is so distinctively a compliment to the WEEKLY that we feel compelled to give it the publicity of this news item.

KENNETH KRALL, Houston, Tex., very kindly favors this office with a first day 2c Vincennes, first flight, CAM 29, New Orleans to Houston, Jan. 23, and a March 4, "Commemoration of the Inauguration, etc.," from Washington, D. C. Many thanks.

WE learn with great regret that Van-Cleland, Ltd., Winnipeg, Can., has suffered severely from a fire. Mr. Wm. Van writes us as follows:—"You have no doubt learned of the disastrous loss sustained by Van-Cleland Limited on account of a fire which broke out Saturday evening, Feb. 23, in the basement of the building we occupied and gutted the whole structure. Our huge stock of second-hand books, together with all our rare stamps and philatelic accessories, was destroyed. There was no time to save a single thing. I have not as yet decided as to what I will do in the future as it would take a huge amount of capital to re-establish myself in the book business. I may decide to start afresh in the stamp business exclusively."

THE Michigan Stamp Club held its 15th annual banquet Saturday, March 16, at Fort Shelby Hotel, with Seth E. Andrews, chairman of the entertainment committee.

DUE to a new connection with the Norfolk & Western, which I made last fall, I have not been able to have a permanent address and have been without the WEEKLY. This is almost as bad as trying to keep house without a telephone, a gas stove and a vacuum cleaner —so I shall be glad to have the WEEKLY sent me, commencing at once. It may interest you to know that since I have been here, I have organized the Roanoke (Va.) Stamp Club, with about 20 members. There is yet a large number of collectors here whom we will have in the club sooner or later.—ROBERT A. TURNER.

CONVENTION AT HOUSTON

We are informed by T. E. Flick, secretary-treasurer, 801 22nd St., Galveston, Texas, that the annual convention of the Texas Philatelic Association, a state society that holds a record for longevity, will be held at Houston, on April 21st and 22nd, when an exhibition will be held as an adjunct of the meeting, to which all the school children of Houston will be invited. We are sure that the enterprise of J. Delano Bartlett, El Paso, president, and his fellow-officers will assure the success of the exhibition, as there is no paucity of fine stamps in Texas. The following is the program in detail of the convention:

SATURDAY AFTERNOON, 20TH

We will have a public Exhibition to which the Houston School Children will especially be invited.

SUNDAY, 21ST

9.00 A. M.—Reception and Registration at Convention Hall.

10.30 to 12.00 Noon—Tour of the City of Houston.

7.00 P. M.—Informal Supper for Registered Guests.

MONDAY, 22ND

9.00 to 12.00 Noon—Convention called to order.

2.00 P. M.—Stamp Bourse.

3.00 P. M.—Auction Sale.

7.30 P. M.—Annual Banquet of the Texas Philatelic Association.

ILE DE FRANCE PROVISIONALS

Le Collectionneur de Timbres Poste gives the following details about the 10fr surcharge on the Pasteur and Berthelot commemoratives. When the S.S. "Ile de France" left Havre for New York on the 8th August last, she carried on board a hydroplane, which was launched by catapult when nearing the American coast. The letters carried thus were delivered some twenty-four hours in advance of those which arrived by ordinary mail. The extra charge for the hydroplane letters was 10fr up to 10 grammes and 5fr for each extra 5 grammes or fraction thereof. The post office on board therefore needed a supply of 5, 10 and 20fr. The 10fr stamps were all used, and none were left when the vessel reached port, so the postmaster obtained permission from M. Mongendre, the French Consul General in New York, to surcharge a number of the 90c and 1fr 50c stamps on board. There were 3,000 of the 90c (Berthelot), and 1,000 of the 1fr 50 (Pasteur) so surcharged, the work being done by Emile Cabella, a printer of 149 West 24th Street. The printing form was broken up immediately after the work was done. Although strict instructions were given that stamps not actually needed for the mails should be handed over on arrival at Havre, a number of passengers managed to secure examples. —Stamp Lover.

STAMP GIFTS TO KING GEORGE

By NOMAD.

As the King's refusal of certain gifts of stamps appears to be imperfectly understood, I am writing in an endeavor to explain it more satisfactorily than I have yet seen it done.

The sovereign of a state may be said to lead a double life: an official one as King, and a private one as a human being. The first is an open book. Into the second, it is not polite to probe too deeply, any more deeply, in fact, than the sovereign relations with his people design that it should be.

The King, it is known, collects only British Colonials and Great Britain. In that respect he is like many others, and no one would care to ask him to change his likes and dislikes to gratify a generous, or possibly, snobbish inclination of a less exalted person. Gifts of all kinds must be selected with good taste in any case, no matter who the recipient may be; there is no etiquette about it, and be designed to please the recipient.

A collection purchased by the American nation, let us say, in celebration of his recovery, and presented through the President, or the American Ambassador in London, would probably be accepted, but if sent to Buckingham Palace by Mr. Cyrus K. Smith of Oshkosh, it would be politely but firmly declined.

Official gifts are apt to be treated as heirlooms, and pass to successive occupants of the official position, and even amongst the King's intimates, too lavish a gift would be considered in bad taste, and in any case, before it were tendered, any doubt as to its acceptability would have to be eliminated. It would be as impolite to place the King in a position to be obliged to refuse a gift as to accept one that he did not really care for.

Ordinary politeness demands that no one should intrude upon the privacy of a stranger; where that stranger happens to be a King, extra care is necessary.

The mantle of royalty sits none too lightly upon the shoulders of one destined to wear it. Americans understand the meaning of "home" and "hobby" too well to wish to intrude upon those of the King, who is one of the kindest of men and hates to hurt anyone's feelings.

THE FORT ORANGE STAMP CLUB

AN INTERESTING STORY OF THE GROWTH OF A LI ORGANIZATION

By CHARLES G. RIESS.

On April 23, 1926, a small group of Albany, N. Y., collectors met at the Lavender Book Shop, opposite the State Capitol, to consider the formation of a stamp club in Albany. At the first meeting about eight or ten persons were present, while about a dozen more signified their intention of joining any club that may be formed. It was then and there that the Fort Orange Stamp Club had its beginning. It was decided by those present that all collectors who became members at either of the first three meetings would be charter members. The first three meetings were held in the Lavender Book Shop, after which the club met regularly every week at the Central Y. M. C. A. until December, 1928, when the club again went back to the Lavender Book Shop, which had acquired newer and larger quarters at 119 State Street. The club now meets there and holds meetings every Tuesday evening from September through June, except on national holidays. Special or additional meetings are held whenever the members consider it necessary.

One of the first things done by the newly-formed club was the appointment of a committee of five members to draw up a suitable set of By-Laws. After some discussions and corrections the set of By-Laws was finally accepted by the club as being suitable to its needs. Upon this set of By-Laws as a base and guide the club has grown and developed from an organization of some fifteen or twenty members to one of fifty-one at the present time. Of these fifty-one members, four are associate and four are honorary. Mrs. Robert Lenox Banks is our honorary president.

The club's first president was Mr. Chester J. Moore, under whose careful guidance the club went through its first year, and was put on a firm foundation. The success of the club was due without question to the coöperation of the members with the officers, and on this alone did the club continue to succeed. Before the first year had ended the membership had doubled itself, and many standing committees were functioning smoothly. Club auctions were being conducted regularly, contests held, and talks and displays becoming a matter of routine. Just before the close of the first year the members decided to hold a stamp and cover exhibition, non-competitive in nature, for the benefit of the public at large. This exhibition, which was our first one, was held in the rotunda of the State Education Building for one week in March, and proved to be such a great success that the members voted to make it an annual affair. It was a surprise indeed to the people of the Capitol district, who did not know of the existence of such a club, and many of the people spent several hours looking at the stamps and covers on exhibition. At the close of the first year an annual banquet was held in the University Club, at which time the retiring officers gave a summary of the year's work and the newly-elected officers assumed their duties. They in turn gave an outline of what they intended to do during the coming year as officers of the club. Mr. Wendover Neefus (associate member) of Hudson, N. Y., gave a very fine talk about stamps and covers after the dinner.

Our president for the second year was Mr. Charles A. Brind, Jr., under whose direction the club continued to develop in more ways than one. The membership increased, many out-of-town speakers were secured, who usually gave displays of stamps or covers in connection with their talks, and the club in general made more secure on its already sound basis. During the year the Second Annual Exhibition of Stamps and Covers was held in the State Education Building, and proved an even greater success than the first one. At the close of the second year the second annual banquet was held in the University Club, at which Dr. Carroll Chase was the guest of the evening. Dr. Chase exhibited several volumes of covers showing the various territ cancellations of different states. To the least this certainly was an event readily to be forgotten by the mem of the club. SOME ORIENTAL STAMPS he old adage that even wall-paper is inexhaustible applies to stamps as as wall-paper, and there are a great y issues catalogued under price that nt auctions in the Orient clearly show Stamp collectors are human, but everything between the pages of our dard catalogues can be obtained at price, and quite a few bring half- catalog. Noticeably are some of issues of China, regarded as an easy ntry to collect by some philatelists. ent auctions point to the fact that y Chinese stamps bring far over- log price in the land of their birth, this we may say holds good with ain issues of India and even modern n.

MAD MORRIS' MASTERPIECE

That able-bodied artist, Morris Muffitz, best known as Mad Morris, feels that recognition would come to him if he could crash the columns of the WEEKLY. He offers the editor a philatelic book-plate, if it is run in these columns. At the service of struggling genius, we say, quid pro quo. Morris thinks that the WEEKLY readers have their art-consciousness so highly developed that they will recognize the subtle yet sweeping skill of a maestro, in this book-plate, and then, adds Morris simply, "my fortune is made as are not all your readers millionaires?" Later. We have just had word that Morris, having let his hair grow to his shoulders, has forsaken the chill north for the sunny south, as the "drawing doctor" in an Indian medicine show; and so his services will not be available in high circles for the time being. Incidentally, the subject of this book-plate is the editor of the WEEKLY, somewhat idealized.

ciples, as twenty years would show that relatively few exist for the album of the collector.

The current two and four peso stamps of the Philippines are also under-priced, which is borne out by the fact that they are sold, when they can be obtained, for full catalog price. It would seem that rarity here has not been taken into consideration. Compared with the 15 odd billions of stamps emitted by the United States annually, and the relatively small number by the Philippines it has always been a matter of surprise to find that the two peso, the equivalent of the dollar U. S. is cataloged 15c, and the dollar stamp of the same issue quoted at 10c, the four peso at 15c, and the two dollar at 50c. This is what we might term a philatelic inequality. As a matter of fact both bring catalog price or more in the Philippines, where they hail from.

The Legislative Philippine issue of December, 1926, long have disappeared from the Post Office. The peso, the most elusive stamp of the set, brings twice to three times face used, and the others in spite of the fairly large issue one-third to a half face at this writing. It is not supposed there will be any difference between the prices of used and unused, altho no doubt Yvert may quote used slightly higher as does Galvez of Madrid.

Inasmuch as the Orient itself has no catalog and depends upon the three or four standardized ones in general circulation, this does not mean that all information relative to issues are the sole monoply of the catalog makers. Philatelic societies, dealers, and philatelists resident in the countries of origin are as a rule better informed as to values and dispositions of the issues, and can, as a consequence, get a better slant on prices, as very naturally they are in close connection with the collectors of each country. A few elusive and under-priced stamps of the Orient are as follows: Sarawak, Nos. (Scott) 48-77 and 78; Kelantan, 5 and 9; China, 1st and second issues, 39-107-108-109-110-158-159-193-194-222-223; Siam, Nos. 122-124; Siberia, 31 to 45; Philippines, 139-178-180-195-200-228-229-231-234-251-252-272; Japan, 87-90-110-111-112-146-163; North Borneo, 102-146-166; Dutch Indies, 100-146-147-148; Hong Kong, 88-124. As a matter of fact those who secure any of the above at catalog prices may knock on wood.

A RARE COIL

One of the most interesting coil stamps of our issues is the imperforate rotary coil 2-cent, issue of 1915, watermark U. S. P. S., Scott's #459, listing at $25.00 per stamp. This variety has always been desirable and was originally issued, due to the fact that there had been a demand for imperforate coils by the mailing machine companies. They desired to apply special perforations, so that they might be used in their machines. Previously the imperforate coils from the flat plate stamps were furnished, but when the rotary perforated varieties first appeared, the Bureau made up just a few coils as samples from the rotary press without the perforations. Some of these went to Baltimore, some to New York, some to Washington, and a single coil to a small New England post office. I personally traced every coil that left the Bureau after it was discovered and obtained the few that were available. Most of them had been used up at the time, and I even went so far as to learn that the one in New England went to a small bank and the cashier wrote that it had been used on circulars several years back.

The stamp has been mounting in price, year by year, and has been recommended as a purchase from the first. Every auction sale sees this stamp go higher and in the last Klein Sale a pair changed hands at $51.00. When the few copies that are now available are placed in collections, there is no doubt that the individual stamp will reach $50.00 or $75.00, as there are not enough available to take care of the many twentieth century collectors of our issues.

This is one stamp that cannot be faked in any way, as the rotary 2-cent never appeared in imperforate condition, in any other form than this coil variety, so that it is not a stamp that is open to the nefarious activities of the faker.

A beautiful single is available at $25.00, a superb pair at $50.00 and a magnificent strip of four at $100.00. Either a line pair or strip will be furnished at the above prices without extra charge.

Examination Of Stamps

Hardly a day passes but what one or two letters are received submitting U. S. Issues, especially the late coils and the like, for examination. It is impossible for the faker to make a late error that will pass the scrutiny of one who is posted, but in order to check such fakes, it is often necessary to spend considerable time in examination, as well as to keep on hand a reference collection of importance. Heretofore, I have gladly made such examinations in most cases, but here of late I have been so busy with numerous activities that I regret to find it necessary to state that in the future I will be in a position to pass upon such varieties for my clients only. As usual, no charge is made my clients for such service.

Washington Notes

On March 4th, our former Postmaster General, Harry S. New, retired, and was succeeded by the Hon. Walter F. Brown of Ohio. Mr. Brown has been active in political life for many years, and was formerly a supporter of the Bull Moose Party. He was brought to Washington by President Harding, in connection with the reorganization of Government Departments, and was appointed by President Coolidge as Assistant Secretary of Commerce, at the time when President Hoover was Secretary of that Department. We have every reason to believe that the governmental philatelic activities, such as the Philatelic Agency, the special cancellation on air mail covers, and the like, will be continued under the new Administration. It is to be hoped that the Assistants who served under Mr. New, will continue under Mr. Brown.

In my recent notes, it was stated that the new State stamps would be overprinted "Kan" and "Neb," the information coming in this form from my valued correspondent. I am now, however, officially informed by the Department, that the overprint will be "Kans" and "Nebr," the official abbreviations as given in the Postal Guide. It is not expected that the stamps will be available before the end of April, or the first of May, but our readers will be kept fully informed as to the definite date of their appearance and where they may be purchased. It is not the intentions of the Department at the present time, of having these on sale at the Philatelic Agency.

To correct some of the impressions regarding these varieties, it can be stated that the Department considers them surcharged stamps and so classifies them. They are not precancels in any sense of the word, for the lettering is considered no more a cancellation than the surcharge on the Molly Pitcher or Hawaiian issues. Then, too, the stamps will be usable in any state in the Union. However, where large quantities of one state are used from another state, there will no doubt, be an investigation to see if the stamps were legitimately obtained. One may continue to enclose a stamp for reply, and while the stamp may be purchased in Kansas, it can be used in Pennsylvania. Even if the plan is practical, and there are surcharges for every state, it is the intentions of the Department to continue to supply certain post offices in each state with the unsurcharged issues.

2-Cent Vincennes Commemorative

The Vincennes stamp has been pretty well distributed, but most of the post offices only received a fraction of the quantity ordered, as the supply is not large and it is not likely to last very long. Favorable comments are being continually received, and it is pretty generally agreed that this is one of the most attractive stamps ever issued by this country.

Mr. Arthur W. Line writes that he has located eight different combinations of the red border with the black vignette. Those that he has found are as follows:

Red Border		Black Vignette
19720	"	19730
19721	"	19728
19721	"	19730

Faked Perforations

There has been submitted for inspection, within the last several days, three separate lots, evidently coming from one source, of late issues of rare varieties faked from the imperforate stamp. I refer to the 1c and 2c coils, part-perforates and compound perforations, which were issued by the Department in imperforate sheets and later privately perforated in imitation of the Department's coils and errors. As the shades seem to be identical and as the work is the same, it is the impression that they were made by one party, although they came from different correspondents. The lot consists of pairs of the 1902-1903 1c and 2c coils, pairs and strips of the rare 1910 2c coil No. 388, singles and blocks of the 1c 1914, compound perforation, No. 424-a and No. 424-b, all of the part-perforates of No. 498, No. 499 and No. 501. In other words, every stamp that could be obtained in imperforate condition, was changed into the rarer varieties. One posted on the subject would readily recognize them, and it is again suggested that such errors be purchased not only from reliable persons, but from those who are well posted on the subject.

Fortunately, there are one or two distinguishing marks in the Bureau product, which it is impossible for the faker to produce, so that the good may be readily separated from the bad, by one who is aware of these peculiarities.

Antigua.—A correspondent of Stamp Collecting advises them that an order for 4p Leeward Islands stamps dispatched from St. John's, Antigua, on January 19th last, yielded the old CA watermark.

Belgium Congo.—We learn from a resident of this Belgian Colony that a new issue of Congo stamps in aid of Colonial humanitarian purposes has been authorized.

Brazil.—A 400 reis orange, in the same design as the 400 reis blue, has been received by Whitfield King & Co.

Ceylon.—The 2R new Nyasaland design, chalky paper in carmine and green, has been issued. Mr. R. Roberts sends copies for chronicle.

Chile.—Whitfield King & Co. advise that they have received the 25c blue and black, 30c brown and black, and 50c green and black, inscribed "Correos de Chile" watermarked star in shield. Also the 20c orange and black, 40c violet and black, 1p green and black, and 2p red and black, inscribed "Chile Correos," no watermark, have been overprinted "Correo Aereo" and aeroplane.

Estonia.—The 4c green, 8c mauve, 25c purple, 40c orange, 60c grey, and 80c brown, all in the new design have been noted by Whitfield King & Co.

Hungary.—The 2 filler, thick paper, new watermark, is mentioned by Maison Fischer of Paris.

Portugal.—Two more provisionals have appeared. The "1es 60c" on 2esc is reported by Whitfield King & Co., while the 90c pale blue surcharged "40c" black has been received by Econom Stamp Co.

Spanish P. O.'s in Morocco.—M son Fischer informs us that they ha seen the current 5c stamp of Spain ov printed diagonally "Correo espanal M ruecos."

South Africa.—The ½p green po age due stamp has been received fr Whitfield King & Co.

BEST CONTAINER FOR COVE

By CAP. STREET.

I note in the Jan. 28th WEEKLY, th Mr. Fletcher of Newburgh, N. Y., is against the same problem as all oth collectors of Air Mail covers.

For the American Air Mail cove where the ordinary 6½ x 3⅝ (or sma er) envelope is generally used, I ha found the following to be about the b method to keep covers in good conditi and where it is possible to get at backstamp when desired:

Album, a regular "Invoice" book, heavy Manilla paper, which is bound with space so that covers do not bu the book. It has an index, so that cover and page number may be index and readily found, when wanted. I 4 x 7 transparent envelopes, with openi at end, and each cover has its own p tecting envelope. This protecting velope is mounted with NuAce corners. All the protecting envelo being the same size, rearrangement simple, if it is desired to change thi about, as the corners for one cover ta another, without change. When it is sired to look at the backstamp, the p tecting envelope is removed from corners, and the backstamp can be se without touching the cover itself, and th the cover is easily reinserted in its pla I find that it is a good idea to index covers, in ink, specifying the markin on back, and using lead pencil for pa numbers, as rearrangement is sometim desirable.

Another good album, I find, is photograph album with pages about 6¾ 9¾, for sale in the ten-cent stores. U NuAce corners, and I strongly adv the protection covers, as time, particul ly in moist climates, causes paper stick in the corners. One cover of album will take the number of pages an ordinary flight, if one collects f coverage, or will take cities to termin of two or more flights.

THE BEST IS PHILATELY'S WAY

By GEO. M. MORELAND.

You ask me why I keep smiling
Tho' others are gloomy all day.
I'll tell you, my friend—it's a secret—
Now try it. You do it this way;
When home from the office and worry,
Sit down at the table with ease,
And journey to Stampdom for pleasure—
To Cochin or Spain, if you please.

Far down to the Chilean mountains,
Or through the wild woods of Brazil;
To England or China or Perak,
You wander to any at will.
To ocean-kissed land of Hawaii,—
To Mexico-bandits and all—
Or 'mong the wild tribes out in Hejaz,
Or down with the Dutch of Transvaal.

To Africa's wildest of jungles,
To Iceland, Honduras or Jhind,
Or Malay or Queensland or Horta,
Or delve in emissions of Ind.
If tiring of foreign, and longing
Back close to your home to be seen,
Just delve in the pleasures and wonders
Of Uncle Sam's issues of green.

* * * *

Yes, that's the way, boys, to be merry,
And whistle while working all day;
Now try it and see if I'm "yarning,"—
The best is Philately's way.

TUNIS — FRENCH PROTECTORATE

The Stamps of this Country an Interesting Field of Study

By W. GARDNER.

Tunis, one of the Barbary States, is now a French Protectorate. It is washed by the Mediterranean and has for neighbours Tripoli and Algeria. It is about the size of England, and in the coastal region and valleys of the Atlas Mountains, agriculture forms the chief industry; wheat, oats and barley are grown, olive plantations are numerous, and grapes, dates, and esparto grass are grown for export.

In the 1906 issue of stamps, 10c to 25c, we see a representative ploughing scene in this country. Farmers till the ground with ploughs of primitive shape and construction, drawn sometimes by queer mixed teams, such as a donkey and a goat, or a cow and a horse. The husbandman rakes a mere scratch of a furrow, throws in the seed and lets it lie. No harrow is used and the seed is left to shift for itself, but there is seldom any fear of famine.

Beyond the mountains comes the extensive plain of Kairouan on which is situated Kairouan, the Holy City, surrounded by dilapidated battlements. It is said that the city was founded by Okhbah, the Conquerer, A.D. 647. At his word wild beasts and reptiles were banished from this fertile spot and a city was planned, bearing the name equivalent to "caravan," a meeting place. In this city is the mosque called the Great Djemma, or Mosque of the Cherubim, finely shown on the low values of the same set of stamps. It is here that teaching of a kind is carried on, and when a scholar has been moderately crammed with precepts from the Koran, he is invested with a kind of degree with great formality and rejoicing. Okhbah is said to be buried within, but this is doubtful, as a mosque is seldom used as a burial place.

The inhabitants, numbering about two millions, comprise Arabs or Moors (not true blooded), Berbers and Jews, besides French, Italian and Maltese who have come there for business reasons.

The Tunisian Moor, a portrait of one of them can be seen on the Postage Due stamps of 1914, constitutes the most admirable type of the Moslem population. He is generally well made and of almost fair complexion, delighting to trade in silks, perfumes, jewelry and bric-a-brac. On the stamp the Moor is wearing a red cap known as a shesheyah. In ancient times Tunis belonged to the Carthagenians, and on the franc values (1906) it seems only right that a picture of one of their galleys should be shown. Tunis afterwards formed part of the Roman Empire, but was subdued by the Arabs, becoming a powerful state, and later incorporated in the Ottoman Empire.

If we follow the Great River from the Gulf of Tunis we soon reach the palace built by the Bey of Tunis, and nearby is the Great Roman Aqueduct which supplied Tunis and Dougga with water. A picture of it figures on the 35 to 75c values of 1906, and ruins of the Roman Temple at Dougga are shown on the 1923 stamps.

Tunis, the capital, lies on a salt lagoon and many of its buildings were erected out of the materials found in ancient Carthage.

The bazaars are very interesting places to visit, a view of them being shown on the 50c to 1f values of 1926. Here may be seen blacksmiths, gunsmiths, butchers, grocers, etc., busily plying their trades. Public criers go round daily shouting the last bids received for a horse, cow, or other beast that is for sale.

It was in 1881, owing to the turbulence of some native tribes, that the French invaded the country and soon became masters of it, though it is still nominally under a native Bey and is called a Regency. The stamps are inscribed Regency de Tunis.

Tunis is famous for its dates, and on the current Parcel Post stamps we see the natives gathering this nutritious fruit. The Kharmirs who live beyond the mountains are splendid agriculturalists and cattle breeders. A woman of this tribe is seen bringing water from a well, carrying her jug upon her shoulder, on the lowest values of the current issue.

The mail is often carried by the Moors, and is shown on the Parcel Post stamps of 1906. It is strange how these wiry fellows show a marked preference for those callings which allow a minimum of exertion.

The great Roman Amphitheatre of El Djem, near the coast at Tunis, admirably shown on the highest values of 1926, is a miniature Colosseum at Rome.

Before leaving Tunis we must not forget to look at the Child Welfare stamps of 1928. Here we see the Tunis-Chad caravan on its way across the desert. The latest type of motor with caterpillar wheels forms a striking picture, as following behind is the old way of travelling, a camel caravan. A group of date palms, the source of food of many of the wandering Arabs, is seen on the right and also the rising sun, a good omen of the coming prosperity of this fruitful land.—Postage Stamp.

MISCELLANY—

P. M. WOLSIEFFER of Philadelphia, will hold his Tercentenary Sale on March 27, and he feels that this notable event should be chronicled in the WEEKLY. We agree with P. M., as Mr. Wolsieffer is called by those who become at all acquainted with him, and suggest that our subscribers write 2147 No. 21st St., Phila., Pa., for a copy of the catalog for this notable sale. Mr. Wolsieffer's record for mail bids is 413, and he wants to break the record this time by going over the 500 mark. It is needless to say that the WEEKLY is glad to render its approval to the worthy ambition of our old patron who has been with the WEEKLY from its very inception.

R. E. DUNLOP sends us a clipping from the Chicago News in which police captain Wm. Shoemaker is pictured poring over his stamp collection. Yes, our guardians of the peace in their quest for mental and physical recreation chase postage stamps and butterflies, and dahlias, and poultry, and—other things.

WE are indebted to W. A. Bogart, Sec. of the St. Petersburg (Fla.) Stamp Club, for a first day flight cover, Tampa-Jacksonville, C.A.M. 25, and bearing date of March 1. Mr. Bogart sends us greetings from the "Sunshine City," and we thank him for his courtesy.

THE Congress High School of Bridgeport, Conn., has a stamp club that has been in existence for five years, and has 35 members. The Club is sponsored by George Gordon, Jr., Vice-President of the Bridgeport Philatelic Club, and a member of the New Haven Club. Regular meetings are held Wednesday afternoons at 2 o'clock. Gould Turney is Secretary.

A COLLECTOR by the name of Bill Irwin, Seattle, Washington, has written a New York dealer requesting an approval selection and giving our publication as a reference. Dealers will do well to note the fact that no collector is authorized to use the name of our paper in this manner.

THE annual election of officers of the Michigan Stamp Club was held recently. Forty-five members were present and the following were elected: Pres. Harry C. Carter; Vice-Pres., Charles Keller; Sec., Alex M. Livingstone; Treas., Z. Dworkowski; Trustees, Dr. H. Preston Hoskins, Seth E. Andrews and Louis A. White.—HERMAN W. BOERS.

PHILADELPHIA Chapter, No. 18, A. P. S., met Feb. 29, with Pres. Dengler in the chair. The program of the evening was provided by E. B. Power and Joseph Hoffman of New York City, and Gorden F. Bottomley, whose fine collection of U. S. in mint singles, strips and blocks was exhibited by Dr. E. Lindauer. Some 30 members and visitors were present. The March meeting has been cancelled, and the next meeting will be held April 18, when Philip H. Ward, Jr., will exhibit "Something of interest."

"NOTE inclosed clipping of the first air mail out of St. Petersburg (Fla.), by bus to Tampa, and by plane from there on C.A.M. 25, connecting at Daytona, Fla., with the planes from Atlanta and Miami, Fla. The plane coming down was wrecked in the Halifax River, and some 200 letters for St. Petersburg was so water soaked that the names could not be read and the stamps were all off. The office here was trying to dry them out. I have received only one of some ten I had sent out to me. I knew that you would be interested in getting this first hand information."—YORK BRIDDELL.

THE Indiana Stamp Club has been going good so far this year. We have had many interesting programs so far, and have many in store for the future. Next meeting March 15, H. Edgar French of New Castle, Ind., who is a specialist on Central and South American countries, will give us a talk on Mexico, and the following meeting April 5, H. H. Coburn, our past president, will give us a talk on Guatemala and other foreign oddities. Mr. Coburn is fortunate to have in his collection a perfect mint copy of Guatemala No. 23a, which Scott catalogues at $200."—LEWIS O. WARD.

"I JUST wanted to call your attention to a story called 'Mysteries of Today' by Culpeper Zandtt in the April Blue Book, which tells about stamps and stamp collectors. Here's hoping there are no more stamp dealers like Schmidt."—BARNUM B. WIXOM.

GOOD NIGHT!

Oh, where are my wandering stamps tonight?
I sent them forth six months ago,
Six weary months since they took flight
To an exchange I did not know.

Since then, no word has been received,
Though I have written plain and flat.
Such perfidy is scarce believed;
But they are gone—and that is that!

Hon. E. R. Ackerman On Philately

CONGRESSMAN SPEAKS AT ELIZABETH, N. J., BEFORE COUNTY SOCIETY

ELIZABETH, March 12—Congressman Ernest R. Ackerman of Plainfield, addressed about 150 members and guests of the Union County Philatelic Society in the recreation room of the Y. M. C. A. last night. Many ladies and young enthusiasts of the hobby were among those present. Guests were present from Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway and East Orange.

Representative Ackerman stated that he had been collecting stamps for the past 50 years, and that his collection fills about 100 volumes. He explained that the collecting of stamps is not exactly a rich man's hobby, as many specimens used nowadays can be made into a very large yet inexpensive collection.

He stated that several countries maintain philatelic agencies, where stamps of those countries may be obtained at face value, including Soviet Russia; Sweden has its philatelic literature printed in five different languages, and illustrates some of the adhesives which it has for sale. He exhibited a complete collection of Swedish postage stamps, which was presented to the members of the Postal Congress delegates by that country at the convention there in 1924.

Exhibits Unusual Cover

The most interesting cover which Mr. Ackerman exhibited was one which was sent from Russia to the United States, and although the postage was only 15c, 1,625 stamps of the 25 ruble denomination was attached to the cover, making an exhibit 31 feet long and 6 feet wide. Another cover was one with a 90c of the 1869 issue attached, of which there are very few in existence; and one with a 15c of the same issue, but with the center inverted.

The pigeongram, from Great Barrier to New Zealand, was probably the first means of aero communication, and Mr. Ackerman exhibited a letter sent in this manner. Covers carried via the first aerial post in India in 1911, by the balloon post during the Franco-Prussian War, and one autographed by Col. C. A. Lindbergh when he flew the Government contract route, was shown.

Mr. Ackerman stated that the postage stamp had a great deal to do in convincing the members of Congress when the location of the Panama Canal first came up for consideration. It was then pointed that Nicaragua used a volcano to illustrate its stamps, and that if that country was so geographically situated, then Panama would be the best place for the canal to be built.

Congressman Ackerman concluded his interesting discourse by stating that not far from the building in which he was speaking there had been a room covered with stamps, they being used as wall paper. Several bits of these were autographed by the Congressman for those present.

Coolidge and Stamps

Mr. Ackerman related some human interest incidents with philatelic angles about former President Coolidge. On assuming the presidency, his first morning at the White House, the President had as his breakfast guest the head of the Scott Stamp & Coin Company, Charles A. Hatfield, who had managed the Coolidge Senatorial and gubernatorial campaigns in Massachusetts. The President invited Mr. Hatfield to ride over to the Capitol with him, and a Presidential invitation being equivalent to a command, the invitation was accepted. At the conclusion of the ride, Mr. Coolidge inquired:

"Well, how's the stamp business, Charley? Ours is excellent."

The President referred, of course, to the business of the Post Office Department.

One of the last things the President did was to autograph sheets of the large

George Rogers Clark stamps for Mr. Ackerman. A friend of the Plainfield Congressman went to the President and asked him if he would autograph the sheets, knowing how interested Mr. Ackerman is in stamps. Mr. Coolidge not only wrote his name in the center of the sheets, but had them autographed, as well, by the first, second, third and fourth postmaster generals.—Plainfield, N. J. Courier-News.

OFF-SIDE—

THE National Air Mail Society has issued a mimeographed news organ that is devoted to information about the society, number one of which is dated February.

MR. CHAS. E. HERRICK, one of Chicago's collectors and formerly president of the Rotary Club there, has been elected to the Executive Committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

WE are sorry to hear of the death of D. Vila, New Orleans, who for many years has been a reader of the WEEKLY, on February 4, 1929. We understand that Mr. Vila had a large collection and that the condition of his stamps was exceptionally good.

THE Point Pleasant Philatelist, according to its ad, is "issued monthly by a girl. With stories written by girls" from Point Pleasant, New Jersey.

AT a recent meeting of the stamp club at Crane High School, Chicago, Isadore Itscovitz was re-elected president, and Howard Diffay, secretary. The club's sponsor is Miss Kroger, and recently Mr. Fischer gave a talk to the boys on how to link stamps with important dates in history.

READERS are sending in copies of the current air mail stamp showing a variation in the position of the central design. Any bi-colored stamp as a consequence of the two impressions that it must receive is apt to show some deviation from the normal in the case of the second impression. Exact "registration" is a trick that requires much care.

MR. GILBERT E. BURSLEY, 917 Olivia Avenue, Ann Arbor, Michigan, was impressed by recent articles on the stamps of Norway that appeared in the WEEKLY, and he wants to know where he may obtain the Dethloff-Anderssen work on the stamps of Norway, 1855-1914, in this country. Abroad, the book is advertised for something over five dollars.

A READER asks where he can get the Ionian Islands stamps on the original envelopes. We cannot tell him to go around the corner to the dealer, as we don't believe that he would have the covers in stock. He may pick them up in a London auction at prices ranging from $75 to $150, at a guess.

THE 39th annual banquet of the Garfield-Perry Stamp Club of Cleveland, was set for March 16th, at the Hotel Cleveland; and the ladies were invited to ornament the festal scene.

U. S. Plates and Plate Markings

R. A. BRYANT, Editor,
1 Essex St., Winter Hill, Mass.

Readers are requested to send in notes and data on errors, shifts, defects and all plate markings; also color varieties and new numbers for chronicle. The editor will gladly answer all questions on these subjects.

As predicted, the bi-colored Vincennes has proved very popular with all collectors and several who are not plate number enthusiasts have sent lists of combinations obtained at their local office and at the Agency. Mr. H. M. Southgate kindly sent a complete list of the Vincennes plates and writes, "All plates, I understand, have gone to press and doubtless all combinations of border and center numbers, 144 in all, will be found." The first reader to report this issue remains anonymous at his own request. Sam T. Vary and Arthur W. Line each sent a long list and lists of lesser length were received from A. F. Gegenheimer, L. M. Holmes, J. Gordon B. Grimes, "C. A. F." and Thorneley Gridley. Some of the letters contained but one combination and it is interesting to note that in each instance the number was not reported by anyone else. The list follows:

Border 19720, Centre 19729-30-31-34-35-37; Border 19721, Centre 19728-29-30-31-34-35-37; Border 19722, Centre 19729-30-31-32-35-37; Border 19723, Centre 19729-30-31; Border 19724, Centre 19729-30-31-32; Border 19725, Centre 19728-29-30-31-32-34-37; Border 19726, Centre 19728-29-30-31-32-37; and Border 19727, Centre 19729-30-31-32-33-35.

It will be observed that no specimens are reported with borders 19740 to 19743, nor centers 19736-38-39. All borders listed above have been reported several times with the exception of 19724, which was reported once and 19723 which was reported twice. Center 19733 is missing from all but one group, and was reported but once. It is too early to estimate accurately which will be the scarce combinations, but returns show a tendency to the foregoing. Response has been very generous and it is hoped that readers will soon fill the gaps in each group. New contributors sending lists are requested to include the above also so that the final analysis will positively determine the relative scarcity of all combinations.

5c Air Mail. Our list of known combinations is growing rapidly. Contributors sending lists this week are: A. F. Gegenheimer, Glen E. Shears, L. L. Heinselman, L. D. Miller, Carl H. Mueller, J. Gordon B. Grimes and Roy A. Barton. Several readers have requested that this list be published soon, but owing to its length and the work necessary to keep the list accurate it is planned to present the numbers in sections, each section to contain one or two logical groupings. The first groups are practically complete, there being but few combinations to check. Splendid coöperation is being rendered by readers in compiling the list.

Several auction catalogs containing desirable U. S. items of interest to specialists have been received too late for mention. I regret this as many arrow and guide line blocks, ea numbers, etc., were offered. It is visable to watch the WEEKLY cl notice of coming auctions as it's possible to obtain long-sought-r through this medium.

Letters containing notes and da rious subjects are acknowled thanks from Willis M. Pott, Campbell, Jr., T. J. Gridley John W. Grimm.

The great majority of lett received are concerned with or namely, plate numbers. Ear commemoratives, the current the popular bi-colored stamp represented. Some letters on jects also arrive. There are m subjects that may properly be in our column. Interest in p bers is too greatly preponderant that much space in the last has been devoted to this one the exclusion of others. STAMP SALES BY SUBSCRIPTION

By HERMANN FOCKE.

Two kindred stampic events will be pulled off the reel during the month of March, which deserve the spilling of a little printer's ink over the general news column, one being the sale in Amsterdam of the remainders of the famous floating safe postage stamps, and the other the sale in New York of a large batch of first-flight covers on the famous return trip from Panama to this country.

In both cases the stamps will be sold by subscription at their face value, which in itself is a deviation from former customs, where remainders were sold to the highest bidder, and again in both cases the sale is effected, not by postal authorities, but by a very large commercial concern which ordinarily would probably have nothing to do with stamps.

There have been many sales, by subscription, of remainders, nearly all of the last issues of the old German States, Thurn & Taxis, etc., then the stamps of Heligoland in 1890, all of the Seebeck issues, a certain issue of Rhodesia, the King Edward stamps of St. Vincent, particularly the £1 value, and perhaps the most famous event, the sale of the remainders of the 5 franc brown of Belgium, with the head of King Leopold, this being the only case where the stamps brought far above their face value, if well I remember, around 12 francs each, whereas in most of the other cases cited the stamps were sold far below face. These latest two sales would probably cause little comment, if it were not for the peculiar circumstances which have brought them to pass.

The sale in Amsterdam is actually one of re-remainders, because another concern has tried to foist these "floating safes" on the collectors for several years, but in the first place the price was put up so high, that it surpassed the "purse-capacity" of a good many collectors, besides the stamps cannot be called pleasant objects of art to behold, and last, but not least, the entire issue was more or less superfluous. In these days of the copying press, carbon paper and Insurance Companies, all are created to replace anything lost in the mails on land and the high seas, but the issue of these stamps had cost money which it was necessary to recover, and who else would lend a hand to this, if not the much abused stamp collector. Now that many victims have paid dearly for these futuristic pictures, they are offered in large quantities at face value, a matter of no little concern to those who had faith in their scarcity and future possibilities. I am inclined to have my little doubts even in the success of the present efforts of the Nederlandsche Handel-Maatschappij to dispose of the entire lot, because the face value of each set is not a mean consideration.

Well, I don't want to be mean, but wish them to dispose of their entire holdings, as long as I do not have to contribute.

The sale here in New York of the first flight covers from Panama to the States at 28c each is really unique, because nobody would think twice of paying this mite for such an historic object, and still we again see the purpose of having the stamp collector pay for a large enterprise, and again the early bird that was lucky enough to catch one of these worms paying perhaps a fancy price for them, will have reason for regrets. The dealers who thought they could make us collectors "stick 'em up" and get all of our loose cash to pay for the "rarities," will also be disappointed.

I presume the number is large enough to go a long ways, and the manner of distribution, by not allotting more than five to any, and at least one cover to every bidder, ought to serve to scatter these interesting philatelic objects amongst the largest possible number of collectors.

Thus we have here an entirely different case. The Republic of Panama and the owners of the plane will be reimbursed for their expense, and nobody will be hurt in his pocketbook by giving his little share to the enterprise. It is another proof that stamp collecting has entered an entirely new field, and it is no longer only the stocks and bonds, and the R. R. and S. S. tickets which are considered today of some value.

By GEORGE ELIOT HOEFT.

In April, 1925, there was issued a set of three stamps celebrating the 150th Anniversary of the battles of Lexington and Concord, commemorating the beginning of the war on April 19, 1775, which separated the American colonies from Great Britain, and gave birth to the United States of America. The 1c shows General Washington taking command of the American Revolutionary Army at Cambridge, Mass. The 2c shows the British soldiers firing upon a group of American farmer soldiers, who had hastily gathered to stop their advance to Concord. On the 5c is a picture of the statue of "The Minute Man," and at the sides, the opening stanza of Lowell's poem:

"By the rude bridge that arched the flood
Their flag to April's breeze unfurled,
Here once the embattled farmers stood
And fired the shot heard 'round the world."

This is the first issue of U. S. stamps to use literature for one of the major themes of the design. It is interesting to note that the 5c stamp bears thirty-seven words and four numbers; something which probably has not an equal on any postage stamp of any country. The shape of these stamps is different than any previously issued, being 1½ inches wide and ⅞ inch high.

Kleng Peerson, a hardy Norwegian, visited our country in 1821, and upon his return, his description of America so fired with enthusiasm the hearts of fifty-two followers eager for adventure that on July 4, 1825, organized by Lars Larsen, they set sail in the small ship, "Restaurationen," commanded by Capt. Lars Olsen. They landed in New York on October 10th, and soon after settled in Orleans County, N. Y. To commemorate the coming of these first Norsemen, whose descendants and whose followers have been a valuable addition to our body politic, two stamps were issued on May 18, 1925. The 2c portrays the "Restaurationen," flanked by the dates, "1825-1925," a viking shield and mythological sea horse. The 5c bears a picture of an old Viking warship flanked by the dates, and a conventionalized Norwegian flag and American flag. These stamps are noteworthy in that they are printed in two colors, which had not been done for twenty-four years.

In the history of every civilized country, the milestones of evolution are the years which mark the beginning of each critical epoch. Such a one, for the U. S. A. is the year 1776, when on July 4th, the Declaration of Independence was officially published. Therefore it is fitting that the 150th anniversary of that event was celebrated in various ways, among them being the issue on May 10th, of a special adhesive postage stamp and a stamped envelope of 2c denomination. The central feature of the design is a picture of the "Liberty Bell," which hung in old Independence Hall in Philadelphia. A supply of these stamps was prepared for use in the Canal Zone by the regular surcharge used on all Canal Zone stamps. No commemorative stamp had been used in this way before.

Sweden has contributed many notable sons and daughters to world progress, among the greatest of whom is John Ericsson, born 1803, died 1889. Ericsson was an eminent engineer and inventor, and although he has many achievements to his credit, he is best known here because of his invention of the iron-clad "Monitor" in 1862. Her victorious battle wrote the doom of wooden navies everywhere in the world. Also it was largely through his labors that the screw propeller replaced the paddlewheel. In honor of Ericsson a 5c purple stamp was issued May 29, 1926, bearing a picture of the monument unveiled in Washington on that date. The statue is the work of J. E. Fraser, and shows Ericsson seated before the Norse tree of life, "Ygdrasil," around which are grouped figures symbolising Vision, Labor, and Adventure. A conventionalized American Flag and Swedish Flag occupy the upper corners.

One of the important battles of the War of Independence was fought on October 28, 1776, among the wooded hills just north of New York City, in the vicinity of the present city of White Plains. General Washington had suffered several defeats from the British under Howe, and had been forced to retreat from New York, but his victory at White Plains had a great psychological value, although the engagement is not considered a major battle. To commemorate the event a special 2c stamp was issued on October 18, 1926. The central picture is a gun crew of Hamilton's Battery in action, and underneath is shown an early design of the national flag and a regimental flag with the device of a crossed sword and staff with a liberty cap under the words, "Liberty or Death." In addition to the usual issue of 100 stamps issued at Post Offices, a special plate of 25 impressions was made to print these stamps at the philatelic stamp exhibition held at the time in New York.

Probably the oldest persistent aspiration is man's desire to fly. However, it was not until the Wright brothers invented the aeroplane in 1903 that the age-old dream was realized. In 1919, Raymond Orteig offered a prize of $25,000 to the person making the first continuous flight from New York to Paris. This was accomplished on May 21, 1927, by Charles A. Lindbergh. In commemoration of that superb achievement a special mail stamp of new design was issued on June 18th. It shows Lindbergh's plane, "Spirit of St. Louis," and the route followed; at the top the words "United States Postage—Lindbergh Air Mail." This is the first time in the history of the country that a man has received postage stamp honor during his life.

The struggle for American independence had gotten well under way by the summer of 1777. In this year the decisive battles of the war were fought. The British, under Burgoyne, were to advance from Canada, meeting another force coming up from New York City, thus isolating New England. Gen. Herkimer raised an army of 800 men to assist Willet to defend Ft. Stanwyx (at Rome, N. Y.) from the attack of St. Leger, early August 3rd, and started toward the fort, but at Oriskany, on August 6th, he met a detachment of British and de-

DON'T OVERLOOK THE PRECANCEL

A. F. GAMBER, Editor, Valley City, No. Dak.

Although the precancel hobby has grown mightily in the past few years, I believe many philatelists are still overlooking a good thing when they pass it by. I do not include in this statement those who have been collectors for many years and formed collections or accumulations of considerable value, and who find their collecting interests and time fully occupied and satisfied. I do include those who are just making a start on collecting, a bit undecided as to what field to cover, and those who are looking about for some new phase of the game to engage their interests and time more fully; also those whose collecting interests may perhaps have become satiated or jaded through long familiarity. It is these people who should find an answer to their problems in precancels.

One of the, to me, heaviest indictments against general postage collecting is the deadly sameness of all collections of a given size. Lay side by side two or twenty general postage collections of a stated size, and you'll find them about as nearly alike as so many black cats. Compare any given number of British or French or Portuguese Colonials of a given size, and again the similarity is at once noticeable.

The above indictment most emphatically does not hold against precancels. Has anyone ever seen any two or two hundred general or specialized precancel collections of a given size that showed any great degree of sameness? If so, he has seen the world's greatest wonder, for no one else ever has. A Cleveland collector summed this up last summer when he said that anyone who has as many as a dozen precancels, has among them something that no one else has. A bit exaggerated, but basically absolutely true.

I like to feel that I have a very good collection of Ohio, my native state. The collector referred to above had made but a very meager start on that state, yet in that meager beginning of a collection I noted at least a dozen items which would make highly important additions to my collection. I saw one stamp in it not at that time in two of the largest collections in the country! As I stated in these columns a few weeks ago, I lay claim to having the largest 14c collection in existence—nearly 1,100 varieties. Yet I know of one very desirable 14c item, reposing in a dinky general collection of perhaps 2,000 varieties, which does not contain more than half a dozen 14c at most, which I have long sought in vain, and probably will always lack. I have built up a nice specialized collection of Rochester, New York, in the past 2½ years, paying especial attention to its coils, of which it has more city types than any other city. I lack but two varieties to complete those coils, one of which is in a specialized New York collection of only fair size, and the other in a small general collection in Ohio. I could go on and give instance after instance where stamps, lacking in my own, or other large collections, exist (to my knowledge) only in very, very much smaller collections or accumulations, but I don't want to give readers the idea that my collection is the only one in the country. It seems to me that I have said enough to prove conclusively that here is an element of great importance, not found in general postage collecting.

What constitutes the charm of collecting anything? Isn't it the elusiveness of the thing sought, the titillating possibility that one may come upon it at the most unexpected time in some wholly unanticipated place? The collector of flasks, china, Beadle's Dime Novels, cancellations and precancels, will all bear witness that this is true.

PANAMA AIRMAIL

By Special Correspondent

50,000 issued. New 10c expresso (as yet not issued) surcharged with "Correo aero", etc. Out of the 500 sheets, two were found with the surcharge inverted and of these 200 stamps, 180 were used on first flight covers, leaving the mint block of 20 in Mr. Ohlson's possession the only unused block of these in existence.

Approximately 32,000 of the 50,000 were sold in the short time the stamps were on sale. Sale started at 11 A. M., Feb. 8, and ceased at time of closing of airmail the day following at 10.30 A. M. The remainders will be (or possibly already have been) destroyed by burning.

Of the 32,000 sold, about 12,000 were used on first flight covers. In this connection, since over 50,000 CZ covers were sent on the first flight north, the Panama covers should rate four or five times the value of the CZ covers, if not more, since there were not very many "professionals" aboard with RP covers. The Pan-American Airways itself had 4,000 of the Panama first covers posted.

Capt. Merrit, the pilot of the second plane, receipted for the Panama mail, and it is doubtful whether any of the Panama mail was actually carried on Lindbergh's ship, although the Colonel was quoted in the daily press as personally stating to Señor Goytia (Director General of Posts for the Republic of Panama) and to Sr. Carlos Ortiz R. (Secretary of Panama's Post Office Department) that—"It gives me much pleasure to be able to carry mail from Panama" (this a fairly close translation of the Spanish phraseology).

However, inasmuch as the Canal Zone covers were loaded indiscriminately on both planes, so that no one can say positively what Canal Zone mail was actually on Lindbergh's ship, there would seem to be ample foundation for describing the Panama covers as "flown by Lindbergh." Col. Lindbergh signed the waybill for the CZ mail, and Capt. Merrit that for the Panama mail. I have photostat copies of each in my possession.

A. P. S. WORDS OF COMMENDATION

Pres. A. H. Wilhelm

"In the name of the American Philatelic Society I wish to thank you for the kindness shown in issuing the special number of your valued paper.

"I had never expected that there would be so much personal publicity given to the officers, which I feel is very far reaching, as it gives the membership who have never had personal contact with the officials an opportunity to form an idea of what they look like."

"I wish to express my hearty thanks and personal appreciation of the very fine and excellent publicity you gave the Society in your special number. I feel reasonable sure all our officers and members appreciate this wonderful publicity number, and I hope many of them will express it in the written word. In other respects also, I congratulate you on the fine edition. Here's the wish of many long years of continued prosperity and honor in the work MEKEEL'S is is doing for Philately."

"LA PETITE CLUB", DETROIT

By HERMAN W. BOERS.

On Saturday evening, March 9, Karl Koslowski entertained 13 members of the La Petite Club, composed of members of the Michigan Stamp Club, at Barlum Hotel. It was a very enjoyable affair with the dinner exceptionally good. The recital of stamp experiences and doings was the order of the evening. Mr. Koslowski exhibited a number of specialized collections of U. S. stamps. Among the members present were: Messrs. Koslowski, Hoskins, White, Parks, Dworkowski, Myers, Scott, Bott, Jungwirth, Andrews, Hutchinson, Brisley, and Boers.

Just before dinner was served, Mr. Koslowski placed a Latvia stamp with name of each one there, at the plate, telling each member to try and pick out his name. Those guessing it were presented with an extra stamp as a prize. A little souvenir consisted of an envelope containing a map of Lettland, with a pair 1½c coil, Harding precancel. With a late adjournment, the boys voted that Karl Koslowski knew how to entertain.

ZEPPELIN FLIES MARCH 24

Nations Give Consent for Passage to Mediterranean

(Clipping from R. Denzler.)

BERLIN, March 16.—The start of the dirigible Count Zeppelin on her Mediterranean trip is now finally fixed for March 24, nearly all of the countries over which the airship may fly having given the required permission, including France, Italy, Yugoslavia, Rumania, Bulgaria, Greece and Turkey.

With more than $2,000,000 at his disposal as result of the sale of the Staaken flying grounds to the city of Berlin, Dr. Hugo Eckener is already preparing for extensive enlargements of the Zeppelin works at Friedrichshafen. A Berlin firm will tear down all of the old halls with exception of that in which the Count Zeppelin is housed now.

On the ground thus gained will be erected a new hall that is destined to become the cradle of the next airship, to be greater and more efficient than all its predecessors, plans for which are now being drawn up by Dr. Duerr, the chief engineer of the Zeppelin works, and his staff.—N. Y. Times

U. S. ENVS. AND POSTAL CARDS

New German Catalog Called a Masterpiece of Thoroughness

ESSEN, GERMANY, Mar. 10.

The ninth and concluding part of the German "Grosser Ganrsachen-Katalog," is at last, off the press. This part deals very exhaustively with the envelopes and postal cards of the United States of America, and after a cursory examination only, I think it is no exaggeration to state that the work is a masterpiece of thoroughness. U. S. entires are fully described with fine illustrations on no fewer than 67 pages. The book is in German, of course, but notwithstanding this I feel certain that there will be rejoicing over it in the camp of U. S. envelope collectors. I reserve to myself to send you, if I can possibly find the time to do so, a particularising article on the above publication accompanied, perhaps, by a translation of one page of the catalog enabling collectors to get acquainted with its merits.

The German catalog under discussion was last referred to in the WEEKLY, Jan. 10, 1927, by Dr. W. I. Mitchell, the eminent collector of entires. He, no doubt, and H. Clay Reed, your untiring collaborator in the envelope line, will be pleased to hear the good news. The price of part 9 plus postage to America is about $1.10.

A. WAGNER.

NEWS FLASHES

—"As soon as I knew that I was to be editor of the air mail department, I wrote Hon. W. Irving Glover, 2nd Assistant Postmaster General, asking him for his coöperation in promoting the service rendered by this department. His reply indicates his willingness to assist, and is very gratifying."—DONALD E. DICKASON.

—We shall begin next week a new department under the editorship of R. E. Farr, Hot Springs Ark. At his suggestion the new department will be titled "Filatelic Fun Forum."

—Postal Bulletin of March 15, says that the special cachet to be used at Brownsville, Texas, for first flight mail over CAM 22 arrived too late. All collectors receiving covers without cachets may have the proper ones applied by sending them under cover to the Second Assistant Postmaster General Division of Air Mail Service, Washington, D. C.—DONALD E. DICKASON.

—O. Mathiesen, Winterton, N. Y., has been appointed administrator of the estate of Th. Berg. Interested parties can communicate with him.

—Very shortly the United States and South America will be linked by air mail. Contracts are being made for a service in April or May. We shall print next week all the facts available.

—The new route from Cleveland to Bay City is scheduled to start April 1. Leave Bay City, 8 p. m., arrive Cleveland, 11.30 p. m., leave Cleveland 3 a.m., the 2nd, arriving at Bay City at 6.30 a. m. Intermediate stops will be Saginaw, Flint, Pontiac, and Detroit. Can't guarantee special cachets for all of these, but they will be on the routes.—DONALD E. DICKASON.

—Mal Ganser submits an interesting "Cresskill, N. J.," cancel. We are sending it on to "Sevard" for scientific treatment.

—We have received a card announcing the marriage of Spencer Anderson, well-known dealer in New York City, to Miss Johanna Ellen White, which took place Thursday, March 14, at Midland Park, N. J. A host of friends will congratulate the newly-wedded couple. Mr. Anderson is especially well known among the stamp dealers of New York City and vicinity, and will have their hearty congratulations, and best wishes.

HONDURAS COMMEMORATIVES

N. Y. CITY, March 18.

Two values—perhaps of a set—of commemorative stamps of large size but rather crude execution have come from this Central American Republic. It takes a good magnifying glass to make out the names of the celebrities depicted thereon, as the letters are very small and often blurred and defective.

The 1c in deep-red is of a horizontal oblong shape, 40x24mm, and shows the portraits of the President and Vice-President of the Republic in slanting medallions, the former at left with the inscription underneath, of D. (for Don the Spanish Title) Vicente Mejia Colindres, Presidente de la República, and the latter at right with Ing. (Ingeniero or Engineer) Rafael Diaz Chavez—Vice Presidente de la República; at top the word CONMEMORATIVO in a curved ribbon, at bottom, in small letters, the value UN CENTAVO.

In the upper two corners in circles at left 1° de Febrero, at right 1929, and in both lower corners the letters U. P. U.; vertically at left reading up CORREOS, and at right, reading down, HONDURAS. The lettering of the names is so small, that nearly every E appears as an I, and the I of Vicente merges with the following C, the name reading VCINTI; the O and N in Conmemorativo are also merged and the second M looks more like a K.

The 2c value is in emerald green, and of vertical oblong shape, 23x40mm with portrait of the President alone, but with the title of D. Vicinti Mejia Colindres, Presidente Constitucional, the other inscriptions being the same as on the 1c stamp, with the exception of the value, which reads DOS CENTAVOS in very small letters at bottom.

As the letter bringing the two stamps (two of each to pay for the usual rate of 6c), has no date whatsoever, the postal clerk having forgotten to insert it into the circular town cancellation of the City of Tela, it is not possible to say when these stamps were issued, but the letter having arrived here on the 7th inst., it should have left Honduras around Feb. 25.

NATIONAL EXHIBITION NEWS

A new system of judging may be used at the National Postage Stamp Exhibit to be held in Minneapolis, Minn., during the week of August 12th. The local Board of Directors is considering, favorably, a suggestion that the different judges be assigned certain groups or classes of exhibits as their major duty in judging. The judge of a certain group or class will be designated in the catalog of the exhibit and will be solely responsible for making the awards in his group or class. This system is used by the annual dog shows and has been found to work out more satisfactorily than the "general committee of twelve," which has been used in the past at stamp exhibits.

The local committee is also working on a first layout of the prospectus for exhibits. The final steps in creating the Exhibition Corporation have been taken, and it will not be long before full details will be in our hands regarding exhibits, booths, etc.

The New Nicollet Hotel, Minneapolis, has already received a number of reservations for the week of August 12th; it is suggested that reservations be made promptly.

1929 BRITISH CONGRESS

The 16th Philatelic Congress of Great Britain, will be held under the auspices of the Birmingham Philatelic Society, Monday, June 3, to Friday, June 7. The program follows:—

June 4. A. M. Business, P. M. Excursion; June 5. A. M. Business, P. M. Excursion, Garden Party; June 6. A. M. Business, P. M. Excursion; and June 7. A. M. Business, P. M. Excursion, Banquet.

The Congress Cup will be presented this year by a philatelist who desires to remain anonymous. Visitors will be warmly welcomed to Congress meetings. Delegates and others who propose to attend will communicate at once with the Hon. Sec. of the Local Committee, H. Grindall, 20 Mayfield Rd., Birmingham.

METROPOLITAN'S ANNUAL

BOSTON, March 18.

The annual meeting of the Metropolitan Philatelic Society was held at the Quincy House, Boston, Thursday, March 14th. There were about forty present, including visitors from Boston, Lynn, and Suburban Clubs. The following were elected officers for the ensuing year: Pres., C. C. Durning; Vice-Pres., P. A. Lasky; Sec., Mrs. J. F. Hoffland; and Treas., Harry Davis. The entertain-

EDITORIAL

INDICATIONS are not lacking to show that those who have in charge the proposed exhibition at the time of the American Philatelic Society convention at Minneapolis, next August, are taking time by its well-known forelock. This fact argues favorably for the success of the undertaking, which has the support of the Twin Cities, philatelically, and it is heartening to find that the preliminary discussions have developed some result according to announcements that are appearing in the newspapers of Minneapolis and St. Paul. It has been asked what policies should be pursued and methods adopted to make this National Exhibit relatively easy of accomplishment, and the Board of Directors deemed the question of major importance at its first meeting in an official sense. This manner of approach is a proper one and strengthens our belief in the wisdom of the committee, since we understand that not only will the exhibition of the week of August 12, 1929, be considered, but that an effort will be made to provide a basis for procedure for other cities that subsequently will promote stamp exhibitions. The recent Cleveland exhibition furnishes a background that will be enlarged by the Minneapolis display with the consequence that other of the large cities will be inspired to claim the years of 1930, 1931, 1932, until Chicago in 1933, can make its mark with its exhibition, in conjunction with the great fair. We believe that the Minneapolis men will make history with their exhibit and that all collectors will follow their work with attention.

SCOTT STAMP AND COIN CO.

THE following explanation of the policy of the publishers of the Specialized Catalogue of U. S. Stamps in dealing with shades and flaws, such as exist in many of the off-set prints will interest some of our readers, who have asked why certain color or other variations are not given place: "It is hardly possible for us to list all shades even in the Specialized Catalogue. Then again, it must be understood that the shade designations are to some extent approximations of color rather than definite color varieties. This remark is especially true of stamps printed in very large quantities. There are many known plate flaws on the off-set printed stamps. We have recognized only the most pronounced of these."

MR. L. S. SLEVIN, Carmel, California, tells of a remarkable coincidence: "Last September, I received an auction catalogue in which the first item was as follows: 'U. S., Nos. 64, 65, 65a, and 63, on original cover, cancelled Carmel, Cal., Dec. 1, 1904, Cat. Value, $15.81. This envelope was mailed by me at that time, over 24 years ago'." All that we can say is that if Mr. Slevin used the 3c pink, 1861, catalogued $15, in the former edition, he is an ideal correspondent. He adds: "It may be of interest to mention that my mother was trying to accumulate a million stamps back in the sixties for some charitable purpose, I think. She reached about 80,000, and these were given to me about 1900. There were many uncancelled stamps in the lot and the cover in question was arranged with some of them. After picking out the 'rarities' the remainder of the stamps was sold to a San Francisco dealer for $30. I found one grilled all over in the lot."

ON the reverse of a postal card sent from Dominica, W. I., March 3, 1884, we find the following remarks: "This is one of the old provincial post cards which are very rare indeed, as only one hundred were printed; they were done in the island. I had it registered to insure its safety. West Indian stamps are very scarce here as everyone is dabbling in them." This is the buff card of 1883, type-set with adhesive. In this instance, three of the one-penny lilac and one of the half-penny bistre paid the postage to London.

MR. BRUCE CARTWRIGHT, Honolulu, Hawaii, writes: "I enclose a copy of letter dated February 27, 1929, addressed to a delegate from Hawaii by the Postmaster General of the U. S. It gives the U. S. stamps, overprinted 'Hawaii-1778-1928' their official status as a regular U. S. issue. They are not an Hawaiian issue as the Territory of Hawaii cannot issue stamps, being an integral part of the United States, any more than can any of the states or territories." The letter was sent by Harry S. New, postmaster-general of the United States to Hon. V. S. K. Houston of the House of Representatives, under date of February 15, 1929: "I see no reason for there being any controversy in philatelic circles in regard to the classification of this issue of surcharged stamps. The fact remains that these stamps represent a United States issue placed on sale for postage purposes in Hawaiian post offices only. Had it been otherwise intended, they would not have been made valid for postage purposes in other parts of the United States. The Department could have taken no more effective action than this to make this series of stamps an official issue of the United States. I am not, therefore, in favor of placing some of these stamps on sale in the Washington post office, as suggested by the Postmaster, Honolulu, as no further action, in my opinion, is needed to identify the surcharged issue. To make such authorization at this late date, when the supply of surcharged stamps is practically exhausted, would not serve to co any disagreement that now exists ar philatelists with reference to the pr listing of the stamps. In this connec it may be stated that, aside from a ing the printing of a large suppl these stamps that would be required general distribution, the only purpo restricting the sale of the surcha stamps to Hawaiian post offices wa a matter of favor to local post o where the celebrations were held where the chief interest in the ann sary centered. From the standpoin the nature of the new issue itself, stamps could have been placed on at all United States post offices, so I to see where there is any reason controversy in regard to the classific of the stamps, or any occasion for ther departmental action." The post ter-general's rejoinder is such as to nitely assign the Hawaiian surcharg their proper berth, officially. He is der no misgivings as to the charact the two stamps and his terms in pa judgment are not to be mistaken in meaning. The sole reason for the ing of the sale of the stamps to th lands was based on favor; it was a priate that Hawaii should be given center of the stage as even the ce plant has its innings once a hun years, according to the man on the s

MR. SYDNEY S. JALKUT, York City, has a view-point does not accord with that express the issue of March 4th, in consid certain regulations of the British masters, and he writes: "As a coll I have had some experience in obta stamps from colonial postmaster over the world. In view of the courtesy and service which these masters render in sending fine copies even exchanging fine copies for ones, I feel that the small charge ref to is not unjust. I can very well im that although revenue is derived fro sale of stamps, the contacts with d and collectors who require only fine mens is considerable of a nuisance.

Air Mail News

BY DONALD E. DICKASON,
Wooster, Ohio

(Our subscribers are urged to send air mail news direct to Mr. Dickason and especially advance news concerning first flights, with names of cities served. The scope of this department will not allow the treatment of flights from other than the purely philatelic standpoint.)

It was bound to come! Just about the first official mail I received on the new job contained two letters from prominent collectors, both of whose opinions I value highly. One of them wanted more emphasis on airports; the other wanted them separated from the Air Mail Department entirely. Brethren, and sisters, you'll just have to make the best of it. This paper goes to somewhat over 10,000 collectors. Some of them like one thing, and some another. This department as now organized is the only medium for information on flights, near flights, and anything aerial that has even a remote connection with airmail. I'm going to give all the readable news I get over the entire field that I think will have a general interest to any considerable group of readers. I'll attempt to say official or unofficial in the proper spots, and what doesn't interest you, just pass over.

Charlottesville, Va., was put on the first day sale list for the George Rogers Clark stamp at the last minute, but someone surely slipped. The post office there received only 15,000 stamps, and they went out first come, first served. Many collectors who had their covers in before the announced date got them back with a note saying that they'd arrived too late.

*****

Several more likely airport dedications in the near future:—Anniston, Ala.; Winters, Tex.; Selma, Ala.; Enid, Okla.; Battle Creek, Mich.; Beverly, Mass.; Great Falls, Mont.; and Bellows Falls, Vt. Chambers of Commerce will supply cachets in most cases. * * * Heard of these too late even for the "Stop Press." Chandler, Ariz., dedication was slated for March 9, and Holmes Airport, Jackson Heights, Queens County, Long Island, for the 16th. George F. Wild, of New York Aviation Show fame, was to be in charge of the mailing end of the latter.

Ow! Here's one I surely missed! March 1st, a slightly revised schedule went into effect over CAM 27. I saw the notice in the postal bulletin, but couldn't see anything to get excited about. Now my attention is called to the fact that the revised schedule dropped La Porte, Ind., and added Dearborn to the schedule. Dearborn and Detroit use the same field, and the two cities are bracketed on the schedule; there was no cachet, therefore. Wonder how many got in on this?

*****

Grabbing this from Mr. L. B. Gatchell's department in the Air Mail Collector. Despite statements to the contrary, there was no airmail dispatched from the U. S. to Port au Prince, Haiti, on the opening of FAM 6, Jan. 9 or 10. First direct dispatch was from San Juan and Miami on Jan. 21st, as announced in the Postal Bulletin a few days earlier. Mail addressed for Port au Prince on the 9th was duly accepted and carried, but to Santo Domingo, and over land by automobile to Port au Prince, the usual method. Looks like both dates would be good. The very short notice for the flights of the 21st did not allow many to get in covers, and all sent in early were sent on the 9th, as mentioned, so there couldn't have been much of an accumulation. Even Cap Street missed out, and that's going some!

Transfer of the business of the Salt Lake City Air Mail Field to the Railway Mail Service personnel on Feb. 1st, brought forth an unofficial cachet in commemoration of the event. * * * If you've never seen a copy of the Domestic Air News, a copy will be an eye-opener. It's published by the Aeronautics Branch, Dept. of Commerce, twice monthly, and is free on request. * * * Menafee Airport, Charlotte, La., will be dedicated about May 15th, cachet being applied by Menafee Airways, Inc., of that city.

Mr. P. Lopez takes exception to the statement in our issue of Feb. 25th, that no mail was carried on the first trip between Baja, California (Mexicali) and Mexico City. He has six covers, Mazatlan to Mexico City, properly front- and back-stamped. On the covers is typed "Primer Vuelo-Mazatlan-Mexico City," followed by the postmaster's autograph. Mr. Lopez thinks some commercial mail was carried, also.

Thanks are due to a fine list of co-operators who have kept right on the job: Robert M. Hayes, Frederick D. Markee, N. T. Fernald, Joseph Mays, George F.

A Junior Club

By ARTHUR M. BURDGE,
Pt. Pleasant, N. J.

I am only a moderate collector and am not very well versed in stamp knowledge, but have succeeded in organizing a stamp club of boys, yes, and girls, too, which tho only two weeks old numbers 25. It is called "The Local Stamp Exchange Club," and its members are of families of average means, so of course, we cannot indulge very heavy. To overcome the boys' contempt for a "dumb" girl and vice versa, I have created boys and girls divisions, both of for a "dumb" girl and vice versa, I have created boys and girls divisions, both of which are under their own president and of one general secretary, whose duty is to hunt out bargains and pass them on, and to impart such information as he can, and he has plenty of work, you can bet.

At the Philatelic Minstrels

"It 'pears to me, Mr. Interlocutor, dat I'se a reading a powerful lot about cat. prices and cat. numbers. Wat does 'cat.' mean?"

"I'm glad you catechized me, Sambo. I always like to help inquiring minds. Now, if the catalog price on your favourite stamp is catapulting like a leaping catamount, categorically speaking, or, perhaps, is catabolized by a cataclysm, so that the catalog drops like a cataract, that is no reason for you to caterwaul or to have a cataleptic fit. Do you get me?"

"Ah suttinly do, boss. Pass the catsup."—The Lincoln Philatelist.

Helps For Our Readers

By A. C. LEDUC.

Paul Henshaw says he is having trouble over the meaning of terms applied to blocks of stamps. I trust that the answers as given below will help him out and others too:—

(1.) A centerline block consists of the four stamps converging at the center of a full sheet of 400 stamps. Each sheet of 400 stamps is made up of quarters called panes. There are lines between the panes and naturally they cross at the center.

(2.) An arrow block would be a block of six or eight or nine at the top or bottom, or right or left side of a sheet at the place where the guide lines start. These are made arrow shaped to help in getting the sheet of stamps properly placed to go thru the perforating machines.

(3.) Each sheet of stamps bears one or more numbers on the margin. A block of stamps (usually 6 or 9) is taken out of the sheet in such a way that the plate number comes over the center stamp of the top row of the block and is therefore called a plate block.

(4.) In blocks of stamps we sometimes find that some have more space between the edges of the stamps than others. These can be measured by a millimeter scale and usually run 2mm or 3mm. See Scott's specialized catalogue to find whether they are listed or not.

(5.) A. E. F. means American Expeditionary Force. Booklets of stamps were put up for use of the United States soldiers in France.

Misplaced Centres

Readers frequently send me stamps printed in two colors and point out that the portion printed in one color either overlaps, or is otherwise out of relation to the portion printed in the second color. They sometimes ask whether this proves the existence of a different die.

To answer this query, we must consider what happens in printing bi-colored stamps. Such stamps are printed from two separate plates at two operations, the first plate printing that portion of the design which is to appear in one color, while the remainder of the design is printed from the second plate.

The first operation is just straightforward printing from, let us say, the black plate. The printer is then in possession of sheets of paper on which the black portion of as many stamps are as included in the sheet appears. The next part of his task is rather more intricate, for on these sheets he has to print another section of the design, in another color, which has to exactly fit into, or round the black portion, as the case may be.

This requires very careful adjustment, or "registration," to ensure that the sheets pass through the press the second time in the correct position, so that the two colors fall in their proper places. If a slight error in adjustment is made, the two colors will be slightly out of place in relation to one another. If the mistake is serious the colors will overlap. If the sheet is put on upside down at the second printing, stamps with inverted frame or inverted centre will result.

It may be added that some stamps in a single color are printed at two operations, so similar variations are not necessarily confined to bi-colored stamps.

Minor misplacements are frequent, and are of no philatelic importance. Serious misplacements have a certain value as curiosities, though they do not find a place in the catalogue. "Inverted centres" are of course major errors.—Gibbons Stamp Monthly.

The Stamp Advertiser

By R. E. FARR.

The wife she reads Shakespeare and Taine;
The children read Harte and Mark Twain;
But they give the old man quite a pain,
For I read—to tell it put plain—
The Stamp Advertiser.

The line he puts out breaks me flat;
How oft would I mortgage my hat,
My socks, and my pants, and all that,
For those bargains at fifty off cat.
Of the Stamp Advertiser!

I've cut out my pipe and my pie;
I steal from my wife on the sly;
(When I do, though, I move out in high!)
And, brother, I'll tell you just why,— It's that Stamp Advertiser.

For I've found that one can depend
On the hot little ads that he's penned.
What he tells you he'll send, he will send.
So I wish him success,—he's my friend,
The Stamp Advertiser.

Picturesque Liberia

By MORTIMER LERNER.

A country that has always held a strong appeal for the junior collector is Liberia, the little African independency which has the distinction of being the only negro republic in the world. Its stamps, colorful and attractive, show beautiful native scenery; portraits of its former presidents, and ships tossing on the waves. The animal kingdom is by no means neglected, for there are to be found on its stamps, elephants, monkeys, deer, tigers, birds, and reptiles. The last mentioned present a very attractive appearance in the 1921 registration set of 5 beautiful snake triangle stamps. Without question the stamps of this country can be called the most picturesque of all African countries, an artistically arranged page or two of Liberia stamps will do much towards enlivening any album, and will teach one much about the history, geography, and wild life of Liberia.

Remittances—Return Address

The following is taken from a letter just at hand from A. Harold Kirkpatrick, and we think it wise to pass it on to our readers. Our Juniors especially should take great care to wrap carefully coin used in making remittances. We quote from Mr. Kirkpatrick's letter:—

"Recently I have had three or four cases, where orders arrived with torn envelopes and the remittances, which had presumably been in coin—put in loose—missing. I suppose other dealers have had similar experiences, and as I judged the orders were from younger collectors, I wondered whether you would consider it a good idea, to insert a small note, warning against sending coin through the ordinary mail, unless well wrapped, and suggesting that almost all dealers would accept two cent stamps on small orders.

It might also be a good thing to stress the importance of putting the return address on the envelope. Many collectors fail to do this and every little while, one makes a mistake in the dealer's address and the letter goes to the Dead Letter Office."

Speaking of correspondents, I can read a bit of Spanish, and would like to hear from some of you folks along the routes of these new Central and South American developments. * * * Double daily service on the New York-Cleveland-Chicago service are scheduled to begin soon, probably sometime in April. At the same time, similar service will be inaugurated on the connecting Cleveland-Pittsburgh line. * * * I've seen two cachets used on March 4th, from Boundbrook, N. J., and Washington, D. C., and I understand there were others. Both absolutely private, of course.

The Martins Ferry paper gives a story to the first letter received at Yorkville, Ohio, for the first trip of the expected service on the Pittsburgh-Cincinnati route. Don't rush yours in yet—bids aren't even let. This cover came from Vineland, N. J. Who's the early bird? See our issue of Feb. 25th, for more dope on this route.

A SIX MONTHS RECORD

Just to show you the wide field covered by Gibbons' Stamp Monthly, the six numbers from October to March have included articles on issues of the following countries: Costa Rica, Gold Coast, Portugal and Cols., Windward Is., Venezuela, India, Abyssinia, Colombia, Straits Settlements, Cyprus, Russia, Hong Kong, Falkland Is., Gambia and Peru.

In addition there were numerous general articles, also market hints, juniors' page, stamp news from all parts, full new issue chronicle, and many pages of bargain offers.

"FERRARI SALE—ZURICH"

In our issue of Feb. 11, under the above heading, we stated that in the Luder-Edelmann sale of April 15-24, certain portions of the Ferrari collection would be sold. We were right in quoting Greece, but wrong in quoting France, Switzerland, and Spain, as portions of the sale. We were misled by a circular into believing that the three last mentioned countries were included. The firm of Frank Godden, Ltd., London, was the purchaser of these countries, and the firm informs us that they have not been put into any auction, and have no intention of doing so. Quite recently in one of Mr. Godden's advertisements, he stated that the countries mentioned had passed into the hands of his firm, and we regret the misstatement made by accident.

THE HIGHEST AWARD

We have been appointed by Frank Godden, Ltd., as sole agents in the United States for their LOOSE LEAF BLANK ALBUMS, which won the highest award at the last seven international exhibitions.

The leaves are made of Whatman stout, white, handmade paper of the finest possible quality, doubly hinged with linen joints, to allow the pages to fall perfectly flat when in use. Ruled and centered with quadrille lines in faint French grey. They have gilt edges and are interleaved with glassine.

The fitting is with neat bolt and slide attachment (no springs to get out of order), easily manipulated and quite secure.

The Popular Edition is half-bound in dark green morocco—Price $13.00.

The DeLuxe Edition is bound in whole padded morocco. Rounded corners, panel back, gold lined and gold tooled inside cover—Price $20.

Dust-proof case, lined with swansdown, supplied free with each album.

DOUBLES AND INVERTS

By E. J. NEWCOMER.

oubles and inverts from small towns n to worry some folks. My advice is,
t. But often I get a lot of precan-with fancy prices attached to these eties, and would you believe it, not ng ago I got a letter from a collector ng me to please intercede with the
M. of his town to prevent so many les and different positions, because looked as if they might have been e to order. Far be it from me to dy the palsied hand or sharpen the ed eye of a P. O. clerk who will be less with the rubber stamp and make les and whatnot. It is his affair, mine. As Gamber says: "let Nature its course," and if Nature has ened that certain clerk with such care-ess or indifference, let us perpetuate memory in our albums with the reof his unfettered and uninfluenced ts. Personally, I don't consider varieties worth a bit more than the nal variety. I'd much rather have a clean normal in my album than one hese blurred affairs that some folks doubles and attach fancy prices to. ll take a double or invert if no other ailable, just as I will take a straight
, but I don't crave 'em. True, such gs are scarcer than the normals, usujust as straight edges are about four s as scarce as the other kind. But to sell your straight edges for four s and see how far you get!

ow don't get me wrong. So far, I've talking about handstamps. From on, I'm talking about the printed ty.

oubles and inverts on stamps precan-d on a printing press are something again, to my notion. Usually a ter takes a certain amount of pride
s work (I was a printer's devil once,
'm not speaking from entirely with-he pale), and printed doubles and ins rarely occur without some definite on.

ake the doubles first. Barring the cases like the Denver Harding and Knoxville Victory, where some bud-precancelist threw a monkey wrench the machinery, doubles are usually to an accident. I don't imagine sheets tamps are the easiest things in the d to run through a printing press, a printer has got to work about so to keep up with his press. Occaally a sheet gets printed twice, be-he can pull it out or stop the press.
Or maybe only nine rows get printed and he runs it through again to get the 10th row.

Inverts may occur for several reasons. Some electros only print 50 stamps at a time, and rather than cut all the sheets in two, the printer may run them through one way and then turn them around and run them through the other. Or maybe he doesn't bother to trim the sheet margins, but runs all sheets through with the straight edges the same way, in order to make them register. Either procedure will result in about half the stamps coming inverted, as is apparently the case with such places as Wilmington, Del., Salem, Ohio, and, recently, Portland, Oregon. Other printers are extremely careful, and one almost never runs across an invert from their towns, while still others are just plain careless, and make them fairly often. But for the most part, as I have already said, there is a reason for printed varieties and therefore I consider them collectible; especially for the specialist.—Precancel Bee.

THE POSTAL SERVICE OF THE CONFEDERATE STATES OF AMERICA

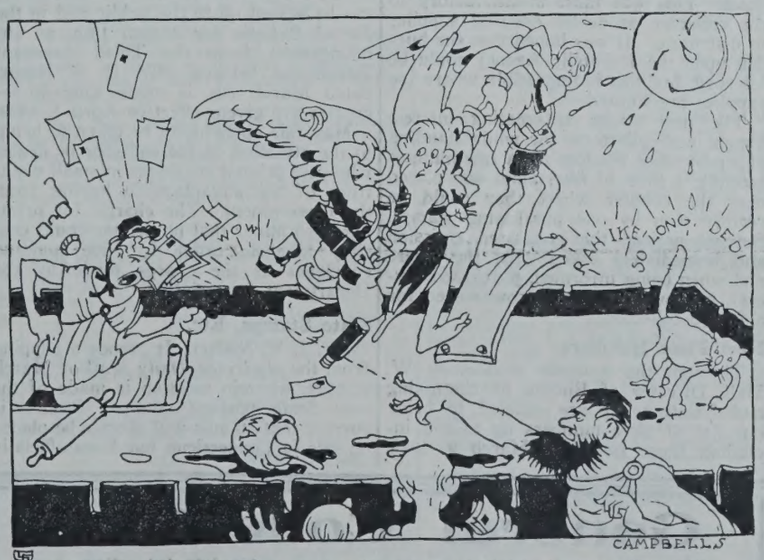
II

The arrangement of the text in the Dietz Confederate book is planned carefully; and the gradual postal disunion between the north and the south is described, and a compilation of the Confederate postal legislation by William C. Stone is a valuable historical background. The way is paved for the introduction of the stamps and the provisionals are given their meed of attention. A list of the reprints requires less than a page, but the roll of the counterfeits is not so brief, it is needless to say; and in this connection, the names of S. Allen Taylor and Dr. James A. Petrie are mentioned as originators of imitations and spurious stamps.

An authoritative description of lithography precedes the appearance of the stamp, and it is in the technical explanation of stamp manufacture that the author rises to a height, and because of his intimate and practical knowledge of the printing, he is able to impart to his readers a sense of clarity that is appreciated by the layman. In scanning an encyclopedic work of this kind, one may only skim over its ample surface, as real consideration of any of the chapters would require extended inquiry; and it would be practically impossible under the circumstances to do justice to the book as a whole. For many years, Mr. Dietz has devoted himself to the study of the Confederates, and he has published in his own journal many fragments and articles, and these and other findings of investigators provide a foundation for the work. However, much that is published for the first time is included, and we do not hesitate to say that what in a sense has been a neglected field has now been cultivated intensively, and a bumper crop is the yield. There is an air of finality about the book that leads to the belief that "finis" may be written in it, advisedly. Discoveries may be made in years to come, but to all intents and purposes, the volume is complete in itself.

The provisional and near provisional envelopes, always something of a problem, are given judicious treatment. The "official" envelopes, including the impressed U. S. envelopes are listed, and pages of reproductions of the postmarks of the different states occupy almost twenty pages. Colored cancellations are recorded and marking of various other kinds, such as railroad and special cancellations have place.

Flag-of-Truce, Prisoners' Letters and Patriotic imprints are attended to; and the names of the fifteen prisons in the north and of the dozen in the south are printed.



REMINISCENCES OF AN OLD-TIME COLLECTOR

Enthusiasm for The First Flight, by The Daedalus and Icarius Airways, Inc., waxed warm. Little mail was carried, however. Owing to the take-off occurring ahead of schedule, The Old-Time Collector, much to his annoyance, found himself a split second too late for the cancel that CAN CEL!

The regular issues are exhaustively examined and there is a wealth of information about them, from their inception to their execution. The characteristics of the different printings are described, and illustrations of large plate blocks of various issues have a technical value. The excellence of the cuts has been referred to previously. Some of them are in color and the plate of colors of the stamps themselves with their color variants is done with a fidelity that shows a painstaking application to a most difficult problem.

August Dietz has realized an ambition that has abided with him for years, and he has enshrined himself in the hearts of philatelists by given instruction on a fascinating subject in a form of beauty. It is gratifying to know that the cheapest edition of the book is already nearly exhausted, and the other editions are in such demand that the price on one of the styles has been revised upwards.

ATLAS STAMP CO. (P. C. Smith), Lexington, Mass.

A RARE COIL

One of the most interesting coil stamps of our issues is the imperforate rotary coil 2-cent, issue of 1915, watermark U. S. P. S., Scott's #459, listing at $25.00 per stamp. This variety has always been desirable and was originally issued, due to the fact that there had been a demand for imperforate coils by the mailing machine companies. They desired to apply special perforations, so that they might be used in their machines. Previously the imperforate coils from the flat plate stamps were furnished, but when the rotary perforated varieties first appeared, the Bureau made up just a few coils as samples from the rotary press without the perforations. Some of these went to Baltimore, some to New York some to Washington, and a single coil to a small New England post office. I personally traced every coil that left the Bureau after it was discovered and obtained the few that were available. Most of them had been used up at the time, and I even went so far as to learn that the one in New England went to a small bank and the cashier wrote that it had been used on circulars several years back.

The stamp has been mounting in price, year by year, and has been recommended as a purchase from the first. Every auction sale sees this stamp go higher and in the last Klein Sale a pair changed hands at $51.00. When the few copies that are now available are placed in collections, there is no doubt that the individual stamp will reach $50.00 or $75.00, as there are not enough available to take care of the many twentieth century collectors of our issues.

This is one stamp that cannot be faked in any way, as the rotary 2-cent never appeared in imperforate condition, in any other form than this coil variety, so that it is not a stamp that is open to the nefarious activities of the faker.

A beautiful single is available at $25.00, a superb pair at $50.00 and a magnificent strip of four at $100.00. Either a line pair or strip will be furnished at the above prices without extra charge.

Examination Of Stamps

Hardly a day passes but what one or two letters are received submitting U. S. Issues, especially the late coils and the like, for examination. It is impossible for the faker to make a late error that will pass the scrutiny of one who is posted, but in order to check such fakes, it is often necessary to spend considerable time in examination, as well as to keep on hand a reference collection of importance. Heretofore, I have gladly made such examinations in most cases, but here of late I have been so busy with numerous activities that I regret to find it necessary to state that in the future I will be in a position to pass upon such varieties for my clients only. As usual, no charge is made my clients for such service.

2-Cent George Rogers Clark

The demand for the new 2-cent George Rogers Clark stamp has been excessively large, and unfortunately the supplies sent throughout the country to take care of local collectors have not been sufficient in size to enable the post offices to give the collectors the number wanted, and as a result, thousands of orders have been placed with the Philatelic Agency.

In Philadelphia, for instance, an order was placed with Washington for 600,000, and they received but one-half of the order. As a result, sheets were parcelled out one at a time, and it was difficult without persuasion to get more than one sheet. This was most unsatisfactory to the collector or dealer desiring supplies to distribute. It was hoped that the burden upon the Philatelic Agency could be lessened, but this is impossible where the supplies are limited.

The new stamp is creating interest among non-collectors, for while standing at a post office window for a few minutes recently, a sheet of the stamps was placed near the counter where they could be readily seen by one purchasing stamps. Several noticed the bi-colored emission and immediately asked what they were and when being informed, purchased several, no doubt helping to sow a seed for a future collector.

New Plate Numbers

Through the courtesy of Mr. A. W. Hall, Director of Bureau of Engraving and Printing, we are enabled to bring our list of plate numbers up to and including those issued to March 9, 1929. The list includes all of the plates for the centers and borders of the new George Rogers Clark stamp, and of course, it is quite possible that all combinations of borders and centers will be available.

The list is one of the shortest that we have printed in recent years due to the fact that under the new process plates are not wearing out so quickly as some years back. This also makes it much easier for the plate number collector to obtain the different numbers as larger quantities from the same plate are printed.

New Envelope Prices

We previously announced in this column that under the new Envelope contract which went into effect January 1, 1929, that the Department was making a considerable saving. As it is not the intention of the post office to make a profit on the sale of envelopes, it was natural that the saving should be passed on, but this was not possible until the supplies of the older envelopes bought under the former contract were sold. The point has now been reached wherein this saving can be passed on to the public and in the Postal Bulletin for March 12th, an announcement from the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Mr. R. S. Regar, dated March 7th, is made wherein decreases are given, effective April 1, 1929.

May this opportunity be taken to bring to the attention of the collector or dealer who uses printed envelopes in small quantities of the advantage in buying from the Government. The charge for printing is so minor that no printer could possibly take an order for five hundred envelopes at the charge made by the Department for printing.

State Stamps, Etc.

Mr. J. V. Nielsen, Jr., sends a clipping from the Anderson Daily Mail of March 4, 1929, wherein mention is made of the new State postage stamps. Rumor is current that stamps will shortly be placed on sale in Connecticut, but I am officially informed from Washington that this is not the case, as the first stamps will be placed on sale in Kansas and Nebraska as per the announcement, which first appeared in this column. In fact, readers of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY had the news ahead of the daily press, which is often impossible, as they print news the day it is received, whereas at least a week or ten days is necessary for the appearance of the news in a stamp paper.

Thanks are extended Mr. M. A. Vos for a very attractive first-day cover from Vincennes of the George Rogers Clark stamp, showing an illustration on the cover similar to the one appearing on the stamp.

Czechoslovakia.—Mr. Karel Cvrk of Prague furnishes Stamp Collecting with information regarding certain of the pigeon issues, which are exhausted and will be replaced by stamps bearing the Arms of the Republic. The 50h, 60 1kr value will appear with portrait of President Masaryk in new settings. New commemoratives are expected in connection with the 1,000th anniversary of St. Wenceslas, the patron saint of Bohemia, to be celebrated on September 28th. 50 heller, 2 and 3 krone will appear, and will be on sale in May. Special Parcel Post stamps in higher denominations are predicted. It is officially announced that all the Jubilee stamps are sold out, the following being given as the official quantities printed: 30h, 3,000,000; 40h, 1,220,000; 50h, 10,000,000; 1k, 3,200,000; 1kr, 10,000,000; Kr. 1.20, 6,000,000; Kr. 2.00, 2,265,000; Kr. 2.50, 6,000,000; Kr. 3.00, 1,375,000; and Kr. 5.00, 609,000.

Egypt.—The new Prince Farouk commemorative stamps have been received from Mr. R. Roberts. They are of upright oblong format with a full length portrait of the Prince for the central figure. The usual native characters with the name of the country in English are at the top with "Prince Farouk 1920 1929" in two lines at the bottom. The values are 5m brown and grey; 10m terra cotta and grey; 15m ultramarine and grey; and 20m pale blue and grey. The issue is done by the photogravure process and is watermarked crown, crescent and star, perf. 13½.

The Express stamp has been issued in a new color, now in red and black.

Finland.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the 25p bistre, type A19, watermarked multiple swastika.

Gabon.—We are informed by one of our French Correspondents that a new series of Postage Due stamps will soon be issued having the portrait of Savorgnan de Brazza, an explorer of note.

Port Said.—New colors have appeared in this French Colony, the 3m in orange, 20m bright mauve, while the 5m violet has been overprinted "+mm Casse d'Amortissement" in black. Mr. R. Roberts sends copies for chronicle.

THE COMMEMORATIVE POSTAGE STAMPS OF THE U. S.

them. Two weeks later the seige was raised. Burgoyne tried to capture food and ammunition stored at Bennington, Vt., on August 16th, but was defeated by Stark. The campaign culminated with Burgoyne's surrender to Gates on October 17th, after four weeks' fighting at Saratoga. To commemorate these important events, a special stamp was issued August 3, 1927.

Although the people of Vermont performed their share in the rebellion of the American colonies against British rule, they had no voice in the continental congress. In 1777, under the leadership of Ethan Allen and Seth Warner, the colonists declared themselves an independent state, and it did not join the confederation until after the war, being the fourteenth state of the Union. It maintained its own army and coined its own money. In 1763, the Rev. Samuel Peters, on the summit of Mt. Pisgah, christened the territory "Verd Mont, in token that her hills shall be green and never die."

After the successes of the American Army in 1777, Washington went into winter quarters at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania. His army was tired, poorly fed, and practically ragged. The winter and spring of 1778 was a terrible ordeal for the struggling young nation, the losses from illness alone were large, and the general morale was low. However, through the tireless efforts of the able disciplinarian Baron Von Steuben, the army emerged from their encampment in excellent condition to carry the torch of freedom forward to victory, and to put new faith and vigor into the non-combatant element of the new nation. To commemorate the Valley Forge encampment, a special stamp was issued on May 26, 1928. It shows Gen. Washington seeking Divine Guidance in the solution of his difficult problem. Although United States coins had for years borne the motto, "In God We Trust," this is the first postage stamp to bear that inscription.

After having issued various special postage stamps for thirty-five years, the Post Office Department departed from customary methods and instead of printing a special stamp of distinctive design, size, shape, etc., the commemorative set of July 25, 1928, was made by impressing a surcharge or overprint on two current ordinary stamps. On January 18, 1778, Capt. James Cook, an Englishman, discovered the Hawaiian Islands, while on an expedition to Tahiti to observe the transit of Venus for the Royal Society. He was killed on February 14, 1779, at Kealakekua Bay. On August 13, 1928, a sesquicentennial celebration of considerable international aspect was held there. The commemorative stamps, 2c and 5c were made by printing "HAWAII, 1778-1928" upon ordinary U. S. postage stamps.

On Oct. 20, 1928, there was issued a commemorative stamp in honor of the memory of "Molly Pitcher," and the American victory at the battle of Monmouth, N. J., on June 28, 1778. Mary Ludwig was born on Oct. 13, 1744, at Carlisle, Pa., and in 1769 married John Hays, a gunner in Proctor's First Pennsylvania Artillery. She followed her husband during all military actions and was popular with everyone. Finally, at the battle of Monmouth, Mary Ludwig Hays was nicknamed "Molly Pitcher," and won fame and a regular commission as Sergeant in the army from General Washington. The day was very hot, and Molly tirelessly carried water in a pitcher from a nearby spring to the gun crews, and so was soon hailed as "Molly Pitcher." When her husband was wounded, she took his place at the cannon and thus, in helping to win the battle, wrote her name on the pages of History. In style, the stamp is similar to the "Hawaiians," the ordinary red 2c postage stamp with surcharge, MOLLY PITCHER.

As part of the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the first flight by man in a power-driven, heavier-than-air machine. President Coolidge called an International Civil Aeronautics Conference in Washington, D. C., on Dec. 12, 13, 14, 1928. Delegates from forty countries attended the sessions after having visited the International Aeronautical Exposition at Chicago, from Dec. 1st to 9th. To commemorate this first I. C. A. Conference, and the Wright Bros. invention of the airplane, two special stamps were issued on Dec. 12th. The 2c bears a picture of the first Wright airplane, and the 5c a 1928 model airplane. On Dec. 17th, at Kitty Hawk, N. C. (the scene of the first flight on Dec. 17, 1903), a celebration was held in connection with the unveiling of a monument to Orville and Wilbur Wright.

Clark Commemorative

George Rogers Clark was born near Monticello, Va., in 1752. He was a surveyor and soldier in the Indian Wars. In June, 1776, he represented Kentucky, then a district of Virginia, in the legislature. He planned to take the "Illinois Country" from British control, and won the support of Patrick Henry. After being appointed Lieutenant-Colonel and raising troops, he captured Kaskaskia, and on July 4, 1778, secured the surrender of Cahokia and Vincennes (Ind.). The latter was retaken by the British under Col. Hamilton, and Clark, after an arduous march, recaptured it on Feb. 25, 1779. Clark's services were of enormous value to the United States, because his conquest of the Northwest served as a basis, at the peace negotiations of 1782-3, of American claim to the territory between the Mississippi and the Alleghanies. But for this conquest, this territory probably would have passed to Great Britain or Spain. He died in 1818. To commemorate Clark's services, a special stamp was issued Feb. 25, 1929. The central picture is from a painting by F. C. Yohn, showing the surrender of Fort Sackville, at Vincennes.

DEFENDED

Editor The Advertiser:

Your front page notice re the Studebaker Watch company, and their "Notice to customers in foreign countries," in yesterday's Advertiser registered with me, all right, for just last week I received a letter from a correspondent addressed to "Ft. Kamehameha, Honolulu, T. H., Philippine Islands."

How famed this fair land that has been a Territory of the United States of America since 1898, and has used only United States postage stamps since 1900!

Speaking of postage stamps leads to another situation of interest which was brought to my attention some time ago.

Last August the United States post office department issued two commemorative postage stamps in honor of the Cook sesqui-centennial celebration in Hawaii. As you know, the stamps were of the current United States series, 2c and 5c denomination, surcharged "HAWAII —1778-1928."

Officially these stamps were sold at the Philatelic stamp agency of the U. S. postal department at Washington, and at post offices in Hawaii. Owing to the greatly restricted issue (6,000,000 of the 2c, and 1,000,000 of the 5c) none of these stamps were sent to post offices on the mainland, but the stamps were available for postal use at any United States post office.

Now come the Scott Stamp & Coin Company, of New York, publishers of the "Standard Postage Stamp Catalogue," and gravely announce in their Monthly Journal (which carries as a frontispiece a map of the world, but not showing the Hawaiian Islands), and in letters addressed to local philatelists, that they cannot agree that the stamps referred to should be listed as an issue made in and for the United States, and the two stamps, therefore, will be listed under Hawaii.

I am in a quandary as to whether this is a distinction without a difference, or vice versa.

The absurdity of the situation is amplified when, turning to the Hawaii (1851-1899) section of the "Standard Postage Stamp Catalogue," as published almost annually since 1900, we find the printed notice: "The stamps of Hawaii have been replaced by those of the United States."

MALTA TO AUSTRALIA

It is hereby notified, as from Thursday, the 7th March, Air Mails will be made up at this Office for Australia to connect with the Air Mail service between Perth (Western Australia) and Adelaide (South Australia).

The above air mail service will be of weekly frequency in each direction, and the time table has been so arranged that the mail plane will leave Perth shortly after the arrival at Freemantle of each P. & D. and Orient Line mail steamer from Europe. In the inverse direction, the time table provides for the mail plane to leave Adelaide immediately after the arrival of the mail train from Melbourne, and to arrive at Perth the following day in time for the mails to connect with the mail steamer leaving Freemantle the same day.

The gain in time in respect of correspondence for Melbourne will be of four days, that in respect of correspondence for Adelaide, Hobart and Sydney, three days, and that in respect of correspondence for Brisbane one day.

All classes of registered and unregistered mail matter (except parcels) will be accepted for conveyance over the service, and packets intended for transmission by Air Mail, besides conforming to the ordinary postal regulations, must:

(a) Bear on top-left-hand corner of the cover an Air Label or the words "By Air Mail" clearly written or printed; a label, which may be obtained free of charge at any Post Office in Malta and Gozo, should always be used when possible.

(b) Be prepaid by means of Maltese stamps, in the usual way, with an Air Mail fee of 3d per half ounce. Ordinary postage, at the rate appropriate to the class of packet concerned, must be prepaid in addition. Any packet which is not fully prepaid with the appropriate air mail fee will not be sent by Air Mail.

General Post Office,
20th February, 1929.

ALEX. A. TORTELL,
Postmaster General.

PROGRESS UPSETS PENN. P. O.

Village P. M. Using 1828 Rules Ordered to Use 1929

(Clippings from Clarense W. Brazer and L. T. Blodgett.)

Progress has forced its way into a small up-State hamlet and decreed that the elderly postmaster change his methods of handling mail at the post office, which has been conducted by members of his family for more than 100 years and by postal regulations just as old.

The decree, issued by Chief Postal Inspector Williamson, of this city, was in the form of a 1929 Postal Guide. In supplying the new code Mr. Williamson deprived the postmaster of a pamphlet by which his family has been conducting the wayside post office for more than a century. It was printed in 1828, embodying "new postal laws as enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in Congress assembled and effective from March 11, 1828," under the signature of John M. Lean, Postmaster General.

The regulations in the pamphlet bear signatures of John Quincy Adams, President; John C. Calhoun, Vice President; and John W. Taylor, Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Warned Against Credit

Postal Inspector Taffel, who was sent to reorganize the post office, brought back to Mr. Williamson the ancient code. Some of the rules in it are as follows:

"No credit is to be given for postage except at your own risk.

"At post offices where the mail arrives on Sunday, the office is to be kept open for the delivery of letters for one hour or more; but in case that would interfere with the hours of public worship, then the office is to be kept open for one hour after the usual time of dissolving the meeting.

"Letters arriving by steamboat are to be charged at the same rate for distance as those conveyed by land.

"Nothing but specie or its equivalent should be received for postage.

"Experience has proved how inattentive many people are to the payment of such small debts as arise from trusting the postages of newspapers; you are, therefore, not to give any credit. Some postmasters write that they have scarcely collected 50 per cent of this postage.

"Fire Drunken Carriers"

"Repair mail bags that are unsound though it should detain the mail.

"It is the practice of many to address their handbills to postmasters, by which means they give then an extensive circulation free of postage. This is an abuse which must be corrected.

"Every carrier of the mail who becomes intoxicated, having the mail in his charge, should be dismissed by any postmaster at whose office he calls."

Various other details of the postal laws are set forth in the pamphlet, which Mr. Williamson said he would send to the Postmaster General's office in Washington as a souvenir.—Phila. Ledger.

SOME NOTES CONCERNING THE RARER PRIVATE DIE STAMPS COMMONLY KNOWN AS "M. & M."

By HENRY L. DEAN, 239 Windsor Pl., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Having seen nothing in the philatelic press of recent years dealing with the Private Die emissions of the Civil War period, other than the masterly and educational contributions of Mr. West, and feeling that an early resumption of his efforts is quite unlikely it now appears desirable to clarify certain points upon which general information is lacking. While it may well be that these observations will be appreciated by a rather limited group of older collectors, I wish first of all to forcibly advance the fact that any writer who in a spirit of superior knowledge, levity, or plain dumbness classifies these regular authorized government fiscal stamps with the maze of trashy New Europe, of recent years, charity stamps or precancels is simply parading his ignorance. To all therefore, who, if they have considered the M. & M. group at all, have regarded it as a list of manufacturers' labels let it be known that these stamps were employed by the proprietors of patent medicines, cosmetics, perfumes, match and playing card establishments in lieu of the regular proprietary stamps otherwise required by the tax schedule of the period.

The dies were private in the sense that proprietors could select their own design and paid for the plate, but this does not mean that the printing of the stamps was carried out in job shops or by printers other than those holding the government contracts. The first of these agents was the same as produced the initial documentary stamps, i.e., the firm of Butler & Carpenter of Philadelphia followed upon the death of Mr. Butler in 1868 by Joseph R. Carpenter, and upon August 31, 1875, by the National Bank Note Co., of New York.

All of these stamps consequently should form a part of any general revenue collection, and the fact that they are largely overlooked can probably be attributed to the great rarity of many since it is a trite saying, "that people will not collect what they cannot get." Another important point is the matter of condition the regular usage of many being intended to destroy the stamp or at least leave it badly damaged, and unlike present day procedure the printing press to collector route was undeveloped. Everything considered, however, the group forms a very interesting field and an admirable one for the collector of infinite patience, or for the type that rates the "hunt" above possession, or for the one of modest means, since the stamps will never come fast enough to prove a financial burden. Every last worth-while collection today is in the hands of a mature, tenacious collector of the old school, and while I was recently offered one of the largest lots, I doubt if any other real important holding could be dislodged. My own does not fall in this category, but at the same time it is beyond the power of gold in spite of the fact that Elliott Perry and myself have computed that my present rate of progress will, if maintained, bring completion at the age of 123.

As a matter of history it should be recorded that Mr. C. H. Eagle formed the finest and most complete collection ever assembled, drawing on the earlier gatherings of Messrs. Hatcher, Van Derlip, Deats, Castle, Farnsworth, Phelps, and others, and while this property was sold, largely intact, in 1921, there were enough irreplaceable items removed to make impossible the reformation of its peer. Mr. Perry had previously sold the duplicate Eagle collection, and in 1923 Mr. Doane sold the residue, which was strong on multiples, but lacking most of the high lights in singles. Still there was a 2c Drake, a wonderful blue Marsden, the imperforate Scheetz, and the third and poorest copy of the Caterson Brotz. Contemporaries of Mr. Eagle were Messrs. A. G. Bishop, W. C. Bowers and Dr. George Hetrich, the two latter properties being disposed of upon the deaths of the owners last year, but as they lacked the items which I will now discuss, I am hopeful that this publicity will restrain collectors, yes, and dealers likewise, from burdening me further with "want lists" for stamps which are fifty times as rare as the 12p Canada and several of which are just as unique as the Lockport or British Guiana number 13.

Thomas E. Wilson
4c Black

Selection of this stamp as the first to be mentioned is due to the fact that among close students it is generally regarded as the outstanding item in the whole group, since but one copy has ever been found, and as only one small lot was issued in 1867 the chance of another example coming to light is practically nil. The specimen is damaged and originally came from the West to Mr. W. C. Van Derlip of Boston, subsequently passing to Mr. Eagle. When his collection was disposed of the Wilson was available at $300, the list price today, but in the same book was a 3c Green and Black, Proprietary, Inverted Head, of which I personally know of six today, and the Catalogue sees fit to place this latter at $2,500. Ordinarily rarity and demand establish the market level, and where you have both in the case of the Wilson it is worth and would bring way beyond catalogue if available today. The last 3c Invert on the market I purchased for $1,500.

sued four years earlier than the Thos. Wilson, and there were even fewer of them, it is hardly likely that any of those collectors who have been patiently waiting and hoping for the past thirty years will be rewarded. The single example was in the fine collection of Mr. Phelps, sold by the late B. L. Drew in 1906, and passed to the Eagle accumulation. While on the subject of the rare "Ayers," it is well to record that Mr. Eagle also had the fine 4c green, 1c red, and the only 1c blue, imperforate, then known. Since that time Mr. Perry has sold another good 4c green in the West. There is likewise an inferior copy in this city, while of the 1c blue I purchased last fall the example long held by Col. Anderson. It will be seen from the above therefore that any of these stamps are much rarer than the 81pa Moldavia or the 4p inverted swan of Western Australia, and if a really fine Ayer ever comes on the market through channels that are informed, the price is apt to startle the compilers of the catalogue.

James C. Kerr

4c Blue—Old Paper

Readily obtainable on "silk" or "watermarked" paper the 4c "old" presents another situation entirely, although I doubt if many realize that but a single copy is known. That is why it appears on all "want lists" which I receive, and I have been disgusted at the ignorance of many and amused by the alertness of others who undoubtedly hoped I might uncover a copy and fail to properly appreciate it. There were 15,740 issued in 1871, but the only one known to have been salvaged was in the lot of Mr. Levick, and although torn apart was taken by Mr. Eagle. Another copy may conceivably appear, or an example with the silk threads picked out may develop, but any fakir who hopes to thus mulct the old-timers is indeed optimistic.

Maryland Match Co.

1c Blue—Watermarked

Another unique stamp originally procured in Washington by the father of Mr. E. S. Phelps, the full story being entertainingly presented by Mr. West in MEKEEL'S of January 21, 1924, and Mr. Phelps has thus contributed a valuable chapter to the fund of M. & M. knowledge, as he alone possessed the facts. The stamp went to Mr. Eagle in 1906.

Matches

1c Franklin Head—Ultramarine

Some possibly may be inclined to dispute my statement that but one copy of this stamp in the real true color is now known, but to any who have intentions of immediately upbraiding or correcting me the suggestion is respectfully made that they examine any so-called specimens in daylight and ascertain whether or not there is any violet in the color. If not they had better be cautious. True the majority of ultramarines of various stamps of the period come in tones and shades which are distinctive for each, i.e., the 10c Foreign Exchange never comes in the dark color of the Howard match, or again of the $15.00 Mortgage, and vice versa. Some others invariably come in a light or milky blue, but Mr. Eagle had a beautiful Franklin Head, which still shows a violet tone that renders the classification undisputable. The same mistake is frequently made in the case of the 2c Proprietary first issue, where the stamp usually offered is the milky blue on soft, thick paper, but the true ultramarine here is always on a thin, hard paper in a beautiful tone, and I have the celebrated Adenaw O. G. block of ten to close any possible debate.

E. W. Hoyt & Co.

1c Imperforate, on "silk"

Still another variety that unwittingly is placed on all the M. & M. "want lists," but I must rudely crush all hopes by stating that here again there is just one item known, and this is fortunately a block of four. Like all the preceding stamps this was an Eagle piece, which went to a personal friend, who is just as enthusiastic a collector today as he was thirty-five years ago, and I am confident that this Hoyt is beyond the reach of wealth indefinitely. It is in fitting company in the album with Mr. Eagle's finest Rock Island, his 5c Greenleaf "silk," the ultramarine Franklin Head, the magnificent O. G. pink Goldback, and similar items.

D. Jayne & Son

2c Black (Old)—Perforated

At last we have come to a unique stamp that never reached the Eagle collection, for this specimen was held by Dr. George Hetrich until the time of his death last summer, in spite of strenuous attempts by Mr. Eagle to acquire it As the Dr. explained to me years ago it was not that he was antagonistic to Eagle, but he understood that his collection was ultimately destined for the government, and he was opposed to this idea of locking these rare things in a museum and forever depriving future generations of the pleasure of acquisition. The Hetrich collection was sold at auction last October, and the 2c Jayne, although torn in two diagonally, brought $280.

D. Burhans & Co.

1c Black—"Silk"

Some may wonder why I now dwell on this stamp listed at $25.00 and seemingly, to the layman, about as scarce as the Bendel "error," the Buck, or the black Gorman, but I have never met the individual who knew where he could procure one at $250.00, or for that matter tell you definitely about other than the former Eagle copy, which I have just mentioned above and which is now held in Brooklyn. I have heard of one in a museum, and vague rumors of another badly damaged example, and of course, there may be others, but I do know that the A. G. Bishop accumulation, which contained three Rock Islands, 3 of the Mercado, 3 of the 4c Bennett Pieters on silk, and the cheaper stamps by the score did not show this Burhans "silk." The Bowers lot revealed the same condition, as did the Hetrich holding, although each had a copy of the fairly common experimental silk stamp which comes on a thicker, soft, and fairly p paper, and usually shows but a few of silk fibre. This Ex. Silk, howev a definite variety of this stamp, justifies listing, and the catalogue s record it as a sub number as in the of the Beecher, the Buck, and the

L. G. Hunt

1c Black—On full silk

In spite of the fact that some ver time collectors have told me that doubted the existence of this stamp like the Burhans, have the Ex. Si their albums instead, the Full Si well authenticated and most cer should be priced in the catalogue a very rare stamp, much scarcer tha Pierce volcano, and naturally, whil as attractive, should in my judgmen around $75.00. The stamps were by Hunt for a short period only 1873 the die was sold to Griggs & will, being subsequently altered to brace their name. Before this was however, a supply of stamps was r for the immediate use of the new or else they took over any stock re ing with Hunt. This is clear fro fact that this Hunt silk today almo variably is found with the charact G. & G. cancellation in red, altho have seen copies where it was lackin.

Michigan Stamp Club

ANNIVERSARY OF ORGANIZATION OBSERVED WITH BANQUET

Reported by HERMAN W. BOERS.

On Saturday evening, March 16, the 15th annual banquet of the Michigan Stamp Club was held at Hotel Fort Shelby, Detroit. It was the long looked-for event of the season. This occasion always brings out the ladies, as well as friends, who meet again, exchange greetings of friendship, and engage in a general good fellowship. Fully 50 gathered to do honor to the occasion.

Seated at the speakers' table were Postmaster Chas. S. Kellogg; Supt. of Air Mail, Frank Priest; Pres., Horace Hartwell; Vice-Pres., Charles Keller; Treas., Z. Dworkowski; Sec., Alex M. Livingstone; Toastmaster, Dr. H. P. Hoskins; and acting Pres., Charles Brisley. Music was furnished by the Mandolin Club, and received a number of encores. John Reid rendered several baritone solos, assisted by Miss Alma Lints, pianist.

Postmaster Kellogg, the first and principal speaker of the evening gave a general outline of the work of the post office department. He expressed his willingness to help philatelists in every respect possible, and especially such advance information as might be available. Mr. Kellogg has a strong hold upon the affections of the stamp collectors of Detroit, and was given hearty applause. Frank Priest, Superintendent of Air Mail, followed with a recital of some of the funny happenings that take place in a post office. It caused a great deal of amusement as well as providing instructions.

Greetings were received from various quarters, including Pres. A. H. Wilhelm of the A. P. S., who advised the Society to "keep your publicity man on the job, as no one can fill his position"; Holland A. Davis, Secretary of the A. P. S.; Wayne Stamp Society, Detroit; L. J. Flerlage, E. B. Power, P. M. Wolsieffer.

The Brisley Silver Cup, which was won last year by Seth Andrews, went to John Kay, who exhibited two sheets of rare U. S. stamps. The winners of the stamp exhibit, held on March 2, were Adolph Meyer, Karl Koslowski, Charles Brisley, Herman W. Boers, William C. Lancsweert, Seth Andrews, John Kay, Dr. E. P. Hoskins, Wm. Markert, J. B. Jackson, and Horace Hartwell. Cash prizes were awarded the winners, with the exception of Mr. Hartwell, who received an award of stamps.

In the raffle of about 200 lots donated by the members, the grand prize was won by Mrs. Wm. C. Lancsweert:—A 5c Franklin donated by Wm. F. Fratcher. Charles Holden contributed a humorous poem dealing with Mr. Fratcher and his buying and selling stamps.

Visitors were present from Ann Arbor, Flint, also the suburbs, and Windsor, Ont. Lyle Daigneau of Minneapolis, passing through Detroit, saw a notice in the local paper and attended the banquet. He was much impressed with the meeting. The program, the finest ever gotten up, was the product of Seth Andrews, through the courtesy of the company of which he is sales manager, the R. L. Polk Co. Several joke letters were read by Dr. Hoskins, and they created a good deal of amusement. An auction sale concluded the program of the evening. Great credit must be given the Committee in charge of the banquet. All who attended agreed that it was the best ever held. The banquet committee consisted of Seth Andrews, Horace F. Hartwell, and Frank E. Hadley.

Important Changes In British Colonials

1929 will witness a great many changes in the postal duties used by various British Colonies. This change, which began in the West Indies late last year, shows every indication of affecting the majority of Colonies before long. Gold Coast has destroyed the remainders of the last set, and no duty higher than the 5/- now exists. Gambia is withdrawing many values, and the present set will be greatly reduced in number. The importance of new issue service will be appreciated by collectors and I solicit your subscription to my exclusive British Colonial new issue service. It costs but 32 cts. a shilling, and it delivers the goods. Join now and be one of a group of collectors who find this service efficient.

King Gustav V Jubilee Stamps

By K. A. WALLQUIST.

I have just received information dated March 1, from the Swedish Philatelic Agency, that the official sale of these stamps, which started June 16, 1928, ended Dec. 31, 1928.

It may interest you to know how the sale of these stamps resulted; so, I herewith submit the figures of the stamps sold:

5 ore	+	5 ore,	sold	731,510
10 "	+	5 "	"	715,580
15 "	+	5 "	"	956,444
20 "	+	5 "	"	414,921
25 "	+	5 "	"	467,834

Total sold 3,286,289

The Swedish Post Office Dept. has decided to burn up the remainders on hand of these stamps. Everybody concerned is much satisfied with the result of the sale.

The Foundation for fighting the disease of cancer, for the benefit of whose fund the Swedish Government placed a surtax of 5 ore on each stamp, has through the sale of these stamps received 150,000 Swedish Kronor.

As for the Philatelists, they have received a very fine looking set of stamps, that are well worth collecting.

CAYMAN MONEY ORDERS

By HARRY E. HUBER

In your issue of March 4, Cayman Islands is mentioned as a place upon which it is not possible to draw U. S. Money Orders. This is not correct, as U. S. Money Orders can be secured on both George Town, Grand Cayman, the seat of government, and Stakes Bay, Cayman Brac, in the lesser Caymans, at the same rates as apply to U. S. domestic Money Orders.

Section 23 of The Post Office Law (No. 9 of 1900), passed by the Vestry of the Cayman Islands on November 28, 1900, and approved by the Governor of Jamaica, A. W. L. Hemming, on June 12, 1901, reads as follows:—

"It shall be lawful for the Governor-in-Chief of Jamaica from time to time to make orders and regulations with the sanction of the Postmaster General or other of the Imperial Postal authorities in respect to the Money Order system established with the United Kingdom, and the payment of any orders drawn by the Postmasters in the United Kingdom or Postmasters in these Islands for establishing the Money Order system, so as to include the granting of Money Orders on Postmasters in Her Majesty's Colonies or Dominions, and in the United States of North America, and the payment of any orders drawn by such Postmaster or Postmasters in these Islands, on such terms and conditions as he may deem expedient."

During the administration of F. S. Sanguinetti (Aug. 22, 1898, to Oct. 26, 1906), "whose term of office was marked by the development of the Post Office and postal facilities," British Postal Orders were placed on sale (1902), and the Money Order system established (Jan. 1, 1903). I believe the exchange of Money Orders with the United States dates from Jan. 1, 1903, but cannot say positively. However, to my personal knowledge, the convention was in operation in 1907.

The earliest Money Order statistics which I have been able to find are in the Cayman Islands Handbook for 1909, as follows:—

	M. O. issued.	M. O. paid
1904-05,	£ 740	£ 421
1905-06,	1327	595
1906-07,	2731	904
1907-08,	3656	1440

On page 655 of the Handbook of Jamaica, 1923, in the section relating to the Cayman Islands, there is the following:—

"A Money Order system is in operation under convention with the Jamaica Post Office, and is availed of to a large extent, the principal business being with the U. S. A. Aggregate of business in 1920, £10608."

And last but not least, the following from the report of the Postmaster for Jamaica (R. H. Fletcher), for the year ended 31st December, 1927.

"During the year under review, 2,056 Money Orders, £5456, were issued to places abroad; most of these were drawn on the U. S. A. The number of orders paid in Jamaica was 24,406, £72655, as against 22,684 orders, £63929 in 1926. Here again most of the orders were from the U. S. A., the number and amount being 22,861, £64963.

It might be of interest to note that 1,960 orders for £15660.10.5 were issued by the Turks Islands, and the Cayman Islands, on the U. S. A., and that 915 orders for £5199 of American origin were paid in those islands during 1927."

In December, 1919, the Postmaster at George Town, Grand Cayman (Arthur Bodden) was suspended on account of a shortage of some £900 in the Money Order account. This amount seems to have been made up of uncorrected errors

SPARTANBURG S. C.

That promised article on precancelled stamped envelopes is just about ready for the printer, but not quite. Meanwhile let's look at some more attractive types not illustrated in the catalog.

The Birmingham is another typeset, an old one, designed for precancelling six of the parcel post issue. These stamps are missing from the Alabama section of almost every collection, and from the only specialized collection of that state that I know of—that of Mr. A. C. Bates of Chicago. I count myself fortunate to have the 1c which furnishes the above illustration.

Mount Pleasant's pretty type is restricted to the current set, except for the 3c offset. It is seldom seen and eagerly sought, for, as I pointed out recently, Iowa is quite keenly collected. I count myself lucky to have the 3c offset, and 1, 4, 5, 6, 10, 11, 20 up, 50 up, all perf. 11.

This is one town from which I have no rotaries.

Mount Sterling used a mimeograph type for a long time, but at Christmas of 1927 it came out with this intriguing typeset. I secured only the old 12c and 5c rotary, both reading down. I did not think that it would be used again, as typesets of this sort are quite frequently knocked down after one season. But it was again in use last Christmas, though I have so far secured no examples of it.

The Carrollton office has used typesets exclusively, except for one season at the beginning of its precancelling. The reason for this is because the two postmasters preceding the present incumbent both had printing plants of their own, and the present postmaster gets one of them to precancel for him. Two somewhat similar examples are Ardmore, Penna., and Ashland, Wis. Ardmore, however, has used but the one type, whereas Carrollton and Ashland have used several. I think this pretty one-line type was designed for the oblong stamps only, as I have it only on the 20c and 50c, both normal.

Nevada is probably the hardest state in the Union to collect, so any Reno items are soon snapped up. The above is its type I, typeset, used on the perf. 12 and 10 issues only. I have but little to boast of in this type—4 nor., 6 inv., 7 inv., 12 nor., 30 inv., all perf. 10. Hayden Palmer of San Francisco has the most complete Nevada collection, but it lacks some of this type.

A striking Leon, Iowa, typeset was in use over one Christmas season, that of 1925 or '26, I don't know which. It was a plate of 50 subjects, so the sheets had to be precancelled one-half at a time, making tete-beche pairs possible. So I am told, for I have no such pairs. I am glad to have only the ½, 1½ inv., 50 down, and 7c inv. rotary, besides the Lexingtons.

Spartanburg's two handstamps were such smeary, illegible affairs that collectors were glad with the appearance of this neat type last Christmas. This town is a consistent user of precancels, so it is only a matter of time till they will get around to most of us. Seen on the 3c, 8c, 9c compound and 17c down.

Westwood's U-12 also came out this last Christmas. I have seen or heard of it on the 12c, 15c and 1½c compound.

For reasons known to a few of us, Windom used to do some "funny" work, monkey business, with its two handstamps, but times change and so do other things, and now Windom is quite of the elect. Certainly this handsome typeset is quite unusual, and was wholly unexpected. I have it or know of its existence on the 11c and 15c and 4, 7, 8, 9 compound.

Still more surprising was the printed Page, N. Dak. As a rule North Dakota small towns don't use precancels, but this last Christmas several of them made their entry into the precancel world, only two using printed types, Page and Crosby, this latter mentioned by Mr. Allen a little while ago. I have this Page type on the 3, 4, 7, 10 compound.

Here's another U-12, Galveston, which up to now has used a dinky handstamp. Seen on the 20c, reading normal. Paris and Laredo are two other Texas towns adopting this standard type, state name spelled out in both cases. I have the Paris on 3c perf. 11, and 5c compound, the Laredo on 20c up and 30c down, and 10c compound. Anaconda, Mont., likewise began using this type, at Christmas time, after junking its four or five handstamped types.

A still different form of precancelling is sometimes done by mimeographing, i.e., making a stencil on a typewriter and using it as a printer uses a steel plate. Waterville has used such a type for some years, of late alternating with a U-53 handstamp. There is a fake of the above type, but easy to distinguish, as it is in three lines—Water—ville—Maine, instead of two lines.

—Garfield-Perry Celebrates Anniversary with a Gala Occasion.

Reported by Vance Holden, Sec.

On Saturday, March 16, as scheduled, the Garfield-Perry Stamp Club of Cleveland, Ohio, celebrated its 39th anniversary. There was a very large attendance, including 23 wives and lady friends of the members, and a long list of out-of-town philatelists.

Adolph Steeg of the Buffalo Club extended greetings as did W. G. Saxton of the Canton Club, who referred us to Paul Vignos, Sec., who told of the philatelic happenings in his city. George W. Linn was there in all his glory with his good paper which he distributed with his compliments. C. W. Bedford, President of the Akron Club, extended a gra invitation to those present to visit A on one of their meeting nights.

The exhibition in the afternoon surprisingly extensive and proved a treat both to the members and the ors. And there appeared to be mor itors than members, which proved ing, indeed, to all of us. Particu since for the most part they br along things which they wanted to Several splendid collections were hibited.

In the evening one of our local wishers from the Federal Reserve C. L. Bickford, presented the club two commemorative medals, whic government had struck off at the delphia mint having to do with Co dore Perry's victory in the battle o Erie, and with President Garfield sassination and subsequent death.

The Hanford Memorial Cup wa year awarded to past president Grant. He deserves it for his two of splendid service.

Telegraphic regrets came in from tave Mosler and A. H. Wilhelm, A. P. S., and Don Lybarger, ou member. A. S. Stewart of Toledo has so regularly attended our meetings, wired at the last moment death among his acquaintances pre his usual appearance.

President Lloyd announced at th quet plans for a real affair on our eth anniversary, which is next yea appointed chairmen of six commit act as a main committee, to start ties immediately for a celebration, we hope to make out of the ordina surpass the usual Garfield-Perry st

APPLETON (WIS.) SOCIETY

Superb Collection of W. O. Thiede Is Shown at Local Club Meeting

APPLETON, WIS., March 22.

Another rousing meeting of the local society was held in the Blue Room, Conway Hotel last eve., with almost 100% attendance. Clarence A. Loescher of Menasha, and E. A. Boettcher of Appleton, were enrolled as members.

After the usual fine dinner, the members were privileged to see another section of the wonderful collection of W. O. Thiede. He has been a new-issue subscriber for British colonials since 1912, and has every stamp that Britain has issued since that time, in beautiful mint edition. Among them are the entire series of Cyprus, including No. 92—and all purchased at 15% over face value.

Mr. Thiede also showed every air-mail stamp in the world, in the same fine mint condition. Another part of his exhibition consisted of Scott's 19th Century album, full of the oldest stamps in the world. His entire collection, without a doubt, is one of the finest in the Middle-West.

H. M. Brehm showed a cover which had just come back to him after making a round-robin trip to every town of "Appleton" in the U. S. There are nine of them, and the cover traveled from Maine to Washington to receive the various cancellations—a total of some 6,500 miles during a period of 22 days.

Pres. M. F. Hatch reported a very distinct engraver's flaw in one of the Rogers Clark stamps. It occurs in the white circle below the left 2 in stamp No. 1 of the East pane of red plate No. 19721. The members have examined some ten sheets of this plate number and find the flaw.

IMPORTANT BUSINESS CHANGE

VALLEY CITY, N. D., March 23.

By far the most significant precancel news item of 1929 is that of the sale of the entire precancel business of the Rotnem Stamp Company, and the Standard Precancel Catalog to the Hoovers, 35 W. 33d St., New York. To those who are conversant with the main currents of precancel doings, this transfer has been a piece of unfinished business for about a year and a half.

Mr. Rotnem purchased the catalog from B. Gordon Bushnell of Indianapolis, in September, 1923, and since that time has issued four volumes, dated 1925-1926-1928-1929. At that time Mr. Bushnell found the publication of further editions a task beyond his time and means, so the transfer was made. A rapidly growing law business has now made it impossible for Mr. Rotnem to carry this piece of work further forward, so once more the catalog changes hands.

It is the Hoovers' intention to publish a 1930 edition of the catalog this fall, so collectors with unlisted items should get in touch with the above address, submitting their items if they expect to see them listed. Or, in case the state in question has a state editor, get in touch with him. Precancels now join regular postage in making the nation's metropolis their capital center.

A. F. GAMBER.

CAPT. FRIED AND HIS STAMPS

An Associated Press story by Capt. Geo. Fried is appearing in the metropolitan papers. Barnum Bailey Wixom, one of our Juniors, sends us a clipping that tells about his interest in stamp collecting. As the article is copyrighted, we cannot print it in its entirety. Capt. Fried now has a collection of some 12,000 varieties, the remarkable thing about it being that it is made up of stamps given him by friends, or received on letters from various parts of the world.

NEWS FLASHES

—Lundborg day will be celebrated in Pittsburgh, April 2nd, in honor of the young Swede who rescued Nobile last year. He will land at Bettis Field, April 2nd, and the Cleveland-Pittsburgh contractor will apply a special cachet to all mail sent to J. P. Penning, 124 E. Eugene Ave., Homestead, Pa.—DONALD E. DICKASON.

—G. Cameron Rapkin, of the well-known Rapkin firm of London, will shortly make a visit to the United States and Canada. He plans to call upon the dealers of the representative cities of both countries.

—A special cachet was applied by the Buffalo Aviation Show to air mail leaving Buffalo under date of March 23, on CAM 20. The cachet is circular in shape, printed in purple, and we have Harry E. Koltzbach to thank for courtesy extended.

—Donald D. Smythe informs us that no attempt is being made by the Mexican authorities to deliver mail in the rebel districts. The mail clerks have orders to route Mexican mail through Laredo, whence it will be sent to Mexico City, and delivered as opportunity permits. The supplies of stamps at the local post offices are running low, and there appears to be a good prospect for provisional issues. Postage rates have doubled, and are now 20c for a letter either in Mexico or to the U. S.

—Two more provisionals in the new Quetzal currency have just been received from Guatemala. Both are of the ½ Centavo value. One is surcharged in blue on the 2 pesos, Scott's No. 225, and the other in black on the 5 pesos, 1926, Scott's No. 228. Both surcharges are in three lines, "1928—½ Centavo—de Quetzal."—HERMANN FOCKE.

—Greetings are at hand from Hon. E. R. Ackerman, M. C., bearing a Santo Domingo postmark. Evidently Mr. Ackerman is resting up for the strenuous days of the special session of Congress.

—Cristobal-Santiago, FAM 9, rumored to begin April 1, has been indefinitely postponed due to appeal from contract award by unsuccessful bidder.—L. B. GATCHELL.

—"There will be a special cachet used at Elkhart, Ind., upon the occasion of the Air Circus and Congress to be given by the local American Legion, June 14-16. An attractive cachet will be used and a different color each day. Covers mailed to me at 635 Bower St., Elkhart, Ind., stamped and addressed, will be properly cared for. I have been appointed to have the cachet made, and to handle the mailing."—EVERETT G. EMERSON.

—Victor W. Rotnem, who has been operating a precancel stamp business under the name of the Rotnem Stamp Co., has disposed of his stock of these stamps, as well as his catalog, and will reorganize his business on a purely postage stamp basis.

NEW DOMINICAN ISSUE

Information has reached me that the Dominican Republic is preparing a special set of five stamps to commemorate the signing of the Treaty of Boundaries between the Dominican Republic and Hayti. It will consist of ½, 1, 2, 5 and 10 centavos values, and will be in concurrent use with the present issue showing the ruins of the residence of Christopher Columbus in Santo Domingo. I am informed that the 20 and 50c values are already obsolete.

KING GEORGE AND HIS STAMPS

Nothing could be a more definite indication of the good progress being made by the King than the fact that he is beginning to interest himself again in his chief hobby, collecting stamps.

The King's collection at Buckingham Palace is the envy of philatelists all over the world. A special room is devoted to it, for it consists of more than 200 large albums full of the rarest stamps in existence.

Mr. Thomas W. Hall, president of the Royal Philatelic Society, told a Daily Mail reporter that the King's knowledge of stamps is remarkable. He said:

It is expert knowledge. His Majesty knows more than I do about British and Colonial stamps, as I discovered some time ago when I took him round one of the Society's exhibitions.

The King was President of the Royal Philatelic Society for 14 years. He is now patron of the Society.

He was always tremendously interested in philately. During his presidency, while Prince of Wales, he once read to the Society a paper on British and Colonial stamps. He occasionally took the chair at the Society's meetings, and discussed its affairs with enthusiasm.

Agents with whom the King regularly deals have been instructed to send stamps to Craigwell House for his inspection.—London Daily Mail.

EDITORIAL

SEVERAL readers have shown us air mail envelopes that were returned to them in covers postmarked Salt Lake City, Utah, and endorsed with rubber-stamp: "Air Mail. Damaged in Plane Crash at Park City, Ut., 3-11-29. D. C. F. Dutton, P. O. Insp." The air mail covers were badly burned around the edges.

* * *

MR. FRED J. JARRETT'S work on the stamps of British North America, has made its appearance and is a veritable storehouse of information, advanced and otherwise on the stamps of the attractive countries embraced in the title.

* * *

MR. WALTER S. BULL, Cortland, N. Y., has a bone to pick, and he chooses to work in the open. He has written the postmaster general at Washington: "Will you kindly advise me if the 2c George Rogers Clark stamp recently issued was printed in strips instead of sheets as is customary. I sent to the Postmaster at Vincennes, Indiana, for 25 copies, ten to be used on 'first day' covers (for which I enclosed addressed envelopes) and fifteen unused; and received twenty-five copies with straight edges. I assumed that the Postmaster at Vincennes was acting under instructions from the Department, or was at least aware that these first day requests came from collectors, and would send fully perforated copies, or at any rate each applicant's pro rata share of perforated copies, provided, of course, they exist that way." Here is a bit of disarming innocence, the P. M. G. will say.

* * *

AS a consequence of our special issue of Feb. 25th, dedicated to the American Philatelic Society, several letters have come from old members of the organization, with various observations. An example is the following bit of reminiscence from a former member: "I realize that you were not writing a history of the society or else you certainly would have said something about Charles B. Corwin of New York, who was one of the ablest, and at the same time audacious of men. I was much impressed when I first met him as a boy; he was a fine-mannered man and precise as to dress; and as a speaker was no small shakes. Also, I knew Alvah Davison, the old Youth's Ledger publisher, who at the convention at Niagara Falls, N. Y., in 1894, was one of the members who was at home as a humorist or as a serious-minded man of affairs. I understand that Mr. Corwin is dead, but Mr. Davison probably is still living." We regret to have to say that Mr. Davison died in February, 1928, somewhat over a year ago, at his home in Brooklyn.

* * *

WHEN collectors, who prepared covers for the air mail out of Brownsville, Texas, over C.A.M. 22, on March 9th, received them, they were disappointed to find that the covers bore no distinctive markings as flown envelopes. According to an explanation from Washington, the special cachet intended for use on the occasion was not received in time for use on the first flights. Not a few collectors wrote to the department as a consequence of the omission of the cachet on their covers, and they were told that the cachet impression would be placed on the envelopes, if they were forwarded to Washington. Now, W. Irving Glover, Second Assistant Postmaster General has issued an order to say that those collectors who want the cachet applied to their covers of March 9th may send them in an envelope addressed to the Second Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Air Mail Service, Washington, D. C. Here is an evidence of coöperation that will please collectors.

* * *

COMPLAINTS have come to us that announcements of proposed air mail flights are published so late that sufficient time is not given our readers to take advantage of the information. In an effort to relieve this unsatisfactory condition, an inquiry was made of B. F. Myers, Assistant Superintendent of the U. S. Air Mail Service, Chicago, and he gave us some particulars as to the problem. It is evident that there is no way to insure relief inasmuch as there is not a wide interval in many cases between the date of the flight and the notice of it, when publishing of the particulars has to intervene. However, Mr. Myers has given us permission to say that he will send a circular telling of new flights as they develop to those collectors who request that they be placed on his mailing list. Mr. Myers has been interested from the first in attending to the interests of collectors, as he realizes that philatelic support has done much to encourage the air service. Moreover, we think that he has an understanding of the collecting mind and are convinced that he will do everything consistent with the duties of his department to meet the wishes of first flight patrons. Mr. Myers says that his list of names to which the circular is sent numbers about three thousand.

* * *

WE are told by a correspondent, who applied at the post office at Suva, Fiji, for the current issue, that the four pence is no longer on sale, and by the Australian Stamp Journal just received we learn that no further supplies w requisitioned, as the demand for th nomination is small.

* * *

Air Mail News

BY DONALD E. DICKASON,
Wooster, Ohio

(Our subscribers are urged to send air mail news direct to Mr. Dickason and especially advance news concerning first flights, with names of cities served. The scope of this department will not allow the treatment of flights from other than the purely philatelic standpoint.)

I can't help but feel that the matter of absolutely private cachets is being overdone. I'm not referring to the cachet sponsored by Chambers of Commerce, or other local civic organizations; Contractors; Airport Dedication Committees; Aero Show sponsors, and the like. I do refer to the cachet gotten up by an individual entirely on his own responsibility. If the cachet is limited in use to his own mail, there's no argument, it's out. And I can't get enthused over it, even if collectors in general have a chance to send in mail for it. And as for special cachets originating with a collector in one part of the country for use in a distant state—well, personally, I don't like 'em. Let's all use a little more self-control, and leave the matter of special cachets up to the proper authorities in their own locality.

The postmaster at Dixon, Ill., asks me to give publicity to the statement that thus far there is absolutely nothing definite as to any special flight or cachet this summer in celebration of the 100th anniversary of the Post Office there. Inasmuch as I'm at least partly responsible for that report in the first place, I'm glad to give this information. Don't send in covers until you have further word.

*****

There seems to have been some confusion at Glendale, Calif., as to the use of the special dedicatory cachet, Feb. 22nd. Letters sent to the Chamber of Commerce came back with a nice cachet, whereas the Postmaster held all sent to him, and will return to those who forward postage.

*****

R. S. Carter sends a clipping from Canal Zone which states that only mail prepaid with the special 25c airmail stamps will be given airmail service on the Cristobal-Miami route. Ordinary stamps will not do, even if totalling the proper sum. The reason given is that this is necessary in order to keep the accounts straight—something like our old parcels post ruling, I suppose.

*****

The second southbound plane over this route carried only 40 lbs. of mail. Anybody send any covers? Pilot Merritt on this trip made the fastest round trip flight yet recorded, arriving at Cristobal just over 8 days from the time he departed, piloting the plane which accompanied Col. Lindbergh.

*****

A number of Aircraft Shows scheduled for this spring and summer. They include Detroit, details of which have already been given, Kansas City, Wichita, and several others. If cachets are planned, I'll be glad to know in plenty of time. Detroit will have a cachet and special postal station, April 6-14.

*****

New routes in the formative stage include the following: Baltimore-Hagerstown-Pittsburgh; Atlanta-Ft. Worth-Los Angeles; a circular route to include Columbus, Dayton, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, Portsmouth, Zanesville, Huntington, Wheeling and Parkersburg; St. Paul-Minneapolis-Des Moines-Kansas City; an all-Wisconsin route, stopping at Wausau, Appleton, Stevens Point, Sheboygan, Manitowac, Wisconsin Rapids, and Kohler. Don't send in covers yet, as these are not definite. Worth keeping an eye on, however.

*****

Bids for the new Los Angeles-Dallas route have been called for, so we should get action there soon. This will have more stops than any other recent route. I figured up a while ago, and it seems to me complete coverage will run into several hundred covers. Pretty nice for the dealer with a standing order, but a little hard to arrange for the ordinary mortal.

*****

Here's a good one! My covers addressed to Miami on the recent Florida extension came in without backstamps. I returned them to the Miami postmaster with a polite request for this backstamping. He refused to do this, giving as his reason the ruling on backstamping given in a recent Postal Bulletin. I returned them again, calling his attention to the fact that this ruling specifically excepted

(Answers next week.)

(1.) On what stamp is found the words "Puenta Ulua"?

(2.) What do collectors mean when they speak of "Penny Blacks"?

(3.) What stamps properly overprinted were used for the first issue for Gibraltar?

(4.) How many states of the Colombian Republic have issued postage stamps?

(5.) What foreign country has issued a special delivery stamp having a design very similar to the one on the United States current 10c special delivery?

(6.) What is an easy way to distinguish between the 1924 and 1926 issues for Guatemala?

(7.) What set of stamps show an unbalanced balance as the central design?

(8.) Certain Italian stamps are found surcharged "Tripoli di Barberia". To what country do they belong?

(9.) What is the difference between the 1916 and 1919 reaper issues for Hungary?

(10.) What is meant by the inscription "Espresso" on certain stamps of Italy and colonies?

Our Junior Club

ARTHUR M. BURDGE, Pt. Pleasant, N. J.

In our club each member is devoting most of his energies to one certain country, but of course, takes others as they come along. It is creating interest. I have been requested to start other clubs in neighboring towns. It may not mean much, but at least it is advertising philately and making possible future valuable additions to the ranks.

Correspondence from other such clubs is solicited with any helpful suggestions, and in turn will be pleased to offer any suggestions which I have found serviceable. Why don't some of you fellows get the seniors interested in you and start a club; it is much more fun than working alone. I have made a little dictionary telling what country many of the dizzy things on stamps stand for.

The Greatest Collection

By EVERETT KLAAS.

In this greatest of Hobbies, the game known as life,
A time of trial, of joy and of care,
Like a postage stamp, each has his work to do,
Each one his own message to bear.
Some, destined to wander over the earth,
Bear their message for many a long year,
But some are collected when still in their youth,
While yet they are bright, new and clear.
Some stick to their duties e'en unto the end,
While others in pleasure and weakness are lost,
But each has a work he alone can do
And should finish the job, whatever the cost.

Some are upright and square, clean cut and true,
And well deserve the little blank space,
But some are off centered, crooked and torn,
Unsuited to occupy a place
In that greatest Collection where all want to go.
After they are Cancelled, their labor done,
When they've borne to the end their message of joy
Or sorrow—be mounted one by one
In that beautiful Album, that Golden Book
From which they shall never more roam
And be one of a set, friends, family, loved ones,
When the Great Collector calls them home.

Likes and Dislikes

By CHARLES KIDD.

I am writing to tell you the features which I like and the ones I dislike in MEKEEL'S.

First: I like articles on stampless covers, because these old, folded papers often reveal life in the period before 1847 in a more graphic method than any book could. Besides this, stampless covers are inexpensive, and there is endless fun in sorting out the different cancellations and classifying them.

Second: Interesting articles by men who know what's what on such things as finds of old stamps, patriotic covers, and explanations of varieties which are hard to detect, make it easier for a junior to know the how and why of many things that he might otherwise miss.

Third: Air mail news. The information given in the way that the air mail editor gives it, makes it easy to send for new covers and to see what has been done by senior collectors in the way of novel covers, etc.

There is only one thing that I don't like, that is precancels. Some people may collect them, but they give me a pain. The Chronicle of New Issues and Varieties is just so-so, but of course I read it, and find many notes of interest.

To me, there are many more likable things about the WEEKLY, than there are dull ones.

Some Noted Stamp Collectors

By WM. BENTLEY BALL.

Philately or stamp collecting is termed by many the "Hobby of Kids and Kings." The one who reads this article probably knows of many a boy who claims this hobby as his. He will probably be surprised to find that many rulers of the world, and many prominent men, also claim it as theirs.

It is true, however, that King George of England, the Prince of Wales, Alfonso of Spain, Albert of Belgium, Prince Hiroyasu of Japan, Fuad of Egypt, Queen Elena of Italy, Queen Elizabeth of Belgium, Crown Prince Leopold of Belgium, Alexander of Jugoslavia, the Princess Charlotte of Monaco, Crown Prince Gustave Adolphus of Sweden, and ex-King Manuel of Portugal are all noted philatelists.

King George of England has a very fine collection of British issues only. His son, the Prince of Wales, also has a fine collection, but is not actively engaged in adding to it. King Fuad of Egypt, possesses one of the best collections in existence of Egypt and nearby countries. It is arranged in thirty-five volumes.

THE FIERY THRONE

I. Bela Kun's Postal Propaganda

GYORGY DOZSA
"Down with the Aristocrats!"

After the Great Wa while confusion reig ed among the defeate nations of Europe cruel, fat, spiderlik monster of a ma named Bela Kun w sent from Russia Hungary. At Bud pest he overturned th war-weakened gover ment, and establish the terrible "Magy Tanacskoztarsasag"—the Hungarian S viet Republic. He ruled all Hungar for 143 days in 1919, by spreading reign of terror throughout the land.

To this day Hungarians still whisp of the unspeakable methods by whi Dictator Kun sought to destroy religio patriotism, and morality in the nation, establish that curious way of living call "Communism."

But Bela Kun did not succeed. With five months he fled for his life from t aroused and outraged Hungarians. A behind him there remained only one las ing symbol of his Communistic regime the postage stamps which his governme had issued!

It was Bela Kun's scheme, by means these stamps, not only to advertise Soviet Republic, but also to introdu five heroes of Communism to an unappr ciative world. Every letter that l Hungary would bear, according to amount of postage, a portrait of K Marx, the great Socialist, of the p Petofi, of Martinovics, Dozsa, or Enge

And this is exactly what happen Bela Kun's postal propaganda was c ried through the mails to all parts of t world.

Most of these interesting stamps a today at rest in the albums of collecto Some call them Hungary's "Hall Fame"; others call them, derisively, "T Bolshevik Rogues' Gallery." But wh ever you may call them, there th stand—five postage stamps—lasting sy bols of one of the strangest governme that has ever appeared and vanished the ever-changing pageant of history.

II. The Rise of Gyorgy Dozsa

In all this grotesque set of post stamps, there is neither portrait m striking, nor story more stran than that of the revolutionist Gyor Dozsa. How this soldier aspired to b king, and how he ended his life upo fiery throne, makes one of the m fantastic stories which postage stan have ever recalled from the archives history.

In the 16th Century, when Dozsa w born, there were only two classes people in Hungary—the rich and poor—the noblemen or aristocracy, a the common people or peasantry. T noblemen owned all the land. T made the peasants work frightfully ha and forced them to pay unfairly la taxes. And if the peasants disobey they were punished by torture, imp onment, or death. There was no one protect them from the wanton cruelty their aristocratic masters.

Gyorgy Dozsa escaped the usual f of the poor by enlisting in the army. strength and courage soon brought promotion. He became a high offic and he was famed and respected far wide as the best fighter in Hungary.

But Dozsa never forgot the comm people. For many years it was his se ambition to set them free. He drea of the time when, with the desper courage that is born of misery, t might dare to rebel and under his lea-ip sweep the land clean of the hated istocracy.

In the year 1514 came his great oppority. Dozsa was appointed to raise a ge army and to make war on the rks. Everyday life was then so miserle that men by the tens of thousands cked to his standards. Poor farmers d ploughboys came, to escape hard la-r; wandering students and parish iests came, to escape hunger; criminals d vagabonds came to escape imprisonent. And before the noblemen realized nat was happening, a vast army—a eat and dangerous rabble—had assemed, with Gyorgy Dozsa in command.

Dozsa, forgetting all about the Turks, ized this great opportunity, and cried Rebel! Rebel! Down with the aristoats—and every man shall be rich and ee!" The spirit of his words flamed rough the entire army, and from the my the spirit of revolution spread rough the land like a prairie fire. Then ozsa swarmed over the countryside, rning and plundering, putting noblen to death, and striking terror to the mbling hearts of the aristocracy.

His victories intoxicated him like wine. ozsa began to boast that he himself ould soon be the new king of Hungary. e promised to establish a new governent, and to make every man rich and ee.

This idea grew rapidly in Dozsa's mind. ccess made him overconfident. He alwed himself to entertain magnificent eams. He grew careless of realities. varms of recruits daily joined the rellion. Most of them were poorly uipped, untrained and ill-clad peasants, no knew nothing of warfare; but Doz did not bother to train them. The ld winter was approaching; but Dozsa glected to lay away provisions and othing.

When his officers urged him to mend ese matters, Dozsa paid little heed to em. He was lost in dreams, revelling the thoughts of his golden throne, his weled sceptre, and his golden crown. He saw himself the ruler of all Hunry, a soldier made into a sovereign. He rote an impertinent, boastful, threatenig letter to the king. And his muscu-r hand, which fitted so naturally about e sword hilt, held a pen and planned an mpire.

So the army ran wild. Discipline was or. The men were chiefly interested in plunder, and often they fell to quarreling greedily over the spoils. Large bands of them split off the main army, and went as far as they dared into new regions, to loot the castles of their former masters.

III. The Fiery Throne

Meanwhile the nobles were slowly but surely organizing and increasing their forces. Thousands of soldiers were hired or borrowed from the friendly rulers of surrounding kingdoms, who hated to see the common people getting into power in any land. And at last the price for Dozsa's dreaming was paid in full. The king's mail-clad knights rode roughshod over the half-clothed, poorly armed rabble of the revolutionists. Those who escaped with their lives fled to the hills, or crept home whimpering to their masters.

Dozsa was captured alive. Terrible was the anger of the aristocrats against him. They resolved to make an example of him—a frightful example that would strike fear to the hearts of revolutionists forever afterwards.

He had wanted to be a king. So they made an iron throne for him to sit on; and they fashioned a crown and a sceptre of iron, to be placed on his head and in his hand. Then they decreed that these materials should be heated red hot; and that Dozsa should ascend his throne, and reign as a king . . . until the life was scorched out of his body.

This sentence was actually carried out. With a mock ceremony of such relentless cruelty that the blood of the spectators ran cold, Dozsa was escorted to the red-hot throne and flung upon it; the glowing crown was placed on his head; and the flaming bar of iron—Dozsa's jeweled sceptre!—was laid across his knees.

The revolutionist endured these tortures with invincible heroism. No cry of anguish nor plea for mercy escaped his grim, set lips. Defiantly he grasped the flaming sceptre. Proudly, for the fraction of a minute, he sat upright on the fiery throne. Then, crumpling from the terrific heat, he fell silently forwards, face down upon the cool earth.

While life still faintly lingered, a pen full of famished men—Dozsa's former friends and followers, who had been starved for many days by way of preparation—were turned loose upon his half-roasted body. . . .

Thus ended Hungary's first revolutionist, Gyorgy Dozsa, who tried to overturn the social system of his time. More than four centuries elapsed before a revolutionist of a different calibre, Bela Kun, caused to be issued the set of postage stamps that brought Dozsa's face and deeds to light again.—Harris & Co.'s "Fiery Throne and Other Stories."

MEXICO

The country that is frequently in the news is the one whose stamps are in continuous demand.

Mexican stamps have the added advantage of being of real philetelic interest right through, and continuous and increasing demand from both sides of the Atlantic makes them a rising market.

We have a very fine stock of the early stamps, including many covers, and can send approval selections which will interest the advanced specialist or the general collector.

PHILATELIC TACOMA

Famous Collections Will Be Seen April 6-7, In Biennial Exhibit

By R. R. THIELE.

While Tacoma has no millionaire collectors it nevertheless boasts of some very fine collections. B. J. Weeks, widely known in fraternal society circles, is now specializing in the stamps of the United States only, having disposed of his general collection some years ago; incidentally he is the president of the Tacoma Philatelic society. He is also one of the strong "precancel" collectors of these parts. "Precancels," be it known, are stamps cancelled by the printing press in advance of their issue, and they are among the most popular branches of the hobby at present. The chief exponent of "precancels" in this vicinity is A. A. Johnson, principal of the Arlington school, and vice president of the society. He is a nationally known authority on this subject and his collection is reputed to be among the three or four of the first rank in the country.

The most devoted fanatic of the "precancel" tribe, however, is Marshall Miller of Puyallup, now at Seattle. They are meat and drink to him and he is ready to lecture on them at a minute's notice. Clyde Brill not only has a very large and fine general collection, but he has a specialty which is in the medal class wherever shown: It is a specialized collection of the first stamp ever issued, the Penny Black of Great Britain of 1840, a stamp which for beauty and attractiveness has not been surpassed to this day. Mr. Brill has these by the thousands in reconstructed sheets and plates, with all known varieties. They are an object of surpassing beauty.

Cecil Blogg, one of the most prominent members of the society, and chairman of the exhibition committee, has a very large general collection, but his special hobby are the stamps of Siam, which he has virtually completed. These have already taken medals at other exhibitions. H. S. Blackburn, formerly president of the society, is specializing in the stamps of the United States, of which he has a very fine collection. His daughter, Miss Louise, is following in her daddy's footsteps as a collector, but is devoting herself to European countries. J. G. Heinz, chief engineer of the American Wood Pipe Company and widely known in Masonic circles, is now devoting himself to the stamps of United States, Great Britain, certain British colonies, especially Gold Coast and Sierra Leone, and a few European countries, in some of which he will make wonderful displays.

A. B. Nessensen, contracting freight agent for the Great Northern railway, is a general collector. He might be expected to be a stamp collector, for he is a lineal descendant of Martin Behaim, one of the most famous of the 15th century geographers, and at one time Portuguese governor of the Azores, then the outermost part of the known world.

J. W. A. Drummond has picked out the stamps of Bermuda as his pet hobby, and will make a dazzling display of these. Probably the largest collection of the stamps of the United States on the Pacific coast is owned by R. H. Langdon of R. G. Dun & Co. Some time ago this collection was to be shown at a meeting of the society. When the time came Mr. Langdon and Mr. Brill appeared, groaning under the load of eight enormous volumes, all containing stamps of the United States, and apologized for not bringing more, that being all they were able to carry.

Mrs. E. Mary Appleby, widow of the late Archdeacon T. H. V. Appleby, is the only honorary member of the society. In spite of her advanced age she maintains a youthful interest in stamps and has a very fine showing in many countries, but her favorite is the Union of South Africa, with which she will make a strong bid for honors.

John Dolle, traveling auditor for the Milwaukee road, is a very strong collector of the stamps of the United States, in which he has a wonderful gathering. A. W. Johnson specializes in the older issues of various European countries, such as the German and Scandinavian states, in which he will exhibit some very fine things.

A. Nehammer has specialized in the stamps of Brazil, which he will display in a wonderfully written up album, and in the stamps of Denmark, which is a very popular country among collectors. There is no telling just what country will strike a collector's fancy. As an example, we may refer to the late August von Boecklin, long a member of the society, who picked out as his special hobby, of all things, the stamps of Liberia. These are still in the possession of the family, with his other stamp treasures, and it is hoped that they will exhibit them.

These are but a few of the fine collections owned here. It would take too much space to describe them all in detail. The Tacoma Philatelic society is offering a number of medals and many other prizes in the various classes. Postmaster C. J. Backus will make a large exhibit of the recent stamp and stamped envelope issues of the United States, and is offering one of the medals. Various medals are being donated by the philatelic societies at Seattle and Vancouver, while a well known financier and philanthropist of Tacoma, who desires his name withheld, is offering a medal for the junior collectors. Mr. Nehammer is offering one in the senior division. The grand prize of the exhibition will be a silver loving cup donated by Cecil F. Blogg in memory of his departed father, who was a keen collector in his younger days. The award of this trophy to the best arranged and annotated collection on view will be by popular vote of the visitors.—Tacoma Ledger.

AIR MAIL DEPT.

first flights. Haven't received his reply yet, but I hope he sees the light!

*****

Victor M. Saurez sends the translation from Mexico City to the effect that an emergency airmail service was started from Mexico City to Matamoras (Brownsville), by way of Tampico, on March 7th, two days before the official opening of the route. No special cachet was used, and covers sent were not backstamped at Brownsville.

*****

And speaking of this and that, what happened to the special cachet the department announced for use at Brownsville for the first service on northbound mail? None of my covers had a sign of one, and other people have had the same experience. * * * Not only that, but all my mail routed by way of Mexico headed straight north, instead, and never crossed the border. Somebody wasn't watching things down there, I'm afraid. Oh, well. * * * Covers from San Antonio into Brownsville bore the Alamo cachet used on the first day from there.

*****

The Mexican cities came through nicely. I've seen Mexico City in violet and black, Matamoras in black, Tampico in black and violet. The cachet, as nearly as I can make out, shows a plane flying from Mexico to the U. S., each country being represented by typical architecture. Or isn't that the statue of liberty on the U. S. side?

*****

Covers have been coming in from the Pittsburgh Aircraft Show, and the Southwestern Aeronautical Exposition at Ft. Worth. I have seen the Pittsburgh, Mar. 9, 10, 11 and 12 in green, violet, red and blue, respectively. I have Ft. Worth on the 9th in red, 11th both green and purple, and 12th purple.

*****

Cedar City, Utah, expects to dedicate their new airport about May 15th, and the C. of C. will probably have a cachet. Hornell's (N. Y.) new municipal airport will be ready about June 1st. Covers sent to Howard P. Babcock, Pres., Hornell Airways, Inc., will be properly cared for.

*****

The Chamber of Commerce of Fenton, Mich., will sponsor a special commemorative cachet Memorial Day in commemoration of the roster of the Williams School of Aviation, operated in Fenton, in 1915, training student aviators, every one of whom has given his life to the advancement of aviation. * * * Speaking of Fenton, that's the home of R. A. Brooks, untiring Bulletin Service editor of the A. A. M. S. If that organization did nothing but publish this timely sheet of hurry-up news every time there is any, membership would be worthwhile. Our congratulations to Mr. Brooks on the fine job he is doing.

*****

Corsicana, Texas, is planning a big meet and dedication late in April.

*****

Here's something to make you appreciate your blessings! I recently sent a number of addressed covers, with a money order for the postage, to the Postmaster at London, England, asking him to dispatch them by the first flight of the new through service to India. I received them back with this notation, "I am directed by the Postmaster General to return the addressed covers—and to inform you that it is contrary to the practice of this Department to comply with requests such as that in question, which have for their objects the creation of philatelic curiosities." Now say thank you to our own obliging P. O. D.

*****

The Pitcairn Aviation Co., flying the Atlantic Coast Route, have formed a company to manufacture and market the Autogiro, or "windmill" plane in this country, and plan to develop it as a commercial plane. May make some interesting developments from the collectors' point of view if they do.

*****

Here's another for the Lindbergh fans—and I'm afraid most of them didn't get it. On his trip back from Mexico on March 14th, he piloted the Mexico City-Brownsville mail plane. There was no advance announcement of this, so I doubt if many collectors were in on it.

*****

A clipping sent by Ben Delavage from a recent Portland, Ore., paper quotes officials of the Varney Air Lines, contractors for the Boise-Pasco route, to the effect that this route will be extended to Portland about June 1st. Night flying will start at the same time.

Florence, Ariz., plans to dedicate a new airport around May 1st. Covers to Chamber of Commerce.

Coöperators this week have kept right on the job, helping me get underway. Maurice S. Petty, R. S. Carter, Roy Weston, L. Marmorstein, J. Gordon B. Ginnes, R. S. Daykin, Victor M. Saurez, Charles L. Hall, Charles H. Hermann, Paul R. Hudson, Major Pascual Lopez, L. B. Gatchell and Ben Delavage, have earned our thanks. Also, I received a couple of covers from someone who forgot to put in his name.

ITALIAN ISSUES

The Associated Press sent out a dispatch with a Rome, Italy, headline recently saying that a royal decree recently authorized the issue of new types of special delivery stamps of 1.25 lire for internal use and 2.50 lire for use outside the kingdom. New stamps of 15c and 35c, respectively, have been ordered for "pneumatic" carriage in cities, the A. P. ads.

Collector's Contest

All you need to do is to show the WEEKLY to your friend — why not do it at once?

The contest for March is now on. The January and February prize winners get the benefit of their total points on the 3 mos. contest, but a win in March must be based on March points so far as last month's contestants are concerned. 3 mos. scores 1 point, 6 mos. 2 points, and 1 year 4 points.

Sevard's Twinkles

Back nine years ago, Massachusetts bethought itself of postal district numbers, so that each town has a numeral assignment to assist in the distribution of mail matter. Thus, Watertown had 72; Everett, 49; Waltham, 54; Somerville, 42; and so on. Not that it makes any difference to the stamp collecter whether Massachusetts feels the requirement of such a system, but a few postmark collectors do notice such innovations. For a time, after 1920, postal markings from Massachusetts were effulgent with numeral waves and numbered station boxes, and Massachusetts correspondents lived in Boston 27, or some such other part of the catalog system. Dr. H. K. Thompson of Boston, many years ago wrote up this postal Dewey arrangement, and really there is nothing more to add, except that the numeral inset waves still exist today. In tracing down the 20mm seven line Universal Model D machine, we find the wave mark entirely standard, except for those Massachusetts postal district numbers. At one time, 1924 and before, Chicago used this type of machine, but instead of number insets, cut lines were used to identify the machines. Thus a wave mark would be disjointed, or parted, and those in the know of such things, would tell you that is machine sixth line cut to the right. Thus in nine years, since General Motors was at 8 and Radio wavered between 1 and 2, and Mexican Pete was the soap of the day, much has happened. But Massachusetts still has its postal numbers. Try and get a complete set.

Today Chicago still uses a number inset for its Universal Model G machines, which replaces the usual die numbers found in the townmark. These numbers are in no way to be confused with the Massachusetts system, as Chicago is not divided into postal districts, but into bootleg sections. The last high number for Chicago inset numbers was 52, and the series is continuous from 1 to 52 with two exceptions, where cut in waves are used.

Our 2c stamps with duplex handstamp numbers on them got numerous enough so that some sort of decimation was necessary. The numerals today are quite unlike those of forty years ago, in that they hardly run in sequence any more. You can start at 1 and then try for a 2, and so on. To get them on the stamp itself is a task, and at that, one cannot go very far. Number One, of course, is common, and number 2, can be found at times, but 3, 4, 5, 6, one has to battle for, as well as the higher numbers. From 7 on to 25, you will evidently find either Chicago or Saint Louis marks, with a few scattering towns with high numbers. Louisville has the highest one we have seen and that is 92. Why, we don't know, but it does exist. New York still has a few left-overs of the vertical grid numeral and letter types, but they are found on the higher valued stamps, seldom on the 2c stamps. Since the 2c stamp is seldom handstamped except on packages by these duplices, one can expect to find large blocks with this cancel.

But with the straight bar cancel, one can but get a single. The straight cancel is the straight line cancel, where a number of straight lines cancel the stamp. The cause of this is the result of the usual slogan failing to touch the stamp, hence the straight bars, seven in number, to the right of the slogan do the cancel work. Of course, this isn't the only manner in which we can get a straight bar cancel, but it is highly improbable that it will be caused by any other means. We have seen the old Cummins machine from Vesper, Wisconsin, do it, as well as the Tompkins Square Station machine from New York, both of which machines are due for retirement.

THE SALE OF A LIFE TIME
Western Franks

WESTERN FRANKS! What magic thoughts they conjure up. The brave days of the '50's and the '60's. The hazardous runs through the real wild west, stage-coach and pony express carrying the mail and gold dust.

RARE! There has been but one sale that can be recalled that had more than a handful of these interesting and rare covers, and that was my Sixth Specialist Sale. The three or four big collections that have changed hands have always been by private treaty, and the more modest man has had little opportunity to secure them.

CATALOGUES. The number of catalogues sent out for this sale will of necessity be limited. If you are not on my mailing list or if you have changed your address recently, be sure to let me know.

Sale will be held in late April.

Another interesting and worth-while sale will be held in May!

WE HAVE FOUND A WHOLESALE DROPPING OFF OF SLOGANS, AND IN GENERAL, MOST MACHINES ARE BACK TO THEIR CHARACTERISTIC WAVE MARKS. THE HOOVER ADMINISTRATION WENT IN "OVER THE WAVES," AND THERE IS NO DOUBT THAT THESE MARKS ARE MERE PROPAGANDA. THERE'S MORE MONEY IN THE COUNTRY NOW THAN EVER BEFORE. LET'S MOVE OUT TO THE COUNTRY.

THE COVERED COVER

The Cincinnati Post of Feb. 21, 1929, contains a picture of Mr. Frederick R. Schepman and his cover, under the head: "Cincinnatian Proud of Lindy Round-Trip Letter." The cover shows no fewer than ten different U. S., as large as life, but a sop is thrown to the U. S. laws by the white line that is on each stamp. The Post means well and Mr. Schepman has his cover; and not a peep comes from us.

"Frederick R. Schepman, cashier at the Fifth Third Union Trust Co., is the proud owner of a letter which made the round trip with Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh on his first airmail flight from Miami, Fla., to Cristobal, Panama Canal Zone.

The postage, amounting to 44 cents, includes complete sets of the Lexington-Concord and International Civil Aeronautics Conference issues; a five-cent Pilgrim Tercentenary; a two-cent Washington, surcharged 'Molly Pitcher'; a two-cent Valley Forge, and five and 15-cent airmail stamps. Most of the issues are obsolete.

Schepman, who has 13 'covers' carried by Lindy on various flights, has been offered $10 for his latest addition to his specialized collection of U. S. and British Colonial stamps, but he prefers to keep it.

Schepman's letter, registered at Cincinnati, Feb. 1, left Miami in Lindbergh's plane Feb. 4, arriving at Cristobal, Feb. 6, at 4 p. m.

However, the postmarks on the letters Lindbergh carried read '4.30 p. m.,' as the postal officials at Cristobal had not expected him so soon, Schepman says.

Lindbergh brought the letter back with him to Miami. It then was returned to Cincinnati by way of New Orleans and Birmingham.

Mrs. J. M. Duffy, 1050 Winfield Av., Price Hill, has a letter carried by Lindbergh on his return trip. The communication was sent by her husband, who is doing government work in the Canal Zone from Cristobal, Feb. 10. It arrived in Miami, Feb. 13, and was received here Friday."

A WORD OF APPRECIATION

In the drabness of a hard workday a letter like this spells sunshine, and we make no apology in printing it. It expresses your opinion only you have not yet found the time to say so:—

My Dear Editor:

It will afford me satisfaction to express to you and to your associates my sense of increasing attachment for your periodical.

The special number of February twenty-five was a typographical gem. As a "commemorative" to a great philatelic society it was an achievement.

The number of March 11 was also particularly well gotten up.

My capacity as a Presbyterian clergyman does not allow much time for reading numerous philatelic magazines, much as I would enjoy such occupation, so I have had to settle down to one particularly. I have shifted to your weekly for two years past, as the "trade journal" to which I give most time and I am satisfied.

Incidentally may I add that when MEKEEL'S were holding forth in St. Louis thirty-five years ago I was their patron, living in Nebraska then.

Your laudable ambition to list 10,000 subscribers is one I sincerely trust you may realize upon in this current year.

Yours very truly,
RALPH H. HOUSEMAN,

ATLAS STAMP CO. (P. C. Smith), Lexington, Mass.

I have recently mounted my stock of the 1847 issue into several books and am in a position to submit to those interested a wonderful lot of our first two stamps. I note among the 5c, singles, pairs, strips and blocks, including a number of very unusual cancellations. In addition, there are numerous covers with Railroad postmarks, Steamship, etc., some four or five hundred copies in all.

My stock of the 10c is practically exhausted, but there are still to be found a few choice singles and several covers, including one or two Railroads, a United States Express Mail, and a few choice town cancellations. Each and every item is priced separately and the lot, which will run in the neighborhood of ten or twelve thousand dollars, will be submitted to responsible parties.

During the last several years, I have possibly sold more of this issue than anyone else, and as I count among my clients many who are especially interested in these stamps, I am always in the market to buy at substantial prices anything choice or desirable. Right at present, I especially want fine covers, as well as pairs and strips of both denominations.

If you are looking for any of the other issues of the United States, I offer a wonderful stock from which to make selections. Anything gladly submitted to interested clients. Always in the market to buy choice United States postage and revenues.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., P. O. Box 2175, Middle City Station, Phila., Pa., who will also be pleased to pass on oddities and varieties of all U. S. stamps. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, cor. Robbins Road and Locust Ave., Lexington, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

United States

2c Vincennes Stamp

One of our contemporaries has taken the postmaster at Charlottesville, Virginia, to task for not cancelling the new 2-cent Vincennes stamps on February 25th, the first day of issue. He calls his attention to the fact that they are all cancelled on February 26th. In reply to his letter, the postmaster informs him that he was instructed by the Third Assistant Postmaster General not to place these stamps on sale until the second day. Our contemporary now exonerates the postmaster and transfers, so he states, all blame to the shoulders of the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Mr. R. S. Regar.

Why Mr. Regar enters into the discussion it is difficult to see, for the Post Office Department made no official announcement that the stamps would be placed on sale in any city on the first day, other than in Vincennes, Indiana. Some collector or dealer who made the suggestion to Washington that it should be placed on sale on the first day at the birthplace of George Rogers Clark in Charlottesville, Virginia, took it upon himself to notify the philatelic press that his suggestion would be carried out.

In this column our readers were furnished late in December with definite, accurate and official information, for the first time that the stamp would be printed in two colors, that it would be placed on sale in Vincennes, Indiana, only on the first day, and that it would be on sale the second day in numerous post offices, as well as the Philatelic Agency. The Department made not the slightest change in the original information, hence, neither the postmaster at Charlottesville, Va., nor the Third Assistant Postmaster General, is to blame, because collectors did not receive first-day covers from Charlottesville.

2c Civil Aeronautics Conference Stamps

Mr. Samuel J. Smith writes that he has located a sheet of the 2-cent International Civil Aeronautics Conference stamps printed on creased paper.

2c Molly Pitcher

Mr. W. H. Wolfgang calls attention to the fact that he also has found a sheet of the Molly Pitcher stamps, showing the wide spacing between the surcharges. Two other collectors and a dealer call attention to a similar find. Those that have been noted have been from plates 19070 and 19071, so that at the time the variety occurred, these plates were in use.

Current Issue Shades

Reverend L. A. Boone sends a most interesting shade of the current 1-cent perf. 11x10½ in a much deeper yellow-green than noted heretofore.

Mr. J. J. Lipsey sends for inspection a block of the 8-cent of the same issue in a very deep shade of olive, caused by a heavily inked printing.

Mail Plane "All Wet"

Those who received their first-day airplane covers from Daytona Beach, Florida, in a water-soaked condition, many without stamps, will understand the reason when they note the following information from the Second Assistant Postmaster General, Mr. Warren Irving Glover, in which he writes as follows:

"I am in receipt of your favor of the 5th instant enclosing seven covers of the Daytona Beach-Orlando, Florida, flight.

"Regret to state that there is no way in which the stamps can be returned to you as these were in the plane which took a nose dive and went into the Halifax River at Daytona Beach. The pilot had to swim ashore, and it was with difficulty that the mail was saved and the stamps are not available for return to you.

"Am sorry that I cannot help you in this matter, but I think we will have to consider these as first-flight covers of unusual value, as they have not only been over the water, but under the water, and still lived to tell the tale."

Late Star Plates

Mr. H. M. Southgate calls attention to the fact that in some cases the varying spacings in the case of our late issues are due to the fact that some are printed from the normal plates and some were printed from the star plates, which we described in April of 1926. These were the plates which showed the five and six point stars on the side near the plates numbers, and were found on several denominations. With the exception of the 2-cent, it is doubtful whether any of the plates under the 10-cent denomination have gone to the press, the change coming just before the first rotary press stamps were issued. Mr. Southgate writes that the star does not appear at the present time on the new plates, although the wide spacing is standardized and the perforating machines gauge with the wider spacings. The star has been located on the 11c, 13c, 15c and 20c. The 12-cent plates #17418 to #17421 have the star, but so far impressions from these plates have not been seen. They, however, may have been used in this year's printing. The proof from plate 17421 shows a six-point star, whereas others of the higher denominations are five-pointed. On the 2-cent the star is found in two sizes with both five and six points, and on the top margin, as well as on the side.

$2 "Stock Transfer" Perforated 10

Mr. W. C. Black has submitted for inspection a new variety that has escaped attention for eleven years, namely—the 1918, $2 rose, overprinted "Stock Transfer", perforated 10. In the past, this variety has been known only with perforation 11, but Mr. Black has recently discovered a cut copy showing the 10 perforation. Under the circumstances, it is advisable to check the other denominations from 1-cent to $20 inclusive, as there is a possibility of some of them coming with the larger perforation.

We would be glad to have our attention called to any new discoveries of this issue.

Canal Zone

Mr. Leo Pump submits for inspection a cover from the Canal Zone, bearing the current 2-cent "Goethals," along with the overprinted Air Mail stamp, the two being in very distinct shades, the former in a light red, and the latter in a deep lake. It would be interesting to know if both varieties are available in both shades.

We wish to thank Messrs. J. L. Thompson and H. Herdelin for information of interest.

Australia.—Copies of the 4½p violet, perf. 13½x12½, watermarked multiple small A and Crown have been received from Mr. R. Roberts. These stamps are in sheets of 120 (2 panes of 60) and bear the inscription at the bottom margin between the two panes, "John Ash, Australian Note and Stamp Printer."

Belgian Congo.—Theodore Champion's Bulletin Mensuel reports the appearance of a 50c postage due stamp design as the 1923 issue, but in bright blue color.

Belgium.—Whitfield King & Co. writing under date of Feb. 27th last report that new Express and Parcel Post stamps appeared on the 25th of the month. The stamps are of large size and very handsome, showing different views. Express stamps are 1fr75c blue (Brussels), 2fr35c carmine (Ghent), 3fr50c purple (Liege), and 5fr25c olive (Antwerp). The Parcel Post stamps are of the same design for each value, picturing the Central Post Office at Brussels. The 4fr is in grey, and the 5fr is of carmine shade.

Bolivia.—The Bulletin Mensuel of Theodore Champion chronicles a 10c blue bearing the portrait of President Siles. The perforation is 13½.

Brazil.—The Stamp Collector's Fortnightly learns from a correspondent in Brazil certain changes are about to be made in the current stamps. The 50r stamp "Viacao" (transportation) will disappear, having become needless. The 100r type "Viacao" and the 50r type "Industria" will be substituted by the "Aviacao" (aviation) type, in slate and mauve, respectively. We will therefore have the same type: 20r slate, 50r mauve, 100r green, 200r sepia, all in types "Aviacao" (aviation). The 600r type "Navegacao" (navigation) and the 1,000r "Mercury" (Mercury) type in brick red and turquoise blue respectively. We will therefore have in the same type: 300r carmine, 400r orange, 500r ultramarine, 600r brick red, 700r lilac, 1,000r turquoise blue. The head of Ruy Barbosa will appear in the 5,000r value, which in the current issue has the type of "Instrucco" (education) in deep claret.

Colombia.—Gibbons' Stamp Monthly is informed that a new series is reported to be in preparation in London for the country.

Costa Rica.—Whitfield King & Co. send for chronicle the 2c red Telegraph stamp with the surcharge "Correos 5 Centimos" in three lines in black.

Denmark. — According to Gibbons' Stamp Monthly this country is to fight the cancer scourge with funds raised by the philatelist. The Danish Postmaster-General has announced a competition of designs for a series in aid of the Cancer Committee of Denmark. The values are to be either 10, 20 and 25 ore, or 10, 15 and 25 ore, presumably with the customary surtax.

France.—A 50c blue, in Joan of Arc design, has been issued and copies are to hand from Whitfield King & Co.

Guatemala.—The 2.50c purple type A75 has been surcharged "1928 Centavo dequetzal" in red, has been placed on sale and Whitfield King & Co. send copies for chronicle.

Jamaica.—The 9p lilac, same type as the 1½p brown chronicled last month.

has been received from Mr. R. Roberts. This is a new value for this colony.

Montserrat.—A change of color has been made in two values of the current set. The 1p is now in scarlet and the 1½p is in pale brown. Mr. R. Roberts furnishes us with the above information.

Paraguay.—Whitfield King & Co. advise that they have received the 1p50c purple overprinted "C".

Poland.—Another value of the Eagle design stamp has been received by Whitfield King & Co. This is the 10gr in green.

Portugal.—Mr. R. Roberts sends for chronicle the 8c orange buff, unsurfaced paper, surcharged for use as "4 C" and also the 20E turquoise overprinted "1$60E" with the note that the number of the 8c surcharged was a small one, while the other provisional was also of a very limited number. Mr. Roberts further advises that the 15c black and 1$60E blue have been issued with the surcharge "Revalidado", the former in red and the latter in black printing. The stamps mentioned above are all of the Ceres type, perf. 12x11½.

Russia.—We learn from Gibbons' Stamp Monthly that for reasons of economy, it is believed, that the Soviet authorities intend replacing the current series with types similar in design, but smaller in size.

Trinidad and Tobago.—Mr. R. Roberts advises that the 4p black on white postage due stamp has been received type of D1, perf. 14, but with script watermark.

MARKET IN MODERN COLONIALS

By "PHILATELIA".

The latest color changes in the Leeward Islands low values came as rather a surprise, and in some cases the colors of the stamps were changed before dealers could get any further supplies. The 1d, and 1½d Virgin Islands violet and red, respectively, exhausted some time ago, and had quite short lives. It will not be surprising if we learn that the printings were quite small as the demand for stamps in Virgin Islands is not large. Next to this country, I should imagine the St. Kitts 1d violet and 1½d red will rank as the best of the others. The 1d violet exists in two distinct shades, pale mauve and violet, which are bound to be catalogued sooner or later. I do not know if the Leeward Islands are reverting to a 1d Empire postage. Some of them have had the 2d rate to England for some time, which accounts for the frequency with which one sees the 2d value.

These color changes and withdrawal of certain values only affects the Leeward group. Such islands as St. Lucia and St. Vincent having their own and quite independent color scheme.

St. Vincent.—We have not many changes to bother about here. The old CA set will all steadily appreciate in value, without any startling rises. I rather fancy the 6d and 2/- will increase most in proportionate to face value. The £1 duty has been in some demand, but I believe a sufficient number were imported to prevent it soaring to any alarming heights. I notice it is priced per dozen in some dealers' lists, which is not often the case with stamps of so high a denomination. Nevertheless, it is a useful stamp to have.

It is not possible to infer always that because a stamp has been in use a long time that many were issued, nor vice versa. It is a pity that more statistics are not available as to Nos. issued of modern Colonial stamps. Judging by the recent book published on "Jamaica," it looks as though it only needs someone enterprising enough to route them out from the printers.

Jamaica.—In this new and excellent handbook of Jamaica, published a few months ago, full statistics have been obtained from Messrs. De La Rue & Co. as to the printings of nearly all stamps for many years back, and which form a very valuable indication of the relative rarity.

Taking the figures in the book, it is relatively easy to pick out any items underpriced on Nos. printed. It is surprising to learn that 6,000 of the 2/- brown were printed on Mult. CA paper. In view of its scarcity one would not have expected so many.

The 3/- Pictorial on MCA paper was only printed to the extent of 6,390 copies, which is not many for a country the size of Jamaica.

The 5/- King George design should be a good buy at present rates, as of 9,000 printed, 3,600 were destroyed after a very short life.

Mention does not seem to be made in the book of Nos. overprinted "Judicial." This is an important point, as considerable numbers of some of the high values were so treated, and can often be bought very cheaply and must still further decrease the Nos. available of the regular issue.

The chaste new design of the 1½d Jamaica should still further enhance the demand for this colony. The color for this duty does not seem to have any definite value now. In most West African and many West Indian, red is still the color for the 1½d stamp. The few colonies now using brown are, of course, using the color employed in the Motherland since King George's accession. It seems a curious fact that however tariffs and rates of postage may change, the British stamps are not changed in color. One would have thought that it would be far more important in a large country than in some tiny colony to have the colors recognised as correct by the Universal Postal Union.

In estimating the probable value of a stamp of which the Nos. issued are known, one is often hampered by the lack of knowledge of the number of collectors. One sometimes sees it stated that a stamp of which, say 200,000 are issued, will be in short supply and should rise, being a low value. This may be true, but all estimates of total number of collectors are vague and unreliable.

Gibraltar.—It is hardly necessary to point out the possibilities of the Gibraltar 1/- and 2/- on the colored papers that have recently become obsolete. Most of the elements that make a high priced stamp are here, notably a very popular group, and an unexpected withdrawal, which would take most dealers by surprise. Once the few on the market are absorbed, I shall look for a rapid advance in price, especially of the 2/-, which will probably turn out as good on the second shade as on the first. It is not necessary to remind readers how the 4/- and 8/- soared under similar conditions, although then no warning of withdrawal at all was given. The £1 on red paper is another stamp which went out unexpectedly, and which I feel sure is bound to rise considerably above its present level. I strongly advise a purchase at anything up to £2 with a view to holding a year or two. The £1 SCA of 1903 was obtainable for about £2 for some years after it was withdrawn in favour of the mult. wmk. stamp, and look at its value to-day!

SIDEWALKS OF WASHINGTON

By THORNTON FISHER.

(Mr. Fisher is giving Second Assistant Postmaster General W. Irving Glover well merited praise for the opening of the Philatelic Agency in this article, which we quote from the "Washington Evening Star" by courtesy of T. R. Hungerford.)

Thanks to a sympathetic Government, approximately 1,000,000 people in the United States have been enabled to follow their hobby of stamp collecting.

The jokes and jibes directed toward the chap interested in philately in former years have disappeared to a great extent. Enthusiastic stamp collectors now are assured they will encounter no indignities in the pursuit of their hobby.

Establishment of a philatelic agency in the Post Office Department at Washington has solved the problem.

This agency owes its birth to the fact that stamp collectors were looked upon as being "nuts."

So says the Second Assistant Postmaster General, W. Irving Glover, who is interested in philately and has done more perhaps to make life easier for the stamp collector than any other person.

"Well do I remember," says Glover, "my first efforts to establish the philatelic agency in the Post Office Department. The straw that broke the camel's back was when an enthusiastic stamp collector addressed a letter to me saying that in his city he had asked for a block of four well-centered 2-cent stamps, and the answer of the stamp clerk at the window was that he had "no time to waste on 'nuts,' please step out of the line."

This was in the early part of 1921, and Glover set about trying to do something to remedy the situation.

At one of the weekly conferences of the Postmaster General and his staff, Glover suggested the establishment of a philatelic bureau. His associates looked at him in surprise. Dr. Hubert Work, then assistant to the Postmaster General, looked sidewise at Glover and said he had been a doctor for many years (having formerly been president of the American Medical Association), but had never heard the word "philatelic" used as a medical term.

The Postmaster General (at that time Will H. Hays) broke loose with a hearty laugh and attacked the scheme.

And so the suggestion was laughed off and forgotten by all but Glover.

Some months later he again proposed creation of such a bureau. This time he made the proposition that if the agency did not sell $5,000 worth of stamps to collectors in the first two months, he would willingly give up the idea. The Postmaster General consented.

And Glover proved that he was right.

During the first year sales to collectors amounted to $176,157.95, while the total sales from its establishment up to and including April 30, 1928, amounted to $800,918.55. Seven employes are kept busy.

Advice of an expert philatelist is now available to even the young beginner with a small collection.

OUR BOOK REVIEW

We have received from the Vallancey Press, 14 St. Bride St., London, England, a review copy of "The Obrenovich Stamps of Serbia (1866 1904)," by M. O'C Walshe. This is a booklet similar in form to others recently published by this firm. Many collectors, interested in the stamps of Serbia will find it to their advantage to procure a copy of this book, the price of which is 25c. There is a valuable appendix in the form of a Bibliography, which lists the literature for sale by the firm dealing with the stamps on the country under consideration.

CZECHOSLOVAK 1928 JUBILEE

By KAREL CVRCEK.

In connexion with the tenth anniversary of Czechoslovakian Independence, the Czechoslovak postal administration issued on October 28th a special set of nine commemorative adhesive stamps depicting Czechoslovak castles and towns noteworthy for historical or architectural and natural interest, and one value with portrait of the President, Dr. T. G. Masaryk.

The following are the denominations, colours, and subjects:—

30h grey. Hradec, near Opara, Silesia.
40h brown. The Town Hall, Levoca, Slovakia.
50h green. The new Central Telephone Office, Prague.
60h salmon. The Russian Church, Jasina.
1kr carmine. Hluboká Castle, South Bohemia.
1.20kr violet. Pilgrimage Church, Velehrad, Moravia.
2kr oriental blue. St. Peter's Cathedral, Brno, Moravia.
2.50kr steel blue. Tatra Mountains.
3kr nut-brown. President Masaryk.
5kr violet. The old Town Hall and Church of Our Lady, Prague.

The 30, 40, 50, 60h, 1, 1.20, and 2.50kr values are horizontal oblong, and the 2, 3 and 5kr vertical, all size 21½ x 27mm. The originals of the illustrations on the stamps are indicated, besides the values, by the photographs. The stamps were engraved by K. Seizinger, and printed from steel plates by the American Stickney machine on white unwatermarked paper in sheets of 100 pieces and line perforated 13¾.

The work of production was carried out by the Czech Graphical Union, printers, in Prague. On October 28th special red postmarks were used at the following Post Offices:— Prague, 1, 10 and 25; Brno, 1 and 2; Bratislava, 1; Kosice, 1; Opara, 1; Pardubice, 1; Ushorod, 1; they are resident in the Postal Directory. The stamps are available for use until the end of December, 1928.

I append further interesting details:—

On the 30h value is pictured the Gateway of the Hradec Castle, near Opara, Silesia. This ancient royal castle was mentioned so long ago as 1061 as a stronghold. In the sixteenth century it was sold by King Rodolph II of Habsbourg to a private person.

The 40h value shows the old Town Hall in Levoca with its picturesque arcades. Behind the old Town Hall is the Gothic church of St. James (thirteenth century). Levoca is in Slovakia, and was founded in 1240 as a fortress.

Providence Night Observed

ALFRED F. LICHTENSTEIN PRESENTED WITH GREAT SILVER MEDAL AT COLLECTORS CLUB

Reported by CHARLES J. PHILLIPS.

The President of the Rhode Island Philatelic Society is to be congratulated on the fine showing made by his Club at our meeting on Wednesday, March 20th. Mr. A. W. Claflin brought with him from Providence no less than fifteen members of his Club, proving how greatly these interclub visits have grown in popularity since The Collectors Club instituted them.

The visitors were entertained at dinner in a private room at The New York Athletic Club. Among our guests there were: C. G. Bartlett, Jr., Dr. R. F. Chambers, A. W. Claflin, H. C. Crowe, Judge Robert Emerson, H. M. Grant, E. Tudor Gross, Ernest Kohl, J. M. Lewis, Dr. A. L. Potter, L. E. Richardson, A. B. Slater, J. A. Tyson and W. C. Winsor. From Philadelphia we had with us Messrs. P. M. Wolsieffer and Eugene Klein, from Boston, Messrs. Nevins, Kelleher and Barker, and altogether our dinner party consisted of thirty-nine.

The Consul General of Hungary attended and was introduced by Mr. E. Klein, who stated that on the occasion of his visit to his native country of Hungary, he attended the Philatelic Society meeting in Buda-Pesth, and was asked to inform them who was the outstanding Philatelist of the United States who had done the most for Philately. On his return home Mr. Klein consulted a number of members of The Collectors Club, and Mr. Alfred F. Lichtenstein was selected unanimously.

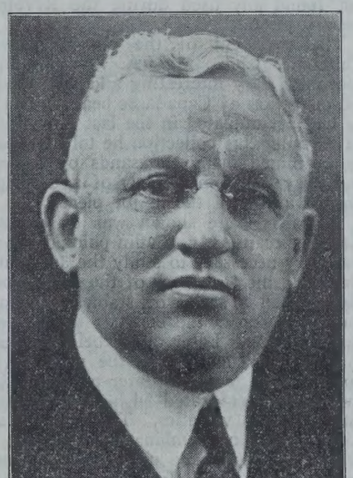
The Consul General in a very happy and feeling speech said that the Hungarian Ambassador had delegated this pleasant duty to him—he explained that the great silver medal of the society had been presented to philatelists of outstanding merit in Europe, such as Dr. Emilio Diena in Rome, and the late Judge Lindenberg of Berlin, and it gave him great pleasure to hand this to Mr. Lichtenstein, and he trusted that this would be another link in the chain of friendship between his country and the United States.

Mr. Lichtenstein in accepting the medal said he was almost overcome by the presentation, and most cordially reciprocated the feelings of international good-will so well expressed by the Consul General of Hungary.

The following interesting exhibits were made by some of the visitors:

Col. Webster Knight, a portion of his magnificent collection of unused blocks of United States, general issues, was shown by Judge R. S. Emerson, who explained that Col. Webster Knight was very sorry he could not be with us as he was away that evening on business.

I do not know if the Judge was trying to make out that his friend was older than he really is, or that he himself was younger than he appears to be, but he said that Col. Knight graduated from Browns University in the year that he himself was born!!



JUDGE ROBERT S. EMERSON
One of the Providence Delegation

The Judge also pointed out that the Col. had been a collector since before 1870, and during the whole of that very long period has always kept his unused United States stamps. This fine collection included amongst many others, the following very choice items, all unused, except in one case which I have noted:—

1847. 5c, block of 4 and of 11, the latter a wonderful piece. 10c, a fine block of 4, used, the only used item in the collection.

1851. Imperf. blocks of the 10c and 12c, and a number of blocks of lower values.

1857-60. Blocks of 1c of Types I, II, IIIa and V. 10c, blocks of Types II, III and V. 12c, a magnificent block of 25. 24c, and 30c, two blocks of each. 90c, a fine block.

1861, Aug. Issue. Blocks of 3c and 10c.

1861, Sept. Issue. All values in blocks.

1867-68. Grilled. Blocks of the 3c grilled all over, and blocks of the 3c grille 13x16, and 12x14. Complete sets of blocks were also shown of the 11x13 grille, and of the 9x13, with the exception of the 90c blue in the latter issue.

1869 issue was complete in blocks of 4, excepting the 15c Type I. In this set specially to be noted were superb perfectly centered blocks of the 30c and 90c.

1870 issue, with grille, there were blocks of the 1, 2, 3, 6, 7 and 15 cents. In the National, no grille, blocks of 6 each of the 7c and 12c.

This beautiful collection was mounted in frames round the auction room, and was very much admired by nearly one hundred collectors who attended.

Dr. R. F. Chambers showed a very interesting collection of New York Postal Markings. He drew our attention to the fact that he had not found any stampless covers earlier than 1761, also that he had not found any used during the Revolutionary period.

The president of the Rhode Island Philatelic Club, Mr. A. W. Claflin, showed a very interesting and well studied collection of Canada 5c beaver, which he had accumulated in the last ten years. In forming this collection he told us that he examined many thousands of copies, and space will only allow of a description of a few of the major pieces.

The first page shown was of the 3d stamps, because Mr. Claflin pointed out it was very necessary to study the 3d stamp alongside the 5c beaver of the same type. He showed a series of stamps showing the crack across the body of the beaver early in 1852. Later on he believed that this was bevelled off on the plate as it appears very faintly in later printings. In the scarcer perforated 3d he showed two fine transfer varieties. There are also some interesting combinations showing a pence and cent issue used together, one cover being dated July 30, 1859. Mr. Claflin had some rare blocks of the 5c used. Amongst others a block of 6, including the plate flaw, the sun spot, and one figure "5" double, also a strip of 7 from the left side of the sheet. Blocks of 4 on covers, one showing the re-entry, and fine strips of 3, 4 and 5.

In the cancellation pages I specially noted 5 copies of the rare green cancellation. The re-entries were a marvelous lot which have been very closely studied. The big re-entry with the whole of the left side of the oval double was shown, in no less than 24 copies, one being a perfectly mint one, and the others all used. His early dates on these re-entries were July 8th and August.

Judge R. S. Emerson showed a remarkable collection of rarities of the United States, all on covers. These were passed round in a number of small books, and it was rather difficult to note the important varieties with so many things that were rare. One cover, very unusual, was the 1857, addressed to the Cape of Good Hope, franked with two 1c, a 10c, a 30c and a 90c. Another that was much admired was the 1869, a cover used to Argentine franked with a 1c and a 24c. Another cover used to Japan was franked with 1869, 12c and 30c. In the 1857 issue there was a remarkable 12c cancelled with a Pony Express. In the same issue 10c, Type II. A very rare item was the Overton and Pikes Peak cancellation used on Aug. 4, 1860. On the reverse of this cover was a Pony Express cancellation dated Aug. 16, with the running pony in red, the cover being addressed to Rhode Island.

Mr. Tudor Gross showed his well-known specialized collection of United States 1c blue of 1861-62. In his introductory remarks he pointed out that it had hitherto been supposed that the picture of Franklin on the stamp was copied from Rupricht's, but after very careful search he proved beyond any doubt, that it had been taken from Houdin's bust of Franklin, which is in the New York Metropolitan Museum. Mr. Gross pointed out that the ultramarine shade is very much rarer than catalogued, and is often confused with other shades. His pages of different cancellations were exceedingly interesting, and many of them of great rarity, such as the green cancellations used in Richmond, Va., the very rare violet used in Delaware, the Waterbury maple leaf was shown, Masonic cancellations, nigger's head, steam in blue, and a very rare form of PAID in a circle with a figure "3" above it, also another rare PAID in a lozenge. In his blocks he showed used groups of 4, 6, 8 and 25, the latter being the largest known. The earliest dates that he had on covers was Aug. 22, Aug. 23, and Aug. 29, 1861. A few shifts and plate varieties were shown, and one large album of stamps on covers. In these I specially noted a strip of 3, "Steamboat" cancellation used on the Steamer Perry in Narragansett Bay. One cover was specially interesting as in it he found a circular from a man in Wall St., offering to find substitutes at a price of $100.00 for soldiers who had been drawn for the Civil War.

J. W. Lewis showed a remarkable collection of Match and Medicine stamps in exceedingly good condition.

The exhibit concluded by a display by A. B. Slater of Providence, so well known as "Uncle John."

This exhibit is one of the finest and most complete of any historical exhibit of United States stamps that has ever been shown at the Collectors Club. Mr. Slater, being the last speaker, commenced his remarks a little after 11 o'clock, and did not finish until a quarter to one, the latest meeting we have ever held in my recollection, at the Club, but the matter was so interesting that a large number of members stayed right till the end.

The collection started with a number of very interesting photographs, commencing with Sam Chase, the first Postmaster of Providence. Then photographs of different Post Offices in Providence as they moved to different locations. A photograph of Mr. Sales, who issued the stamps, and of Mr. G. W. Babcock, who engraved them.

Mr. Slater pointed out that on August 22, 1846, a supply of stamps was sent to the Postmaster who spent the whole of Sunday gumming them, and issued [illegible] on Monday morning the 24th of A[illegible]. He also stated that it was the or[illegible] intention to issue a sheet to conta[illegible] 5c stamps, and 4 of the 10c, maki[illegible] the level sum of $1.00, and some [illegible] that he has show lines on the right [illegible] sheet where the extra stamps wer[illegible] off. It is stated in the diary of the [illegible] master that the well-known 10c i[illegible] corner of the sheet was made over [illegible] which was first engraved or, at any [illegible] as far as the outline was concerned.

In 1847 on the issue of the Gover[illegible] stamps, the local issue of Prov[illegible] stamps was suppressed, but a few had been issued and in the hands

r. Slater explained at full length the ry of the stamps, the history of the nts, and the connection of different e with them, all of which will be set very clearly in a book that he is at work on, and which will be shortublished privately. He also pointed hat he had been interested in stamps 1867, and bought his first sheet of Providence stamps in that year for regard to the issued stamps, as is known, they are exceedingly rare ver. Mr. Slater has traced out and he history of 47 that are known on al covers. Of these, 23 are in his collection. In these 23 only 3 stamps ed on with a postmark, one with the PAID, one with the figure "5," and with the Providence town postmark. hese are in red. The black cancellawas never used for the Providence s. One that he had with a black llation he found to be a fake, and moving it from the cover found a ancellation underneath!!

conclusion he told us a very interlittle incident in regard to a correence which he recently secured. A man in Providence had a sweetnamed Miss Clapp, in Boston. He ently was in the habit of writing two or three times a day, especialSunday. Mr. Slater secured the of this correspondence, and some covers proved these facts.

U. S. Plates and Plate Markings

R. A. BRYANT, Editor.
1 Essex St., Winter Hill, Mass.

Readers are requested to send in notes and data on errors, shifts, defects and all plate markings; also color varieties and new numbers for chronicle. The editor will gladly answer all questions on these subjects.

5c Air Mail Plates.—Mr. H. M. Southgate kindly sends us the latest available data pertaining to the plates of this issue and writes: "The Bureau has caught up with their orders on the 5c air mail stamp, and combination plate number collectors can take stock a bit. Border plates up to and including 19635, 19670 to 73, and 19699 and 19701 have gone to press. All center plates up to and including 19688 have gone to press. This makes a total of 49 border plates of a total of 71 border plates used, and of 37 center plates a total of 44 plates listed that have been used. As a comfort to collectors of combinations there will be but few borders under 19585 combined with centers 19597 and above, but all combinations may exist with border numbers 19585 and above, and all centers from the lowest number, 19545. There will likely be not more than 25%, however, of the combination of borders 19607 and above with centers below 19597. This will leave a sufficient number to keep the plate number collectors busy, and doubtless most will confine themselves to singles, some of which will be sufficiently difficult to get. I am especially anxious to learn of combinations with centers 19636-37-38-39, as this may tell something about the other combinations to be expected." Mr. Southgate has given generously of his time in digging out and assembling this information for our benefit, and I suggest that collectors locating any combinations having the above center plate numbers, aid in the work by sending a report in for chronicle.

No. 19271 Vincennes.—Mr. C. C. Damon under date of March 14, reports an interesting oddity occurring on No. 29 of the right pane. It is a heavy red line partly crossing the ribbon in the upper right corner containing the date "1929," and nearly touching the numeral "2". Mr. Damon writes that it is very plain to see, is constant as he has ten copies, and believes that early printings will show the line entirely across the ribbon. It occurs but once on the sheet. This is almost certain to be a scratch, and as soon as our Washington correspondent has an opportunity to check from the proof we will be able to present additional data. Mr. Damon is the first to report anything of this nature on this issue.

Continuing our list and report on Vincennes combinations, contributors have reported 41 more, bringing our total to 87 known to actually exist, and leaving but 57 possible combinations to be found. Mr. R. F. Morean sent two very long lists, and is the first to report several of our missing centers and borders. Center 19733 is reported but once again, this time from the west coast. All other plates have averaged up on our list. All center plates have been reported and but one border, 19743, is yet to be located. Combinations with border 19725 are 100% chronicled. Contributors this week are: John J. Terry, Nic G. Johnson, Benjamin Cadbury, Herbert Cohn and Arthur W. Line. The list follows: Border 19720, Center 19728-32-36-38-39; Border 19721, Center 19733-36-38-39; Border 19722, Center 19728-34-36-38; Border 19723, Center 19728-32-34-35-36-37-38-39; Border 19724, Center 19728-33-37-38-39; Border 19725, Center 19733-35-36-38-39; Border 19726, Center 19734-36-38-39; Border 19727, Center 19736-37-38-39; Border 19740, Center 19735; Border 19741, Center 19728; Border 19742, Center 19729.

Next issue we will present a check list of Canal Zone on U. S. plate numbers. Readers are requested to send in any numbers they may have so that our list will be as complete as possible, using due care to give proper classification and distinguishing flat "A" and sharp "A" specimens.

Letters are acknowledged with thanks from Lloyd A. Wilsey, R. F. Morean and J. Gordon B. Grimes (imperforate plate number lists); Benjamin Cadbury (Canal Zone on U. S.); Theodore H. STOLEN THUNDER

After several years' intensive study of the 10c brown Jeffs (U. S. 10c 1879, etc.), I hereby rush into print to announce that I have "discovered" 333 varieties of this stamp—332 of which were known to important students of U. S. stamps 30 years ago.
There is no doubt these 333 varieties should be cataloged immediately, together with about 999 more which may, did, could or should exist, but haven't yet been heard from, and Hughie Clark is hereby appointed to see that each and every one is properly listed. The appendix to the membership roll of any convenient lunatic asylum not too far from Camden, New Jersey, is suggested as an appropriate place.

10c brown Jeffs

Will buy, sell or exchange U. S. 10c, Scott Nos. 150, 161 and 188 at wholesale or retail. What have you and what do you want for it?
Many fine old U. S. singles, blocks, cancellations and covers priced from a few cents to several thousand dollars each are available to my customers and the good news is spreading—a peach orchard is a good place to get peaches.

SALE OF STEINMETZ COLLECTION

AN INTERESTING RESUME OF PRICES OBTAINED AT A NOTABLE AUCTION

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

On Thursday, March 21st, the well-known collection of United States stamps gotten together by the late Joseph A. Steinmetz, was dispersed at auction by Eugene Klein in Philadelphia. Mr. Steinmetz collected from boyhood and I know of no one who derived more pleasure from his collecting activities. He was a collector of the old school, so that condition was of secondary consideration. He was more interested in obtaining the stamp and learning of its historical associations. Had he been living at the time of the sale, he would have been much pleased with the great increases in value that had taken place between the time when he purchased most of his choice items, and the auction at which they were sold. The entire sale totaled approximately $13,213.95. Mr. Klein kept a record of a total of his highest bids and his lowest bids previous to the sale, and these were in amounts of $12,385.10 and $6,644.45, respectively, showing that the floor bidders carried the sale well over his highest quotations, and the total of the lowest bidders was about half of what the stamps actually brought.

Among the Postmasters, the signed reprint of the New Haven sold at $20.50. A magnificent New York 5c tied to the cover with a blue "5" in a double circle, possibly unique in this condition, addressed to Philadelphia, and showing the large "R" peculiar to registered letters arriving in Philadelphia at the time, found a new owner at $325.00. Had there been sufficient competition the cover would have reached a somewhat higher figure. A horizontal pair of this stamp, pen-stroked on cover, went into a new collection at $127.50. A 5c St. Louis on greenish, cut into, brought $110.00, while a copy of the 10c on gray, pen-stroked and pen-marked, with good margins sold at $215.00.

Copies of the 1847 5c brought all the way from $3.00 to $23.00, depending upon condition and cancellation. I did not note any outstanding pieces of this issue in the collection. The 10c varieties varied from $11.00 for a badly creased copy to $53.00 for a fine one.

In the 1851 issue, Mr. Steinmetz's choicest item was a 3c corner piece on cover with Florida territorial postmark, which sold at $45.00. A 10c Type II in a horizontal strip of four, and the same stamp, Type III, in a horizontal strip of five showing two recuts, both on same cover, sold at $105.00. A pair of the 5c with irregular margins at the sides, but large margins at top and bottom, changed hands at $95.00. A block of four of the 1c nicely cancelled and of striking appearance, cut into at top and bottom, sold at $57.50. Four copies of the 30c black ranged in price from $27.00 to $52.00 inclusive.

In the 1857 issue, a 1c Type II cracked plate in mint condition sold at $106.00, whereas a 5c brick-red in vertical strip of three, found a new owner at $61.00.

It is surprising that the collection contained but two Patriotic covers, as Mr. Steinmetz was generally interested in the historical side of his collection. One of these two covers, however, from the 7th Regiment of the P. R. V. C. showing eagle and shield, sold at $22.00. A horizontal strip of five of the 2c black 1862 on cover from Yokohama to Philadelphia, showing red oval postmark, reading—"China and Japan Steam Service" brought $105.00. An 1869 6c showing a very unusual postmark reading—"Steamer Costa Rica" found a new owner at $21.00. An unusually nice looking copy of the 1869 15c invert, showing a small closed tear and a tiny thin spot, went into a well-known United States collection at $550.00. A superb copy of the 90c same issue, mint, sold at $150.00. Cardboard proofs of the 15c, 20c, 30c and 90c, with inverted centers, reached their highest price, namely—$150.00, and were purchased by one who was after the 90c alone, in order to complete his set.

Among the Bank Note Issues, there was very little of importance, block of the 2c vermilion imperforate on unsized paper brought $14.50 and $5.50 respectively. An imperforate block of the 3c grilled, sold at $65.00. A 10c block with Samoa 6-pence on cover from "U. S. S. Nipsic" went into a Philadelphia collection at $49.00. The 2c 1883 in horizontal strip of four, special printing with two center stamps imperforate between, brought $205.00, while the special issue 4c green, possibly the scarcest of the early issues in the collection, changed hands at $330.00.

High value Columbians, as usual, brought nearly full catalog when in fine condition. The 1c Pan-American in mint condition, off at bottom, sold at $122.50. The 4c overprinted "Specimen" brought 150% of catalog, namely—$150.00. The 1902 5c Lincoln imperforate in block of eighteen, reached $105.00. Record prices were reached in the case of the blue papers, for the 4c listed at $300.00 sold at $450.00, and the bidding was spirited, as several on the floor wanted the variety. The 8c, although cut into at the right, sold at $300.00. A fine block of the 10c Panama Pacific, Scott 10, superb, realized $40.00.

The finest piece in the entire collection, namely—the 1918 24c inverted center, a little off-centered, brought $1,060.00, and thereby hangs a story. When the stamp was first found, Mr. Steinmetz was interested in its breaking up, and acquired a horizontal pair at $450.00. Some years back, he separated the pair and from the proceeds of one of the copies purchased a piano; the second copy showing wide margins, being the one just sold.

In the 1922 issue, a 10c imperforate horizontal, in block of four and cut only on one side, sold at $462.50. A fine block of the 2c rotary, perf. 11, Scott No. 595, which could have been purchased at the Philatelic Agency just a few months back at 8c, sold at $15.

The sale closed with the private sale which brought well over half Gibbons catalogue quotations.

NEW SAN MARINO ISSUE

By PERCY C. SMITH, New Issues Editor.

We are indebted to R. Roberts for the information that a new set of stamps is in preparation for San Marino. Our cut is made from illustrations furnished by him.

Two years ago the Republic of San Marino, after having had its stamps printed in Italy since 1877, had a commemorative issue produced in England, the work being entrusted to Bradbury, Wilkinson & Co., Ltd., of New Malden, Surrey, England, and carried out with characteristic excellence and artistic style.

It is therefore interesting to note that the same firm have now secured the contract for a new series of stamps, which are shortly to appear, and which are to supersede the ordinary postage stamps of this small but entirely independent State, which was founded in the fourth century.

The new series consists of 18 values, all in two colors, and of three different designs, as well as an Express stamp in one color, and I expect to receive supplies here in London early in April.

The ordinary stamps are in sheets of 50, the Express in sheets of 24. All are on watermarked paper showing three plumes or feathers. In the past, San Marino stamps have either been on paper with the Italian watermark, viz:—a crown, or on unwatermarked paper.

The various values and colors are as follows (the centre color being named first):—

Design No. 1—5c blue and brown, 10c mauve and blue, 15c green and orange, 20c orange and dark blue, 25c black and green, 30c deep red and grey, 50c green and mauve, 75c black and red.

Design No. 2—1l bright green and brown, 1.25l black and dark blue, 1.75l deep yellow and bright green, 2l deep red and blue, 2.50l bright blue and red, 3l blue and orange.

Design No. 3—5l green and mauve, 10l blue and brown, 15l mauve and green, 20l red and blue.

Design No. 4—1125c green, Express stamp.

Particulars regarding the various designs are as follows:—

Design No. 1 represents the Rocca, the largest of the three towers which crown the triple crests of Monte Titano. Used formerly as a fortress, it is now the State Prison. The peak on which the Rocca stands rises precipitously on the Eastern side for 2,000 feet from the valley below, and a magnificent view is obtained of Rimini and the Adriatic from the ancient Belfry.

Design No. 2 shows the Government Palace in which are the offices of the Captains Regents, the Bureaus of the Departments of Internal and External Affairs, the Council Chambers, etc. It is an imposing structure, built of the fine stone quarried on the slopes of Monte Titano, and dominates the Piazza della Liberta, and was completed in 1894, being commemorated in that year by a set of three stamps.

Design No. 3. The statue of Liberty facing the Government Palace in the Piazza della Liberta. "Libertas" is the motto of the Republic.

Design No. 4. View of the triple peaks of Monte Titano with the city of San Marino, the Capital of the Republic in the background.

It is interesting to note that the Railway which has long been contemplated to connect Rimini and the city of San Marino, a distance of 14 miles, was duly commenced a few months ago and it is anticipated will be completed in about three years.

The negotiations relating to this Railway were hastened forward, owing to the expressed desire on the part of Signor Mussolini for its existence as soon as possible.

The Republic of San Marino was founded in the 4th Century, and has existed as an Independent State ever since. The territory comprises 38 square miles, and the population is 13,000.

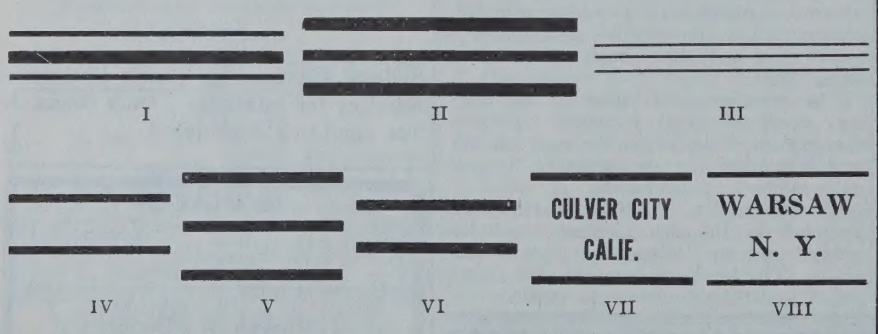
THE PRECANCEL REVIEW

A. F. GAMBER, Editor, 630 Euclid Av., Valley City, N. D.



The review this time is engaged mainly in a quest for information. Above is pictured a group of early bars and lines, which have not yet been positively identified. If any WEEKLY reader can positively identify any of them, preferably by a cover or a piece of cover, we shall all be the gainers.

I have No. 1 applied horizontally to a 1c Columbian, it came out of the E. R. Aldrich collection. No. 2 is likewise horizontally applied to the same stamp, is from the same source, and both are printed. No. 3 is three horizontal lines applied to a 2c Columbian with a printer's rule, it appears from my copy. I also have the same stamp bearing one such horizontal line. No. 4 is found printed horizontally on the 1c 1898. No. 5 is printed horizontally on the 6c 1902. No. 6 I have printed horizontally on the 1c 1879.

Now will you kindly look through your covers or loose stamps and see if you can find some positive identification of some one or more of these anonymities?

Jumping from the past down to the present, we have two handsome new printed types. Culver City is one of the movie colonies on the outskirts of Los Angeles, probably my 1½c in this type carried a photograph to some movie fan. This town has used the U-53 handstamp on practically all values through the $1, but it was usually indistinct, so this printed type will be welcome. It may be typeset, but probably is not.

The Warsaw certainly is typeset, I have it on the 1c compound. Who has it on what other values?

Sevard's Twinkles

With all these commemoratives coming out, we propose that our school book histories be revamped to include the various important incidents which are now being eulogized in philately. Since my McGuffey days, five battles have been dropped from the Revolutionary War, and seven from the Civil War, and two explorers have been added. This is unfair to the older generation. At the World's Fair in Chicago, the Singer Sewing Machine Company gave out colored prints of the high-lights of American history, such as Putnam and the wolf, Mad Anthony climbing Bear Mountain, Ben Franklin hiking past Bar-B-Q's, General Grant and the pig, which is applicable to mission mixtures, and Abe Lincoln figuring out his income tax.

Permit No. 10262, New York, under Sec. 435½, has come over in a Type C style. When these things start hitting the 10,000 mark, it is bad enough, but when they start taking our good Type C permits for this sort of dirty work, we ought to start an injunction. Fortunately, we have only one, and we hope there aren't any more.

Searching for meters is like making up a compendium of universal business. In fact, meters and business contact are historically merged. We fill up our meters and permits, and we have the town's banks, newspapers, department stores and industries all lined up. We learn where Crane paper is made, what milk they drink in Saint Louis, when they do; why Middletown, Ohio, uses so many m where Henry Ford's plants are, Standard Oil centralizes its invoices so on. We can run down your Board with meter numbers, or you dio stations, or your tax commissi or your telephone companies. It's much the value of the meters, as search. You begin your quest fo elusive, a little of love, a little of a ture, and a little of all things.

IF YOU HAVE PETULANT EYES WI OPHTHALMIA, YOU WILL HAVE GAZ DISAPPEARING FEMININITY TO O THOSE SUBTLE SHADES OF HOSIERY W DEFY THE COLOR CLASSIFICATIONS O OR COSTALES. THE LATEST SHADES, DELICATE HUES OF DISCRIMINATION, ATED BY THE RENOWNED SLOPPY JA ELIZABETHTOWN, ARE NONE TOO FA OUS FOR US COLLECTORS. TAKE TH HALE IN A GUNMETAL, THE 9C JEFF IN A SUNBURN BEIGE, THE 8C GRA HAZELWOOD, AND THE 1½C HARDI DUST. YET WHAT SHALL WE DO THAT IRREFRAGABLE FRENCH NUDE?

In any postal marking, Town notes a plain ordinary townmark its usual or characteristic town, date, hour, year. In the larger citi find a die mark in the townmark, a ber, a letter. This we have called B. These two classes for town cover perhaps 98% of all postal ma from our earliest marks down to the ent. We have at times spoken station marks, which generally fill Townmark C, but of them, nothin been written, except a few odd sli here and there. The point at ha that in the International machines, Tow mark B has suffered many changes the Hey-Dolphin hey-day. Today,

'W COMMEMORATIVE SOON

mpletion of Ohio River Improvements to be Recognized

PITTSBURGH, March 30.

is reported that the Post Office pt. has granted the request of the r fraternity here, for a special stamp e issued sometime in the fall of this r, in commemoration of the comple- of the improvements of the Ohio er. Plans are now being made for design, and the date and places of e. There is to be a marine parade, President Hoover has tentatively ac- ed an invitation to be present. Pitts- gh will probably be one of the "first of issue" towns, for the new stamp.

HARRY E. HUBER.

ongratulations are due the Ohio River rests on the granting by the Post ce Department of their request for a ial stamp issue to commemorate the pletion of the improvement program n Pittsburgh to Cairo, Ill. This will aken as substantial recognition of the onal importance of the "On to Cairo" ement, to be crowned next fall with a bration to which the stamps will add ificance. It required more than a eration to bring slack-water along the th of the stream; the total expendi- s were about $100,000,000. These, in outline, are the reasons which ght a favorable decision to the pro- l for special attention by the postal orities.

uccess in this instance will spur the responsible for the marine pageant other features of the celebration to ter efforts than ever to attract the at- ion of the country to the occasion, g great crowds to the events and the canalized stream off on its ght-carrying career in a proper at- phere of enthusiasm. The program ined is an ambitious one. There are s and weeks of heavy work ahead of e in charge. The initial victory will ish inspiration for the matters of nization and detail which are ahead. ditorial in Pittsburgh Post Gazette, ch 29, from Gilbert Thiessen.

A BOON TO PHILATELY

Postmasters Instructed to Use Care and not Disfigure Stamps

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 2.

That there will be no change in the friendly attitude manifested during the past few years by the Post Office Department toward the philatelic fraternity is indicated by instructions just sent to all postmasters throughout the country by R. S. Regar, Third Assistant Postmaster General, to exercise care in canceling high-value stamps in order that their philatelic value may not be diminished. While the instructions were issued primarily as a result of reports that some postmasters were not effectively canceling postage stamps, the department took the opportunity to say a good word for the stamp collectors:—

"Postage stamps may be properly canceled without disfiguring the stamps," it was pointed out. "Care should be exercised not to cause disfigurement of postage stamps having philatelic value. A composition stamp, containing two elliptical lines, without the name of post office and State, has proven satisfactory for the cancellation of postage stamps having philatelic value, affixed to registered mail."

THE A. P. S. AND THE S. P. A.

A Friendly Rivalry Based Upon Co-operation and Understanding

Major Guy W. A. Camp in a letter to the Managing Editor intimates that plans are maturing for closer bonds of fellowship between our two national organizations. We feel that we are violating no confidence in quoting Major Camp:—

"I have recently held conference with some of the leaders of the A. P. S., and plans are being rapidly worked out whereby the two organizations will work together in coöperation with but a friendly rivalry between them. The above action is one of the first results of this movement. The two big organizations will work for cleanliness in their ranks and do everything to keep the undesirable out of the circles of organized philately. I can see a great day of prosperity dawning for organized philately."

WASHING OF STAMPS CHARGED

Bay State Man Accused of Breaking the Criminal Code

CHARLESTON, S. C., Mar. 27.

William B. Hale, philatelist of Hubbardstown, Mass., was arrested here today by Federal authorities, charged with violating the section of the criminal code forbidding cleansing of canceled stamps and their use or sale.

Maintaining his innocence, he was held in jail tonight in default of $2,000 bail.

The Federal officers charged that Hale was the selling agent of a wide-spread ring of "stamps washers" and they claimed to have found in his room a large supply of canceled stamps and "washed" specimens, and a chemical preparation in his luggage.

It was said that Hale had been under surveillance for weeks and that other arrests would follow soon.

ALBANY (N. Y.) NEWS NOTES

The Third Annual Exhibition held by the Fort Orange Stamp Club in the rotunda of the State Education Building proved a splendid success. It was held over an extra day at the request of certain local people. * * * Messrs. Ryder and Habbert recently made a nice find of covers dating from about 1800 to 1850. The find was made in Troy, N. Y., and consisted for the most part of stampless covers. Vice-Pres. Walton has also made a wonderful find of covers that may prove to be one of the best in the state or this section of the country. * * * The Collectors Club of N. Y. City will send a group of their members up to Albany, April 16. The nomination of new officers will occur in a few weeks.

NATIONAL JUNIOR SOCIETY

FREEPORT, N. Y., March 29.

I do not know whether you are thoroughly aware of the stamp propaganda and publicity that I am at the present time spreading to the four winds, by radio station WOR, and personal lectures all over the country.

For your own information I wish to tell you that I have started a National Junior Stamp Society along the lines of Mr. Melville's. These clubs are usually sponsored by the various stores in the cities that I visit. As I have no stamps to sell at retail and am at the present time seeking someone to handle my wholesale business, desiring to devote all of my time to stamp propaganda, it is my thought that my work should have the coöperation of the stamp trade.

I am enclosing one of the membership cards of the Boston Junior Stamp Club, and also a newspaper clipping describing some of my work in one of the Springfield, Mass., papers.

SIGMUND I. ROTHSCHILD.

N. J. PHILATELIC FEDERATION

By HENRY C. DEWITT, JR.

On February 22, a group of New Jersey collectors met at the meeting rooms of the Hackensack Philatelic Society to see if it were possible to form a state society. Everyone present was in favor of the project. The second meeting was held at Bloomfield, N. J., on March 5, and on March 23rd, the third meeting was held at Rutherford, and representatives were present as follows:—Passaic, Paterson, and Bloomfield Stamp Clubs, Collectors Club of New Jersey, Hackensack and Summit Philatelic Societies, and the North Bergen Stamp Club of Westwood, and it was voted to organize the New Jersey Philatelic Federation.

Its purposes are to promote the collecting and study of postage stamps in all its branches; to arrange the formation of local clubs, and to aid existing clubs; to foster mutual relations between local clubs and individual collectors; to promote exhibitions and lectures, and to conduct publicity in the press and other mediums. Membership will be composed of clubs and individuals resident in New Jersey, and the membership will in no way effect the standing or relations of clubs or individuals in any other organization. The conducting of sales or exchange shall not be permitted as an activity of the Federation.

The next meeting will be held at Paterson, N. J., in April. At this meeting the election of permanent officers will take place, and the following list will be presented:—For Pres., Stephen G. Rich of Verona; 1st Vice Pres., Henry C. DeWitt, Jr. of Summit; 2nd Vice Pres., A. Klingenstein of Jersey City; Ex. Sec., Willis M. Pott of Summit; Corr. Sec., G. Riker of Roselle Park; Treas., S. Lake of Paterson. The list for Board of Governors is as follows: W. McIlleny, Passaic; F. Klingenstein, Bloomfield; O. G. Reichelt, Paramus; Eugene C. Betrix, Newark; W. A. Euler, Westwood; Elliott Perry, Westfield; and H. F. Christensen, Emerson.

Any collector in New Jersey who is interested in becoming affiliated with the Federation can secure full information as to the next and future meetings by addressing the Secretary pro-tem, H. F. Christensen, Emerson, N. J.

EDITORIAL

WHILE the news that the post office department published, dated March 20, 1929, to the effect that the supply of the Clark commemorative issue had become exhausted, and that in consequence, postmasters at direct and central accounting offices should refrain from ordering further supplies of them, is somewhat surprising to collectors generally, yet there are others who anticipated the result. The attractions of the stamps are so genuine that the public became interested in this commemorative to an unusual degree and a popular demand is apt to make a clean sweep of a mere twenty million.

THE officers of the Twin City society who have in charge the work of preparation for the convention of the American Philatelic Society and the National Postage Stamp Show at Minneapolis next August are: Gerald H. Burgess, President, Minneapolis; Olaf J. Olson, St. Paul, Vice-President; Percy Brown, Secretary-Treasurer; and Directors: Geo. Brack, St. Paul; Philip Little, Jr.; Minneapolis; E. M. Oleson, Minneapolis; and E. J. Weschcke, St. Paul. The Sales Manager is W. B. Kessel. This society has found it advisable to change the dates of the convention and the exhibition from the week of August 12, 1929, to August 19th to August 25th. The convention will be held at the New Nicollet Hotel, August 20th to 25th, mornings only, and the stamp display will be open throughout the week in the new Hodgson Building. Since the Society of Philatelic Americans will assemble at Cleveland, the week of August 12, 1929, the action of the Twin City men is a gracious one as avoiding any conflict of dates.

A BUSINESS man who encourages, even fosters, stamp collecting among his younger associates explains his attitude, as follows: "One of the major problems of American industry is to find new markets for the consumption of the increasing output of our factories. The most promising markets for many standard products lie overseas. We need to develop more sales managers and advertising managers who are world-conscious, or men who have had an opportunity to travel abroad, who possess this consciousness as a natural effect. Next to foreign travel, I rank stamp collecting as the most pleasant and surest means of gaining a feeling of familiarity with the whole world. I know personally of more than one manufacturer who has built up a profitable foreign trade during the last five years due principally to the fact that either the sales manager or advertising manager, through years of collecting and studying foreign stamps had acquired an interest in these distant places which found a natural expression at the first opportunity in his daily work. Competitors of these manufacturers, in several cases at least, do not seem to be paying any attention to foreign markets, which further indicates that the influence of the philatelic-minded management is almost solely responsible for the policy of the first-named group." Here is a brief observation so convincingly presented that one must admit its force and coming to us, as it does voluntarily from the head of a department in a great business institution, we are proud to pass the good words along.

THE following correspondence has just come from the Canal Zone. On April 1, 1929, a fifteen cent airmail was issued by appropriately surcharging the one cent Gorgas for use on the South American airmail flight of April 4th, by the Pan-American Grace Airways, Inc. The first printing was 100,000. The possibilities are that the Republic of Panama will issue another airmail stamp. There will be a special cachet applied at Miami, whence mail will leave April 1, arriving at Cristobal, April 3rd, connecting with the first flight south, scheduled for April 4, 1929. There will be also a special cancellation cachet applied to Canal Zone mail. Our informant says: "I am unable to learn if both cachets will be applied to such first flight airmail originating in the United States, but it is likely that both will not be used on the same envelope." Too, he says that the five, twelve and fifty cent of the new set of Canal Zone will soon be on sale as well as a new series of Canal Zone postage due some time later.

MR. EDWARD LOEB, Chicago, tells us that he has just received the covers that he prepared for the Douglas, Arizona, and Agua Prieta, Mexico, dedication of the International Airports, from the Chamber of Commerce and Mines, Douglas, with the following explanation: "On account of the Mexican Revolution, we are unable to obtain Mexican stamps, and the dedication of our International Airport has been indefinitely postponed . . . You may be able to obtain Mexican stamps by writing to the postmaster of Mexico City." This flight dedication for April 6th will have to come in the future, if at all; and all those who sent covers with eighteen cents for the Agua Prieta service no doubt have been told that the ceremonies have been indefinitely postponed.

MR. P. J. DROSSOS, Athens, Greece, writes: "Although the large Stadium, especially prepared in Alexandria, is ready, and likewise, the stamps t Egypt Pan-African Games issue games are not to take place, accordi the Egyptian press, most probab avoid the contact of the divers A nations, of whom many have no political independence that Egypt sesses. If, therefore, the Pan-A Games take place later, the stamps have to be surcharged, with the new at least. If the Games do not take at all, and the Olympic Games are in Egypt, instead, then the stamps c be used for the purpose and will b stroyed." This is a scurvy trick vite perfectly new stamps to a co out party only to have it called off Drossos says that a variety of the Farouk, 10mm exists with the cen brown-violet instead of grey-black.

AS showing what Mr. B. F. Myer assistant superintendent of air service, Chicago, is confronted with desire to give early information o flights to collectors, here is a ca point. It was only on March 22, that he received the news that serv Route CAM 27, will be extended Bay City, Michigan, to Cleveland, with the following stops: Bay City, naw, Flint, Pontiac, Detroit, Mic and Toledo, and Cleveland, Ohi April 1, 1929. Only two offices o extension will be provided with flight cachets; Toledo and Clev Ohio. Acting with the utmost pr ness, Mr. Myers is yet unable to ci this news in time to give a sufficien gin to collectors who are in the f mail zones. How to overcome th jection as typified in the present in is one of the difficult problems to and it is the "gover'ment" that wil to do it.

Air Mail News

BY DONALD E. DICKASON,
Wooster, Ohio

(Our subscribers are urged to send air mail news direct to Mr. Dickason and especially advance news concerning first flights, with names of cities served. The scope of this department will not allow the treatment of flights from other than the purely philatelic standpoint.)

Osgood E. Waite informs me that he received a cover from the Mexico City-Brownsville flight prepaid with only a 10 centimes stamp, which is about 5c in our money. The regular rate is 35 centimes, but this evidently slipped through. Has anyone else received one so prepaid?

*****

Here's another "crash" cover. Fred Stanton, Jr., received on March 18th, in New York City, a severely burned letter which was stamped as follows: "Air Mail damaged in plane crash at Park City, Vt., 3-11-29, C. F. Dutton, P. O. Insp." Another envelope in the same mail also badly damaged, sent from the same point, did not bear the stamped notice. Myron J. Friedman received one of these stamped letters at Cleveland also. We'd welcome more information on these covers.

*****

Another, an early one this time, is reported by B. Kutzberg. This is a regular Veterans Bureau Penalty Envelope, cancelled Washington, D. C., Oct. 14, 1920, and handstamped in purple, "Received at Oakland from airplane wreck." The envelope is partly burned and discolored. A number of such covers are being reported recently and someone might start an interesting check list of such covers. Needless to say, they're not made for collectors.

*****

The preliminary negotiations for the world's longest air route, London to Capetown have been completed, and weekly service is expected to be established soon.

A newspaper clipping gives an extended story of the proposed flight of the giant Rohrbach-Rostra plane from Germany to the U. S., in May, carrying a crew of five, one of whom will be Miss Mildred Johnson. The clipping states that cargo will be carried as on the recent trip of the "Graf Zeppelin," including mail at $3.00 an ounce, the sale for the postage being arranged with the German postal authorities. That looks official and we should hear more from it soon.

1,000 letters by Holmes Airport, Inc., and 1,600 from collectors was the record sent from Jackson Heights Sta., Flushing, N. Y., on the occasion of the flag raising at the new Holmes Airport. A special cachet in red or blue, and a few green was applied, George F. Wilde, of New York Aviation Show fame being in charge of this feature.

This looks like something. P. R. Crooker reports a letter bearing one of the Canal Zone 25c air stamps, postmarked Balboa Heights, January 11th, 1.30 P. M., and backstamped Miami, January 15th, 8 P. M. This is certainly air mail speed, and I wonder if there might have been a trial flight with a bit of mail on board before the opening of the regular service. I'm looking this up, but if anyone else has a similar cover or knows anything about this, I'd like to hear from him.

Lansing, Michigan, has been indefinitely cut off from air mail service because of poor landing field conditions. Service should be restored as soon as the ground dries out a bit. * * * Brownsville, Texas, dedicated its new international airport, Feb. 23 and 24th, but there was no cachet, nor special mail that I have seen. Mail sent to the Chamber of Commerce intended for the dedication was turned over by them to the Postmaster and sent out by him March 9th on the first official flight.

Speaking of Texas, proposed routes CAM 21 and 22 will be from Ft. Worth to Laredo, and Ft. Worth to Houston, to Galveston, respectively. There's no immediate prospect of their starting, so don't rush in the covers yet. * * * I'm going to risk repeating again that anyone may receive advance notification of all U. "A True Stamp Story"

By BERT JOHNSON.

I have just finished reading a true story that has a stamp collector for the hero. The hero this time is Barbuti; the man who saved United States from being shut out in the foot races in the Olympic games last year. On his trip to France he carried his stamp album with him. He is a very strong stamp collector and he liked his stamps better than his athletic feats.

The motto of the story is: "Once a collector always a collector," and basketball, football or track can't prevent it. This story was written for the March issue of the "Open Road for Boys," by Bert Nevins.

A Bit of Thrill

About thirty-five years ago, I bought a packet of mixed stamps, among which was a queer piece of reddish paper with four lines of characters printed on it. I was not at all sure it was a stamp, but kept it hinged on the back cover of the album with a few more unidentified specimens. That was years before I had a catalog, but during the many later years that I have used a catalog that particular bit of paper never came to notice till a few days ago I discovered that it is really a stamp—Nowanuggar—No. 3, and shall now get Nos. 4 and 5 to match it. I suppose you boys have had that set all this time, and could have told me all about it if I had asked you!

NEW STAMPS FOR FRENCH GUIANA

These striking designs are found in the new set that has just been issued for this French possession.

A Study in Perforations

This is the series of small holes or cuts provided between the rows of stamps so that they may be easily separated one from another. The earliest stamps of all were issued in an imperforate condition, for perforation was not introduced until some fifteen years after the first postage stamps were issued. At the present time few stamps are issued without perforation of some kind or other. There are two chief classes of perforation—those which cut small pieces right out of the paper, and those which merely make cuts but do not remove any of the paper. The first of these is machine perforation and is the one now almost universally adopted. The other division comprises rouletting in its various forms. In machine perforation small circular pieces of paper are removed from the spaces between the stamps by rows of hollow punches. Various kinds of machines are employed, but there are only two it is necessary to refer to specifically. The first of these punches a single row of holes at a time, the sheets having to be passed under the perforator twice—first for the horizontal rows and then for the vertical or vice versa. This is known as "single-line" or "guillotine" perforation and is the style invariably used in the production of United States stamps. By the other method three sides of a stamp are perforated at once, the machine producing one long row of holes and a number of short ones, equal to the length or width of a stamp, which are set at right angles to the long one. The sheets have to pass through the perforator only once as the fourth side of each row of stamps is, of course, perforated at the same time as the three sides of the next row. This is known as comb perforation.

A philatelic accessory for determining the gauge of the perforations on stamps. This is a piece of metal, card, or celluloid, on which is engraved or printed a series of rows of dots or lines, each row being two centimetres in length and containing a varying number of dots or lines corresponding with the more generally found gauges of perforation.

Taking Care of Stamps

Use care in the selection of your specimens. Better a blank space than a torn or heavily cancelled stamp, or one with the perforations partly clipped off or otherwise damaged. In some cases of great rarities, this rule will not hold good because one is glad to get some of them in any condition, but this class is small, and with the great majority of stamps, particularly the low priced ones, there is absolutely no excuse for any but fine specimens. If the collector takes pride in his stamps, which means he will be careful in collecting, he will find it to pay in the end.

Care should be used in removing paper from the backs of the specimens before mounting them, pulling off hinges, etc., as stamps are often damaged in this way. Most stamps can be soaked, preferably in hot water, and dried on blotting paper; but a few like Russians, early Bulgarians, current United States due stamps, China 1885 issue, recent British and British Colonial stamps having green in their coloring, and stamps printed on "chalk-surfaced" paper are affected by water and should not be immersed in it. A piece of wet blotting paper against the back until the adhering paper is damp enough to remove, is the best way to treat them. Of course mounting is only to be done with hinges, and care should be taken not to soil the stamps or page when it is done.

Our Junior Dictionary

London Prints.—This is self-explanatory and refers to stamps printed in London from plates made by a London firm in contradistinction to stamps printed locally from the same plates. The 1d stamp commemorative of Penny Universal Postage issued by New Zealand in 1901 will serve as an example. When the plates were despatched to the colony a supply of stamps which had been printed from them in London was forwarded at the same time, though all subsequent supplies were printed in the colony itself.

Lotte.—The value in which one of the stamps of Siam's first issue was expressed. A lotte is equal to half an att and 128 lotte formed a tical, which, in 1883, was worth about 30c in American money. A lotte was therefore the equivalent of about one-fifth of a cent.

Los Reyes Recibena Colon.—Inscription found on the 10p Salvador 1894 meaning: "Columbus Received by the King and Queen."

Posta Romana.—Found on most of the Roumanian stamps issued between 1865 and 1887. It means "Roumanian Post."

ometime ago, we wrote a tribute to early cataloguers and researcheurs, having nothing definite in the form lata to work on, created. Our editor took our plaintive dirge for a rhap- y, the pallid purity of the flute, the ntive and mellow hum of the clarinet, grave, majestic tones of the trombone, ned lost in merry dance of the piccolo. ink it was in 1912 that a chap named ndler was hot for Air Mail covers, Ralph Porter, Rev. Crow, and Miss righi of Summit, New Jersey, began task of gathering stampless covers. re were hosts of others, like Thomp- and Bye and Delano Bartlett, who sed to collect anything that was cat- ued. These chaps and young miss ed uncharted seas. They collected ps to make and break circuits for eased power later on. They all want- to have a book on American postal kings, some book like Great Britain, and, Germany have, like almost every on has, except our own. If anyone did begin it, we believe Chandler and if anyone merits distinction for sifications, we hand the palms to a young girl (then), Miss Margaret righi. In later years, the late Arche e took up the standard and made the est progress in attempting to gather to complete the Chandler, Porter, w lists, following Miss Merighi's ership. For many years, we have had correspondence of these persons, and n time to time, we have tried to pul- this old data in a newer vein. The mant interest can be recreated, we w. In copying from these books, re- g on their data, we believe we have n first to re-energize the Red Cross the battleship cancel, the R. M. S., R. F. D., the tax paids, the postal ls, the unpopular Playing Cards, the an, the meter, the paid permits, the lty envelopes, the congressionals, the inal stamp portrait idea, the marginal racteristics of all stamps, plate num- with F and phantoms and stars, the day cover. We have sought to hit 1 on the stamp condition price list, the bination price list, the elementary re- ch on stamps which in time will give a better basis for stamp values. We not denounce any catalog, as none n exists. And all these old chaps were structive. They had to be. Their ections were their catalogs. And n they asked any questions, they rd "Miss Mousy" sung to them.

e bread and cheese all sits on the shelf, you wish any more you must sing it yourself, ah-hummm."

hus we sang our rhapsody over the owed leafs of dead correspondence of early researcheurs.

SPERLING AUCTION SALE

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

On March 20th and 21st, the Scott Stamp & Coin Company sold the first portion of the well-known collection of postage stamps gotten together by Mr. E. M. Sperling, of New York City, a former officer and director of the Collectors Club. This first portion constituted the European collection of Mr. Sperling, and contained many of the well-known rarities, which are only to be had when a larger collection such as this kind, comes upon the market.

Bidding was spirited and there was a good attendance on the floor, so that things in fine condition brought very fair prices.

The choicest and rarest items in the entire lot consisted of a set of Moldavia, issue of 1858. These early Roumanian stamps are very difficult to obtain in any condition and these four were unusually fine. The 27 paras with good margins cancelled with a blue circular postmark and catalogued at $750.00, sold at $401.00. A 54 paras blue on green with red circular postmark, large margins on three sides, and almost cut into on the fourth, cataloging $300.00, sold at $185.00. A magnificent 108 paras blue on rose tied to the cover with a blue circular postmark with large and even margins on all sides, undoubtedly the finest of the four, cataloging $650.00, brought $855.00. An unused copy of the 81 paras, blue on blue wove paper with even margins on all sides, found a new owner at $1,500.00.

A Belgium, 1851, 20c, block of six, cut into on three sides, in mint condition, sold at $21.00. Mint blocks of the 1863, 40c, with full gum, brought $23.50 and $22.50, respectively. Bergedorf, 1861, ½s violet from the "Washburn" collection, sold at $37.00, while a horizontal pair of Denmark, 1863, 16s violet with full gum and lower sheet margin, went into another collection at $112.00.

The Sperling collection of Great Britain contained a set of plates of the 1864, 1d red in mint condition, consisting of one stamp from each plate with the exception of No. 77. These sold at $31.00. A £5 orange, described as "brilliant with full o.g." sold at $37.50, whereas the same stamp on bluish paper, a little soiled and cancelled "Belfast", reached $41.00. Luxemburg, 1883, 5fr, No. 461, sold at $20.50. A Mecklenburg Schwerin-Strelitz 5fr rose on green, No. 10, in unused condition with perforations cut in design, found a new owner at $33.00. Oldenburg, No. 4 on cover and very fine, sold at $54.00, and the same denomination of 1858, No. 5, off cover, slightly rubbed, at $32.00.

A very fine copy of Parma, 1859, 80c yellow with full gum, sold at $49.00. Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY

FAM No. 6, MIAMI-SAN JUAN, 1929

By HARRY E. HUBER.

On July 14, 1928, contract was awarded to the Pan-American Airways, Inc., of New York, by the U. S. Post Office Dept., for the carriage of mail by air, from Key West, Fla. (or other point in the United States), to San Juan, Porto Rico, a distance of 1,260 miles, at $2 a mile. The course of this route is via Habana, Santa Clara, Camaguey, Santiago de Cuba, Port au Prince, and Santo Domingo City, to San Juan, Porto Rico, and back, three times a week, and may be extended, at the option of the U. S. Post Office Dept. from San Juan, by the Leeward and Windward Islands, to Port of Spain, Trinidad, three times a week. Mails conveyed from and between the foreign countries are under agreements between the Pan-American Airways, Inc., and the countries concerned, but subject to the approval of the U. S. Post Office Dept.

Among the unsuccessful bidders for this contract was the West Indian Aerial Express, of Santo Domingo City, then operating an air passenger, mail and express service from Santo Domingo City west to Port au Prince, and Santiago de Cuba, and east to San Juan. About August 1, 1928, the West Indian Aerial Express discontinued their regular weekly service to Port au Prince and Santiago de Cuba, but for several months, or until they were taken over by the Pan-American Airways, Inc., whenever chartered flights were made, mails were carried.

FAM No. 4, from Key West, Fla., to Habana, Cuba, 104 miles, operated by the Pan-American Airways, Inc., was inaugurated on October 19, 1927, and from Habana northward to Key West on October 29, 1927. For this service the 5c blue Cuban air mail stamp was issued November 1, 1927. However, U. S. mails for Cuba over this route were conveyed at no extra charge over domestic postage rates.

The contracts for FAM No. 5, to the Canal Zone, and FAM No. 6, to San Juan, called for flights to start from Key West, "or other point in the United States," and following award of these contracts, the Pan-American Airways, Inc., began work on a base at Miami, Fla., on the mainland, instead of at Key West, where ground was not available for a field of the size needed. Furthermore, Key West, being on a small island, is very difficult to find on cloudy days, and in the year's trial, it was found both inconvenient and undesirable as a base.

On September 15, 1928, air mail service was established from Miami to Habana (261 miles), being an extension northward from Key West of FAM No. 4. Until December 3rd the plane from Miami stopped at Key West, but on December 4th the first direct flight was made from Miami to Habana. Return service from Habana to Miami direct, and contracted for by the Cuban Government, commenced December 5, 1928.

While it was expected that service over FAM No. 6 would be inaugurated early in 1929, it was not until the first week of December, 1928, that the Post Office Dept., at Washington, announced that first flights to and from San Juan, would be made on Wednesday, January 9, 1929, the air mail letter rate being 5c for the first ounce, and 10c for subsequent ounces. A circular of December 12, 1928, issued by the Postmaster at Miami (O. W. Pittman), contained this and the added information that stops would be made at Habana, Port au Prince and Santo Domingo City en route to San Juan. But changes were later made, and in a notice dated December 19, 1928 (appearing in the Postal Bulletin of December 21st), Port au Prince was removed as a first flight stop, and the rates were notified as 7c to Cuba, and 12c to Haiti, the Dominican Republic, and Porto Rico.

"International Air Mail Service.
Second Assistant Postmaster General,
WASHINGTON, December 19, 1928.

Air mail service on FAM route No. 6, from Miami, Fla., by Habana, Cuba, and Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic, to San Juan, Porto Rico, and back, will begin January 9, 1929. For the present service will not be provided to Port au Prince, Haiti, and exchange of mails will not be made at Santa Clara, Camaguey, and Santiago, Cuba, all exchanges of Cuban mails to be made at Habana.

Air mail service on FAM route No. 7, from Miami, Fla., to Nassau, Bahama Islands, one way, will begin January 2, 1929.

Air mail service on route No. 5, from Miami, Fla., to Cristobal, Canal Zone, and back, will begin January 11, 1929. Temporarily, a reduced service on this route will be provided of two round trips a month, and mails will be carried only between the terminal points of Miami and Cristobal.

Postage on these routes will be charged at the following rates:

On mails to Cuba and Bahama Islands, 5 cents for each half ounce or fraction in addition to regular postage.

On mails to Haiti (when service begins), Santo Domingo, and Porto Rico, and on mails from Porto Rico by return flights, 10 cents for each half ounce or fraction in addition to regular postage.

On mails to the Canal Zone (and for points beyond to be dispatched by steamer from Cristobal), 25 cents for each half ounce or fraction in addition to regular postage.

Mail for these routes will be given dispatch by domestic air mail service to Miami where practicable.

Any service for mails dispatched from foreign countries traversed by the routes will be under agreements between those countries and the operating company.

Special cachets will be furnished the postmasters at Miami and San Juan for use on mails of first flights.

2. Miami to Habana (261 miles), Jan. 9, 1929

On Wednesday, January 9, 1929, service over FAM No. 6, was formerly inaugurated from Miami, Fla., when at 9.15 a. m., Ed Musick took off from the Pan-American Airways flying field, in a Fokker F-10 plane, with six bags of mail for Habana, three for Santo Domingo City, and four for San Juan. The plane arrived at Camp Columbia field, outside of Habana, at 11.30 a. m., and there the mail for Cuban destinations was handed over to the Cuban postal authorities.

3. Habana to Santiago de Cuba (490 miles), Jan. 9, 1929

At Habana, the U. S. air mail for points beyond Cuba (7 bags, weighing 125 lbs.) was transferred to a Ford trimotored plane, NC. 9637 (re-christened "Cuba" that morning, as part of the inaugural ceremonies at Habana), and at 11.40 a. m., C. D. Swinson took off for Camaguey (310 miles), where fuel and supplies were taken on. The flight was resumed at 3.10 p. m., and landing effected at Santiago de Cuba (180 miles) at 5.25 p. m. As U. S. air mail for Cuban destinations was exchanged only at Habana, no direct dispatches were made up by Miami (or San Juan), for Camaguey or Santiago de Cuba. No Cuban mail whatever was carried.

4. San Juan to Santiago de Cuba (730 miles), Jan. 9, 1929

Meanwhile, service from San Juan, the eastern terminus of the route had been inaugurated, and at 7 a. m. Eastern Standard time (8 a. m., local time), B. L. Rowe, formerly with the West Indian Aerial Express, took off in a Fokker F-7 plane, NC. 5192, with one bag of mail for Santo Domingo City, one for Habana, and two for Miami (154 lbs. total weight). All time given in this article is Eastern Standard, which is 20 minutes slower than Port au Prince, 40 minutes slower than Santo Domingo, and 1 hour slower than San Juan.

A stop was made at Santo Domingo City (270 miles), from 9.29 a. m. to 9.58 a. m., to leave mail from San Juan, and to take on mails (five bags) for Port au Prince, Santiago de Cuba, Camaguey, Habana and Miami.

At Port au Prince (185 miles), a stop was made (11.01 a. m. to 12 noon) to leave mail from Santo Domingo City, and to take on mails (four bags), for Santiago de Cuba, Camaguey, Habana, and Miami. Santiago de Cuba (270 miles) was reached at 2.25 p. m.

5. Santiago de Cuba to Miami via Habana, Jan. 10, 1929

The mail originating at Miami (7 bags, 125 lbs.) for Santo Domingo City, and San Juan, brought by plane NC. 9637, was transferred to plane NC. 5192, at Santiago de Cuba, and vice versa, and on Thursday morning, January 10th, the two planes took off for their respective bases. NC. 9637 re-fueled at Camaguey, and reached Habana at 1.15 p. m. Mail for the U. S. was transferred to the Miami plane, which left at 3 p. m., and arrived at Miami at 5.15 p. m.

6. Santiago de Cuba to San Juan, Jan. 10, 1929

Plane NC. 5192, in charge of B. L. Rowe, left for the east at 7.02 a. m., January 10th; made stops at Port au Prince (10.05 a. m. to 10.25 a. m.) and Santo Domingo City (12.20 to 12.59 p. m.), and arrived at San Juan at 4.05 p. m., E. S., or 5.05 p. m. San Juan time. At Port au Prince a mail of 10 lbs. was taken on for Santo Domingo City and San Juan; at Santo Domingo City, mail from Miami and Port au Prince was deposited, and 6 kilos of mail for San Juan was taken on.

Herbert Cohn sends a letter from the Postmaster at Friedrickshapn, Germany, which contains important official information on future doings of the "Graf Zeppelin". He states that the ship expected to start to Palestine, March 26th. The second trip to America will be made early in May. The third trip is to be made around the world during July or August, stops being Tokio, San Diego, Los Angeles, Lakehurst and Friedrickshapn. Anything pertaining to mail will be attended to at the main P. O. in Berlin. Rates will probably be 50c for letters, and 25c for cards. That's real information and we appreciate it.

Victor M. Saurez states that a new Mexican Service — Mazathan-Durango-Torreon-Monterrey-Matamoras (Brownsville) will be inaugurated as soon as the revolutionary activities are suppressed. Service on the Mexico City-Mexicali route, stops at Guadalajara, Tepic, Mazathan, Culiacan, Cajeme and Guaymas to Mexicali, is likely to open soon, contractors probably the Maddox Air Lines of Los Angeles. Merida, Mexico, may be included soon in service to Canal Zone.

A clipping from Los Angeles states that the Goodyear-Zeppelin Co. plans to experiment with an airship passenger service in California this summer, and eventually contemplates service to Hawaii and the Philippines. * * * The Balloon Races in Pittsburg, May 4th, will be commemorated by a Special cachet provided by the Contractor of the Cleveland-Pittsburg route. Covers for this, as well as any other event provided for by this contractor, should go to Mr. J. P. Penning, 124 E. Eugene Ave., Homestead, Pa., who is officially handling all cachet work for CAM 11.

Mr. Penning reports the following figures as to collectors' mail handled for the Pittsburg Aviation Show. Colors used were green, violet, red, blue, black, violet, black, red, respectively, on the dates from March 9th to 16th. 1,000 collector's letters were mailed on March 9, 11 and 16, and about 750 the other days. The air mail and post office booth was maintained jointly by the Pittsburg Post Office and Clifford Ball, contractor CAM 11.

I have been shown copies of letters from Mr. W. Irving Glover, 2nd Asst. Postmaster General and Pan-American Airways, Inc., concerning the special Panama mail carried in a separate plane at the time of the first Canal Zone-U. S. flight. Mr. Glover states that the department had issued positive instructions that no foreign mail was to be carried, but that the Panama government insisted strongly on being allowed to send mail, and that even the State Department urged permission for this, saying that it would cause bad feeling if the prepared mail was not carried. In spite of this, Mr. Glover again wired that no foreign mail was to be carried. For this reason, evidently the mail was brought in another ship entirely separate from the Canal Zone consignment. Mr. Glover states that on its receipt at Miami these letters were not backstamped, but were sent as ordinary first class mail to their destination.

Here's a man who says his covers from Brownsville, north, on March 9th, came through with an octagon cachet in red. Previous information was that the official cachet didn't arrive in time. We'll have to look into this further. * * * Newton, Iowa, will dedicate its airport about May 1st. Covers to the C. of C. * * * Nicaragua has approved a mail contract with the Pan-American Airways. That means service soon on the Miami-Cristobal route.

Rep. Clyde Kelly will introduce a bill in congress providing for postal clerks to ride the mail planes, and to drop off sacks at all towns en route, without landing at the smaller points at all. This is a further step which would increase the incoming service at least.

Coöperators certainly hit the ball this week! Thirty-seven is fine, and that's what it takes to make a good department. They were Osgood E. Waite, Fred Stanton, Jr., Anna M. Schafer, Geo. F. Wild, P. On April 15th, another Mexican service will be opened between Minatitlan, Ver., and Tapachula, Chis., in the southern part of the country. Tuxtla Gutierrez, Chis., San Cristobal las Casas, and Comitan, Chis., will probably be intermediate stops.

*****

A special letter comes from Mr. Glover in which he regretfully announces as stated last week that back-stamping first flights has had to go the way of all the rest. He states that the effort to do this thus far has only caused much confusion and extra work, and hints gently that some collectors haven't gone out of their way to help out their difficulties.

At the same time, in announcing that only Toledo and Cleveland would have special cachets April 1st, when they were added to CAM 27, he stated that these two offices would back-stamp all airmail originating from CAM 27. * * * Effective April 1st, also, Detroit ceased to be a stop on CAM 17, the New York-Chicago route. Detroit will get almost as good service with the Toledo connection on one side, and the Chicago one on the other on route 27. * * * Effective March 21st, that extra 2c, which caused first day fans so much misery, was dropped from the rates of the foreign routes 4, 5, 6 and 7. Rates are now, per ½ oz., 5c to Cuba and Bahamas, 10c to Haiti, Dominican Republic, and Porto Rico, and 25c to and from Canal Zone.

Buffalo Aero Show covers are coming in nicely—dates March 23-30. Cachet by CAM 20. The Scout Philatelic Club applied their "Greetings from Buffalo" cachet on the reverse of some covers. * * * Chandler, Ariz., dedicated March 13 on very short notice, using a neat cachet. * * * The American Legion of Waukesha, Wis., applied a special cachet in red and violet on March 16, commemorating the 10th anniversary of the founding of the Legion. * * * Porterville, Calif., celebrated Air Mail Week, March 11-17, and applied an unofficial cachet. * * * Montebello, Calif., used an unofficial cachet on about 200 letters March 4-8, in honor of Herbert Hoover, California's first president.

Santa Rosa will have a dedication and special mail carrying flight between April 15 and May 1st. Covers to the Chamber of Commerce. * * * Otis, Colorado, had a dedication and mail carrying flight March 30th. * * * Auburn, Me., will dedicate June 1, with a special cachet by the C. of C. * * * The first night flight from Oakland air field to the east is expected to take place very shortly.

More Prestamp Covers

On two separate occasions during the last year or so, I have been so fortunate as to acquire a number of Prestamp covers and in each case sold them promptly through offering them to "Mekeel's" readers.

I have just acquired a further original find, containing not only a good number of the 1851 3c orange-brown in singles, pairs, and strips with the "Express Mail" cancellation, but in addition a fair quantity of Prestamp covers from numerous cities. As I make no effort to stock these Prestamp covers, they are offered, like in former cases, at prices which should move them without delay.

Practically every collector today is starting his album with a few covers used previous to the issue of stamps, which show, in addition to the postmark, an indication, either stamped or in manuscript, indicating the amount of postage prepaid or to be collected. While the present little supply lasts, ten different covers are available at $1.00. Can furnish upward of fifty varieties on this basis. Those purchasing twenty or more at one time will receive in the lot, one cover without stamps, bearing a "U. S. Express Mail" postmark. These transit marks are always of unusual interest. Judging from past experiences, these covers are not likely to last long, so that early requests are suggested.

Also bear in mind that I offer the interested collector the opportunity of acquiring most of the other issues of United States, including singles, strips, blocks and covers.

Am in the market at all times to acquire for immediate cash, important U. S. items, used or mint. Also desire rare foreign covers worth $50.00 or more, used previous to 1860. In all cases, condition is of paramount importance. If you are looking for the best the market affords, write—

Washington Notes

The new Postmaster General, Hon. Walter F. Brown of Ohio, issuing his first notice through the Postal Bulletin, asked for the coöperation of the members of his organization and calls attention to the fact that the Department is a business and not a political or eleemosynary institution. He incidentally mentions that no profit should be added to the cost of the various services rendered.

Coming from Ohio, it will not be surprising to see the recent request for the Ohio stamps commemorating engineering feats be given his approval.

At this writing, the Assistant Postmaster Generals have not been reappointed, but it is believed that Messrs. Glover and Regar will continue as heretofore as Second and Third Assistant Postmaster Generals, respectively. It is expected that the First and Fourth Postmaster Generals will possibly retire, but official information has not as yet been given out in the case of any of these gentlemen.

In view of the fact that we are now beginning a new Administration, and as our present issue of stamps was started in 1922, exactly seven years back, it would be interesting if the Post Office Department considered the issuing of an entire new series of postage stamps. Changes should also be made in the designs of the envelope stamps, as well as the postage due varieties, for the present designs of these two issues have been in use much longer than in the case of the postal adhesives. The envelopes have not been changed since 1916, and we are still using the same designs on the postage due varieties that were inaugurated in 1894.

Please Mr. Postmaster General change the postage due stamps, for we have been using the same design for thirty-five years and the collector, at least, is getting tired of looking at them. Use the large figures as a central design on a new series if you want, but change the border, and why not the colors?

As the Hoover Administration is an engineering, business administration, why not reflect these interests in a new series of adhesive stamps? Industry should be represented, and as a guide, for subjects, the idea brought forward in the parcel post series of 1912 is worthy of consideration. There the automobile, the steel, and the aeroplane industries were recognized, as well as several means of transportation, and since then, the radio has come to the fore-front. Agriculture was given attention through dairying, fruit-growing and harvesting. Mr. Hoover being an engineer by profession, would, no doubt, be interested in seeing many of the important engineering projects of the country depicted upon our stamps, and coming from California, one of the states of beautiful scenery, should result in our natural views appearing on some of the issues. There are also numerous historical spots of utmost importance throughout the country, and these should be remembered as we are still passing through the time of the Sesqui-centennial of our birth as a nation. In a new series let us have only one or two portraits—say, Washington, Lincoln, and possibly Franklin. Such a series could be easily produced in the size of our current issue by simply placing the long dimension horizontal. Don't give us larger stamps on a regular series as there will be a "howl" from the postal clerks, where it is necessary to count sheets of fifty, seventy, or the like.

At the same time, give us a new air mail series with high denominations to cover postage to the South American points that we are now reaching, including the 55-cent rate, which I believe is going to be charged on mail to Peru.

No More Back-Stamping

While recently in Washington, I had an opportunity of discussing with Mr. Warren Irving Glover, Second Assistant Postmaster General, on the subject of back-stamping first-day covers of air mail. It seems that since they have discontinued back-stamping air mail in general that postmasters overlook back-stamping special covers, and as a result one clerk in the office of the Second Assistant Postmaster General has recently been assigned to arrange for back-stamping all covers that have slipped through in this manner. This is costing the Department not only money, but much trouble, and as the Department is being run for the efficiency of the service only and not for stamp collectors, Mr. Glover has no doubt, rightfully suggested that in the future not even first-day covers receive postmarks at the receiving station. As this will apply to all, and as collectors will not look for the back-stamps in the future, it is not likely to effect in any way the collecting of air mail covers.

Since discussing the subject with Mr. Glover, the following communication signed by him, and dated March 23rd, has been received:

"The Second Assistant Postmaster General has found it necessary to recommend to the First Assistant Postmaster General the discontinuance of all back-stamping on all Air Mail, which, of course, includes first flights.

It has been found impossible to provide these first flight back-stamps without great delay to the service. In a number of instances where back-stamping has been warranted for first flight purposes, it has materially delayed the regular Air Mail—by this I mean where the transfer of the mail is made from one plane to another at a landing field, and the mail to be back-stamped must be taken to the local post office and be returned to the field, thus delaying the mail probably several hours.

The Department has tried to provide this back-stamp, but it cannot do so any longer in justice to the regular Air Mail in transit. It is just impossible to distinguish first flight covers from the regular mail, and all post offices cannot be expected to give the same attention to back-stamping owing to this fact.

The Department wants to give every aid possible to first flight cover collectors, and especially the Second Assistant Postmaster General, who has always been interested in Philately and, in future first flights, where an official special cachet is provided by the Department, the Second Assistant Postmaster General will make it a point to have a special representative of the Department at the office where a special cachet is to be provided, whose duty it will be to see that all first flight covers shall have affixed to them the special cachet and a cancellation which will be as clear and as perfect as possible, thus adding to their value.

No doubt, this notice of the discontinuance of back-stamping will be regretted by many, and the Second Assistant will be the subject of much a but I am sure that, if all collectors see the work that has been thrust the Office of the Second Assistant master General in Charge of Air by individual collectors desiring stamps and special affixing of cache different positions on the envelopes, would appreciate that the job has far beyond the limits of the Depart

The Post Office Department wan do everything it can to aid the firs cover collector, but it cannot be exp to do the impossible, and it has a become that in the matter of " stamping."

+50c, sepia and black, and L5+2L olive and black, designs of Italy, No. SP10 to SP13, inclusive, have been surcharged "Circenaica" for use in this Italian Colony. The 30c value is in red, the others in black.

Egypt.—We illustrate the Prince Farouk commemorative design in which four values were issued. The stamps are done by photogravure process, perf. 13½, watermarked crown, crescent and star.

Eritrea. — The 30c+10c red and black, SP10 design, 50c+20c purple and black, SP11 type, L1.25c+50c sepia and blue, SP12 and L5+2L olive and black, design as SP13, have been surcharged "Eritrea", the first value in black and the others in red. Mr. R. Roberts gives us the information with copies for examination.

Guadeloupe. — Maison Fischer of Paris furnish Philatelic Magazine with information regarding a Charity set about to be issued. It will consist of current stamps of the values named below in new colors, and bearing the word "sinistres," and a surcharge equal to the original value of the stamp, which will be sold at that premium in aid of the victims of floods and other disasters. The series will be valid for two months, after which remainders will be destroyed. Quantity—30,000 (presumably of each value). Values 20, 25, 30, 40, 45, 50, 65, 75, 90 centimes, 1fr, 1fr10c, 1fr50c, 2fr, 5fr, 10fr and 25fr.

Italian Somaliland.—The stamps of Italy noted under Cirenaica have also been overprinted "Somalia Italiana" for this country.

Madeira.—In commenting on the new stamps, Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin states that these stamps were printed in London, and were on sale for one day only, January 31st, the reason given for this extraordinary issue being that Madeira required a museum, and that philatelists should help pay for it. The use of these stamps was compulsory on all correspondence on that day, and the total amount realised from their sale has been applied to the cost of the museum.

Portugal.—The 30c brown, Ceres type, perf. 11½, has been surcharged "40," and likewise the 3$20c olive, same design and same perforation, bears the overprint "1$60". Also the 40c brown, perf. 11½, has been surcharged "Revalidado" in black. Mr. R. Roberts sends the information.

Tripolitania.—The stamps of Italy noted under Cirenaica have been surcharged with the name of this colony. Copies are to hand from Mr. R. Roberts.

OFFICIAL COURTESY

By NELSON F. GERKEN.

In the March 18 issue appears an article by A. C. LeDuc re Bolivian stamps, with an accompanying illustration of a portion of this little republic's special Independence Centennial issue of 1925, which recalls to mind the rather unusual manner in which this set of stamps found its way into my stamp album, interesting from the fact it indicates the lengths to which some people will go to please a collector.

Late in December, 1925, information was received through the press that Bolivia was preparing to issue a set of Independence stamps, and on Jan. 2, 1926, I wrote a friend—who stands high in official circles—in La Paz, requesting he secure specimens for me.

On Feb. 9, 1926, he replied in part: "These stamps were put on sale during the celebration of the Bolivian Centennial in August, 1925, and are now no longer available," and then added that he had brought my "desires to the attention of the La Paz postmaster, and that official has informed me that he would make a special requisition on the National Treasury for additional stamps for you." About two weeks later I was delightfully surprised to receive the full set of stamps.

This is the only instance with which I am acquainted where a postal department has drawn upon its files to supply stamps to an unknown collector, such as I, and it demonstrates a degree of courtesy and willingness to oblige that is probably not often found, even in philatelic circles. Anyway, imagine trying to draw on the archives at Washington for a set of obsolete stamps. I rather infer most efforts in this direction would, to quote a popular musical title, "Faw Down and Go Boom."

My information does not indicate what quantities of this special Bolivian set of stamps were sold, but it is to the effect that of the higher values, 1, 2 and 5b, 50,000 of each was issued, while the lower values range from 100,000 to 400,000 each.

Number 2000

For nearly FORTY YEARS Mekeel's Weekly Stamp News has pursued the even tenor of its way. It has upheld Philately in a dignified presentation of the merits of our hobby, marching ever onward to larger success. It is fitting that we observe the publication of Number 2000.

S. P. A. Special

We recently gave an entire issue to the A.P.S. and we now extend a similar courtesy to its sister organization, the Society of Philatelic Americans This is a very live body, doing an excellent work for Philately and winning its way to a large place in the affections of its great membership.

How We Shall Circulate This Special!

1. A specimen copy will be sent all S.P.A. members, numbering over 1200.
2. Also to every member of every stamp club in the U. S. whose address we can secure.
3. Also to stamp collecting friends of our more than 10,000 paid-up subscribers.

"GUARANTEE" BY STAMP DEALERS

I think it would be a very good idea if the A. S. D. A. working in conjunction with The Collectors Club would organize a real heart to heart discussion as to the definition of the "Guarantee" that a stamp dealer should give to his customers.

Points that I think are open for discussion are:—

If a "guarantee" should be for a limited period or for all times?

If a collector sells his collection, does the "guarantee" pass to the new owner?

If a stamp is sold in good faith and turns out to be a forgery, should the vendor replace the stamp with a genuine one or refund the amount paid; if the latter, should interest on the price paid be added?

When a claim is made on a dealer to refund cost of a forgery he has sold, what proof is he entitled to that the stamp in question was sold by him, and as to its original cost price?

The foregoing consideration of a subject that like the sleeping dog, is better left alone in the estimation of some stamp men was submitted by a leading dealer, who favors the adoption of rules under the workings of which, uniform action would result. There may be other angles to the guarantee question that should be weighed together with those named, by competent judges. A scheme recognized as standard would simplify procedure from the point of view of both dealer and collector.

FAST WORK

TO THE EDITOR:—

On your editorial page of the March 11, 1929 issue, you state that the thanks of the collectors are due to W. M. Willmore, postmaster, and T. M. Jackson, assistant postmaster at Vincennes, Ind., for the prompt and efficient handling of the great number of first-day Clark covers on Feb. 25, 1929.

I fully agree with you and I think all other first day cover enthusiasts feel very thankful for the good work done.

My covers, U. S. Government stamped airmail envelopes with a Clark stamp attached, were postmarked Feb. 25, 1929, at 8 A. M., apparently reached Chicago in time for the noon airmail, and were received by me in the forenoon of Feb. 26, back-stamped St. Paul, Feb. 25, at 8 P. M.

This is surely great work, mainly due to the two gentlemen above named.

Very sincerely,

GUST. F. H. SELZER.

Postage refunded on items not purchased for any reason.

HERE AND THERE—

WE are pleased to announce an advertising contract with Escott C. Bland, of 16 Mansfield Road, Parkstone, Dorset, England. Mr. Bland is a member of the A. P. S., and also the S. P. A., and has been secretary of the Philatelist Exchange Club since 1920. Mr. Bland will be represented each week, by an advertisement, and we take great satisfaction in recommending him to our readers.

ATTENTION is called to the notable Plumridge sale of the Errington and Martin stock. Particulars will be found in the advertisement in this issue.

THE writer of the article "Ile de France Provisionals" on page 195, March 18, is incorrectly informed when he says "The 10fr stamps were all used, and none were left when the vessel reached port." I know that letters entrusted with the purser for mailing on this trip (Aug. 23, to Paris) came through franked with ordinary French 10fr stamps, and I know that on the afternoon she sailed from New York a fellow collector had no difficulty obtaining some from the postal clerk aboard the ship. See American Airmail catalog 1929, page 67, Listing No. 207a.—HENRY C. DEWITT, JR.

VICTOR WEISKOPF, 505 Fifth Ave., New York City, would like to have the address of the Birmingham, Ala., collector who wrote him a letter enclosing some stamps, and who forgot to sign his name and street address.

WE are advised of the organization of the American Flying Air Mail Association, under date of Feb. 7. A bulletin is at hand from Henry O. Meisel, Sec.-Treas., Clintonville, Wis., and we suggest that air mail cover collectors communicate with Mr. Meisel for detailed information regarding this new organization. Bulletins will be issued as often as necessary.

WE have received a very attractive price list from J. Rosenberg, Steglitzerstr. 53, Berlin, W35, Germany. All dealers will find it very much to their advantage to possess a copy for reference. A wide range of offerings is presented and the prices are very reasonable. Mr. Rosenberg is using our columns regularly, and comes to us with excellent recommendations. We bespeak for him a share of the patronage of our dealer advertisers.

"I JUST note that my subscription expires with No. 1994, and therefore am enclosing my check for $5, and will thank you to mark me up for another five years. This last five certainly has gone by in a hurry, and when I think of the joy I received from the same paper back in 1898, when published by C. H. Mekeel in St. Louis, I have to congratulate you gentlemen on having so well kept up the good work."—S. D. ARNETT.

"I TAKE great pleasure in renewing my subscription for a five year period. Sorry I have no data to show that way back in the late 90's I renewed for a similar period, but possibly your records will verify that statement. This amount seems like a small return for the value received, realizing that one could hardly collect stamps without it, and furthermore it has on numerous occasions been of great assistance to me in my work in the postal service."—JOHN W. COONAN.

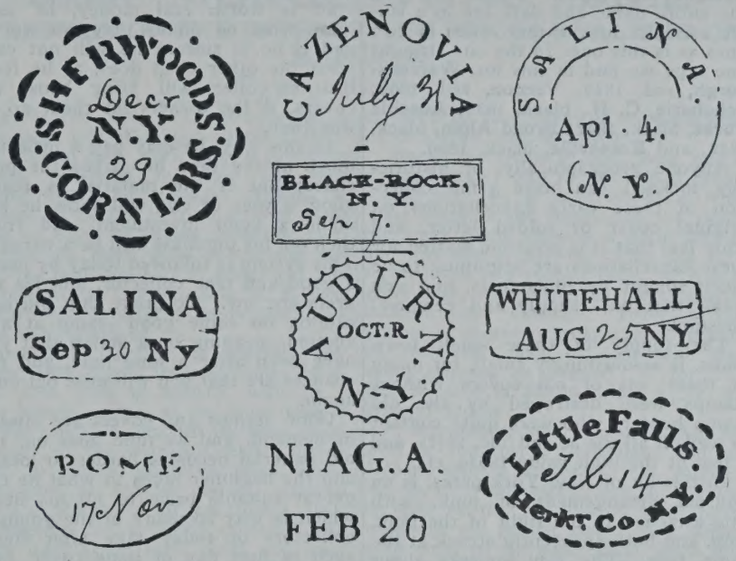
Some U. S. Cancellations

Edited by H. P. ATHERTON, 1562 Main St., Springfield, Mass.



From Mr. T. L. Watkins comes a very happily selected lot of cancellations, all from New York State, and dating from 1806 till just before 1847. These are being shown in a single group, as they portray such varied styles of cancellation from a single state, New York.

Auburn, with its tiny scallops for an edge, is a pretty pmk. This was the regular 18¾c rate to Albany, Oct 1, 1821, the postmaster evidently forgetting to enter the mss. "1" in the pmk. Note the odd abbreviation for October. Along with this cover is a similar one, struck in red and dated Dec. 14, 1839.

Rome is a very crude pmk. to judge from appearance of the letters as hit on the cover, for the letters show only in part, yet being in a bright red it is rather pretty. 12½c rate to Albany, in 1809. There are other elliptical pmks. in this selection of some 50 various covers. Chittenango, in black, had a double ring, and handstamped date in 1831. Rome used black in 1828 with a handstamped date, and Kingston same type in red in 1806.

Cazenovia, black, 12½c to Albany in 1809. Some of this old type was most carefully manufactured, and it is really difficult to draw the small sharp serifs with justice at this small scale, for these cancellations are all drawn and presented at their natural size. There are several of this form of pmk. which is the top half of a circle. Cazenovia in 1804, had a similar pmk. with a very small letter, and the month and day handstamped. Lansingburg, Seneca Falls, and Ithaca had the half circle type of pmk. also.

Little Falls, dark red, 10c rate to Albany in 1830. I have seen another of this type of pmk., and for brevity, will refer to these as the "Stencil" pmks.

Sherwood's Corners, pale brown, 5c to Albany in 1846. Note the "N. Y." centrally spaced as the letters needed all the room in the circle. This is an odd stencil pmk., and I have no doubt that this is among the really scarce pmks., as I have never seen another from the town at this period. The stencils are very scarce types.

Salina in a rectangle, red, 12½c to Albany in 1829. These straight line types in little rectangles with single or double frame lines make clever little pmks., the kind you like to get in an accumulation of old pre-stamp covers. The other Salina with the thin type in a circle is very odd. Hit in red, 12½c to Albany in 1824. Note the delicate letters and the figure, and that there is almost too much room in the pmk. for such small lettering, though it is quaint and very attractive. It takes all styles of pmks. to make an interesting collection, and this is an odd type surely.

Whitehall, red, 18¾c to Albany in 1829, much like the Salina, except that in this one all of the letters are in capitals. These two pmks. are now a hundred years old! In some ways many of these old cancellations have more artistic merit than our present day cancellations. Other towns in the Date of Sale—April 23, 24, 25, at the Collectors Club Building, 51 W. 48th Street, New York, N. Y.

H. A. ROBINETTE

Successor to

509 7th St., N. W., H. F. COLMAN, Washington, D. C.

lot are Moriah and Buffalo, both in neat little rectangles.

Black Rock, black, 18¾c to Albany, 1826, is another rectangle pmk., in this one the letters are of a far different type than that used in most early cancels, note the heavy serifs. Another Black Rock is in the lot, hit in red, stamped "FREE" 1831, with name of postmaster, E. H. Burnham.

Niagara, brown, 20c to Albany in 1806. This is one of the much liked straight line pmks. Often, however, the entire name and date are in a single straight line, rather than in two lines as is this one. In the one straight line type we find in this lot, Warrensburgh, red, 1849; Vernon, red, 1830; Schoharie, C. H., black, 1838; Ausable Forks, black, 1842; Broad Alpin, black, 1832; and Keeseville, black, 1830.

Anyone geographically, or historically, inclined, can make a fine collection of these early cancellations on original cover or folded letter, and truly feel that it is not time wasted for these cancellations are beginning to be much sought by philatelists, and you recall that old "supply and demand" question.

The supply of these small town pmks. is astonishingly small, for many of these lots of old covers without stamps were destroyed by the old stamp hunters who were quite content to tear off all the 5c and 10c, 1847s, and a few of the high value 1851s, etc.

In this lot of New York pmks. is an unusual arrangement of pmk. with rate attached to the right of the pmk. ring, and both apparently struck at the same time. The rate appears about 3mm to right of the ring. The following rates are shown in this printed form, and from various towns, 5, 10, 12½, 25 and 56¼c; also FREE, this letter signed by the postmaster, Asa Phillips, and franking the letter from Dryden to Albany in 1833. The 56¼c rate carries the letter from Port Byron to Albany in 1835.

Other towns using the pmk. and rate banded together, are, Vernon, Salina, Syracuse and Camillus. I have seen only a few of this type used outside of New York state, and think that they may be rather scarce. The pre-stamp cancellation collecting is in its infancy, and you are liable to run into something where you live, which would be very welcome to a collector who lives far away, and he in turn might have what would appeal to you, so when you hit some old covers before stamps, don't throw them away, for if they are pretty, there is sure to be come collector who will want them for his collection.

In the above listed lot of covers the word "PAID" is generally used; while in some cases it is in mss., it is handstamped for the greater part of the correspondence.

Some collectors write me that they always have "no luck at all" in rounding up accumulations of old covers with stamps on them. They even seem to think that they are personally imposed upon by the fates of Philately. Then there are collectors who sometimes get word that someone has an accumulation of old covers. That is the time they should crank up the car and go right after them. Yet they argue that if this is done, the owner will have an idea they are of value, so they sit and wait till the "opportune time arrives."

And while this time is arriving, some real collector who does make "finds" goes out and tells the folks that their stuff is worth real money, he tells them what he thinks they are worth, and if he is sincere he will not care what the other chap does, as he feels that his offer will bring home the covers, if the owners let them go at this time.

In this way, he may pay a little too much at the time he makes the purchase; but if the material is really good, a year or two will show he has made a good investment, and from then on, his purchase will be a bargain. This system is followed today by many a good and true collector, and his regrets are few. To prove this, bid half catalog on some good stamp at any auction, meaning on a stamp that you have been after a long time, and the chances are that you will miss out once again.

Good stamps and covers are always in demand, and as time goes on, the old material becomes harder to locate, and the beginner takes to what he can get at suitable price to fill his need, which is why so many of the younger collectors of today take after items such as first day of issue cover, first flights, and such things. They are wise, for after the event is over, the supply is ended, and they become a means of barter and exchange, and the value is there before them, as they are displayed on the album pages.

As one old stamp man told me, there is always someone who wants the item you have been wondering what to do with, for collectors are collectors, and they want something to keep them busy. Every stamp in good condition will find an ultimate purchaser. Sounds incorrect; but you hold the undesirable thing a while, and you will be surprised to find how collector's desires change. You may be able to sell your Seebecks, Cubiertas, Colombian Republics, foreign revenues, postmarks, and everything that you possess of any philatelic nature whatsoever, and if two or three say they want it, then you may decide that you want to keep it yourself!

Ain't stamp collectors funny???

SCHOOL STAMP WEEKLY
re we have a No. 1 of a weekly, ps, published by Smile Publishing any, Toledo, Ohio, at ten cents a or 25c for six issues. Warren is the editor and George Carle, ant editor, and they are leaders in a of students of the Scott High l, Toledo, who are members of the is philatelic society of the school. ublishers receive no help from the y adviser, and they seem to have a or newspaper work. Stamps is mul-hed and numbers twelve pages; and of them are illustrated. The boys freshness and frivolity to the paper, they produce a sheet that must heavily in a local sense, and no outside the school sphere will go ep over it. The Stamp Club Su-or, Pierre Q. Pasquier, says that amp club was founded five years nd is going strong. He adds: "We ble every day and everything con-g philately is discussed. Sales are over the desk of the undersigned, rading, auctions, etc., are daily oc-ices. Our airmail group receives nteresting first flights that some of der enthusiasts might envy."

COLUMBIANS--High Values--OMAHAS

It's a long time since we have mentioned these stamps above a whisper, the demand has been so much greater than the supply. Recently we had the good fortune to pick up several small lots in such rapid succession we actually have enough of some values to be worth mentioning.

In the Columbians we have a few copies of each of the dollar values, most of them either used or unused. Some very fine copies at 90% of catalog, and some ordinary copies at less than ½ of list figures. In high value Omahas we have the same story, particularly as to the 50c and $2.00 values.

Let us know your wants. We always want to buy good U. S. stamps, whether commemoratives or fine early issues. Also looking for patriotic envelopes, Confederate States, fine covers, etc. Submit what you have at your own prices.

266th MORGENTHAU SALE

A RESUME OF THE INTERESTING PRICES REALIZED ON MARCH 26

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

On March 26th, J. C. Morgenthau & Company, sold at auction at the Collectors Club in New York City, a small but choice collection including not only United States, but Foreign. Among the former, an 1851 5c vertical strip of three used on cover to France with fine margins at the right, good at the top and left, but with the bottom stamp cut into slightly at the bottom, sold at $126.00. Departments brought in the neighborhood of a half catalogue.

Among the Foreign, an Argentine Republic, 1899, 1 peso inverted center, mint, No. 133a, sold at $230.00, while a 5 peso inverted center of the same issue in similar condition, reached the same price. A copy of the British Central Africa, 1897, 10 pounds lightly cancelled, which catalogues at $150.00 unused, changed hands at $92.50. A British Guiana, 1852, 1c magenta, No. 6, lightly cancelled with large margins on three sides and good on the fourth side, sold at $102.50. A Colombian Republic, Antioquia, 1868, 2½c, No. 1, lightly pen-cancelled, found a new owner at $37.50. A mint block of four of France, 1849, 40c, No. 7, sold at $52.00, while a horizontal strip of three of the one franc, No. 9, one stamp tete beche, lightly cancelled with the outer line partly cut away at top and bottom, reached $100.00. A horizontal strip of five of the 1870, 30c brown, No. 45, used with a block of ten of the same stamp, sold at $45.00, the 1870, 20c blue tete beche, vertical pair, No. 57b, at $27.00, and a similar 25c pair, No. 58b, off at one side at $25.00. A France, 20c blue, No. 71, o.g., slightly soiled and somewhat off at the top and described as a great rarity in any condition, sold at $86.00. A Postage Due, 1871, 60c yellow, No. 609, in block of four, brought three-quarters of catalogue, that is $30.00.

Among the Great Britain, there was a choice block of four of the 1840, 1 penny black, No. 400, in mint condition with sheet margins and imprint at the right, the lower stamp showing a slight crease, and this sold at $230.00. This was formerly listed as a regular issue, but a few years back, was moved by the catalogue makers to the "Officials." Errors of the Offices in Morocco brought good prices, an 1898, 10c block of four with one stamp showing an inverted "V" for "A" No. 2a, sold at $22.50, while a No. 6a brought $16.50.

A Martinique, 1888, 15c on 4c, No. 10, with a few perfs. irregular, sold at $155.00, while a Mauritius, 1848, 2p blue, No. 2b, early impression, brought $555.00, in spite of the fact that a small piece was torn out at the right. A 1 penny orange-red of the same issue, worn impression, No. 6, reached $32.50.

One stamp sold, which is not catalogued by Scott, was a Mexico, 1861, 1r gray-black in the color of the 2r, Gibbons' No. 40a, lightly cancelled, with certificate of the Royal Society, sold at $20.50, whereas a copy of the 2r gray-black, No. 8, printed on both sides, Gibbons' No. 41a, sold at $16.50.

A New South Wales, 1850, 3c pea-green on laid paper, No. 9b, in vertical pair used on the original cover with the upper stamp slightly cut into at top and the lower stamp at left, brought $52.50. One of the scarcest twentieth century Nicaragua of the normal varieties 1901, 2c on 1c, No. 133a, sold at $21.00.

A Paraguay of 1878, showing a horizontal pair and single of No. 4, also a blue surcharge inverted No. 5g, all on cover to the Argentine, sold at $161.00.

British Occupation of Bushire issue of 1915, Scott's Nos. 1215 to 1229 sold at prices ranging from a third catalogue to less, No. 1220 selling at $60, No. 1221 at $120, No. 1222 at $135, No. 1224 and No. 1225 at $45.50 each, No. 1226, No. 1227, No. 1228 at $52.50 each, and the scarce variety No. 1229, of which only forty-eight were issued, at $150.00.

A copy of the Trinidad, 1847, Lady McLeod on original cover, pen-cancelled as usual with a part of the stamp torn away, sold at $87.00. The Two Sicilies Savoy Cross, No. 9, lightly cancelled with fine margins on all four sides, sold at $50.00, while copies of the same stamp on the original newspaper in very fine condition brought $76.00 and $91.00, respectively.

The total sale reached, $6,703.45.

Foreign Covers
Who wants a $500 collection of pretty foreign covers—mostly old issues? Includes Argentine, Brazil, Djibouti, German States, Hawaii, Hong Kong, Papal States, St. Helena, Spain, Tuscany and Martinique. Mostly stamps worth from 50c to a few dollars each. If you have covers you'll need most of these and if you have none here's a fine start. It would take a lot of hunting to duplicate some of these. What say?

GRENADA DISCARDS, 1928

By HARRY E. HUBER.

Another Colony in the British West Indies to discard denominations for which the demand has lessened, or disappeared, with the reduction in postage and parcel rates, is Grenada, where, towards the end of 1928, it was decided that when present stocks exhaust, the 4d, 5d, 9d, 2s, 3s Postage and Revenue stamps will not be reprinted. However, need has arisen for a stamp of 2/6 denomination, which will be added to the series during 1929.

DLR-1912-Postage & Revenue Keyplate Design

The DLR-1912, King George V, Postage and Revenue keyplate design adopted by Grenada, for the series issued Jan. 3, 1913, consists of a large head of King George V, facing left, on a horizontally lined ground, within a pearled oval. At the sides is conventional foliate ornamentation, and at the foot of the oval, on either side, in small horizontal labels, in colorless lettering, "Postage" and "Revenue", respectively. By means of duty plates, the denomination (colored numerals and letters) is added in the upper corners, and "GRENADA" (colored block caps, on a straight label) at the bottom.

The stamps were typographically printed in sheets of 120, 2 panes of 60 each, side by side, separated by a narrow gutter, with a marginal line broken at the line of perforation, surrounding each pane. These sheets of 120 are usually cut into P. O. sheets of 60 before dispatch to the Colony.

The series as issued Jan. 3, 1913, comprised denominations of ½d, 1d, 2d, 2½d, 3d, 6d, 1s, 2s, 5s and 10s, in this, following the King Edward VII series in the DLR-1888, Postage and Revenue keyplate design (single CA watermarked, 1902; and multiple, 1904-06), and the Colonial Seal series of 1906-11.

On stamps from DLR-1912 keyplates No. 1 (1912-1916), and 2 (1917-21), the numeral 1 or 2 is in the upper margin above the 2nd stamp of the left pane, and 5th stamp of the right pane, and in corresponding positions in the lower margin. However, on stamps from keyplate No. 3 (1921-date), the numeral is in the lower margin only, the upper being devoid of plate number marking.

Plate 1 stamps were printed only on Roman CA watermarked paper; plate 2 on Roman CA (all denominations), and script CA (white paper only); and plate 3 on Roman CA blue (2s), yellow (5s), and green (1s and 10s), as well as script CA (all denominations).

A 1½d stamp, for foreign postcards, was issued June 1, 1922; and for increased postage and parcel rates, 5d, 9d and 3s on December 27, 1922. The 5d represented the combined letter (2d) and registration rate (3d), to the British Empire, and the U. S. A. (effective Jan. 1, 1922). On Jan. 1, 1926, the letter rate to the British Empire, and the U. S. A. was reduced to 1d—and the combined rate then became 4d—a stamp of this denomination was issued March 1, 1926.

Although four of the denominations being dispensed with are comparatively recent additions to the series, the 2s dates back to 1902. On script CA blue paper it was first issued July 12, 1922.

The marginal line is double on sheets of the 1½d and 4d, but single only on the others; the second line, of course, is part of the duty plate impression.

Destruction of Roman CA Watermarked Stamps, 1925

On Sept. 29, 1925, 118,941 stamps (valued at £23140.6.7) Roman CA watermarked, were burned at St. George's, by a Board of two officers appointed by the Governor.

New Design Wanted

Grenada is one of the very few islands in the Caribbean where no design change has been made during the 15 years of the Georgian reign. (There were two in the Edwardian reign, in the DLR-1888 keyplate type, and the more distinctive Colonial Seal.) This is not because of any desire on the part of the Colonial authorities to retain the present design, as several times permission has been sought from the Colonial Office in London, and refused.

Surcharge Postage and Postage Due Stamps

In December, 1921, Postage Due stamps, 1d, 2d and 3d script CA watermarked, replaced those in similar design, but lettered "Surcharge Postage". On December 15, 1922, a new duty, 1½d, was added to the Postage Due series.

Surcharge Postage stamps, 1d, 2d and 3d, were in good supply at St. George's, on April 9, 1925, but not long aft remainders were destroyed. It ported that the 1½d Postage Due will be discontinued when present exhaust.

The Windward Islands Colonies

The change in Grenadian p stamps will probably not affect the issues of St. Lucia and St. Vince although these three islands are g for administrative purposes unde Governor, who resides at St. Ge Grenada, they do not comprise a Fe Colony (such as the Leeward Isl on the contrary, each island reta own institutions. There is no co legislature, laws, revenue or tari there is a common Court of Appea the Colonies unite for certain othe mon purposes. The total area three Colonies is 524 square mile a population of 171,326.

Grenada, the most southerly Windward group, is about 21 mile 12 miles wide, and contains abo square miles. It is 68 miles S. of St. Vincent, and about 90 miles of Trinidad, and between it and t mer island, are certain small called the Grenadines, attached p the government of St. Vincent, an ly to that of Grenada. The lar the latter is Carriacou, which has of 8,467 acres, and a population o (census of 1921). The estimated lation of Grenada, including Ca on December 31, 1925, was 70,184.

The G. P. O. of Grenada is George's, with sub-offices at each principal towns, and postal throughout the Colony. There a phone exchanges in all the prin towns, and 533 instruments were at the end of 1924.

A STUDY OF THE CLARK PLATES

A TIMELY TREATMENT OF THE POPULAR CURRENT 2c COMMEMORATIVE

By JOHN J. SPENCER.

(Mss. sent in by R. A. Bryant, Editor of "U. S. Plates and Plate Markings.")

As many members of our philatelic fraternity are becoming more and more interested in our U. S. plates and plate markings, it seems apropos that some comments on the findings after a study of the latest addition to our U. S. Commemoratives, would be in order. As most of our U. S. collectors no doubt now know, stamps from the flat press are now printed from large plates of generally 100, 200 or 400 subjects. For the benefit of the uninitiated more details of their preparation may be desired and advisable. These printed sheets for the purpose of division, have continuous lines running at right angles through the center, being of the same color as the stamp. The sheets upon being cut along these guide lines afford the panes as we find them on sale at the post office. Part of the panes will bear these guide lines upon one or both of the straight edge margins in case of the 400 subject plates, and a few emissions of the 200 subject plates. However, most of the sheets from the 100 and 200 subject plates are cut along but one of these guide lines, in most cases along the vertical line, the other line showing the perforations.

A study of the Clark Memorial stamp shows that this was printed from an 100 subject plate, with a red guide line through the center, both vertically and horizontally, a short black guide line appearing only on the top margin. The sheet was cut into two panes of 50 stamps each through the vertical guide line only, the horizontal guide line showing in the perforations between the fifth and sixth horizontal rows of stamps. It will readily be observed that but a part, less than one-half, of these panes will show a preserved vertical guide line, and while all panes show the horizontal guide, but a small portion of them upon being divided on the perforation will reward one with a good guide line specimen.

Where the two guide lines meet at the side of the pane is where we have to look for our "corner" stamp, that is the one showing the guide line on the straight edge side and the perforated top or bottom of the stamp. It will be found that some little selection is required as the perforation has been so well centered that many sheets have been practically robbed of this horizontal guide line. Perseverance should reward one with the four corner stamps, and the securing of copies showing a guide line on each of the sides, top, and bottom, will more easily follow. Eight distinct guide line varieties are now at hand, and when arranged in a square with a nice block of four as a center piece, all varieties that exist of the perforated stamp are in evidence.

The markings that are to be found on the sheet outside the perforated stamp is entirely another subject for discussion. Again returning to the division of the original sheet, it will be found that a right and left pane different in some respects has resulted. As is known these stamps were printed from two plates, the red border or frame probably first, and then the black center. These plates each bore a different number, so that the printed sheet shows two numbers differing in both color and numeral. As no particular attention was given to their arrangement at the time of the second printing, many combinations of numbers are to be found, a great field for the plate number collector. As there are twelve plates of each color, there is practically certain to be 144 different plate number combinations. Some will no doubt be quite rarely found.

On the top of the left hand pane over the second stamp from the left, will first be found the red plate number, over the next stamp the black plate number, and over the fourth stamp the red TOP. The short stubbed black guide line and the top end of the red guide line will be found at the extreme right next to the margin on this pane, or at the extreme left on the other, or right hand pane next to the margin. On the top of the right hand pane over the second stamp from the left will first be found the black TOP, over the next stamp the black F plate number, followed by the red F plate number over the fourth stamp. No other markings, not even the usual engraver's initials, are to be found on any of the rest of the marginal paper of sheets so far examined.

As received at the post offices these stamps are in panes of 50 subjects, five stamps wide and ten stamps long, making an unusual, long, ungainly sheet to handle, and is about the only uncomplimentary criticism that has so far been or can be offered. This, however, will be no drawback to their use or popularity, as the stamps have been going like the proverbial hot cakes.

Two Famous Collections !

We have just acquired two outstanding Airpost Collections, which we offer intact to collectors or investors, at exceptionally favorable prices. Subject to prior sale.

Duffy Collection of Paris Balloon Posts, 1870-1

One of the finest collections of these Historical documents ever assembled. It is characterized by the large percentage of extremely rare and unique pieces that it contains. The dates of the siege, Paris and Suburban cachets are complete. A number of the very rare Journals of the siege are here, including: "Le Soir", "Le Ballon Poste", "Depeche-Ballon", "Journal Poste", French and German copies of the "Correspondence Havas" (nine copies of the latter) and "Gazette des Absents", including both of the very rare Numbers 1 and 32, some 50 Journals in all.

There are no less than 18 examples of Letters posted by Aeronauts, 4 Military Cachets, Letters cancelled at Landing place of the Balloons, red and blue cancs., the extremely rare "Paris Etranger" cachet and some interesting forgeries.

All rates to Foreign Countries are fully shown, incl. 18 examples of the scarce 80c rate, one letter showing 4 copies of the 20c stamp, probably unique. Mail from the ill-fated Balloons that fell in the German Lines, and letters rescued from Balloons that fell into the sea. In fact, from every standpoint, it ranks with the finest of Historical Collections.

Van Arx Collection of Swiss Pioneers 1909-25

It would be impossible to exaggerate the beauty and importance of this collection. It is artistically mounted and painstakingly annotated, in faultless style.

This collection, the finest specialized Airpost Collection yet formed, has won 4 successive medals at the following International Exhibitions: Paris 1925, New York 1926, Strasbourg 1927, Monaco 1928.

The rare Pioneer flights from 1913 are represented by flown covers and cards, and the early stamps are shown in singles, pairs, blocks and full sheets. The collection is further enhanced by the addition of artist's proofs and original drawings, trial cancellations and a number of unique pieces and early Photographs.

It will never be possible to duplicate this Collection, and little or nothing in Airposts, prior to 1924, could be added to it. It would, however, be extremely interesting to bring it up to date.

We guarantee to refund the full purchase price, if either of these collections prove to be unsatisfactory in any way, after careful examination.

Prices quoted to those interested.

We specialize in rare Airposts and complete collections, and can always offer a wide range of choice material to serious collectors. If you have not previously collected Airposts, you owe it to yourself to look into this fascinating hobby. We are at your service.

FINLAND AND HER STAMPS

The 1900-1901 Issues.—The previous issue being withdrawn on the 14th January, 1901, new stamps appeared in the same designs as those in use in Russia, but with values marked in Finnish and Russian.

As stamps were urgently needed, F. Tilgman and Co., of Helsingfors, were given the order to supply plates and cliches of the design sent down from St. Petersburg. These, with the exception of the 5 pennia, were useless, and so fresh plates were ordered from H. Berthold, of Berlin.

While these were being prepared, F. Tilgman and Co. were asked to print a supply of stamps by lithography. The 5 pennia plate had been put into use by the Finland Stamping Department, and these olive-green stamps were perforated 14½ by 15.

Tilgman's lithographs are perforated 14 by 14½, and being printed on chalky paper are easily distinguishable from later issues. By January 14, 1901, Tilgman and Co. had printed 590,000 of 2 pennia; 3,088,000 of 5 pennia; 1,194,000 of 10 pennia; 3,365,000 of 20 pennia; and 156,000 of 1 mark. They had also made an approved plate of the 10 marks from cliches, and from this, 13,500 impressions were pulled.

About the middle of the year the new plates from Berlin were received, and prints were made by the Government on ordinary paper. These surface-printed stamps are very clear, the lines being much finer than those that were lithographed. Much care must be used in floating the lithographed issue from paper as the colours run, especially those of the 10 and 20 pennia. A new perforation was introduced in 1906, namely 14, and the 5, 10, 20 pennia and 1 mark may be found separated thus. In 1907, new plates of the 10 and 20 pennia, and 10 mark were made by Messrs. Lilius and Hertzberg, of Helsingfors, but the printing was carried out at the Stamping Department. The chief differences in this printing lie in the heads of the crossed arrows which are shorter, and the serifs of the letters of the inscription are very insignificant.

The "Mourning Stamp."—When the next issue of stamps came out, they were in the same design as that used for Russia, with the exception of the inscription of value.

The Finns were very disappointed that they showed their sorrow by bringing out a larger square stamp, all black, with the exception of the portion occupied by the Arms of Finland, to be stuck by the side of the ordinary postage stamp. This label had no franking power and was soon prohibited by the officials. Russian stamps were now used solely for foreign correspondence, the 1911 issue being only allowed on internal letters.

The 10 pennia of this issue is interesting as there are three varieties to search for:—

(3)—Frame-lines wide, but not cutting the circles of value. Five lines of shading at left.

Republic of Finland.—Finland, resulting from the revolution in Russia, proclaimed its independence in 1917, and was soon recognised by the Allies.

It was on June 5, 1917, that the Senate determined to issue postage stamps for use on local and foreign correspondence, and towards the end of the year a 5 pennia green came out, to be followed a little later by the 10 and 25 pennia, in Postal Union colours, red and blue, respectively.

The design was the Finnish lion salient on an uncoloured background and enclosed in an oval frame of wavy lines. Above is SUOMI and 5 FINLAND 5 (or other value) below. Although a republic, the lion is crowned, but it has been pointed out that the crown is a Grand Ducal one, having three florets and pearls. Round the lion are nine heraldic roses.

This design was made by the pro- nent Finnish architect, Professor E Saarinen, and the dies engraved by Li and Hertzberg, of Helsingfors. Pho- graphic transfers were then made o brass plate for the lowest value, 5 pen and on copper plates for the other val

The stamps were printed on w wove paper having no watermark perforated 14. Other stamps came till the set reached from 5 pennia to marks. Stamps of the old type w allowed to be used up to April 1, 1 after which date they were demoneti

The Wasa Issue.—When the C War broke out in 1918, the Presi established himself at Vasa, or Wasa, none of the regular issue put out by Republican Government could be obta from Helsingfors. A series of stamp a modified form of the original de was prepared and placed on sale at W The lion in this issue is on a panel ha straight sides, and the figures of v are ringed. M. Bjorklund was the signer, and the stamps were lithogra at Bjorkell's Stentryckerie, at Wasa. following particulars are of importanc

On 31st May, 1918, the remain were handed over to the postal autl ties at Helsingfors, but the printing entrusted with the work had pri 23,000 of the 30 pennia, and 22,000 o 70 pennia in excess of the quantity dered. These were not sent in until 27th. These stamps when first is were available for both inland and eign correspondence, but this was celled on June 25th, after which date were not used for foreign postage, were they even sold to the public, were affixed by the postal officials t land correspondence only.

By November 8th, their general us inland postage was once more perm and they were allowed to be sold t public. The remainders were then out to the post offices with the exce of the 30 pennia and 5 mark values v had been sold out.

Mr. Wilson reported to Stamp Co ing that he had seen one sheet of t pennia with one row of stamps d perforated.

VATICAN CITY STAMPS

A New Set of Stamps Is Promised For the Near Future

Theodore Champion in his Monthly Bulletin quotes from a Swiss paper some additional facts in relation to stamps for the Vatican City. The writer states that the information is communicated by a person very near the Vatican, and he has every reason to believe that it is accurate. The stamps of the Vatican City will not bear the picture of the Pope as was predicted by some philatelists. On the contrary the central design will represent the mitre with crowns reposing on the two symbolical keys. The inscription "Citta del Vaticano" will appear above the papal tiara, and the value of the stamp in "centesimi" and "lire" will appear at the bottom. The paper used will be that used on the Italian stamps, and it is probable that in order to save time the crown watermark will be used in the new set. Twenty values are promised: 5, 7½, 10, 15, 20, 25, 30, 40, 50, 60, 75 centesime, 1, 1.25, 1.75, 1.85, 2, 2.55, 2.65, 5 and 10 lire. A set of parcel post stamps may also be issued.

DEATH OF COL. J. P. BENKARD

For Many Years a Philatelist and Active in the Collectors Club

I send you a clipping from the N. Y. Times announcing the death of Col. J. Philip Benkard, a collector of many years, and especially interested in U. S. stamps. In 1926, J. C. Morgenthau & Co. sold his very fine U. S. at auction when it brought about $25,000. Since that time he has been working on a new collection. He was one of the directors of the Collectors Club. I quote in part from the Times:—

J. Philip Benkard, wealthy broker and lieutenant colonel in the World War, died yesterday afternoon (Apr. 6) after being stricken by a heart attack while his unit in the Army Day parade was halted before the reviewing stand at Fifth Avenue and Sixty-fifth Street.

Colonel Benkard became faint as the order to halt was given. He walked to the street curbing and sat down. A moment later his men marched on without him as he slumped back against the massed crowd at the curb.

Policemen forced a way through the crowd, found that he was unconscious and summoned an ambulance. He died while he was being taken to Flower Hospital.

Colonel Benkard served as a captain on the staff of General Pershing in France, during the World War, and as liaison officer on the staff of General LeConte of the French Government with the order of Chevalier of the Legion of Honor.

TWO IRISH COMMEMORATIVES

Stamp Collecting quotes the Limerick Star as follows: "In connection with the coming series to celebrate the centenary of Catholic emancipation, that there will be at least two stamps. It is, apparently, not the intention of the postal authorities to multiply designs but rather to secure that those adopted shall be of the highest artistic merit and in every way appropriate to the historic event which they will commemorate."

NEWS FLASHES

—We are advised by J. M. Bartels that Henry L. Dean, who has contributed several fine revenue articles to the WEEKLY, is seriously ill, and unable to attend to correspondence. It is with great regret that we make this announcement, and we join with his many friends in the hope for a speedy recovery.

—Through the courtesy of W. G. Fountaine, we have been shown a clipping of the stamp department that is now being conducted in the Toledo, Ohio, News-Bee. It is becoming quite the thing for Metropolitan papers to take up with departments of this kind.

TREASURE HUNTING

By CAPT. A. C. TOWNSEND.

Recently, during a chat with the editor of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY, he invited the writer to contribute some reminiscences, and the offer was eagerly accepted. Looking over an old scrapbook preserved thru my wanderings, I find that it has been 30 years since my last contribution to MEKEEL'S. A lot of water has flowed under the bridges since then, and memory is vague, so I propose to just ramble around, telling of experiences as they recur to me.

There are others, and many of them, who could tell tales of much greater doings and finds, but no one seems to have done it, and anyhow the general idea is to provide a little amusing reading—possibly stimulating others to tell their stories of much greater finds of treasure-trove—and particularly to show the younger generation that treasure still exists and can be found by earnest digging. To prove that at once I will simply say that just this month the writer dug up on the original covers two 10c, 1847; a 12c, 1851; a number of 1c, 1851 and 1857; and some 300 3c, 1851 to 1867, including a number of covers with pictures and advertising such as some are so fond of, and one SOLDIER'S VOTE envelope of the Civil War, which appears to be unique, and which is described in the WEEKLY, so I can assure you that there is still "gold in them thar hills."

I started collecting as a lad of about 12, and for 2 years the fever raged in the Omaha High School. It has occurred to me many times that with sufficient foresight I could have been a millionaire with little effort, just by keeping what came to my hands, my only consolation being that apparently no one else had that foresight. Department stamps were still in use at that time, but went out about a year after I started collecting. I used to go down to my father's office and dig a lot of War Dept. stamps from his waste basket. I remember very distinctly the "kicking mule" cancellation. I had some in my collection and traded many to other boys.

When father told me the Depts. were to soon be abolished, if I had had the sense to save every envelope from his waste basket, and put them away "not to be touched until I am 50," what a fortune they would be worth today! As it was, all I saved was a sheet of 90c ones, which father gave me before he sent the stock in to Washington—and those were stolen from me by a packer when father was ordered to Washington a year later. While I made the War Depts. very common in Washington, all other Dept. stamps were very scarce, and it never occurred to me, or anyone else, to go to the U. S. Attorney's office for some Dept. of Justice stamps, or to the branch office of the Dept. of Agriculture and get some of those treasures! And I never thought of using some of father's official stationery and writing to the President's Secretary for a set of Executives, which would certainly have been received.

When father was ordered to Washington, I had got quite a collection together, but had done no real hunting. My only find was some of the K-corner first issue 3c envelopes on white paper. My chum and I got his mother to look up old letters, and we got several copies of that stamp (Listed at $40 today), which we at once cut square with no margin, kept a copy of each and traded the others.

In new surroundings in Washington, my interest died for a year or two, and then suddenly revived when a friend told me he was going to make the rounds of the Departments on Saturday afternoon for stamps, and asked me to go along. What a mine he opened up for me, and how little I knew its value! Again wealth lay in my hands and I didn't recognize it.

He took me first to a room in the Interior Dept., where he asked a kindly, bearded gentleman for "some stamps." He gave each of us a little pay envelope, and outside the room mine was found to contain an unused set of Interiors through the 15c. My friend said he had got a number of these sets and that if I would tackle the gentleman alone some day and "talk pretty to him" about being a new collector, I could get the 24, 30 and 90c, which I did, as well as a number more of the broken sets from time to time.

We went to the Treasury Dept., and from a man there got a number of high value foreign stamps. Why the Treasury Dept. had so much heavy foreign mail I never knew, but from that man in the next year or two I got a great many good stamps. For instance, I got at least 200 of the 1 Peso Uruguay of 1877, many of them in pairs and blocks, and a quantity of the rare 700 Reis Brazil of 1879.

My friend took me to several other places, and I went home with a quantity of treasure, and with my collecting fever high again. After that I began to go on these hunts regularly, and a bit later located a mine of my own, from which I dug a lot of treasure. That will be told about next time.

EDITORIAL

IN our issue of January 21, 1929, we told of how the Waterways Journal of St. Louis was advocating an issue of stamps to celebrate the completion of that huge undertaking, the "canalization" of the Ohio River. The suggestion was made that the Ohio River Valley Improvement Association promote a movement that would culminate in the issue of stamps to celebrate the achievement of the Engineer Corps of the United States Army. We are told that a decision has been reached to issue stamps in commemoration of the new system of dams and locks later in the year.

CAPTAIN A. C. TOWNSEND'S most interesting "Soldier's Vote" envelope is described as follows: The envelope is extra official size and postmarked Washington, with the date blurred. Across the top, at the right, in large letters are the words, SOLDIER'S VOTE, the "vote" being partly covered by a pair of 3c of 1861. In a double line frame at the left end is the following notice, in well-selected type: "Duties of Elector receiving a Soldier's Vote. Extract from Section 5 of Chapter 253, laws of 1864. Section 5. Such elector, upon receiving such letter from such absent elector, may open the outer envelope thereof, but he shall not open the inner envelope thereof. On the day of such election, and between the opening and close of the polls thereof, he shall deliver such inner envelope to the inspectors of elections of the proper election district, and at the polls thereof." We do not remember ever having seen an envelope of this kind, which is a memento of Civil War days, carrying the highest degree of interest, we should say.

IT is said that differences of opinion make the world go round, and differences of opinion make a man sometimes go round the world. An inconsequential little item causes this gem of logic to be released for the benefit of mankind. We read that Mr. Jose Topacio, director of posts of the Philippines, has sailed from Manila to London to attend the postal convention there, despite the endeavors of the auditor of the islands to restrain his departure on the score of a legal exaction. Our interest in Mr. Topacio is a natural one since he has been courteous enough in the past to send in bits of postal information from his desk. We should not take it amiss if he would send us his impressions of the postal convention in its stamp aspects.

IN the March number of the Bowdoin Alumnus, there is an excellent likeness, we should say, of Frederick W. Pickard, who was a graduate of Bowdoin College, class of 1894, at Brunswick, Maine. In the text that accompanies the picture, the following words caught our eye: "Mr. Pickard has always shown an interest in collecting, and while in college, accumulated a notable stock of rare stamps and coins. He has continued this, and his stamp collection now ranks high among the philatelists of the country." Mr. Pickard was elected a trustee of Bowdoin College in June, 1928, and he has just made a gift of $5,000 to be used for the continuation of work on the Pickard Field. The name of Mr. Pickard as a philatelist is recognized, and we find that he is a member of the American Philatelic Society.

THE following little contribution comes from Mr. Morris Schmidt of New York: "Having recently acquired an old collection from a friend who formed it as a youth, in which, alas, many of the scarce stamps were in a condition to render them of small value in the critical estimate of the present day collector, I found on a page with a Shanghai, first issue, 1 candareen, a following newspaper clipping which may be forty years old. Inasmuch as I am always fascinated by the Cantor-like eyes of the dragon, which is the central design of the first Shanghai stamps, and as the clipping tells of the origin of the fabled creature in question, I am copying the words for you: 'The Chinese and the Japanese have a strange superstition in regard to the dragon. If a serpent lives 1,000 years on the land, and another 1,000 in the water, then he ascends to heaven and changes his name to a dragon. The superstitious people believe that it was this dragon that sends down the torrents of rain. The picture on the stamp represents the serpent which had passed 2,000 years on the land and in the sea, and which is now ascending the sky through mist and clouds to be made a dragon, and to be glorified'." While Mr. Schmidt is somewhat personal in speaking of an optical resemblance between Eddie Cantor and the dragon, the assurance that the monster is on his way to the celestial blue takes away the sting, and anyway, Eddie is not apt to read the paragraph.

MANY of the older readers will recall the name of William B. Hale, which we now find as the subject of a newspaper despatch, under the head: "Philatelist is Held on Stamp-Cleaning Charge," and dated March 28th. He is described as an "elderly philatelist of Hubbardstown, Mass.," who has been arrested by the federal authorities on the charge of violating a section of the code prohibiting the restoration of cancelled postage stamps for use or sale. Although claiming that he was innocent, he was held for trial in default of $2,000 bond. years ago, Mr. Hale was much o wing, and as a "philatelic drumme visited Europe, as well as many se of our own country; and occasional has been the recipient of publicity kind that was not exactly pure an adulterated. We remember Hale's as a dealer in those formal days philatelic advertising as a rule was s and all of it seemed to come out o same spiggot. As showing how Mr. had imagination and strivings to be inal, we shall hark back a mere years and append one of his adve ments from the American Philat 1889: "Died Yesterday—A prom collector whose collection contained that was unique and rare. I hav collection on my sheets, and I guar unusual stamps at unusually low Write to me. I will answer you. liam B. Hale, Williamsville, Mass. different today. Tomorrow some w gone. Send early."

Air Mail News

BY DONALD E. DICKASON,
Wooster, Ohio

(Our subscribers are urged to send air mail news direct to Mr. Dickason and especially advance news concerning first flights, with names of cities served. The scope of this department will not allow the treatment of flights from other than the purely philatelic standpoint.)

Here's a new one to me. P. R. Hudson sends a cover with the typed inscription, "Via seaplane Pensacola to Mobile," postmarked Pensacola, Fla., U. S. N. Air Sta., 9.30 A. M. March 25th, and back-stamped Montgomery, Ala., 6 P. M., the same day. It looks interesting, all right, but tell us more about it, Mr. Hudson. * * * The covers carried by Sir Hubert Wilkins on his south polar expedition are at hand. The special cachet reads, "Wilkins Antarctic Expedition—Deception Island," and the covers are back-stamped at Valparaiso, Chile, Feb. 15th.

Seems to be somewhat of a scramble on for the covers carried on the recent Mexico City-Brownsville route. Brownsville northbound covers seem thick enough, but southbound are another thing again. Covers from the various Mexican cities are being offered as high as $2.00 and $2.50 apiece already. I'd be interested in the figures of actual mail carried, if anyone knows them.

*****

And speaking of Mexico, the revolutionary activities have held up the dedication of the new international airport at Douglas, Ariz., which has been indefinitely postponed. They can't even get Mexican stamps at Agua Prieta. * * * Burlington, Iowa, also, reports their dedication some time in the future yet. Covers are being held, however. Ditto for Mobile, Ala. * * * Effective April 2nd (instead of the 1st, as previously reported), service on the Miami-Cristobal route changed from every other week to three times a week, leaving each terminal Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, at 6 A. M., arriving the third day at 4 P. M.

*****

George Kreyling tells me that Ft. Worth skipped Sunday, March 10th, in mailing covers from the Southwestern Aeronautical Exhibition, so that date will be lacking in the set of covers from this event.

*****

From Bellows Falls, Vt., came through covers dated March 28th, with a cachet in blue on the reverse consisting of "Bellows Falls," with arrows at top and bottom pointing in opposite directions. I take it that this was for their airport dedication, which has been scheduled for about this time.

*****

The Newark Chamber of Commerce announces the first annual Newark aircraft show, May 23rd to June 1. * * * The Argentine-Paraguay mail service was inaugurated with the flight of Mar. 22nd, from Buenos Aires to Asuncion. * * * The Chamber of Commerce of New Castle, Pa., is receiving covers for the first stop at New Castle on the Cleveland-Pittsburgh route.

*****

P. R. Crooker sends a photostat of the Park City, Utah, wreck letter reported last week, together with the letter from Asst. Supt. of Air Mail Service, B. F. Myers, giving the details. The plane was flying in a heavy snowstorm, and crashed at Park City, pilot and passenger being slightly injured. The mail was somewhat fire-damaged, but very little was entirely destroyed.

*****

Now here's something interesting. A boy here in town whom I'm trying to get started on airmail sent one letter in to Brownsville for the first northbound flight. It is postmarked Mar. 9, 12.30 P. M., and reached Wooster the 15th, and bore the cachet in magenta when received. All my covers were back-stamped Cleveland, 8.30 P. M., the 11th, and reached here the next morning, and not a one had the cachet. I sent them in to Washington, and all came back cacheted in black. Looks to me as if the one cover might have been held over a couple of days awaiting the arrival of the cachet, and then postmarked as of the 9th, considering its arrival three days after the others. Were there any more like this, and if so, were they in magenta? And were all

"My Creole Sue"

(Revised Version.)

Last night I sat reflecting o'er the mem'ries of the past,
My thoughts turned back to you—my three cent blue;
The attic stairs, the dusty floor, the nook beneath the eaves,
'Twas there in grandpa's trunk my eyes met you.

Chorus.

My three cent blue, how I loved you!
I love you still, and always will.
I sigh for you, I do, I do;
And to you I'll e'er be true,
My three cent blue.

The hair cloth trunk is now no more; the letters thrown away.
What would I give to have them here with you!
Most loved of all the stamps that take me back to childhood days,
The square one with an engine—three cent blue.—(Chorus.)

—COTTON C. DOYLE.

Grills

By A. C. LEDUC.

Every time I see a grill on a stamp it makes me think of waffles; how useless the grill and how delightful waffles are with syrup or with chicken gravy.

From 1867 to 1870 the United States used stamps bearing pattern work of embossed dots. These were so arranged as to cover a part or the entire stamp. A grill on a stamp can usually be best seen from the back, in the form of a roughened surface to the paper. This was made by putting the sheets of stamps through a machine that partially cut the paper, the idea being that the paper would be partly crushed and the stamp would absorb the cancelling ink better and therefore could not be cleaned.

This method was not in use long, as it was found to be impractical. Sometimes the grills are hard to see in a stamp, and in the case of the 1869 issue, the novice often mistakes a faint grill for no grill at all, and thinks he has one of the scarce "no grill" varieties.

The commonest example of a United States stamp with grill is the 3c blue stamp of 1869, showing a picture of a locomotive.

Peru, also made use of the grill for regular postage and postage due stamps for a short period, 1874-80.

Rothschild on WOR

By SID BERNSTEIN.

I would just like to let you know that I was very pleasantly surprised when I attended a talk on the value of the postage stamp by Sig. V. Rothschild. It was held at Gimbel's Dept. Store, N. Y. City. He held everyone's interest with his talk. He showed us his marvelous collection of stamps arranged according to a new idea of his. I think that I will make a collection accordingly. From a brief talk with him and his assistant I learned more than I have from many books. Mr. Rothschild talks over WOR every Saturday morning. He is starting a National Stamp Club (no dues). One can get more particulars by writing him in care of WOR.

Why I Am a Collector

By PERCY A. HILL.

In a circular received from a stamp firm in Spain, I saw the above question and its answer, which I have translated literally, and which may be of interest, inasmuch as it shows an angle of the philatelist and philately not often remarked upon:—

Why am I a collector?—Many of our clients often have this question put to them by persons ignorant of philately, and consequently of narrow views. Reflections over the question have brought us to the conclusion that it is a manifestation of a high spiritual culture. We will repeat here the authorized opinion of one of the most cultured and intelligent collectors of Barcelona:—

"I have been a collector since my earliest years. During both school and college, my fellow-students, as well as professors, were amazed at my wide knowledge of geography as well as the general intelligence brought fourth by being a collector of stamps. Philately, then, has been for me a wide field of study. On many occasions the catalogs have solved questions of chronology for me. It has caused me to become a historian, a paleontologist, an ethnographer, a student of foreign exchange, a student of commercial principles, an economist, and a polygot, in fine, an individual of a vast and profound culture.

Stating it in another way, philately is for me a high and agreeable distraction of the spirit. While I study a stamp or its design, my abstraction lifts me above the world of common things, consequently, I expect to be a collector as long as I live."

The above explanation is, I think, very well put, most especially in these days when a search for knowledge, as to "why I am a collector" prevails. It is both concise and illuminating.

The New Scott Book Praised

By BARNUM B. WIXOM.

I have just finished reading the book issued by the Scott Stamp and Coin Co., "Stamp Collecting, Why and How." I think that this book is the best thing out in late years in telling how to collect stamps. It is a book of 185 pages, written in a compact and to the point way. Mr. Thorp did something that the stamp collecting world may be proud of in this book. It is composed of 17 chapters. They cover the entire problem that faces every junior collector that starts this intensely interesting hobby. It tells why you should collect, and it also contains interesting stories of how it is we have some of the most interesting and "expensive" rarities. So I conclude this letter with this statement, that every collector, whether starting or advanced, should have this book in his philatelic library.

"Those I Do and Them I Don't"

By GEO. W. HAWSE.

Not so long ago, there was published on this page a request for readers to send in their likes and dislikes. Well, here's mine. First of all the likes:—

(1.) The most entertaining feature is the "Precancel Review." I like this especially, because I am keenly interested in precancels, and because it is written in such an entertaining manner.

(2.) Sevard's "Twinkles" is another interesting department since it deals with a very interesting phase of stamps—cancellations. I like "Sevard's" humorous way of telling. By the way, what is "Sevard's" real name?

(3.) Another good regular feature is Mr. Ward's "Chronicle of New Issues and Varieties." Mr. Ward surely gives up to the minute news concerning Uncle Sam's issues in a clear way.

(4.) What promises to be good also is "Farr's Filatelic Fun Forum," for what person doesn't enjoy humor?

My dislikes are very few, the main and only one is the frequent revenue stamp articles. Of course many people enjoy them, but I can't get a kick out of these articles. Most are written in a "too-deep-for-me" style.

However, regardless of this dislike, I think MEKEEL'S is a dandy all-round paper, and I always welcome it every week.

Postmarke.—This word, meaning "Postage Stamps", is shown on the 4/4ggr stamp of Brunswick.

Postmasters' Stamps.—A term applied to certain provisional postage stamps issued by the authority of the local postmasters in various cities of the United States and in Bermuda prior to the appearance of the regular governmental issues.

Post Office.—The chief inscription on the famous 1d and 2d stamps of Mauritius issued in 1847, and it also appears upon the Annapolis, Millbury, New Haven, New York, Providence and St. Louis "postmasters' stamps" of the United States.

Post Office Dept.—Found on the U. S. official stamps used by the government department dealing with postal affairs prior to the introduction of the "penalty envelopes".

ce 1925 a new kind of paper has used and is gradually taking the of the old as the stock of plain stamps gives out. It is water- ed with the cross device known as Swastika."

nus Provisionals.—In the sum- of 1919, the district of Olonetz h stretches from Lake Ladoga al- to the White Sea, and has an area to that of England) was the scene rce fighting between the Finns and olsheviks. The chief town, Olonetz, ut 120 miles northeast of Petrograd, n the advance of the Finns towards y overprinted the 5, 10, 20, 40 and nnia, and the 1, 5 and 10 marks ingfors type) with the word AUNUS, innish equivalent for Olonetz, for n the occupied zone. Later the town was re-occupied by the Bolsheviks. 40,000 each of the pennia values were overprinted, together with 4,000 of 1 mark, 1,500 of 5 marks, and 12,000 of 10 marks.

More Provisionals.—Four more provisionals were made in 1920 by surcharging the old values with new ones in black type.

There are two types of the 1½ mark on 50 pennia. Type 1 has a small top to the figure 2 of the fraction and the down stroke is heavy and straight. In Type 2 the down stroke is thinner and curved.

The Red Cross stamp issued in 1922 had a postal value of 1 mark, but a premium of 50 pennia was added in aid of the Red Cross.

The stamp was of large size and showed the Finnish lion before a large cross upon a solid oval of colour. Above is SUOMI and below is FINLAND 1M+50P. There was no outer frame, and design shows up well in red, black, and grey. This stamp, of which 2,000,000 were printed, was valid for inland postage in Finland only.

First Commemorative.—Finland last year commemorated the tenth anniversary of her independence by an issue of stamps, which, to judge by the number in the set, will give little cause for grumbling.

The main idea of the design was again the National Arms, with the name of the country at the top and bottom. At the left is the date, 19-VI, XII-17, the birth of the new Finland, and on the right is 19-VI, XII-27, the date of the issue of the stamps. Their sale was restricted from December 19, 1927, to March 19, 1928.—Postage Stamp.

PRECANCELLED ENVELOPES

By C. A. CARROLL.

There are 168 varieties reported to date. This does not cover all that are now in existence, by any means. I have been advised of quite a number of others, but they have not been submitted for inspection, and until this is done, they cannot be included in this check list.

Collectors are warned to look carefully at the manner in which the state name is abbreviated or spelled out. The contract printers are using a wide latitude in this regard. New York City has the state both abbreviated and spelled out. The same applies to Oakland, Santa Ana, Duluth, Kansas City, and others. Both large and small type are beginning to appear on the same city, as for instance, Tacoma. With these variations, added to color, size and watermark, the specialist will soon be building a new wing on to his home to house his accumulations—Precancel Bee.

WE WANT U. S. ALL ISSUES

The world-wide demand for U. S. stamps has depleted our stocks and we must re-fill.

Like everyone else, we want, and can pay highest prices for, early issues in fine condition, special items, and big specialised collections, most of the ordinary items in all issues, including many quite common stamps.

BUT WE ALSO WANT

Those who will send us lists priced per 10 or per 100 will receive prompt orders. Use Scott Nos. if you wish.

HERE'S A GOOD JOB FOR THE RIGHT MAN

One of the largest stamp dealers of the United States wants to develop his Juvenile trade, now doing very nicely, but not as well as it should, because it lacks direct management. This concern has a place for a man who has had successful experience with the Juvenile trade in its various phases. If he can show the ability to build up such a business he can have full charge of it, with all the capital and stock of stamps required for development. He can earn a good salary with a share in the profits. Are you such a man?

DO NOT WRITE unless you can fill this bill; and if you can, write in long hand stating fully your age, experience and salary expected. Address L. M. W., Care MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, 31 Pierce Avenue, Beverly, Mass.

REARGUARD OF THE PIONEERS

By FRED. J. MELVILLE.

The passing of the Rev. Robert Brisco Earee, at the age of eighty-two is a fresh reminder of the longevity of many of the philatelic pioneers. Mr. Earee, who was collecting stamps about 1861-62, and was prominent in expert work and in contributions to the philatelic press from 1872, practically concluded his philatelic labours with the monumental third edition of "Album Weeds," which was completed in 1907, just twenty-one years ago. Apart from an occasional lecture, he did little in stamps after that, and indeed he was something of a martyr to Philately, his intensive labours on "Album Weeds" having developed a cataract, and left him nearly blind.

So when he came out of his retirement to sign the Roll of Distinguished Philatelists at Harrogate in 1921, there were few collectors of the period who had known him, though all have known, and future generations will know, his work.

Even the "old stagers" of today are prone to think that the pioneers have all passed to the great beyond. Mr. Earee's death reminds us that here was one still with us until November 12th of this year. Happily even Mr. Earee cannot be designated the last. There is still left a little group of pioneers, some at least having been earlier in stamp-collecting, though none greater in philatelic achievement, than the late Rector of Miserden.

Who are there still remaining? We may not know them all, but it would be of great interest to have a complete register of them.

There is, we believe, one of the very earliest English collectors and dealers living in Mr. James Robinson, who entered upon his apprenticeship to a merchant's firm in Liverpool in September, 1857, and his first job brought him in touch with other boys who had to hang around the G. P. O. for the arrivals of mails. The waiting youths were the pioneer stamp exchangers, and a little later on James Robinson was the first (as he is also doubtless the last) of the famous little group of Liverpool stamp dealers in the early sixties. Though lost to Liverpool, Mr. Robinson is not lost to Philately. When we last heard from him he was "busily climbing the eighties, with good health and perfect eyesight, and they (stamps) are still my chief delight."

Then there is Alwin Zschiesche, eighty-five last June, one of the partners in the early German firm of Zschiesche and Koeder. He was dealing in stamps in 1862, and produced what is generally recognised as the first practicable German stamp album in 1864. He also published the "Magazin für Briefmarkensammler, 1863-67."

In the United States are several very early collectors and dealers still living. Most prominent, and still in a measure philatelically active is Mr. William P. Brown, in his eighty-sixth year. He was dealing in coins in 1860, and stamps were added as a result of the boom which spread through America as in Europe in 1862.

Although we have not heard from him lately we believe Mr. C. F. Rothfuchs, whom we used to know in Boston, Mass., and whose long and honorable association with stamps dates from 1859-1860, is still enjoying his well-earned retirement in California.

Yet another whose claims to be a pioneer collector we have not been able to confirm is Mons. Gustav de Lachasse, of Avignon, now in his eighty-second year, and who claims to have been collecting since 1858. For about half-a-century he was resident in the United States.—Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

By Harry E. Huber.

In a notice of Feb. 22, 1929, in the Jamaica Gazette of Feb. 28, 1929, the 9d King George V Postage and Revenue stamp (after the Cayman Islands design of 1921), advised in the Crown Agent's Bulletin for the fourth quarter of 1928, as on order, was announced for issue on March 5, 1929.

"Stamp Office, Kingston,
22nd February, 1929.

"The following is a description of a Ninepenny Postage and Revenue stamp, which will be put into circulation on the 5th March, 1929.

"The design of the stamp is denoted by a profile of King George the Fifth, on a ground of horizontal lines, in an oval frame. The top of the frame is supported by columns, in the center of which is a Crown. The denomination 9d is shown (in circles) on each side of the Crown. On the left column, the word 'Postage' is printed, and on the right column, 'Revenue.'

"The word 'Jamaica' is shown at the bottom of the stamp between two squares, which are directly under the columns.

"The colour of the stamp is purple, printed on white script watermarked paper.

Signed, C. C. Manton,
Deputy Stamp Commissioner."

The stamps were line engraved and recess printed in dull violet, by Messrs. Thomas De La Rue & Co., Ltd., London, on multiple Crown and script CA watermarked paper, comb perforated 14, in sheets of 120, divided into two panes of 60 each (6x10), with a narrow margin between the panes. There are "T" marks in all four margins, the same as on sheets of the 1½d brown issued Jan. 18, 1929, for aid in perforating.

The design measures 18x22mm, and the head of King George V facing left, is on a partially cross hatched and horizontally lined ground. The vignette opening, arched at the top, is surmounted by the Imperial Crown, and in the upper corners, circles enclose "9d" in colorless. At the bottom is "Jamaica" in colorless sans serif caps (not so bold as on the 1½d), and scroll topped pillars at the sides, are inscribed "Postage" and "Revenue," respectively.

The choice of color was not a very wise one, as a letter mailed to me from the Kingston G. P. O. on the first day of issue, March 5, 1929, was rated by the clerk there as short paid 1d, and 4 cents were collected on delivery. The 9d stamp was evidently mistaken for the 1½d brown, in the same type, issued on Jan. 18, 1929.

This is the first 9d stamp issued by Jamaica in its postal history of almost 70 years (distinctive Jamaican postage stamps were first placed on sale Nov. 24, 1860); in fact, very few British Colonies have found it necessary to include this denomination in their Postage and Revenue series. Grenada in the Windwards issued on December 27, 1922, a 9d violet and black, Postage and Revenue stamp, DLR-1912 keyplate design, along with the 5d and 3s, as the result increased postage and parcel rates. However, this 9d denomination was dropped, in 1928, from the Grenada series, along with the 4d, 5d, 2s and 3s, as stamps for which the demand has lessened, or disappeared. They will not be reordered when present stocks exhaust.

The probability is that the 9d of Jamaica will not be seen much on the mails leaving the island, as it was issued primarily for use on telegrams. Ninepence is the charge throughout the island for any number of words up to twelve (the address and signature are both counted), and ½d for every additional word. If the addressee resides more than one mile from the terminal office, a porterage fee of 6d per mile is charged; or if a horse messenger is required, the fee is 1s per mile. The charge for transmission, and for porterage of telegrams, must be prepaid by means of adhesive stamps.

The Jamaican Government telegraphs are under the control of the Postmaster for Jamaica, and on December 31, 1927, 60 telegraph offices were in operation. Of this number four were railway stations, in direct communication with the Telegraph Dept.; in addition there were 39 railway stations where messages were accepted.

The total number of telegrams sent during 1927 was 334,818, as against 315,549 in 1926, and the revenue was £19,584 and £18,007, respectively. Official telegrams handled by the Department numbered 27,416 (29,544 in 1926), which if charged for at regular rates, would have increased the receipts by £1,360.

During 1927, £773,15.0 was spent in telegraph maintenance by the Telegraph Dept., and £4,552 by the Public Works Dept., for line construction and maintenance.

March 5, 1929. King George V (Cayman Islands design). Line engraved and recess printed by Messrs. Thomas De La Rue & Co., Ltd., London. Watermarked multiple Crown and script CA. Perforated comb 14.

9d dull violet.

C. F. MANN

Charles F. Mann, assistant local treasurer, entered the service of the Illinois Central System August 16, 1891, as elevator boy and telephone operator in the general office building, 78 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, near the present Randolph Street Suburban Station. September 4, 1891, he became a messenger and guard the treasurer's office under Henry De Wolfe, who was treasurer at that time, and held various positions in that office until November 12, 1906, when he was made cashier, which position he held until August 1, 1926, when he was appointed assistant local treasurer. Mr. Mann was born in Chicago, July 11, 1872, and received his education in the schools of Chicago. He is one of the best known stamp collectors in Chicago, and has for years held various offices in the Chicago Philatelic Society and is at present treasurer of that society. He also served several terms as treasurer of the American Philatelic Society.—Illinois Central Magazine, March, 192

BULLY FOR BUSH

In the Centre Democrat, special edition, of Bellefonte, Pa., dated March 23, 1929, we find one of the best philatelic interviews of the day. The account is headed: "Stamp Collecting Valuable Hobby. Interview With George T. Bush, of Bellefonte, Reveals Surprising Facts," and occupies nearly two columns of page on the front page. Its readable vein high and its philatelic content solid. The reporter begins by saying that his discient eye espied "some gayly colored velopes" in the hand of Mr. Bush, then follows this lead down through Clark memorial stamps and some general observations on philately. The envelopes were air mail from Mexico, and Mr. Bush, after introducing them, tells Lindbergh covers, first flights and similar things. Mr. Bush, whose guess about as good as the next man's, is that an estimate of three million collectors in the world, "from crowned heads to the ordinary citizen," is justified. He gives the Philatelic Agency a well praise and tells of finds that have riched fortunate hunters and say that many a rare item is blushing unseen solitary state waiting to be recovered the philatelic world. We select a paragraph from the interview which have a tendency to liven collecting neighborhood of Bellefonte:

"We asked him how long he had collecting and he stated that in 18 he had traded a jack-knife with for a small notebook pasted with a collection of stamps and from that never lost his interest, though at periods of years it had become quiescent and then would flare up again. He one of the first members of the American Philatelic Society, the premier society the world with about four thousand lectors and of which he is now member. He said that many of the dailies of the U. S. devote a column sometimes a page to stamp collecting which is rated as the most extensively by today, from the hundred of millions of dollars invested in it."

$250,000 WORTH OF NOTHING

By A. C. TOWNSEND.

He was a crook. He had never done an honest day's work in his short life of 22 years; had lived by his wits and, like most such people, had made a poor job of it. He belonged to no "mob" for he wasn't smart enough or brave enough for the larger doings of crookdom, so his living was a poor one. In fact, tomorrow he would lose his room unless he paid his rent, and he couldn't see any chance of paying it, except by a stroke of luck.

Today, he was prowling around the corridors of the 7th Ave. Post Office, partly for warmth and partly because people sometimes dropped stamps or coins, or he might run across an easy pocket or handbag to pick.

He happened to be on the third floor, near the cashier's office, when there was a sudden explosion, short but sharp, and a burst of flame, and everyone in the room made a rush for the hall. He caught a glimpse through one of the counter windows of the open vault door in the rear room, and an idea came into his mind instantly.

There were thousands of dollars worth of stamps in there, many thousands. Stamps were as good as money; he could work them off in small quantities readily. He took the easy chance offered by the confusion, was into the room, around the edge out of sight and into the vault in a second. There he grabbed the first package of stamps his hand could reach, put it under his coat, and was out again almost instantly.

Met at the outer room door by the gaping crowd, he said in apparent excitement, "I tried to stamp it out, but it's too big. Call the engines. Where is a box?" And without waiting for a reply he pushed his way through the crowd, looking down the hall for a supposed fire alarm box, reached the stairs and was gone.

The package bulged alarmingly under his coat. Anyone with half an eye could see he was concealing something, so a few feet down the street he picked up a discarded newspaper, spread it, slipped the package in and folded it hastily, and then carrying it boldly under his arm, made for his room. The package was heavy, and he gloated over it, trying to estimate the value of the stamps, figuring on ways of disposing of them in large or small quantities, and visioning food, warm clothes and drink in plenty. Perhaps a trip south until the weather warmed up!!

He reached his room in safety, locked the door and proceeded eagerly to unwrap his plunder. It was an unbroken package, with big red seals. He turned to the end of it and his heart jumped as he read "50,000." "What a killing!" His mind rose to figure the value of 50,000 two-cent stamps, but instantly his heart flopped as he read the balance of the inscription—"$5.00 Stamps." He took in the wording in full, "50,000 $5.00 Stamps."

He stared at the printing, unable to believe his eyes. After a minute of this, with thoughts racing through his brain, he feverishly tore off the wrapper and exposed the stamps, but there was no mistake. They were Five Dollar stamps, red with a blue head of a woman in some sort of monkey getup.

He tried to figure it in his head, but gave up and took a pencil to the newspaper edge, and then stared at the result. He had $250,000 worth of stamps looking him in the face; a fortune—and what could he do with it. Who would buy Five Dollar stamps from him?

No bartender, no restaurant, no fence, nobody! Nobody, for nobody could use 'em. What in thunder did they make such stamps for, anyway? Who would ship anything by mail that was big enough or heavy enough to need a Five Dollar stamp? He had no idea.

A fortune in his hands! A quarter of a million dollars!! And not worth a plugged nickel to him!!! Suddenly he jumped and a smile of relief came to his face. He remembered that around Times Square he had seen several places where there were frames of funny looking stamps for sale. He had stopped once or twice to apparently study them, in order to avoid facing a cop, and had wondered why anyone would want to buy them.

He could sell his stamps, a few at a time, to some of those goofs. He sat up excitedly. He would have to sell at a discount of course, but he could sell half a dozen to one fellow, say at four dollars each, half a dozen to another, and so on. He saw visions of money. Every day he could sell a few and he could play the races, do anything he wanted to with the money.

Then his face fell again. How many would those guys buy from him? Not many, because there couldn't be much chance for them to sell 'em again. And suppose they asked him where he got them, what would he say?

He couldn't get rid of many, except very slowly. What he would do, he'd take a strip of five to one of those fellows and say he found 'em, and get what he could for them, and do the same thing with each of those whose signs he could find, and so get a pretty good stake.

But suppose those muts stood in with each other and told? Right away they would be onto him. Perhaps by the time he offered them to some guy he had already been phoned to, and then he would be grabbed for the police!

Well, the only thing to do was to work fast; beat 'em to it. Sell a lot quick and get a stake. Then maybe he could go somewhere else and sell more. Maybe he could go to Europe and there get rid of the lot. He would carelessly ask one of those stamp birds if people in Europe sold stamps, and where. Then, if he had sold enough for a stake, he would go over there and unload the entire lot on some guy for what he could get. That was it! That was the solution. Be a wise guy and beat 'em to it. Pump them for information and then unload.

A grin spread over his face. Maybe they sold stamps in Paris! If he could sell enough to get over there and then unload on some bird, what a time he would have.

He would get busy at once. He tore off two rows from the top sheet and made four strips of five. He could tell each man that he found that many. That would give him a start anyhow. Hold on; he might find more than four guys selling stamps, or he might hit one he felt he could do business with, so he folded up the balance of the sheet and put it in his pocket, packing up the balance in his trunk.

He started out for 42nd Street. At a corner newsstand a heading caught his eye. He hadn't a cent, but waiting a chance he swiped the paper and went up to the next corner to read it unobserved. He read it.

"EXPLOSION IN POST OFFICE
Sneak Thief Steals Fortune In $5.00 Stamps

Takes advantage of confusion to slip into cashier's vault and steals package of 50,000 stamps, but made the bad mistake of grabbing a package of $5.00 stamps. Worth $250,000 face value, but not worth a nickel to him. Warning sent through the city."

He sneaked back to his room and slumped down on the bed. It was true! Not worth a nickel!! He couldn't sell one of them. He had a fortune and was busted. He pulled the stamps from his pocket and tore them to bits. He spat viciously at the trunk where the package was hidden. He cursed wildly, and spent the balance of the afternoon and evening trying without success to think up some way of selling at least a few.

Early the next morning, hungry and shivering, he carried the package down to the river, walked out to the end of a pier, and hurled it as far as he could into the water.

"There goes nuthin'," he said. "And here goes nuthin' else," he added bitterly, as he dove into the icy water.

More Prestamp Covers

On two separate occasions during the last year or so, I have been so fortunate as to acquire a number of Prestamp covers and in each case sold them promptly through offering them to "Mekeel's" readers.

I have just acquired a further original find, containing not only a good number of the 1851 3c orange-brown in singles, pairs, and strips with the "Express Mail" cancellation, but in addition a fair quantity of Prestamp covers from numerous cities. As I make no effort to stock these Prestamp covers, they are offered, like in former cases, at prices which should move them without delay.

Practically every collector today is starting his album with a few covers used previous to the issue of stamps, which show, in addition to the postmark, an indication, either stamped or in manuscript, indicating the amount of postage prepaid or to be collected. While the present little supply lasts, ten different covers are available at $1.00. Can furnish upward of fifty varieties on this basis. Those purchasing twenty or more at one time will receive in the lot, one cover without stamps, bearing a "U. S. Express Mail" postmark. These transit marks are always of unusual interest. Judging from past experiences, these covers are not likely to last long, so that early requests are suggested.

Also bear in mind that I offer the interested collector the opportunity of acquiring most of the other issues of United States, including singles, strips, blocks and covers.

Am in the market at all times to acquire for immediate cash, important U. S. items, used or mint. Also desire rare foreign covers worth $50.00 or more, used previous to 1860. In all cases, condition is of paramount importance. If you are looking for the best the market affords, write—

Many thanks, folks

May I not take this means to express my appreciation to all those who wrote me so kindly about the little radio talk on "The influence of a wooden leg upon U. S. postage stamps" given over WOR on Saturday morning, March 9th, by the courtesy of Sig I. Rothschild.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., P. O. Box 2175, Middle City Station, Phila., Pa., who will also be pleased to pass on oddities and varieties of all U. S. stamps. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, cor. Robbins Road and Locust Ave., Lexington, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

United States

New "Dam" Stamps

The Department has decided to issue a stamp or stamps in connection with the completion of the engineering feats on the Ohio River, and the issue may be expected in the early fall. A definite design has not been decided upon, and while tentative approval has been given by the Postmaster General, details are not as yet definitely known.

Right at the present time, it is thought that there will be one single stamp of 2c denomination, but as the Postmaster General is from Ohio, when the issue finally appears, it may have grown from one to two or three denominations.

2c "Clark" Inverted Center

While the heading might lead one to believe that such a variety is now in the hands of the collector, nevertheless, this is not the case insofar as we know at the present time.

The Bureau, however, recently through error, printed four sheets with inverted center, and I learned from one of the employees that these were immediately destroyed, in fact the four sheets did not go further than the press that printed them, for they were neither gummed nor perforated, but were destroyed in their first stage.

While the issue has been watched closely, there is still the possibility of an actual error with inverted center being finally located, although we are frank in stating that the location of such a variety is not expected.

One kind soul in Des Moines mailed a cover on April first, from his city, with the center neatly cut out and inverted in relation to its frame. The variety really looks attractive with the center in this condition and here's hoping that someone will be so fortunate as to locate a sheet.

"State" Stamps

The new stamps with "State" overprints, have been completed, and the issue is ready to go forward to Kansas and Nebraska. The matter is being given the further approval of the new Postmaster General; and it is believed that the issue will be available shortly after these notes appear. It is now expected that arrangements will be made whereby they will be obtainable at the Philatelic Agency, so that it will not be necessary for the collector to write to the two States in order to obtain their supply, as we had at first expected.

1873, 6c Double Transfer

Mr. Charles J. Phillips has shown me a most interesting variety that I have not noted before, namely—the 1873 Continental printing, 6c dull pink, with a very distinct double transfer. Several of the letters of "POSTAGE" are doubled, the "O" and "S" being especially noticeable, and may be seen with the naked eye.

1869 Issue, Japanese Use

We had the pleasure of describing in this column, several months back, a very unusual cover which had been shown us with certain denominations of our 1869 issue used from "Hiogo" to "Yokohoma." The cover was carried via American steamship, hence, had the American stamps.

The question was raised by one of our readers who took the trouble to write to several to whom he imagined the cover might belong, questioning the use of such a cover, and indicating that no such place as "Hiogo" existed. While stamps of the 1869 issue have been known and recognized for many years, the question coming up as it did, made a further investigation advisable.

The Japanese Embassy at Washington writes that "Hiogo" is the name of a district in Kobe, Japan, so that there is no question about the letter being carried via American steamship from Hiogo to Yokohoma. As stamps bearing the Hiogo postmark are in many collections, it was thought advisable to definitely settle the question.

Registered Mail Cancellation

The Third Assistant Postmaster General in the Postal Bulletin for March 28th, calls attention of postmasters to the fact that stamps on registered letters are not being effectively defaced, in many cases. He states that extreme care should be exercised in seeing that cancelling devices are kept clean and that stamps should be cancelled in such a manner, as to prevent the re-use of postage stamps.

Mr. R. S. Regar, however, remembers the postage stamp collector and further states:

"Postage stamps may be properly cancelled without disfiguring the stamps. Care should be exercised not to cause disfigurement of postage stamps having philatelic value. A composition stamp, containing two elliptical lines, without the name of post office and State (item 681 under the heading Rubber Stamps and Supplies of the List of Postal Supplies furnished post offices of the first and second classes) has proven satisfactory for the cancellation of postage stamps having philatelic value, affixed to registered mail."

The postmark that he describes is being used in New York City, and makes quite a neat cancellation, which recalls the grid postmarks of the 1847 period.

Australian Commonwealth. — The Philatelic Magazine in a recent issue reports that despite the official deni the effect that no Centenary Comm rative stamp was contemplated for Australia they have received from of their correspondents a reproducti a design by G. Pett Morison with a ting stating that the Australian P. M has agreed to an issue of this desig Guatemala.—The 2 pesos orange the 5 pesos claret have been surch "1928 ½ CENTAVO DE QUETZAL" in lines in black, and copies have been mitted by Whitfield King & Co.

Irish Free State.—According t Irish Times semi-official informati to hand that the Free State Governm has decided to make a special issu postage stamps to commemorate the tenary of the Roman Catholic Emanc tion next June. It has not been defi decided whether more than one nomination will be issued, but it i pected that all the denominations w used. A head of the "Liberator" (D iel O'Connell) will doubtless be the ture of any design accepted by Ministry.

Panama. — The Economist Bu states that a hurried provisional ai stamp was recently issued to frank l carried by Colonel Lindbergh on h cent flight to Miami. A new and s unused special delivery stamp show post office clerk riding a bicycle, used for this purpose. 10c orange charged in blue "CORREO AEREO" at monoplane in centre with numerals at each side, and "VEINTICINCO CEN MOS" at bottom.

Salvador.—According to the Ec mist Bulletin an entirely new and pected provisional has appeared wit numerals "1" in upper corners, and CENTAVO" at lower centre, and the o al numerals and value barred out.

Spain.—The series of Seville-Bar lona Exhibition stamps which have rumored for nearly a year and offi announced last October, are now according to the Philatelic Mag The exhibition was fixed for last au and has twice been postponed, but i fixed. Spain has its own set, whil for Tangier, Cape Juby, Fernando Spanish Sahara and Spanish Guinea have the same stamps appropriately printed. In addition there is a s air stamps and an express letter s which is for Spain only. 1c bright (Peasant), 2c dull green (Peasant lake red (View through Archways blue-green (King Alphonso in med with view each side), 15c blue, 20c (both same as 10c), 25c carmine-re sepia, 40c bright blue, 50c vermili slate, 4p carmine, 10p brown (Pict a sailing ship). Air stamps 5c b 10c carmine, 15c bright blue, 50c 1p yellow-green, and 4p black (e plane in flight). Express Letter s 20c orange-red (Leaping Antelo These several series are the work Spanish National Mint, and all be inscription "Exposicion Gral Sevilla celona 1929".

Sweden.—Stamp Collecting is a ity for the following numbers o Gustav V Commemoratives sold: ore, 731,510; 10+5 ore, 715,580; ore, 956,444; 20+5 ore, 414,921; ore, 467,834. The Cancer Fund fore benefits to the extent of some 150,000, or about $40,000.

OFF-SIDE—

THE Associated Press had a despatch from Rome telling of the demand for the stamps showing the King of Spain, and the Pope says that "the offices of the national Philatelic union of Italy" in the Eternal City has received a huge volume of orders during March, and that another rush is expected because of the demand for the stamps for Easter cards.

CLARENCE NYHLEN, secretary, says that a neighborhood stamp club has been organized on the far south side, Chicago; his address is: 8580 Euclid Avenue.

WE are anxious to furnish Miss Harriette Blanchard, Boston, with desired information. She would like to find out about the issue of Turkey, No. 634 to No. 636, showing the legendary blacksmith, Boscourt and his pet wolf, on the stamps. We cannot place our finger on the story wanted.

MR. T. C. E. HUNTER, Akron, Ohio, recently president of the Chicago Philatelic Society before his removal from the city, spoke on "Hobbies" before the Rotary Club at Ravenna, Ohio, March 25th, and showed stamps from May 6, 1840, to the issue of February 25, 1929, including the "broken line" stamp, Clark issue; and also, his Irish. At the same time, Mr. Harry Lyons of Ravenna exhibited stampless covers, and the '47 series.

THE HUMBOLDT STAMP CLUB of St. Paul, at a recent meeting, elected Harry Belinsky, president; Irving Waldman, vice-president; and Melvin Abromovitch, secretary-treasurer. Postmaster Moos of St. Paul was said to have accepted an invitation to speak before the student body of the Humboldt High School.

THERE were 449 bidders at P. M. Wolsieffer's 300th anniversary sale, plus 30 from out-of-town, who attended the Philadelphia sale, with the local buyers.

THE membership directory of the American Philatelic Society, revised and corrected up to Feb. 15, 1929, has been published, and contains almost 200 pages.

We need for stock, collectors' duplicates, accumulations, or stocks, of United States, postage, official, special delivery, envelope or revenue stamps, in nice condition. One or one million. Fair cash prices paid or liberal credit allowance for anything in the house.

STATEMENT OF THE OWNERSHIP, MANAGEMENT, CIRCULATION, ETC., REQUIRED BY THE ACT OF CONGRESS OF AUGUST 24, 1912.

Of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, published weekly at Portland, Maine, for April 1, 1929.

State of Maine, } ss.
County of Cumberland, }

Before me, a Notary Public, in and for the state and county aforesaid, personally appeared Wm. W. Jewett, who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the business manager and part owner of the MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management (and if a daily paper, the circulation), etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in section 411, Postal Laws and Regulations, printed on the reverse of this form, to wit:

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business manager are:

Name of. Post office address.
Publisher, Severn-Wylie-Jewett Co., 226 Federal St., Portland, Me.
Editor, Charles E. Severn, 30 N. LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.

Night flying on the Cleveland-Pittsburgh route has been postponed from April 1st, owing to incomplete work on the route. * * * The first membership list of the A. P. S. Air Mail Unit shows 43 names. This unit is featuring the A. P. S. Sales Dept., an exchange dept., and new issue service at cost on airmail stamps. John Hartwig, Arcade, Box 1100, Los Angeles, is the manager. * * * Service for Worcester, Mass., announced to begin with the opening of Airport Newark has been held up, and the starting date is still uncertain. It is hoped to begin this pickup not later than early summer. * * * Newspapers report that service between Calgary, Great Falls, and Salt Lake City is to start in the near future. Nothing official on this yet, however. * * * The National Air Mail Society headquarters at Chicago, is issuing a snappy news bulletin to members monthly.

Newton, Iowa, plans to dedicate a new airport about May 1st; Florence, Ariz., within the next six or eight weeks. This word is from the Chambers of Commerce in these cities. I have a questionnaire letter which I send to all cities who are listed as planning new airports, and any that are listed in this department are definitely checked up. Fully 90% of those to whom I write are planning nothing definite at all soon, so it would be foolish to publish a list of all such prospects.

*****

Several folks have written aggrieved letters bewailing the downright carelessness of collectors sending in covers to some collector who has kindly agreed to handle letters for a certain event. Here are the points as one man lists them. (1.) 25% addressed him wrong. (2.) 5% were postage due, and he had to pay it. (3.) 3% sent letters with only 2c postage, when nothing but airmail was being sent. (4.) 40% sent empty and unsealed covers. (5.) 8% sent special delivery letters, which saved very little time, and got the handler up out of bed about a dozen times in the night to receipt for them. (6.) 20% wrote all over the envelope, leaving no decent space for the cachet. How about it? Aren't we all a bit thoughtless sometimes? Think it over the next time you fix up a bunch of covers.

Several weeks ago we quoted Mr. C. J. McAhon, Tom's River, N. J., as offering to handle covers for Lakehurst, for the next Zeppelin flight. He and I have both had a lot of questions on this, which I'll try to answer here. Mr. McAhon makes no charge for his help. Covers will be mailed at Lakehurst, and must be addressed to some point in Germany, or beyond. The U. S. Consul in Berlin kindly received and returned covers from the last flight. Postage rates will be announced later. Write in advance to whomever you address your letters, enclosing a money order for the return postage. Covers will not be round trip, but will be returned under separate cover. If you want to get in early, send your covers to Mr. McAhon unstamped, but with remittance at the rate of $1.05 for letters, and 53c for cards, which were the rates last time. If they are reduced, he'll refund the difference. And remember, these good fellows who offer their services are doing lots of work for nothing. Stick in an extra cover or stamp for them when you send in your lot.

The British 6-day service to India started March 30th. The first big 20-passenger plane carried 346 bags of mail for Egypt, Palestine, and India. * * * Otis, Colorado, postponed its dedication from Mar. 16, to Mar. 30. The Commercial Club printed a special cachet in red on all airmail sent out. Covers sent in early have the printed date "16" crossed out, and "30" stamped over it. Later covers are printed "30". Mail was carried in the regular contractor's plane to Denver, where it was postmarked and sent on its way. * * * The same mail brought in the covers from Palestine, Texas, which also dedicated on the 30th. Cachet "Dedication Howard Gardner Municipal Airport Palestine Texas March 30 1929" in magenta.

The last airmail from Detroit over Route 17, left there on the evening plane, March 30. The route slip with my covers shows they went to Newark, N. J., from where they came to Wooster by train. * * * Frank Herget sent through several covers from Buffalo, March 31st, with a private cachet in honor of Capt. Lundborg's visit there.

*****

News clippings state the Graf Zeppelin will make a double round trip across the Atlantic, leaving Germany the first time about May 10th, stopping at each terminal only long enough to refuel. Makes some interesting possibilities for round trip covers that I did not know of when making previous mention of this. Better get your covers for the first trip from Germany off to the postmasters at Berlin or Friedrichshafen, with money orders for 50c for each cover, and 25c for each card.

The New "State" Stamps

ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETED FOR OVERPRINTING KANSAS AND NEBRASKA

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR. (Editor U. S. New Issues)

An official order just sent out to postmasters throughout the country by the Third Assistant Postmaster General, dated April 8, 1929, announces the issuing of the Kansas and Nebraska stamps. The official notice reads as follows:

"Postmasters and employees of the Postal Service are notified that arrangements have been completed to begin the issuance of special overprinted postage stamps in sheet form in denominations of 1 to 10 cents, inclusive, to post offices in Kansas and Nebraska, for placing on sale to the public. So far as practicable, all requisitions for these denominations now on hand in the department from direct-accounting postmasters will be filled with the overprinted stamps. The surcharge, representing the respective State abbreviations, will appear in black ink across the lower half of the stamps.

The overprinted-style stamps will be issued to all post offices in the above-named States, with the exception of Kansas City, Topeka, and Wichita, Kans., Omaha and Lincoln, Nebr., where ordinary postage stamps will be continued on sale for local use.

Postmasters at direct-accounting post offices in the above-named States, with the exception of Kansas City and Wichita, Kans., and Lincoln, Nebr., are directed to submit a special requisition promptly to the department for such quantities of overprinted sheet stamps in denominations of 1 to 10 cents, inclusive, as will be required for a year's supply, making due allowance for any pending requisition that will be filled with surcharged stamps.

District post offices in Kansas and Nebraska will be supplied with surcharged stamps from their respective central accounting office in the filling of requisitions as soon as the stock is available.

Until otherwise directed the following general rules will govern the sale and use of the State surcharged stamps:

1. The stamps will be placed on sale only at post offices within the respective States, but they will be valid for postage purposes at all post offices now using ordinary United States stamps.

TELEGRAPH STAMPS

At last we have got in a reasonable supply of the scarce Western Union issues of 1926, 1927 and 1928. We offer a complete set, each year at 35c or $1.00 for the three years; blocks of four or sheets of 6 pro rata.

STATE STAMPS

A new wrinkle in U. S. postage stamps. Current stamps of the 1, 1½, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10c denominations surcharged for use in the states of Kansas and Nebraska.

Set of unused singles of both states, 22 varieties $2.00

Set of unused blocks of four of both states 6.00

Unused sheets (100 stamps to a sheet) of the 1, 1½, 2, 3, 4, and 5c will be supplied at the face value plus 50c per sheet. Unused sheets of the 6, 7, 8, 9, and 10c will be supplied at 10% over face value. Don't ask for sheets with "every stamp perfectly centered." There "ain't no such animal." Bear in mind that these are rotary press stamps, and govern your expectations accordingly. We'll send the best we can get and take them back (in complete sheets) if they don't suit you.

It will be impossible to get first day of issue covers. No official first date of sale will be designated for any of the Kansas or Nebraska offices supplied with the surcharged stamps. We shall not know until afterwards what office first used the stamps.

If you want covers mailed to you on May 1st, the date that the stamps go on sale at the Philatelic Agency at Washington, we shall be glad to mail them at 20c per cover plus the face value of the stamps affixed. Orders will be accepted only for covers bearing one denomination of stamp to a cover. A complete set of 22 covers will be sent for $5.00.

Two large covers, one for the stamps of each state, each containing a set of 11 varieties, will be supplied for $3.00. These will be mailed to our address on May 1st and then sent to you under cover. They cannot be sent direct to you because of the risk of loss, damage or poor cancellations. Mailing to our address permits picking out fine covers to send to you.

Terms cash with order.

C. E. NICKLES
213 SEATON PL., N. E. WASHINGTON, D. C.

2. The supplies of ordinary unsurcharged stamps remaining on hand in post offices in the above-named States will continue to be used until exhausted. No official first date of sale will be designated for any post office supplied with the surcharged stamps.

3. Postmasters at offices supplied with special surcharged stamps will not accept mail orders for such stamps from outside the State, except as may be specifically authorized by the department when needed for use on advertising matter that is to be sent to post offices in Kansas and Nebraska for mailing.

4. For the benefit of stamp collectors the State surcharged stamps will be placed on sale in the philatelic agency on May 1, 1929. Owing to the large number of denominations of surcharged stamps, the agency will be unable to accept first day covers from collectors for stamping and mailing on May 1.

5. The filling of orders will be greatly facilitated if collectors will eliminate other varieties of stamps from their first orders for State surcharged stamps. All orders will be filled in regular turn of receipt.

While every reasonable effort will be made in the agency to fill orders with well centered stock, the limited quantities of the State surcharged stamps printed will prevent as close selection being made as is possible with ordinary stamps."

Requisitions on the Bureau for these stamps are going forward at the time of this writing, so that it is expected that the varieties will actually reach the two States by the week of April 22nd, at the very latest. Postmasters, however, it will be noted, have been strictly instructed not to send these stamps outside of the state to collectors, but that collectors may obtain their supply in Washington on or after May 1st. The agency is receiving hundreds of requests daily for these new stamps, and many are asking for first-day covers. The department announces that the agency will send out no first-day covers on May 1st. These any way would be of little use as no doubt, the stamps will be available in the several state offices mentioned previous to their appearance in Washington.

The agency supply is likely to be similar to the general run of rotary stamps, that is—a large percentage off-centered, and these are going to be distributed rather than be destroyed as heretofore, for the supply has been taken from the relatively small number prepared for the states, and there will be no further supply at the Bureau to draw upon so that the agency will distribute their entire supply just as they run. They also wish to announce that orders for plate number blocks will not be honored, but that those seeking such blocks must purchase entire sheets. They also request that orders calling for these stamps should call for no other issues. If other issues are called for, there is likely to be a longer delay in receiving a reply.

At the same time, the department announces that to take care of the increased business of the agency they are increasing the floor space allotted in the Post Office building, so that the present room will be practically doubled in size. Two or three additional clerks are being added to the force and it is expected that the larger space and new clerks will be available by May 1. The agency is today filling from 150 to 160 orders daily, their receipts so far for the fiscal year having exceeded $200,000.00, and it is expected that when the year is closed on June 30, 1929, that their sales will have reached $275,000.00, the highest by far, to date. Most of the sales have been for low denomination stamps, as the greatest call has been for the many commemoratives issued during the last year or so, with a denomination of not over 5 cents.

Collectors are also informed that arrangements are not being made for the surcharging of stamps for any states other than Kansas and Nebraska. The agency is receiving letters asking for Oklahoma, Arkansas, and other points, but if other states receive surcharged stamps, it will not be before next year, as it will take fully a year to see if the new scheme works out to the satisfaction of its sponsors.

As the stamps will be available in the states ahead of the agency, we will be glad to see covers from the several ties on the day on which they are placed on sale.

PAPUA

By HERMANN FOCKE.

At last some news from this far-off country to revive the interest of the collector of its once so much coveted philatelic treasures.

Some time last year I received from an Australian dealer the 1½d stamp, Scott's No. 84, with the error POSTACE, for which he asked a price of 9/-, or $2.25 net, and presuming that this error was to be found on a complete sheet of a face value of only 5/- I wrote out to the Postmaster at Daru, ordering amongst other current stamps a sheet of this value with full margins.

That was on July 3d, but no reply was received within the usual period of from five to six months, and as my letter was sent by registered mail, I wrote again in February to enquire about its fate; after another six weeks, and no reply having come forward I sent out a tracer through the N. Y. Post Office, and as it happens so often, a few days later the letter from Daru arrived with an apology for the delay, caused by a temporary shortness of the particular 1½d value.

Well, I have been fully rewarded for the long wait, because the sheet which I received is a distinct novelty, the stamps being no longer printed or lithographed by T. S. Harrison, but by A. J. Mullett, Australian Note and Stamp Printer, as it appears on the lower margin, and as might be expected, the stamp proper is a decided change from the original issue of 1925. The color of the margin is a light yellow-brown as against the former deep red-brown, and the centre a greyish violet-blue as against the former pale ultramarine.

The frame appears to be the same, but the centre gives the appearance of having been retouched, particularly the background showing the Hanuabada village and a chain of hills, and for anybody wishing to hunt for varieties, the sheet certainly offers a wonderful field.

Stamp No. 1 has the above mentioned error POSTACE at right, catalogued by Stanley Gibbons, as No. 113a-b at 10/-.

Stamp No. 2 has the foot of P in Postage at right broken off, so that the word reads DOSTAGE, besides this stamp has a beautiful rift in the clouds, beginning at the base of the second A of Papua, running diagonally downward towards the top of the first sail to a length of 6mm, and from there horizontally to the left to a total length of fully 10mm.

Stamp No. 37, that is the second one of the last row, has a broken T in Postage at right, so that the word reads clearly, POSIAGE.

There are also untold numbers of misformed leaves at the sides and the bottom of the stamps, the most conspicuous one being No. 12, where one of the leaves at right has a horizontal white line attached, making it look like a bent-over leaf. There is also quite a variety of the numbers indicating the value, and several stamps have two, and in one case, three dots under the d (for pence); the rope connecting the upper and lower end of the sail aft is often colorless, but this may be due to insufficient inking of the plate.

Across the entire first vertical row of eight there runs a number of very fine lines, like so-called hair-lines through the margins of the stamps, similar to the same peculiarity found on the 1d stamp of the first issue for British New Guinea, with the difference that lines are white instead of black.

The watermark is the same as before, Crown over A sideways, but heading to the left, instead of the right, but this may be a peculiarity of my specific sheet, as it occurs occasionally with the previous issue, though it is not often found thus, and is generally called inverted. The new stamps are unquestionably a major variety and should be recorded as such.

As to the other stamps received I have to state that the lot contains again the 6d, Scott's No. 83, though in a much lighter shade, also with the wmk. inverted, but as the block has no lower margin, I cannot give the name of the printer. The 3d is of the Harrison print, but in a sort of bluish-green shade and a brownish-black centre, quite different from the two shades recorded by Stanley Gibbons. The 2½d Scott's No. 79 could not be supplied because it is "no longer in issue."

All other values received show no marked difference from those in my collection. To make my report complete, I will state that Daru has a new postmark, with the name in much larger letters than formerly and minus the W. D. to designate the Western Division of the Territory, of which it is the principal town with the seat of the Administration.

U. S. Plates and Plate Markings

R. A. BRYANT, Editor.
1 Essex St., Winter Hill, Mass.

Readers are requested to send in notes and data on errors, shifts, defects and all plate markings; also color varieties and new numbers for chronicle. The editor will gladly answer all questions on these subjects.

Response from readers sending Vincennes plate combinations has become so large that the sum total of these lists amounted to several hundred entries since our last appearance and we are able to present fifty-six additional combinations for chronicle, as follows: Border 19720, Center 19733; Border 19721, Center 19732; Border 19722, Center 19733-39; Border 19723, Center 19733; Border 19724, Center 19734-35-36; Border 19726, Center 19733-35; Border 19727, Center 19728-34; Border 19740, Center 19728-29-30-32-33-34-35-36-37-38-39; Border 19741, Center 19729-30-31-32-33-34-35-36-37-38-39; Border 19742, Center 19728-30-31-32-33-34-35-36-37-38-39; Border 19743, Center 19728-29-30-32-33-34-35-36-37-38-39. The first group of ninety-six combinations are now reported 100%, and all but eight of these combinations average up. 19722-39 and 19727-34 have been reported twice, and 19722-28, 19723-26, 19724-28-38, 19725-39, and 19727-28 but three times. This seems strange when we consider the large number of times the others were reported.

Lack of space forbids more than brief mention, but it is very interesting to compare reports from all sections of the country, some of them containing over fifty entries. It is remarkable to note, that with one exception, no variations have been found. Contributors this week are: John W. Spencer (2), G. S. Dills, Joseph Wood, Earl C. Taylor, Dr. Herbert B. Priest, Samuel Rosenberg, C. Robert Bressler, A. T. Brown, Samuel C. Prescott, E. de Haas, Walter P. Yarnell, Hon. Warren H. Orr, Henry C. Davis, Roy A. Barton, R. F. Morean (3), J. M. Bramann, Burton N. Gates (2); C. A. F., Charles H. Swale, James Farish, Frederick Krueger, Arthur Schinckler, A. J. Trythall, Arthur W. Line (2), A. W. Mead, John Phillips, Jr., Daniel J. Kaib, Arthur R. Davis, Charles M. Hall, and B. S. Brumley. A splendid list of coöperators!

Mr. H. M. Southgate kindly sends the latest information pertaining to booklets and writes in part: "Watch for numbers in the 73c combinations booklets, and the 97c 1c books. There are a number of 1c and 2c book numbers that I have not heard of being found, but which doubtless have gone to press. 1c 15968 and 16276-79 and 2c 18384-18401-08-09 are worth looking for. These were used last year I expect in combination books as the 1c rotary book plate was not made and flat plate 2c stock had to be used with the 1c sheets. There is a long list of certified 2c book plates that have not been cancelled, but likewise not put to press, and never will be probably. As long as they remain in the plate vault they are available for use. This in general covers all book plates, 1c from 16310 to 16612, and 2c from 18410 to 18512, except 18521. Some of these never have been certified, but many are ready for use, but have lost their job on account of the rotary press beating them out on cost of production."

A New York correspondent submits for inspection a plate strip of ten of the 5c air mail, plates 19615-608, showing something of an error. The word TOP (red) is almost eliminated, being but faintly perceptible. He has two other blocks of like appearance.

No. 19071, 2c current issue. Mr. James Hollywood sends for examination two copies from this plate showing an irregular red spot on the border of the right circle around the numeral "2". On one copy streaks reached to the numeral. This was caused no doubt by some foreign substance adhering to the plate at the time of printing, and is not, therefore, a true plate variety. The position of the stamp was not given.

Mr. Roy A. Barton sends for inspection a block of twelve of the Vincennes issue on which there occurs two creases in the paper extending over several stamps in the form of an irregular "V". Examination shows that the paper was creased after printing was completed.

Mr. R. W. Becker, treasurer of the Philatelic Plate Number Association, sends the list of errors on the 5c air mail stamp reported to him by members. These include the double TOP in both red and blue, printed on the left and the blank TOP on the right. All combinations have the same plate, 19597, and will be included in list of air mail combinations, to be presented later.

Mr. R. F. Morean kindly forwards first day cover from Vincennes on which he discovered the heavy red over the right ribbon, as reported in column last issue. Mr. Morean's specimen is very plain, and in addition the line has a streak curving from the over the numeral "2" and running through the numeral "9", almost touching the right edge of the ribbon at the top. No doubt this is an early printing and later specimens may not show the spot. The line itself, however, is very prominent. Mr. Damon, who was first to discover this oddity, did not send his specimens for examination, and therefore am unable to compare with his or copies.

Readers having any of the following missing plate numbers are requested to report: 15300-301-315-346-353-360.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY

JAMAICAN 1d 1929

By HARRY E. HUBER.

The last of the trio of Jamaican Postage and Revenue stamps (1½d, 9d and 1d) in the Cayman Islands type of 1921, announced by the Crown Agents in their Bulletin of October-December, 1928, as in preparation, was advised by a notice of 7th March, in the Jamaica Gazette of 14th March, for issue on 15th March, 1929.

"Stamp Office, KINGSTON,
7th March, 1929.

The following is a description of a penny Postage and Revenue stamp which will be put into circulation on 15th March, 1929.

The design of the stamp is denoted by a profile of King George the Fifth, on a ground of horizontal lines, in a circular frame, on the top of which is a Crown.

The denomination 1d is shown on labels on each side of the Crown.

To the left and right of the circle, the words "Postage" and "Revenue" are printed on labels between horizontal lines, and "Jamaica" is shown at the bottom of the stamp between parallel lines.

The colour of the stamp is red, printed on white script watermarked paper.

Signed, C. C. MANTON,
Deputy Stamp Commissioner."

These stamps, like the 1½d and 9d, issued Jan. 18th and March 5th respectively, were line engraved and recess printed, by Messrs. Thomas De La Rue & Co., Ltd., London, on multiple Crown and script CA watermarked paper, comb perforated 14. But, unlike the 1½d and 9d, the 1d has the appearance of being printed from a plate of 240 subjects, i.e., four panes of 60 each, and dispatched in sheets of 120, 2 panes of 60. "T" marks are in the right, left and lower margins of the lower half sheet of the 1d which I have seen, but is absent from the upper margin, over the 3rd and 4th stamps of each pane, although it is in the usual position above the narrow gutter. Since such large quantities of the 1d stamp are needed, as compared with the 1½d and 9d, considerable saving would be effected by having it printed from a 240-subject plate rather than from one of 120.

Along the lower edge of the sheet of the 1d there is a band of engine turning, much the same as found on some sheets (not properly trimmed) of the Turks and Caicos Islands, Postage and Revenue series of 1928.

The stamp design measures 18x22mm (as in the case of the 1½d and 9d), and the head of King George V, facing the left, appears on a partially cross hatched and horizontally lined circular medallion, surmounted by the Imperial Crown. The denomination, 1d, colorless, is on horizontally lined octagons in squares in the upper corners; "Postage" and "Revenue" are on labels at the sides, and at the bottom, is "Jamaica", in color, outlined in colorless, on a horizontally lined label.

Although the designs of all three denominations in the Cayman Islands type are in good appearance, that of the 1d seems much better balanced than the 1½d and 9d on which the side ornamentation crowds in on the central medallion. The color too, of the 1d, a rich carmine, brings out the details of the design to better advantage than the sombre brown and violet of the 1½d and 9d. The brown used for the 1½d approaches that of the 1d of the Turks and Caicos Islands Postage and Revenue series of 1928, rather than the chestnut brown of the 1½d Cayman Islands, 1921.

March 15, 1929. King George V (Cayman Islands design). Line engraved and recess printed by Messrs. Thos. De La Rue & Co., Ltd., London. Watermarked multiple Crown and script CA. Perforated comb 14.

1d, King George V, Nyasaland Type, December 5, 1912

In 1912, Jamaica adopted the Nyasaland keyplate design and used it for all denominations of the series (introduced with the 3d on Mar. 6, 1912), 1d to 5s, excepting the ½d, which continued in the Arms type of Nov. 8, 1906. The 1d Nyasaland type first appeared in booklets (18—1d and 12—½d Arms type) on December 5, 1912, being gazetted on December 12, 1912. Printed in sheets of 240, from plate 1, it was not placed on sale until February of the following year. The first invoice covering 1d stamps is dated November 4, 1912—7,137 sheets of 240.

During 1913 no less than 76,963½ sheets of the 1d carmine were dispatched to Jamaica; in 1914, 1,030½ sheets; in 1915, 27,366 sheets; in 1916, 5,014; none at all during the years 1917, 1918 and 1919; the final printing of 750 sheets, was invoiced by Messrs. De La Rue & Co., Ltd., on Oct. 7, 1920. Subsequent to 1916 the stamp was printed in scarlet instead of carmine.

ANDREW SLEDD, DECATUR, GA.

from issue for over a year to exhaust the 1d Nyasaland type. In the Gazette of Sept. 29, 1921, the new stamp was announced for issue on Oct. 3, 1921. It was typographically printed in orange and carmine, on chalk surfaced multiple Crown and Roman CA watermarked paper, in sheets of 160, 2 panes of 80 stamps each.

Shields in the upper corners of the frame design contain the denomination in colored figures and letters, with "Jamaica" between, colorless. At the sides and bottom are Arawak implements, weapons and pottery. The vignette shows an Arawak woman, seated on the ground, in front of her hut, making cassava. The inscription, "Arawak making Cassava," just below the vignette, is part of the frame design.

1d, Postage and Revenue, Script CA, December 5, 1922

Through an oversight, "Postage and Revenue" was omitted from the design of the 1d Arawak making Cassava, and in their December, 1921, communique, the Crown Agents advised that "A new border duty plate with the additional wording 'Postage and Revenue' has been put in hand for the 1d duty."

A supply of the 1d from the corrected frame plate was notified by the Crown Agents in June, 1922, as on order, and in September, 1922, as dispatched. This first printing was of 10,000 sheets (1,600,000 stamps), on script CA watermarked paper. The Gazette of Nov. 23, 1922, announced it for issue on December 5, 1922. In the frame design "Postage and Revenue," colorless, on a plain horizontal tablet, is substituted for the Arawak ornamentation at the foot of the frame of the Oct. 3, 1921 design.

With the reduction of the inland letter rate on August 2, 1923, from 1½d (effective since 1st April, 1916) to 1d, the demand for the 1d increased in the same proportion as that for the 1½d decreased.

Jamaica is one of the very few countries of the Western Hemisphere which has not yet accepted the proposal of the U. S. Post Office Dept. for the reciprocal exchange of letters at the domestic letter rate. However, since Jan. 1, 1922, the domestic letter rate of 2c applies to "letters mailed in the U. S. destined for Jamaica." Turks and Caicos Islands, the Cayman Islands, Bermuda, and the far off Falklands also still charge 2½d on letters to the United States.

WESTERN FRANK "DOPE"

By HERMAN TOASPERN, F.H.S.L.

In preparing my auction sale of Western Franks, I found the following extract from the report of the Postmaster General for the year 1861, so far as I recollect this has never been published before.

OVERLAND CALIFORNIA MAIL

By the 9th section of an act of Congress approved March 2, 1861, entitled, "An act making appropriations for the service of the Post Office Department during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1862," authority is given to the Postmaster General to discontinue the mail service on the southern overland route (known as the "Butterfield" route) between St. Louis and Memphis and San Francisco, and to provide for the conveyance, by the same parties, of a six-times-a-week mail by the "central route"; that is, "from some point on the Missouri river, connecting with the east, to Placerville, California." In pursuance of this act, and the acceptance of its terms by the mail company, an order was made on the 12th of March, 1861, to modify the present contract, so as to discontinue service on the southern route, and to provide for the transportation of the entire letter mail six times a week on the central route, to be carried through in twenty days, eight months in the year, and in twenty-three days, four months in the year, from St. Joseph, Missouri (or Atchison, Kansas), to Placerville, and also to convey the entire mail three times a week to Denver City and Salt Lake; the entire letter mail to California to be carried, whatever may be its weight, and in case it should not amount to 600 pounds, then sufficient of other mail to be carried each trip to make up that weight, the residue of all mail matter to be conveyed in thirty-five days, with the privilege of sending it from New York to San Francisco in twenty-five days by sea, and the public documents in thirty-five days; a pony express to be run twice a week until the completion of the overland telegraph, through in ten days, eight months, and twelve days, four months, in the year, conveying for the government, free of charge, five pounds of mail matter; the compensation for the whole service to be one million of dollars per annum, payable from the general treasury, as provided by the act; the service to commence July 1, 1861, and terminate July 1, 1864. The transfer of stock from the southern to the central route was commenced about the 1st of April, and was completed so that the first mail was started from St. Joseph on the day prescribed by the order, July 1, 1861. While the carriages have, it is believed, departed regularly since that time, the mail service has not been entirely satisfactory to the department. The causes of complaint, however, it is hoped will be removed by the measures now in progress.

The route selected is that by Salt Lake City, so that that office has now the advantage of a daily mail, and Denver City is supplied three times a week. The overland telegraph having been completed, the running of the pony express was discontinued October 26, 1861. By the terms of the law the contractors were required to convey only the California letter mail on each trip by the short schedule, and this they were to do whatever might be its weight; but by voluntary agreement they stipulated that in case it should fall short of 600 pounds on any occasion they would take other mails so as to make that weight. As the letter mails are seldom or never equal to 600 pounds in weight, some papers are conveyed in connexion with the letter mails each trip by the short schedule, while others are necessarily delayed. This has occasioned complaint, and complaints have also been made of other delays, and that bags of printed matter have been thrown off en route for the admission of passengers and express matter. These charges are denied by the contractors; but while the conditions of the contract, fixed by law, allow a longer time for the transit of some mails than others, complaint and disappointment must of necessity occur.

At the commencement of threatening disturbances in Missouri, in order to secure this great daily route from interruption I ordered the increase of the weekly and tri-weekly service then existing between Omaha and Fort Kearney to daily, and an increase of pay thereon of $14,000 per annum. By that means an alternative and certain daily route between the east and California was obtained through Iowa, by which the overland mails have been transported when they became unsafe on the railroad route in Missouri.

In sending them from Davenport, through the State of Iowa, joining the main route at Fort Kearney, in Kansas, the only inconvenience experienced was a slight delay, no mails being lost so far as known.

* * *

The second clipping is from the report of the Postmaster General for the year 1862.

CALIFORNIA OVERLAND MAIL

I regret to state that the overland mail service has not been satisfactory. It was assumed by Congress that this company could procure the transportation of much of the heavy matter by water, but no arrangement to effect this object was made till about the first day of July, 1862.

To this cause of failure must be added the unprecedented floods of last winter and spring, and Indian depredations.

Arrangements having now been made by the company for the water carriage of periodicals, &c., and a new and more direct route having been started, less liable to interruption by the Indians, I hope for greater success than has yet been achieved. With a good road and over a route which the special agents of the department, who have recently inspected it, think is now very safe, and can be made perfectly secure with a very slight increase of force upon it, future failures will be inexcusable. There have been irregularities on this line not excusable on any of the grounds above referred to, due measurably to mismanagement, and partly to the difficulties of the undertaking; but I am disposed to believe that those now in charge of this great national undertaking are intent on making it successful.

Its importance, indeed, is becoming more and more manifest. Every brings intelligence of the discover new mines of gold and silver in th gion traversed by this mail route, gives assurance that it will not be years before it will be protected supported throughout the greater pa the route by a civilized population.

As an agency in developing thes sources for the government the line is indispensable, and every ne protection and support should be to the company, and some allow made for failures in the beginnin the undertaking.

MARKS BUYS FROM KOSLOWSKI

The Marks Stamp Co. has acquired the bulk of the collections formed by Karl Koslowski of Detroit, a prominent philatelist of that city. The Marks firm will give a detailed announcement in the next issue of our publication. It will be decidedly attractive.

TENNESSEE STATE REVENUES

Warren T. Ware calls our attention to the fact that some new revenue stamps are to be issued by the state of Tennessee. The following official notice is being posted and indicates three new stamps, values 5c, 15c and $2.50. This is the text of the announcement:—

"House Bill No. 338, which act imposes a special privilege tax upon sales and distribution in this State of "Malt" or "Malt Extract" becomes effective April 12, 1929. This act imposes a tax of 5c on each pound of sixteen ounces or fraction thereof, of all such malt extract, derivatives or combinations thereof sold or distributed by sale or gift by any dealer in this state. Payment of this tax shall be evidenced by privilege tax stamps affixed to container of "Malt" or "Malt Extract" after same has come to rest in this state and intended to be sold or distributed by sale or gift in this state.

Privilege tax stamps are available in the following denominations, 5c, 15c and $2.50"

RELIANT BUYS ZISSLER STOCK

The Reliant Stamp Company of New York has purchased the personal collection and stock of the late Ludwig Zissler of Philadelphia. The transaction is one of the largest that has occurred in stamp circles recently. The purchase will be duly announced in our advertising columns next week without a doubt. Mr. Anderson of the Reliant Co., states that it will be many weeks before he can get the stock into salable shape.

NEW BUREAU PRINTS SHORTLY

Five new towns have placed orders for Bureau Print Precancels, and collectors may shortly expect to see Government issues from Holland, Mich., Jamestown, N. Y., Jackson, Mich., Manchester, Mass., and San Antonio, Tex. Holland, Manchester and San Antonio, will receive only one cent coils; while Jamestown has ordered the one cent ordinary and Jackson the one, one and a half and three cents ordinaries.

Jamestown, N. Y., placed an order with the Bureau in the summer of 1926 for coils, but this order was later cancelled. The present order is for ordinaries and not coils.

New values ordered by cities already in the Bureau Print catalog include Albany, N. Y., all ordinaries; Indianapolis, Ind., 3c, 4c and 10c coils; Lansing, Mich., 1c ordinary; Paterson, N. J., 1c coil; Rochester, N. Y., 4c, 6c, 8c ordinaries; Minneapolis, Minn., 8c ordinary; St. Louis, Mo., 7c ordinary; Syracuse, N. Y., 3c, 6c, 8c, 10c ordinaries; Trenton, N. J., 1c ordinary.

MELANGE—

THERE is a letter at this office for Mr. W. A. MacCart. Who can furnish us with his address?

THE Bloomfield (N. J.) Stamp Club meets every Thursday night at "The Study," Free Public Library, Broad St. Plenty of interesting topics, lectures, exhibits, circuits from the United Stamp Societies and the Rutherford Stamp Club.

THE newly elected officers of the Michigan Stamp Club announced in the WEEKLY were installed at the last club meeting. Herman W. Boers was again made Publicity Manager of this club, and is now entering in upon his eighth year. He is no doubt the dean of club correspondents.

WE are indebted to Congressman Ernest R. Ackerman for a copy of the official circular dealing with the Kansas and Nebraska "state" stamps.

KARL KOSLOWSKI sends us the particulars of his experience with the Vincennes P. O., Feb. 25, and his complaint seems to be well grounded. We quote from his letter: "I submitted self-addressed envelopes, and plainly marked with pencil the exact shape of blocks wanted on each and every piece of mail, and great was my surprise to see this out-of-proportion, or rather top-heavy article arriving in a crazy quilt shape. Out of thirty blocks, four only were blocks at all. Could you imagine anyone making up a block of ten stamps for registration with a strip of three singles and three pairs, and all with straight edges. A block of four was made up of a pair and singles." Mr. Koslowski was unable to find words in the English language to describe his disgust.

W. T. WILSON sends us his Bi-Monthly List containing many timely offers, also the announcement of the Odjfell auction sale advertised elsewhere in this issue.

THERE are twenty-five exhibitors in the annual exhibition of the Junior Museum Stamp Club, which has just opened in the special exhibits rooms of the Newark (N. J.) Museum. Senior and Junior groups of the stamp club are both exhibiting, and a few adult collectors have lent stamps for the occasion.

"REGULAR meetings of the Metropolitan Philatelic Society of Boston, are held on the second Thursday of the month at 8.00 P. M., in Room 18 of the Quincy House. The membership is composed of both sexes, and visitors are always welcome. Membership dues are only one dollar per year."

ERWIN STRASSER has changed his address to 317 Superior Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio. Correspondents will take due notice.

TWO SPECIAL CACHETS

Colonial Western Airways, Hotel Syracuse, Syracuse, N. Y., will handle air mail sent to their office for dispatch on May 1, when new CAM 20 schedule goes into effect. A special cachet will be applied.

A special cachet will be applied to all mail from Cape Henry, Va., April 26. It will commemorate the landing of Capt. Newport on April 26, 1607. Lieut. J. J. Johnson, Cape Henry, Va., will care for covers sent him.

EDITORIAL

THE following letter is not philately, we admit, but it is Lincoln; and we think that readers will be as much impressed by it as we are. Recently, we showed a Chicago educator several Lincoln pictorial war envelopes, in which he was much interested, and later he sent us a book, "Six Months in the Federal States," by Edward Dicey, and published by Macmillan and Co., London and Cambridge, 1863. He said: "I want you to have this book, in which I have marked a passage that gives an intimate sketch of Lincoln in the dark days when his greatness was obscured by the fogs of military and political strife. The author was a special correspondent of Macmillan's Magazine and the Spectator newspaper, and was favorable rather than otherwise to the federal cause." We quote: "Personally his aspect is one which, once seen, cannot easily be forgotten. If you take the stock English caricature of the typical Yankee, you have the likeness of the President. To say that he is ugly is nothing; to add that his figure is grotesque is to convey no adequate impression. Fancy a man six-foot high and thin out of proportion, with long bony legs and arms, which, somehow seem to be always in the way, with large rugged hands which grasp you like a vise when grasping yours, with a long scraggy neck, with a chest too narrow for the great arms hanging by its side; add to this figure a head cocoa-nut shaped and somewhat too small for such a stature, covered with rough, uncombed hair, and uncombable lank dark hair, that stands out in every direction at once; a face furrowed, wrinkled and indented, as though it had been scarred by vitriol; a high narrow forehead; and sunk deep beneath bushy eyebrows, two bright, somewhat dreamy eyes, that seemed to gaze through you without looking at you; a few irregular blotches of black bristly hair in the place where beard and whiskers ought to grow; a close-set, thin-lipped, stern mouth, with two rows of large white teeth; and a nose and ears, which have been taken by mistake from a head of twice the size. Clothe this figure, then, in a long, tight, badly-fitting suit of black, creased, soiled, and puckered up at every salient point of this figure—and every point of this figure is salient—put on large, ill-fitting boots, gloves too long for the long bony fingers, and a fluffy hat, covered to the top with dusty, stuffy crape; and then add to this an air of strength, physical as well as moral, and a strange look of dignity coupled with all this grotesqueness, and you have the impression made upon me by Abraham Lincoln. You would never say that he was not a gentleman: you would still less say that he was not one. There is about him a complete absence of pretension, and an evident desire to be courteous to everybody, which is the essence, if not the outward form of high-breeding. There is a softness, too, about his smile which redeems the expression of his face, and reminds me more of the late Dr. Arnold, as a child's recollection recalls him to me, than any other face that I can call to memory. On the occasion when I had the honour of passing some hours in the company of the President, the gathering was a small one, and consisted of persons with all of whom, except myself, he was personally acquainted." Surely, he was a man for the ages from Dicey to Drinkwater.

MR. THEODORE SIDDALL, Shanghai, China, addresses us as follows: "While the newspapers here report that a new issue for China is impending, I have direct information that nothing has been decided so far. The daily papers here say: 'The Ministry of Communications proposes to cast a number of new molds (sic) for stamps. The new molds are to be engraved with the images of various meritorious and nationally-prominent men. They are distributed as follows: 2-cent, 4-cent, 10-cent, $1, $2 and $5 pieces together with four kinds of postal cards, to bear the image of the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen; the ½-cent and 5-cent pieces, Teng Keng; the 6-cent and 7-cent, Liao Chunkkai; the 8-cent and 12-cent pieces, Chu Che-sing; the 15-cent and 16-cent pieces, Sung Teng-chu; 25-cent piece, Huang Ke-chang; and the 30-cent and 50-cent pieces, Cheng Yingshi'." Mr. Siddall observes: "This is to be the regular issue, to take the place of the junk and reaper issue; and you will see two new values and will miss the 1½-, 3-, 13- and 20-cent. Nobody but stamp collectors knows that there is a 1½-cent stamp now, and very few collectors use them; they can't get them, as not many offices stock this value. The Shanghai office has not sold out its stock of the 1914 type yet, after six years, so you may realize that the 1½-cent is rather difficult to get; the fact is that it is the hardest stamp of the set, which ends with the $5 value." Mr. Siddall is returning to the United States after spending many years in the Orient, and will be established in Washington in a few months, we understand. He has sent his stamp stock here, and the inference is that he will continue as a dealer or specialist in Chinese issues.

FROM Mr. Julius Loeffler, Chicago, we learn that San Marino is to have a new set "of entirely new design," ranging from the 5c to 5l, inclusive; and that for the Italian colonies, Eritrea, Italian Somaliland, Tripolitania and Cirenaica, the Fascist stamps of Italy, a be overprinted with colony names. T supposition is that about forty lire cover the cost of the sets of the charged Fascist issue, which witho overprint is catalogued almost a dol

A CORRESPONDENT says: "I a seen at different times referenc the practice of philatelists using able stamps, such as commemora odd values, etc., when corresponding one another. In your desire to enco the habit, you have told of the be of coöperation and of the fine sav service; and being of a somewhat ceptible nature, I was impressed wit idea, as a good one and sought to f it literally. I used many stamps gether, from the 1893 Columbians, where the prices for used stamps about the same as those of unuse to mention recent commemoratives apple green, 14c current, etc., and my expectations were reasonable wh came to favors returned, they were appointed. It seems that while c spondents did use the unusual st yet something was the matter with everyone that came to me, such straight edge, centering, thin spot It seemed as though the senders comed a chance to work off their stuff, while I was simple enough to good specimens only." Our re words are founded on fact; we they are, because we have slipped a few fast ones on collecting fr when such stamps should have bee to our enemies.

Air Mail News

BY DONALD E. DICKASON,
Wooster, Ohio

(Our subscribers are urged to send air mail news direct to Mr. Dickason and especially advance news concerning first flights, with names of cities served. The scope of this department will not allow the treatment of flights from other than the purely philatelic standpoint.)

Several folks promptly took issue with my somewhat unkind remarks about the Miami, Fla., postmaster, in connection with his refusing to backstamp mail originating on the CAM 25 extension. My attention is called to the fact that Miami was not on the list of offices who would backstamp this mail. I was under the impression that all offices were supposed to backstamp first flight mail under the ruling in effect at that time, but I seem to have been mistaken. My apologies to Postmaster Pittman, whom local collectors say has always gone out of his way to help them.

Here's a bunch of interesting information on the recent flights out of Brownsville, north on CAM 22, south to Mexico City, sent in by Major Pascual Lopez. Covers to Mexico were cancelled at Brownsville, March 10; northbound mail was cancelled the 9th. There's a joker in the letters addressed from Brownsville to Matamoras, Mexico. Matamoras is the Mexican half of the city, just over the river. It has no airport, and all mail from there southbound and northbound was trucked to Brownsville over the bridge, and flown from there. The Brownsville-Matamoras addressed covers simply made the return trip in the truck, and are backstamped just an hour after the mailing cancellation! Some such covers have been reported cancelled the 9th, but the 10th is the proper date as of the southbound trip. Only a very small mail went from Matamoras south. Tuxpan covers also are quite scarce items. Some northbound covers have turned up with the Brownsville cancellation of the 10th, backstamped San Antonio, the 9th! It seems, also, that the official CAM 22 cachet did arrive the day of the flight, only in time to be applied to a small amount of last minute mail. If it turns out, as indicated last week, that magenta was used at Brownsville, and black at Washington, there'll be a run on the magentas.

The new night-flying service on the Bay City branch of route 27, with its extension to Toledo and Cleveland got off a day late, owing to the gale that was blowing over this part of the country April 1st. Covers bear the cancellation of the 1st, but did not actually go till the 2nd. It would be interesting to know if anyone has them dated the 2nd, which might have happened on mail received at the last minute.

*****

Collectors who didn't limit themselves to the two cities announced for official cachets, Cleveland and Toledo, received a pleasant surprise when their covers came back. Saginaw used a winged cachet of the San Jose and Laredo types, beautifully applied in blue, purple, magenta, and compounds. Flint, South Bend, and Lansing, used a box enclosed cachet reading, for all cities, "First Flight Air Mail Bay City-Cleveland from Flint, Mich., April 1, 1929, T.A.C." I believe the contractors were responsible for both these cachets. The Jr. Chamber of Commerce at Bay City had an attractive cachet in purple or green. The official cachet used at Cleveland and Toledo was the regular CAM 27 type, somewhat reduced in size, and with the new part of the route shown on the map. I have seen both in black, and one cover from Cleveland in black and magenta compound. Early covers received colored stamping, but an order from Washington soon limited all cachets thereafter to black.

*****

A recent Postal Bulletin authorizes the Bay City and Flint postmasters to forward airmail to the Saginaw and Pontiac flying fields, respectively, as long as their own fields are in poor condition.

*****

How's the no backstamp rule going to effect the point-to-point collector? Of course there are ways of getting the backstamp-special delivery and registered mail, and sometimes a general delivery receiving cancellation, but is it worth it? Seems to me we'd better accept the inevitable, and consider a non-backstamped cover as in A No. 1 condition from now on.

*****

Just a suggestion—You folks who collect airmail stamps better join up with the A. P. S. Airmail Stamp Unit (Arcade Box 1100, Los Angeles). Just received my first new issue consignment, and the prices! No more details here—look into it for yourself.

*****

Not official, but certainly AIR mail. Charles Urnick, Jr., has a letter carried by Martin Jensen on his record solo flight of 35 hours, 33 minutes, 20 seconds, and so attested and autographed by Mr. Jensen.

The Wide World Menu

E. T. Ullenbruch says about the best "wise cracker" he knows is a grocery salesman who comes to see him. One day the two of them went into a lunch room in West Seneca and the wise cracker met his match in a red-headed waitress. This is the conversation Ullenbruch heard:

Waitress: "Hawaii, gentlemen; youse must be Hungary to eat in a dump like this."

First Man: "Yes Siam; and we can't Rumania long either. Venice lunch ready?"

Waitress: "I'll Russia to a table. Will you Havana?"

F. M.: "Nome, you can wait on us."

Waitress: "Good. Japan the menu yet? The Turkey is Nice."

F. M.: "Anything at all. But can't Jamaica little speed?"

Waitress: "I don't think we can Fiji that fast, but Alaska."

F. M.: "Never mind asking anyone. Just put a Cuba sugar in our Java."

Waitress: "Sweden it yourself I'm only here to Servia."

F. M.: "Denmark our bill and call the Bosphorus. He'll probably Kenya. I don't Bolivia know who I am."

Waitress: "No, and I don't Carribean. Youse guys Armenia."

Boss: "Somoa your wise cracks, is it? Don't Genoa customer is always right? What's got India? You think maybe this argument Alps business?"

Customer: "Canada racket. Spain in the neck."—West Seneca Herald (ARMAND CREED).

Mint and O. G.

K. E. Smith asks for an explanation of the word "mint"—a philatelic term very frequently met with. A stamp is said to be mint or in mint condition when it is in precisely the same state as a specimen newly issued from a stamp-manufacturer's premises. That is it must be unused, perfectly clean and fresh looking, without defects of any sort, and with full gum if originally issued in that state. Some stamps, like many Portuguese Colonies, early Sarawak, etc., were sold to the public without gum and these must, of course, also be considered mint.

In connection with this definition I can also deal with a question propounded by another correspondent — the meaning of the letters "o. g." These letters often follow the description of an unused stamp and mean that the stamp has original gum, that is, the gum with which it was furnished when it was issued by a postoffice.

Junior Society

The Junior Philatelic Society of America, now in its third year, is progressing rapidly and is engaged in forming branch societies in various schools and communities throughout the United States and Canada. A nation-wide contest is planned for this coming November, with a possibility of New York City being chosen as a show center. A Loving Cup has already been promised for the grand Club prize, besides valuable prizes and medals for the individual exhibitors and essayists. Any information desired about the benefits and activities of the Society should be addressed to the Secretary, David Van Voorhis, Jr., 161 Brook Street, Dunmore, Penna.

PE SET FIJI POSTAGE DUES

By A. J. DERRICK.

An article published by Mr. R. Rob-s, of London, in his circular of Jan-y last, is interesting, especially in ation to his purchase of so remarkable parcel of these stamps and the illus-tion of the blocks of stamps he has ured, for their sale to the public was ressly forbidden. His deductions m them are, on the other hand, not vincing, as I hope to show.

His chief contention is that a vertical r of the combined sheets was set up three electros made from it, that setting was then successively altered produce the other values, and that tros were made from each in turn, as to produce a forme from which the ble sheet was printed in one process. After my first article (Australian Philatelist, August 8, 1921) Mr. John N. ff, of New York, sent me a copy of tt's Monthly Journal, in which he , on other grounds, argued in favour electros. I expressed my disagree-nt with this in the Australian Philat-t of January 5, 1922, and sent Mr. f the facts of the subjoined corre-ndence, which he accepted as a settle-nt of that particular point. After ding Mr. Luff's article, I wrote to J. J. McHugh, who was in charge the Government Printing Office at a, under Mr. S. Bach (the then Gov-ment Printer), and asked him cate-ically concerning this and other points ch I was then discussing with Mr. f. After explaining to Mr. McHugh r I wanted the information, I asked:

Were any electrotypes used at all he production of these stamps?

If not, were the mitred rules from ordinary font, or were they cut spe-ly for the job?

he reply, which came from Sydney, dated 27/6/22. Mr. McHugh says:

Dear Mr. Derrick,—I have been on ation here since February 27th. Mr. h sent on your letter to me, which I eived last mail from Fiji. In reply your queries:

1. No electrotypes or stereos were d.

2. The rules (double medium) were m a font. The mitred rules used were plied with the font. The sheets were ted a row at a time. Perhaps the tleman thought that the whole sheet printed with one impression.

"Yours sincerely,
"J. J. McHUGH."

s to whether a horizontal or vertical r was set up, Mr. Roberts says that has "based his theories on the funda-ntal axiom that no printer is going to e the longest and most tedious way to a job"; yet he argues for 36 succes-alterations in the vertical row set when by using the shorter horizontal ing no alterations were required.

he practice of printing successive im-ssions of the same subject by "shift-the lay" is not unusual, and would very much preferable to making suc-sive alterations in the type setting.

f the joins in the rules which form frames are uniform in the horizontal s, and not regular in the vertical s, it would certainly be an argument favour of the primary setting of a tical row, but I am not satisfied that is so, and will produce evidence to contrary in a later issue. Mr. Mc-gh states that the rules were not cially cut for the job, but were taken m an ordinary font (which included mitred rules) and consequently the e stock rules for the first frame uld naturally be used in the same way the next, and so on. The only differ-e I can see in the stamps at my dis-al is the occasional reversal of a rule ording to what mitre it had to join.

STANLEY GIBBONS LTD
DEPT. 20 391 STRAND
LONDON, W.C. 2. ENG.

Mr. Roberts' illustration does not help in this connection, as the joins only show occasionally.

It seems to me that his plan of measuring the stamps from perf. to perf. proves nothing at all, for the perforations were done with an ordinary guillotine single-line cutter, with nothing to guide the lines but the eye of the operator.

The size of the stamps were the same in all cases, for the simple reason that the sizes of the rules were uniform and the same setting of the type was used. I do not therefore see how any identification of the second printing of the penny is possible. The numbers are available because of the known quantities of the first combined sheets, and also the aggregate. In fixing the numbers issued, he says "we read that in addition to the sheets, several odd pieces of the 4d were also destroyed, and if of the 4d, why not of the first ½d, too", and he guesses a reduction of the numbers issued, on this score.

I saw the certificate of the stamps destroyed, and saw also that, allowing for the sales, this balanced the issue. Where then do the odd pieces come in?

With the respect to the contention that in the separate printings of the ½d, 1d and 2d the sheets contained 96 stamps (12 rows of 8) as in the combined sheets. This is completely disposed of by the book entries of the Government Printer, Colonial Postmaster and Receiver General, all of which I saw, copied, and will reproduce later. But if this information were not available, it is proved, by the facts, that the sheets contained less stamps than those of the first printing. To put 8 rows on a sheet measuring 8 inches wide, left margins on the sides of an average of only 2½mm, too narrow for the perforating machine that was used to be operated, unless the whole sheet was reversed each time. Hence, as this was immaterial, the sheets were left without marginal perforations, excepting in a few cases where the top or bottom margin was wide enough for the machine to operate.

In the three other printings (½d, 1d and 2d), which only had seven vertical rows, the margins were wide enough to perforate, and were so perforated. Mr. Roberts admits this, and as he measures from perf. to perf. and argues on the result that the stamps of the single printings were smaller, the side margins would be increased by even more than one row of stamps.

Mr. Roberts is surely very unfair in his argument that because I gave, at first, the wrong composition and numbers of the combined sheets, therefore I may have made a mistake in stating that the face value of the twopenny sheets was 14/-, for he knew from the articles in the Australian Philatelist (which he quotes) that I had myself made the correction and given the exact numbers, and that this was partly done in the same issue in which my mistake appeared, and completed in the issue of January 5, 1922.

This mistake after all was a very natural one. I had not seen nor heard of any but single copies. The Government Printer spoke from a 4½ years' memory of what to him was nothing more than an ordinary printing job. His memory was that the sheets contained all the same number, and it was evident that there was no other combination than what I gave, that would make the aggregate value of 16/6 in a sheet of 84 stamps. It was easy to be wise when a horizontal strip appeared, not so easy to arrive at the right conclusion by deduction from incorrect data.

A somewhat remarkable fact—yet unexplained—is that the threepenny values on Mr. Luff's horizontal strip show a distinct mitre mark in the top left hand angle of each. This supported his thought of electros, but on a similar strip now in the possession of Mr. Albert Church, a Melbourne collector, these marks are not present, neither do they show on those illustrated by Mr. Roberts.

I am of the opinion that these three mitres had some irregularity or dirt upon the face that held the ink long enough to reproduce it on the next sheets, but that it was soon noticed and removed.

The full detailed official particulars, to be supplied in an early issue, will settle finally most of the points that have been under discussion. — Australian Stamp Journal.

THE CLASSIC ISSUES

We hold one of the most important stocks of the early issues of stamps in existence.

To really serious buyers who seek such things as the first issues of British Colonials and Early Europeans, we are positive we can produce the desired material. Likewise our U. S. stock is very strong.

Sevard's Twinkles

Pandora's box? We lift the cover, and off to the winds flit the cares we try so hard to keep pent up, for all that once was, lives again. We experience facts or see faces or meet circumstances, and then we falter and say to ourselves, "Haven't I done just the very same thing once before?" At times, we collectors in looking at a stamp for many, many years, suddenly note a new phase which hitherto had quondam vulgarity. A new condition is met. A new interest is aroused. An impetus is given our dormant activity. What is new is only a divergent ray from our spar, a color till then invisible to our ocular spectrum.

Mr. Mal Ganser sent us a machine cancel from Cresskill, New Jersey, a rather odd bit with a 24mm townmark and a seven straight line auxiliary, which has the year date set into the middle line. Who recalls the congressional investigations of 1912, the swash buckling talk of machine cancels, types of machines, contracts for machines, and facing tables? Who recalls how many letters were faced per hour by one man at that time? Who recalls the Time Marking Company machines, the Hey-Dolphins, the Americans, the Doremus machines? By chance, you may have a stack of covers of the period 1909 to 1913? What machine cancel suddenly appears in 1909 and rapidly disappears in 1913? Was the congressional investigation responsible for the increase of the Hey-Dolphin or International machines? We do not here intend to reprint a House document of 1913, but we have analyzed its effects. In 1912, the Cummins machine cancel bid well to become our one and only machine cancel. By 1914, it was well on its way to oblivion. Except for Mr. Ganser's keen eyes, we should have forgotten it—olav hasholem and peace to its ashes. But philatelic history is closely knit to governmental history. This machine cancel bursts forth with Napoleonic transcendency, reaches the summit of its trajectory, and then—falls away with but a whistling stick of charred rubbish. It's all a memory, of course. Those days of street car circuits, the flappy mail bag, the two wheeler collecting gig, the side slot mail box, the meager parcels post, the enormous money orders, the postman's helmet, the unsolicited stamp approvals.

COME, FRIENDS, LET US GO BACK—BACK—BACK—TO THE CUMMINS MACHINE CANCEL. LET US DRIVE TO UNION SQUARE AND TAKE A HORSE CAR THERE. WE'LL DROP OFF AT THE HOFFMANN HOUSE FOR A BOUQUET. OR A BOCK, A SHORT BOCK ON A SAUCER? MAYBE STACKS OF SAUCERS FOR YOU AND ME. AND THEN ON TO HAMMERSTEIN'S—THE GAUMONT PALACE—OR THE FOLLIES? JACK NORWORTH AND NORA BAYES ARE THERE, SINGING, IN THEIR OWN PECULIAR WAY, "OH, SHINE ON, SHINE ON, HARVEST MOON," OR BETTER STILL, "HONEY BOY." PERHAPS. BUT WE MUSTN'T FORGET THAT IT WAS ONLY OUR "SONNY BOY"—YEARS AGO.

And we read by the papers that the word "Military" in our "Let's Go" slogan is causing a great deal of misunderstanding abroad, a great loss of trade. Our stamps are cancelled with a word bristling from armed camps. Have you ever been to one? You have a terrible Badger Fight, bloody and gory, or you join the local Turn-Verein, or ask the general for your muff brush? You go to target practice and shoot a traitorous bovine, or you set your deflection at least 3,200 miles off until you spot a farmhouse where some gay Asphodel is laving unadorned normality. You realize that a horse's withers should be changed by law to a safety razor principle, or that your closing angle in topography must not be greater than 180 degrees. You try the new semi-automatic and wonder who shot you. The word Military causes more confusion here in our own country than it ever did abroad. If it ever lost business, it lost it for reclining chairs here in our own domicile. And even so, anyone collecting slogan cancels on stamps will find it hard to get them with the word "Military" on the stamp itself. The crux of the whole matter lies in those Dempsey mitts they engrave on the stamps. They're the mailed fists.

OFF-SIDE—

THE Philatelic Club of Los Angeles celebrated its biggest night of the year by a dinner-dance, an annual event, April 8th, at the Commercial Club, where entertainment of most recherche kind was offered.

OSCAR LOTHHOLZ asks in the Chicago Tribune: "The United States stamps which I have bought lately do not stick. Why is the government using such poor mucilage?" We wonder if "poor mucilage" is to blame for stamps missing on mail sent to us prepaid by special issues. It must be said, however, that complaints based on the theft of stamps from letters received from foreign countries and from letters sent with special U. S. issues are not being received by us with the frequency with which they once came.

WE regret to learn of the death of the father of Michael Miller, Baltimore, Md.; and his friends in the field of philately extend their sympathy to Mr. Miller.

ALREADY the proposed commemoratives to celebrate the Ohio River System of Dams and Locks are being called Dam Stamps.

MR. CLARENDON BANGS, Atlanta, Georgia, sails for Norway on April 20th, whence he will proceed southward through Europe. He will be absent for an indefinite time, but will make his headquarters in Brussels.

WE have received a card from Constantinople, from Mr. C. F. Adams of Chicago, who is one of the most traveled of philatelists. A series of postal cards has been received from Mr. J. S. Hardy as he saunters through the south.

THE following clipping is from the Vincennes, Indiana, Commercial of March 23, 1929: "Max Golding, president of the Chicago Aero Philatelic Society, and internationally known stamp collector, arrived by airplane Thursday night. He made the trip to Evansville, from Chicago, in record time. The flight altitude at Terre Haute had to be increased by the pilot due to the heavy rain. The rain beneath the fliers had the appearance of a great crystal cascade, he reported. Mr. Golding landed at Evansville, and motored to Vincennes to call on Dr. Hammon." The same newspaper a month before had an interview with Mr. Golding, headed: "Philatelist Predicts Flying But Air Mail," five years being the time alloted for this revolutionary development.

PUNCTURED OFFICIALS

By B. S. M. CLARK.

Before proceeding with my subject, I must ask the reader to erase from his mind the picture of a row of Government officers being punched by a pin in the hands of a higher authority and exploding like toy balloons. The title might possibly call up such a scene, but it refers to philately.

There exists in many quarters a prejudice against punctured officials, which, encouraged by the fact that many philatelogues do not list them, presumably because they are not in great demand, rests with the individual, of course, to choose for himself what stamps he will collect, and there are some who exclude all officials from their collections, but I hope to make it clear to those who do collect officials that the punctured variety is as worthy of collection as the overprinted brother. Certainly no specialized collection of a country is complete such stamps would be complete without them.

The use of official stamps is probably designed to prevent the abuses to which the free franking system is open, and may be also, to assist the Accountant Department of the Post Office to arrive at the true revenue earned. Such stamps are sometimes of distinctive design, as in Costa Rica, Egypt, etc., but are usually the ordinary type overprinted, or with initials punctured therein. One of the chief advantages of the latter type is the cheapness of production as compared with the more costly overprint, or the expense of separate plates, but the purpose it serves is exactly the same, which to my mind makes it equally collectable.

I believe that the privately punctured stamp which one so often finds in firms using is the chief reason for the black eye given to punctured officials. A little consideration will show that the two are on a vastly different footing, the former being merely the work of a firm or individual who hopes thereby to prevent pilfering from the stamp box. Whether or not this purpose is served seems open to question, the practice is undoubtedly annoying from the philatelist's point of view.

Among countries which issue or have issued punctured officials are:
Australian Commonwealth, "O.S."
New South Wales, "O.S., N.S.W."
the main State Departments, "G.R."
(Government Railways), "G.B."
(Government Savings Bank).
Queensland and Victoria, "O.S."
South Australia, "S.A."
Tasmania, "T."
West Australia, "W.A."
Papua, "O.S."
Sudan, "S.G." (Sudan Government)
"A.S." (Army Service).

It is interesting to note that two of these "S.G." varieties issued in 1901 are listed Gibbons Nos. 101 and 102 but those issued from 1913 onward are not stocked.

The above does not pretend to be an exhaustive list, and there are probably other countries as well as other types of punctures.

I have seen the ratio of puncture to ordinary given as 1 to 15 for Australian Commonwealth "O.S." and 1 to 75 for New South Wales "O.S. N.S.W." It is likely that all the varieties mentioned are much scarcer than the ordinary issues and that should be a further argument in their favour. In any event it would be advisable for collectors who come across any to hang on to them and not consign them to the waste-basket as trash. The time may come when they will be in fashionable, and the collector with foresight will reap a reward, especially if he is lucky enough to pick up some with errors. which I may say abound in the Australian Commonwealth issues.—Jamaica Philatelist.

FREDERICK W. ALLEN

The New President and Active Manager of the re-organized Rotnem Stamp Company, Minneapolis

Notice has appeared of the sale and transfer of the Precancel Department of the Rotnem Stamp Co., of Minneapolis, to Hoover Brothers of New York City. The Rotnem Stamp Co., Inc., has been re-organized as a purely Postage Stamp concern, and will continue to operate from its former address at 545 McKnight Building, Minneapolis, Minn.

Mr. Victor W. Rotnem continues his connection with the company in a purely advisory capacity, the Presidency and active managership of the company are being assumed by Mr. Frederick W. Allen. Mr. Allen is well known to the readers of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY as the former editor of our precancel column. During the past year Mr. Allen has been in direct charge of the Postage Stamp approval and auction departments of the Rotnem Stamp Co., Inc., and the present reorganization plans place him in active managership, under an arrangement whereby he will eventually come into the full ownership of the business.

The re-organized company will continue its monthly public auction sales, which are conducted by the Gordon Auction Mart, and will enlarge its present stock of foreign and United States stamps with special emphasis on United States, British North American and Scandinavia. In the rest of the foreign countries, Mr. Allen has arranged an especially popular series arranged in the exact sequence of Scott's International Junior Albums, disregarding the catalog sequence and following instead the classifications of the Junior Album.

Mr. Rotnem intends to devote his attentions exclusively to the practise of law, and has made good progress on his chosen profession. He is at present the attorney for the American Philatelic Society, and for the members of the A. S. D. A.

A few figures on recent events. The Glendale, Cal., C. of C. say that the Grand Central Terminal cachet was applied at the Glendale post office, and that 1,500 airmail and 500 2c rate letters were sent. That doesn't explain those covers returned by the P. M. with the statement that there was no special cachet. * * * Otis, Colo., a city of 1,000, sent 5,000 airmail letters by a special plane of the Western Air Express to Denver, on March 30, their dedication date. 2,000 had the date "16" printed in the cachet, and corrected to "30", and 3,000 were printed "30". As noted last week, the cachet was printed in red on all covers. * * * The American Legion, Oyster Bay, N. Y., will have a special Roosevelt memorial cachet from this, his home town, on Memorial Day.

AN INSIDE REPUBLIC

A little French district near the Swiss border calls itself the "Republic of Sauget," claiming that its freedom dates from feudal times.

There are only about 500 inhabitants of this "republic," but they have a language all their own—a language that is as foreign to their French neighbors as to Americans. The people of the three small villages forming the "republic" call the people around them "French" as if speaking of foreigners.

But a concession has at last been made to progress. Sauget, like her neighbor Switzerland, likes to have tourists. Heretofore the villagers have been accustomed to treat these visitors to the singing of the Sauget national air, but deciding that it would be more courteous to sing in an understandable language they have had the song translated into French. Of course all the Saugetians know French, for that is the only language taught in their schools.

ATLAS STAMP CO. (P. C. Smith) LEXINGTON, MASS.

U. S. CARRIERS

One of my important clients has decided to collect the Carrier stamps of the United States and as my stock of these issues is exceedingly small, I am particularly anxious to purchase choice pieces on the entire cover. While it is the rarities that are especially desired, I am also anxious to acquire the less important pieces, where they are nicely tied to the cover. If you have a single choice item or if you have several, it is requested that they be submitted, at your lowest net price. Only choice specimens are desired, for damaged copies will not be of interest.

As usual, I am also in the market to purchase anything choice in the way of general U. S. Issues, including postmasters, general adhesives of both nineteenth and twentieth century, departments, newspapers, postage dues and revenues. In the way of early issues, mint blocks and singles in addition to choice covers are preferred. In the late issues, errors are wanted, such as inverted centers, part-perforates, blue papers and the like. The current issue rotary press is also being found now and then on double paper and sheets showing these varieties are desired.

In the way of departments, I require mint blocks and choice covers, Newspapers in mint blocks and postage dues in mint blocks and singles. Used copies are not desired at this time.

Anything choice in revenues is likely to be of interest, especially the inverted centers and fine blocks of the early issues. In the way of late issues, I would like a copy or two of the 1914 $50 violet #4106 uncut.

I also offer the collector, who is particular as to condition and choiceness, an unusual stock of U. S. Issues from which to make selections.

4c Perf. 11x10½, Double Paper

I have recently been shown a sheet of one hundred of the 4c Perf. 11x10½, rotary print, wherein the entire bottom horizontal row and half of the row immediately above are on double paper. This sheet was located in the far west.

Vincennes—First Day

Mr. Charles S. Reese has just submitted for inspection a registered cover from Vincennes, Ind., bearing the new George Rogers Clark stamps and posted on February 23rd, two days previous to the actual placing on sale of the new variety. This registered letter bears two numbers, 9580 and 8747, and was undoubtedly sent out through error on the earlier date. The cover also shows a California receiving postmark of February 28th. Mr. Reese writes that he has received two such covers.

New Revenues

Mr. R. J. Bickel has submitted for inspection, not only a $2 "Stock Transfer" perforated 10, Scott's No. 4258, which we had the pleasure of first announcing in this column a few weeks back, but also sends a $1 green "Stock Transfer" surcharge reading up, perforated 10, Scott's No. 4257b. Undoubtedly the balance of the issue will be noted with similar perforation in short order, and we would like to have our readers advise us as other denominations are found.

The Playing Card stamp perforated 10 was only located a few months back, so that it would not be surprising if one of the perforating machines used for revenue stamps was perforating 10 long after those on postage stamps had been changed. We are making definite inquiry through Washington, and hope to have additional details in short order.

Canal Zone

Through the courtesy of Mr. R. S. Carter we are able to announce the issue of a 15-cent Air Mail stamp which was placed on sale on April 1st. The current 1-cent stamp showing portrait of General Gorgas has been overprinted similar to the 2-cent in two lines reading, "Air Mail—15 Cents 15". From a clipping received from Mr. Carter, who kindly sends a first-day cover, we are informed that postage rates between Cristobal and Miami have been reduced two cents effective at once, so that the air mail rate from Cristobal to Miami becomes 25 cents per half ounce instead of 27 cents, as heretofore. The cover which Mr. Carter sent forward came via Air Mail, although the postage prepaid was but 15 cents.

The clipping states that the 15 cent rate applies to Colombia and Ecuador, and that a 30 cent rate applies to Peru, and 45 cent to Chile. It is stated that all air mail matter must have its postage paid by means of the special air stamps.

I recently communicated with the Canal Zone authorities in Washington, relative to the new Canal Zone stamps, which were mentioned in this column some weeks back. The subject was taken up with them of placing on sale in Washington the Canal Zone stamps, just the same as the stamps of the United States or the Philippines, may be purchased at that point. It will be noted in the letter that the matter is being given consideration. The letter follows:

"No order has been placed for Canal Zone stamped envelopes, but inquiries are being made as to the prospective cost of such envelopes in case it should be desired to place an order for them.

An order has been placed with the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in this city for the following new issues of Canal Zone stamps:

1,000,000 5c stamps, blue, to bear a reproduction of a photograph of a steam shovel in operation—(Spec. Del. size).

500,000 12c stamps, brown-violet, to bear the likeness of Col. D. D. Gaillard, deceased.

250,000 50c stamps, lilac-brown, bearing the likeness of former Senator J. C. S. Blackburn, deceased.

The Canal Zone officials desire to place the above mentioned stamps on sale locally about June 1, 1929, but this office is unable to state at the present time whether these stamps will be delivered and ready for sale by that date.

Your suggestion that Canal Zone stamps be placed available for sale in the United States to stamp collectors is being brought to the attention of the Governor of the Panama Canal, as this matter does not come under the jurisdiction of this office. You will be advised of any reply received."

We wish to thank Reverend E. M. Gearhart, Messrs. J. R. Frampton, G. M. Pagett, John G. Kuespert and Stanley E. Johnston for notes of interest.

Cameroon.—Whitfield King & Co. report a new color in the 1fr value. It is now green and mauve.

Canada.—Mr. R. Roberts sends for chronicle the 2c green, King George, new type, imperforate x perforation 8.

Cyprus.—Information from the Postmaster-General of Cyprus informs us that the Jubilee stamps were withdrawn from sale on January 31st last, and the remaining stock has been destroyed.

Dominican Republic.—Regarding the 1, 2 and 10 centavos stamps recently issued Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin learns that this is to be a permanent issue and will replace the previous one. While only three values have been received others will follow in due course.

Egypt.—Although the large Stadium (especially prepared in Alexandria) is ready, and the Commemorative stamps also, the Games are not to take place for political reasons, as the Egyptian Press informs us, most probably so as to avoid contact with the divers African nations, of whom many have not the political independence which Egypt possesses. If, therefore, the Panafrican Games take place later, the stamps will have to be surcharged with the new date at least. If the Panafrican Games do not take place at all, and the Olympic Games take place in Egypt, instead, then the stamps cannot be used for the purpose, and will be destroyed. Stamp Collecting states that the 10mm Prince Farouk stamp exists with a centre of brown-violet, instead of black.

Fiji.—Mr. W. McCraedie advises the Australian Stamp Journal that the 4p value of the current set is no longer in stock at the post office. As there is very little demand for this value, at present, it is believed that no further supplies will be requisitioned.

Finland.—Mr. R. Roberts advises that the 20p bistre brown, watermarked Posthorn, perf. 14x14½, has been placed on sale.

France.—Stamp Collecting furnishes the information that the new designs for the forthcoming air mail issue hav been approved. The 4fr shows a treated in an allegorical manner. 2fr shows a monoplane flying over of Europe, and the 5fr a flying boa water, inscribed respectively "Aerienne", "Postes France" and "Republique Francaise".

French Oceanica.—Mr. R. R calls our attention to the followin items of this colony. The 1fr40c bistre and violet, while the 3fr gre brown, 5fr pale blue and brown, pale rose and brown, and 20fr mau brown are in new design.

Iraq.—Mr. Farage informs de la Timbrologie that there is so of overprinting some current stam air mail purposes, with possibilitie distinctive issue in due course.

Jamaica.—Mr. R. Roberts r the appearance of the 1p carmine, s to the 1½p, issued in January, bu the head in an oval medallion a framework and lettering of quite ent design. The stamps are recess ed by Messrs. De La Rue & Co., script watermarked paper, perf. 1

Liechtenstein.—A Swiss pape nounces as a fact that a new se shortly to appear in view of the f the succession of the new Prince A Ferdinand.

Portugal.—More new surcharg on sale, this time the ½c black ha overprinted "10 C" in carmine, per 14, unsurfaced paper. The 1E10c perf. 11½, bears the surcharge "40 black, while the 10c terra cotta a 96c carmine has the word "Reval in black. Our informant, Mr. R erts, adds that the number of the ½c black is very limited. A late also brings the 40c yellow-green o with the same overprint as the 1 96c noted above, and the 60c dark perf. 15, with the surcharge "40 black.

Roumania.—Whitfield King & Bulletin for this month states tha new charity stamps have been iss aid of the Bessarabian Famine Fund. They are the obsolete King nand stamps overprinted with the "Ajutorarea infometa ilor Basa (Help the starving in Bessarabiei) values so overprinted are the 1 le bani black, 3 lei on 30 bani green, lei on 6 lei blue. They have no fr power, but are affixed to letters ir tion to the ordinary postage.

Virgin Islands.—The 1p has changed to bright scarlet, quite tive from the pale rose of 1922 R. Roberts sends the information t with copies for inspection.

Turkey.—A new provisional h cently appeared and copies have b ceived from Whitfield King & Co 5gr indigo has been overprinted f as a 2½ piastres. The surcharge lines in red.

Zanzibar.—The 30Rs black brown, Native boat type, on script marked paper has been issued acc to information received from M Roberts and Whitfield King & C

MARKET IN MODERN COLONIALS

By "PHILATELIA".

Gibraltar.—I am always glad to hear from correspondents on Modern Colonials, either giving or asking information on this subject, and I wish more would avail themselves of the opportunity. This week a reader in Liverpool asks for the "numbers printed" of Gibraltar 6d "Universal colors" and 4/- and 8/- Script. The numbers printed are not of much value, unless the numbers sold are known.

The 6d Gibraltar K.E. had a remarkable history. It was put on sale in July, 1912, and the next day was withdrawn, and the remainders destroyed and the King George stamp issued. According to the Handbook by Capt. Higham 1,440 were printed. The numbers sold are not known. Probably only about 100 were bought and used for purely postal purposes. Regular dealers and collectors might account for another 200 or so, but in addition to this, by the same authority, 720 stamps or 6 entire sheets, being half of the entire printing, were bought up by astute speculators. Most of these were not put on the market at the time and thus it came about that for some years the stamp was extremely rare and not even catalogued by Gibbons and other authorities. In the 1919 Gibbons we see it 80/-, and at that time it was fetching over half this at auction.

A few years ago the speculators began to unload evidently; they misjudged the rate or time to do this, and the price fell heavily. At recent prices, however, it seems an undoubted bargain, when we think what other European stamps of which only about 1,000 were issued are fetching. It is missing in nearly all collections, not being distributed by New Issue Services at the usual rates, and a rise must occur if the stocks are now all on the market.

Of the 4/- and 8/- Script, the numbers issued have never been published. These stamps became scarce because their withdrawal, after a short life, took everyone by surprise, and the remainder of the printing, believed to be substantial, was destroyed. At present prices they seem good buys.

Our correspondent also asks how it is the 8/- is reported at £3 15/- at auction and £5 15/- in a dealer's offer in the same issue of the P. M. The price difference seems too great if the cheaper copy was absolutely perfect. This stamp, however, is prone to suffer from the slightest rubbing, and if a copy comes up at auction with the faintest suspicion of rubbing and not quite brilliant, the connoisseurs shun it, and the dealers will not give too much.

Officials of South African Union.—Another point of interest raised by our correspondent is the value of these officials. I believe most are now priced by Gibbons used. The ½d and 6d are scarce thus. The 2d pictorial is out and the Georgian 2d will improve. Unused all seem very rare. A few odd copies are known, but they are so seldom seen that they might fetch any price. They are like some of the British Edwardian Officials whose sale was banned, and the odd copies of which fetch very high prices, whilst some are among the classic British rarities.

"L.O.F." Provisionals.—Our correspondent also expresses disappointment that I did not refer to these during my special Air Post article. There were a good many Air stamps I should have liked to have referred to if space had permitted, but this issue was already referred to in the special Air Mail No., on page 142. The set was offered at £3 complete in P. M. a few weeks before. According to L'Echo de la Timbrologie, the numbers overprinted ranged from about 100,000 of the 2c to 6,000 of the 1 peso. It will be therefore seen that a fair number were overprinted, just about six times as many as that other Eastern set—the Transjordania "Constitution" issue of September, 1928, recently recommended in these notes, and although six times rarer are actually offered at less than the "L.O.F." set at present. There are no speculators' stocks of the Transjordans, so a buy at present prices seems very sound. I feel less confident in recommending the "L.O.F." in view of numbers printed, but the covers to Hong Kong with arrival postmark should be good investment for those who got in at the first prices.

Virgin Islands.—Last autumn I advised that a purchase of a sheet or so of the 1½d red should be a good buy, and suggested that some put away for a year or two would be a better investment than any speculative shares. I understand that this stamp at present is priced at 3/6, but at the time I wrote it could be bought for 3/6 per dozen (or less). I had received private advices from the Leeward Is. that this (and the 1d violet) were the first of the old colors to exhaust, and before speculators could get in for any stock. I hope some readers followed my advice, and I hope when counting up their profits they will not forget "Philatelia."—Philatelic Magazine.

PAPAL STATE STAMPS

The newspapers have been carrying the information that the Roman State stamps will be issued about the middle of April; and Mr. J. Loeffler writes us that the postage set will run from 1c to 10 lire. Parcel post and postage due stamps also will be issued. At first, the issues will be "on paper of Italy; afterwards, on specially watermarked with their own design."

S. P. A. Special Number To Be Issued May 6

On May 6 we shall issue a fine special number and we want to send a sample copy to all your friends and especially stamp club members. Please cut out this heading, paste it on some blank paper, fill it with names of live stamp collectors, and mail at once.

NEW ORLEANS IN LINE

The New Orleans Stamp Society was organized on Thursday, April the fourth, at the residence of Rev. J. S. Dallman, nine collectors were present. This is the only club in New Orleans at the present time.

The organization will provide a meeting place for the collectors of the city. There will be talks of interest to the collector. A Sales Dept. will soon be organized. It is also expected that in the near future a Junior Dept. will be launched.

The first meeting was marked by the exhibition of Rev. Dallman's collection of approximately 20,000 varieties with a catalog value exceeding $12,000.00. Rev. Dallman showed a fine copy of Reunion No. 1, cat. at $1,000.00.

The following officers were elected: President, Rev. J. S. Dallman; Vice-Pres., S. J. Peters; Sec. and Treas., S. K. Steinfeld. Other members present were: J. E. Eagen, J. Demartini, P. Keith, A. Brignac, F. Weill and Geo. Hamilton.

Meetings will be held the first Thursday of each month at 2020 Baronne St., the home of Rev. Dallman, at 7.30 P. M. All visitors are invited to attend.

A PHILATELIC NIMROD

The International News Service sent out under date of April 4, 1929, a story on stamps in which our Sigmund I. Rothschild appears as the hero. For twenty-eight years, he has been "hunting big game in the guise of rare stamps," the despatch says. It informs a waiting world that more than 350 denizens of the air, woods and waters are depicted on stamps; and that the issues of the world show more than 150 subjects, from advertising to zoology. The skull and cross-bones cancellation is brought to the surface; and eke, the high hat, that proud Connecticut product. We hope that the millions of readers of the newspapers in which the story appeared will inquire further into the subject of collecting stamps.

HOBBY EXHIBIT

Postage stamps are to have a place in the big hobby exhibit, given under the patronage of the Roseland Lions Club, on May 2, 3 and 4, 1929, in the 111th Street Y. M. C. A., Roseland, which is on the south side of Chicago. The event will be the third annual Boys' Hobby Show, and the previous occasions attracted much attention and were highly successful.

YOU TELL HIM

My Dear Editor:

I am thinking about covering an old wooden chair with some unused stamps. As I know but little how to go about such a thing I thought I would like to get your advice and that of your readers, if they have had any. Mainly, what I want to know is what is used to keep the stamps on. How would varnish be? Would it be all right to give all the stamps a coat of varnish after they are on the chair as a protective coat? Would just the gum of the stamps be sufficient?

Sincerely,
CHARLES PIERCE,

Bisected United States No. 36

PRICES REALIZED UPON HALVES OF THE 12c IMPERFORATE 1851 ISSUE

By MICHAEL MILLER, LL.B.
(704 Equitable Bldg., Baltimore, Md.)

I have been making a study of bisected stamps for a number of years, and it is curious to see the reasons which caused the issuance of very many of them.

When a country issues a bisected stamp and at the time of its issuance surcharges the halves, it becomes a regular issue and should not be confused with the ordinary stamp that is either halved or quartered, and then permitted to be used for the lower denomination.

For the time being, I have taken up the 12c stamp of the U. S., imperforate issue of 1851. I have checked up a list of the various copies that were offered at sales during the last five years, although frank to admit that quite a number of other copies might have been noted in catalogues which I have been unable to see, and consequently it does not purport to be a complete record of all the bisects offered in the last five years. Any omission could be reported to me so that I could then be able to submit at a future date a complete record of the outstanding copies in the hands of either dealers or collectors. This leads to a suggestion which I am willing to undertake if I receive the coöperation of the collectors. It is merely an endeavor to record the various copies of U. S. No. 36 A, as this stamp has sufficient value. In other words, the same as pedigrees are established and records kept of ownership. The items listed below no doubt have been purchased by various collectors, and I would be glad to hear from them in order that proper notations can be made, as to postmarks, dates, manner of bisection, etc.

The Act approved March 3, 1851, which became effective June 30, 1851, provided that the rate of postage over 3,000 miles should be 6c. Consequently, we find that the majority of these stamps come from California, but these bisects must be used from date when the rate became effective until changed by the Act approved March 30, 1855, which increased it to 10c. There being no 6c stamp, it was, therefore, necessary either to use two 3c stamps or split the 12c stamp.

I find from the items submitted that the first bisect to be used in 1851 was from Sonora on December 29th (item 4), and so far I have not observed any later than the fall of 1853. It is possible, however, that from the information received from collectors such dates would be changed.

This bisect was catalogued in 1923 at $200.00, and then increased to $300.00 about two or three years later, and a few more years later to $350.00, but this has no bearing on the value of the stamp, which depends on the condition and desirability. As an illustration, item No. 4, when the stamp was catalogued at $200.00 brought $425.00. Two years later one on a piece of cover only brought $51.00. Item No. 5 also sold in 1923, brought $260.00. The two covers, items No. 14 and 15, when the stamp was only catalogued at $300.00, brought $360.00 and $390.00, respectively, while the peak price was brought by item No. 18, which brought $700.00. It must be added, however, in this connection that this lot also included a very fine 3c 1851 cover addressed to the same party, and bears two very fine orange-brown, which are tied on with an odd cancellation of short dashes. It is cancelled with the circular Sonora postmark and marked paid "6c" in manuscript like the bisected cover. In checking up these 28 items showing postmarks, it is noted that 20 of them are from San Francisco, 3 Sonora, 2 New York, 2 Canton, Mich., 1 Baltimore. I cannot explain items 2 and 16, which have the New York cancellation, as I know the distance from New York to Detroit is not over 3,000 miles, unless double weight, and ask the readers for information. Mr. Charles J. Phillips in his "Philatelic Classics" mentions the fact that in the Fred Ayer collection sold by him in 1897, there was 1½ copies of this 12c stamp, making it an 18c rate. It is possible that this is the basis for notation made by John L. Luff in his wonderful book on U. S. stamps.

Item 27 shows a quarter of the stamp which was offered for sale by Mr. Phillips in MEKEEL'S with a statement that Dr. Carroll Chase had seen this piece, and that it is absolutely authentic. It is listed by Scott as No. 36B and valued at $1,000.00.

Below is merely a list of the items offered and the names are given in full to explain the initials used: W. C. Henry, B. L. Drew, J. M. Bartels, J. C. Morgenthau, Daniel F. Kelleher, Uptown Stamp Company, Worcester Stamp Company,

ITEMS

1 W.C.H. 3.17.23 Diagonal half on a piece of cover. The cancellation, San Francisco, California, August 16th, covering both envelope and stamp.

2 B.L.D. 3.23.23 Diagonal half of New York to Detroit, black grid falls on the angle instead of on the bisected side; Steamboat, in two lines, a rare cover.

3 J.M.B. 9.22.23 12c, lower vert. half January 15, 1853, San Francisco to Boston on full letter, cancellation covers.

4 B.L.D. 11.23.23 Half to Surrey, Maine, stamp cancellation, Sonora, California, December 29, 1851, in two lines squarely across the stamp. It is believed this is the only copy extant with the 1851 year date.

5 B.L.D. 11.23.23 Half San Francisco to Boston. The pmk. covers the stamp.

6 J.C.M. 2.17.25 Upper right diagonal on piece of original, the San Francisco cancellation covering the cut.

7 D.F.K. 3.12.25 Diagonal half tied to cover by San Francisco postmark, which covers cut. Light crease through corner of stamp.

8 D.F.K. 3.12.25 Lower left diagonal cover from San Francisco to Boston, Mass. The pmk. covers the cut. Faint crease.

9 B.L.D. 3.27.25 Half on original cover, cld. by pmk. of San Francisco, Cal.

10 U.S.C. 4.17.25 Diagonal half on piece, postmark San Francisco, Cal. 16. Jul. covering cut, pen cancelled besides.

11 J.C.M. 10.15.24 Upper left diagonal to New York and forwarded to Marblehead, the New York cancellation. The faint original San Francisco cancellation covers the bisect. Cover is also cancelled "Forwarded" in black.

12 J.C.M. 10.15.24 Upper right diagonal half on cover from San Francisco to New York. The cancellation does not cover the cut, but genuine use of the bisect.

13 D.F.K. 5.22.25 Upper half diagonal half used from San Francisco, August 16, probably 1853, to Phila. cover.

14 D.F.K. 5.22.25 Semi-diagonal, lower right half, California to N. Y. (cut in nearly vertical), cancelled on board ship.

15 D.F.K. 5.22.25 Half, San Francisco, used August 16, 1853, to Boston, cover from Worthington collection.

16 J.C.M. 10.27.25 Lower left diagonal on piece of original, the black New York cancellation covering the cut.

17 J.C.M. 10.27.25 Upper left diagonal on cover to Dennis, Mass., the black San Francisco cancellation covering the cut.

18 D.F.K. 4.23.26 Lower left diagonal to Ellsworth, Maine. The stamp cancelled "Sonora," California January 7, 1852 in blue; this covers the cut edge. The cover is also marked "Paid 6 cts. in Mss. (Greene Sale).

19 D.F.K. 5.27.26 Bisected 12c stamp (both halves) and Hawaii 5c blue No. 5 used together on a tiny piece of cover with Honolulu pmk. and covered by black San Francisco canc. From the Worthington collection (Chase Sale).

20 W.S.Co. Diagonal half as 6c on cover. Pmkd. San Francisco, tying stamp perfectly to cover. Stamp slightly creased where cover was folded.

21 D.F.K. 1.21.27 Upper right diagonal half from San Francisco to Philadelphia with the postmark covering the cut.

22 N.B.P. 3.5.28 Lower L. diagonal half to Kalamazoo, Michigan, the crisscross cancln. of Sonora falls over the cut.

23 N.S.C. 2.7.28 Diagonal half on entire tied on with New York and San Francisco postmark; the bisect has a small tear, rare.

24 G.C. 5.23.28 Diagonal half cover with San Francisco 1. Sept. California, in black to Philadelphia.

25 D.F.K. 11.16.28 Upper right diagonal on cover to Boston, Mass. The cut stamp covered on all three sides with black San Francisco pmk. Letter July 30, 1853.

26 Diagonal lower right cancelled on stamp with "Steam Ship" in two lines. Dated San Francisco July 30, 1853. Cover marked "Via Nicaragua ahead of the mail."

27 Upper left ¼ of the stamp used on a three cent red on buff U. S. envelope addressed to Buchanan, Carroll & Co., New Orleans from Canton, Mi. Jan. 16th cancelled in pen and ink "3" and noted alongside "¼ of 12c 6c by stamps". Paid. Offered by Phillips.

28 Half used on cover from Canton Mi. January 17. Offered by Phillips.

29 Diagonal lower right tied to cover with blue cancellation. Baltimore, Maryland, August 22, to Utica, New York. Letter dated August 21, 1852.

Pittsburgh

—Informal Get-Together of Stamp Collectors For a Two Days Programme.

By B. V. IMBRIE.

At its meeting on April 15, the Philatelic Society of Pittsburgh voted unanimously to hold an informal "get-together" week-end at Pittsburgh on June 8 and 9, when Pittsburgh philatelists will be hosts to as many visitors from surrounding communities as may care to come. The tentative program is as follows:

Saturday, June 8:—Welcome; Informal Exhibit; Bourse; Dinner (Free to Visitors); Exhibition for Prizes; Informal Auction; Award of Prizes.

Sunday, June 9: — Get-together and examination of prize-winning collections; President's Luncheon; Sight-seeing, etc.

Special chromium shield awards will be given to winning exhibitors by judges to be announced later. Collections will be classified for awards as follows:—(1) General; (2) United States; (3) British Colonies; (4) Any single group or country; (5) Any single issue or stamp; (6) Any groups specialized for errors, cancellations, plate varieties, etc.; (7) Best exhibit.

The following are Committee Chairmen: Executive, Dr. K. M. Day; Entertainment, O. L. Smith; Publicity, B. V. Imbrie; Finance, Frank Shute; Auctioneer, O. E. DeSio. Sponsors: W. J. Price, Frank Shute, O. M. Tishlarich, B. V. Imbrie, A. J. Mottlau, O. L. Smith, M. G. Hanna, G. C. Wright, Dr. K. M. Day, Delf Norona. Special invitations will be sent to all stamp organizations in the immediate vicinity.

C. P. S. BANQUET

By Archie Pelago.

The annual banquet of the Chicago Philatelic Society was held on the evening of April 4, 1929, at the Bismarch Hotel, with a large attendance and much enthusiasm. The dinner was an informal affair and no effort was made to have it other than a home occasion; and the president indicated that later, invitations would be sent to collectors in neighboring philatelic communities to meet with the society. There were a few guests: Mr. F. J. Noske, Milwaukee; Mr. Ray V. Bahr, Springfield, Ill.; the Lawrence boys from the University of Iowa; and Mr. V. M. Rotnem, Minneapolis, who was the speaker of the evening. The menu was a tasteful one, and Walter N. Emerson, the president of the society, was a presiding officer who kept his audience alert and interested. Hits that he made were appreciated, and his wit was contagious. The speakers were few in number and they did well. A high note was struck at the start and sustained through the evening.

Captain Walter H. McDonald, who, with C. E. Severn, was present at a banquet of the society on January 7, 1892, brought the dinner card signed by those who attended that dinner; and John K. Tiffany of St. Louis was among the number. The speakers were Mr. Bahr, Mr. Severn, Dr. Hennan and Mr. Rotnem, who filled the place of honor. Mr. Severn was introduced by President Emerson with a flourish and he referred to the many years of service of Mr. Severn who dates his affiliation with the society from 1888. Mr. Severn was swept away by the eloquence of his friend, but when he found his bearings, he described the changes in the philatelic calendar in forty years, in a local sense, and paid tributes to some of the great philatelists of the past. He told of the encouraging signs of the present, and said that with the solid foundation assured, the edifice that would be erected would command the respect of the hurrying multitude who had not yet become stamp conscious, to use an overworked expression. Dr. Hennan discoursed on his experiences as a prize-winner in different of the world's competitions, and said that a straight line to success in this particular was to get the stamps together, impelled to do so by a sincere liking for them. He somewhat ingenuously added that a rubber purse was an aid to accomplishment, but the good doctor said that he spoke impersonally in this regard, of course.

The decks were cleared for Mr. Rotnem, who proved a graceful orator who sounded the key-note of the evening. He was the main tent attraction and gave a polished address. He ranged from gay to grave, and left inspiring thoughts in the minds of the diners. He told of the coming exhibition at Minneapolis in connection with the convention of the A. P. S., and said that it would be so handled that it should establish the custom of annual exhibitions. The intention is to make the Minneapolis display a precedent for yearly exhibitions in the different cities, thereby doing much to make collecting known nationally. He dated tentative exhibitions up to the year 1933, when Chicago has an opportunity to outdo itself. Mr. Rotnem spoke of the wisdom of directing budding philatelic thought in a helpful manner and said that Mr. Severn has done much to further what might be called philately for the masses. With a stirring peroration Mr. Rotnem ended his eloquent speech, making all feel that he did much to make the evening a particularly satisfactory one.

The scandal-sheet, the cover of which bore a new Clark stamp was a clever compilation of hot shots at the different members who were handled without gloves. The innocent as well as the guilty were not spared, and Mr. C. J. Rose, who was responsible for the pith and piffle, will have to do penance for many a moon before the waters become calm.

SIX REASONS

Six reasons that account for the fact that I conduct the most rapidly growing mail order business in the trade in mint British Colonials.

TREASURE HUNTING

By Captain A. C. Townsend.

II.

Washington was a veritable gold mine for the stamp collector when I moved there in 1886. There seemed to be few grown or serious collectors there and treasure was simply going to waste. I found that a number of the negro messengers in the various Departments had stamps of their own Departments that could be wheedled out of them or bought for a very low price, and I got a good many, lots of them in blocks, which I promptly split up and traded or sold. I also got a great many foreign stamps. One old negro messenger used to put all his stamps in a brown paper bag and Saturday afternoon I would call at his home and bargain for them. He would start at $5 for the lot and gradually come down as I pawed them over and assured him it was a "bum lot." We would finally close at from $1.50 to $2.50 and I would scurry home with the treasure, finding some for my collection, some to sell and many traders.

Then I struck a real mine. I got acquainted with the head of the mail room in the State Dept. and he led me to a drawer and let me help myself. I did! This was in 1886, and I found the first issue of Gibraltar in actual quantities, as well as a large number of other high value stamps of many countries. I was wild with excitement, and somewhat embarrassed, for there was so much that I wanted and I didn't know how far he would let me go. At last I told him frankly, and asked if there was anything that I could do for him in return. He said he collected U. S. stamps; that I could help myself freely and if I could give him any U. S. at any time he would be happy. For the next year I used to go there regularly, taking him some Departments and other U. S. and digging into that drawer until my pocket bulged.

Those Gibraltar! I remember them particularly because I got so many of them of the highest values. The 6d catalogs now at $12.00 and the 1sh at $30.00. I used to sell them to a dealer for 20c and 35c each. With just a little foresight I could have readily put away 200 copies of each in the next year, in perfect condition, pairs and blocks. Had I hinged them in a blank book and put them away for 40 years, I could have put both my boys through college without touching my pocketbook. Man, man! What a wonderful thing hind-sight isn't.

During this time I went up to Toronto to visit some cousins on my summer vacation. My uncle was an edtior, and one day as I was going out to lunch with him he went to the cash drawer for some money and I spied a block of Newfoundland stamps. When I asked about them he said a man from there had sent them in for payment of his newspaper. What was he going to do with them? He didn't know; they were no good in Toronto. I offered to buy them and the offer was promptly accepted, and I got a beautiful block of 20 of the 5c of 1866—cataloged at $20 each today. They went the way of my other treasure trove.

Another amusing instance. The Secretary of the Navy had an old negro messenger who guarded his door like a lion and never a boy got in that room. There are some huge pillars in the hall outside his door, and one Saturday I dodged around those pillars, keeping out of the sight of the messenger, until he walked to the door for a moment. I skipped hastily to the Secretary's door, popped inside and closed it. The Secretary was sitting at his big desk; he looked up in surprise, smiled and said: "How did you get in here, young man?" I told him in complete frankness how I had dodged his guard. He smiled again and wanted to know why I was so anxious to get in. I told him I wanted to ask him for some stamps, and thought he ought to have some good ones. He leaned back in his chair and looked at me for a few seconds and then said: "Well, my boy, I don't quite approve of the way you got in, but it just happens that I have something I think you will like, so I'll reward your enterprise."

The great tidal wave that washed one of our battleships a half mile inland from the harbor of Samoa had happened a short time before. He reached into his desk and got out a package. "This is the log of the vessel that was beached at Samoa," he said. "It has just reached me from Hawaii, and I think you will want these stamps," and he unwrapped the book and handed me the cover. It had on it four of the $1 Hawaii of 1886 and several more of other denominations. I took it with a gasp of joy, thanked him as best I could, and disappeared with my ure, which went the way of ever else. Suppose I had had sense enou ask the Secretary to autograph the for me and then kept it. What wo be worth today?

POLAR STAMPS

en men go off into the lands where white their exploits are recorded albums of stamp collectors.

as been stated that an American list is going to pay hundreds of s for a mail of 150 letters which ander Byrd is to carry across the Pole.

n Commander Byrd went to the Pole he carried a bag containing ed number of small envelopes au-hed by himself. Their limited size, ches by one inch, was due to the to economise space. He sold the ieces of paper for £2 apiece.

925 Norway issued a set of stamps n values for the flight of Amund-These show a Polar bear standing iceberg gazing at the passing ine. Some of the stamps picture the ithout the left hind foot.

Scott and Shackleton used New d stamps suitably overprinted for Antarctic trips. When Sir Ernest eton left New Zealand in the od" in 1908 he had been sworn in stmaster and carried sheets of the w Zealand "Penny Universal" is-erprinted in green "King Edward and." This overprint read from tom of the stamp.

years later Captain Scott left the ion with a supply of halfpenny dward stamps and of the "Penny sal." These had a black horizon-erprint, "Victoria Land." The ny stamp is much the rarer.

e stamps of this type were also d to Sir Douglas Mawson's ex-n which left Hobart, Tasmania, end of 1911, but letters from this ion usually have a purple rubber cancellation on the front of the e. This mark, which was circu-s a penquin in the middle, above was "Posted in Antarctica" in two

Salvador

Here we find a small country which has resorted to the printing press or hand stamp to supply necessary—and unnecessary—varieties, almost from its very first issue. Of the 540 straight postage issues listed in the 1929 Catalogue we note 282 are surcharged or have some sort of a control overprint. As many of these were applied locally in small quantities, it takes some searching to obtain a representative showing.

AN INTERESTING STUDY OF A COMMON STAMP ABOUT WHICH LITTLE IS KNOWN

By RALPH E. WARNER, Oberlin, Ohio.

It has always seemed to me that just as the specialist should have some side line to turn to when he needs a change from his specializing, so the general collector needs something in the way of specialization to engage his attention. From time to time, someone suggests a stamp supposed to be easily obtainable and abounding in varieties, for this purpose. But if one is to become interested in such a stamp, one needs a few suggestions as to what to look for. It is almost impossible to become interested in such things without a signpost or two. It is with the idea of furnishing a few signposts for those interested in "occasional" specialization that I have prepared this short survey.

One of the most interesting subjects for this kind of study that I have found is Brazil, No. 116, the 100r carmine and black, 1894-97 issue, cataloguing three cents. Every general collector is bound to have at least one, and it is moreover easily obtainable in quantities. Because it has been so little worked on, one finds the scarce varieties turning up quite frequently along with the common ones. I do not propose to give a list of all the varieties of this stamp, but only to indicate the possibilities and some of the interesting items in my own collection.

I make no attempt to give the dates of the appearance of the different varieties, although the order in which I describe them is more or less chronological. Gibbons' catalogue lists a few varieties under various dates, but because it omits any mention of the settings, giving only the types of heads on the stamps, I leave consideration of that catalogue aside as being confusing here.

There are three notable differences in the setting of this stamp. In the first the spacing between the stamps varies from practically none at all, to a hair's breadth. In other words, there is no space between the stamps in the first "spacing." One need not strain the eye. If the spacing is invisible, it can safely be called No. 1. Due to the closeness of the stamps in all settings and more yet to their poor centering, pairs are not necessary to determine the spacing.

Spacing No. 2 is almost half a millimeter wide while No. 3, the widest, is practically a full millimeter in width. These differences are more noticeable than they would sound. Nos. 1 and 3 are less common while No. 2 predominates. In looking for these spacings, one should not be confused by the stamps from the edges of the sheet which may have an enormous margin on one side. Always make sure that there is either no space at all between the stamps or that the edge of the next stamp is visible.

I have found it easier in mounting my own collection to take the paper varieties before taking up the types of heads to be found. The main reason for this is that there are fewer paper differences worth distinguishing, although one can split hairs on the subject as far as one pleases. First, then, is a thick, white, chalky-surfaced paper which may or may not show a distinct mesh. More usually the mesh is easily visible when the stamp is held to the light. It runs either vertically or horizontally. This chalky paper is not at all as common as the second paper: thinner, sometimes it is fairly thick, but unsurfaced, almost always of a yellowish or dirty sort of color which might give it the name of straw paper. These two papers, a thick chalky one and a thinner, ordinary one are the two important paper differences. They do not complicate classification much, especially as most of the paper used was the ordinary kind.

The next subdivision to take up is the type of heads. They are five in number. I give them the Type numbers they have in Gibbons' catalogue in order to save confusion in case any reader wishes to follow that classification where possible. The types are as follows:

Type I. The normal head of the 100r stamp and the commonest: the leaf over the ear, pointing toward the eye is long, quite uniform in width, flat across the top, but ending in a slight upward point. The nose often appears to have no tip. It is simpler to locate this type by a process of elimination and then study it. It is very easy to recognize but rather hard to describe. The main distinctions between all the types are the differences in the leaves in the wreath across the head, although there are numerous other distinctions.

Type II is the head of the 700r stamp (No. 121) of the same issue. Type III is the head of the 200r stamp (No. 118). Type IV is the head of the 500r (No. 120). Types II, III, IV are all very scarce but copies of the 200, 500 and 700r stamps are readily obtainable and can be used in checking up just as well.

Type V is a redrawing of the original 100r head. It is very easily located by the white line which begins opposite the eye and runs down the side of the nose. Also the nose is somewhat uptilted and the leaves of the wreath have been redrawn. This is the second commonest type of head. I think Types II, III and IV should really be considered errors.

The last distinction to be made in classifying Brazil No. 116 is perforation. This varies from 11 to 14 with all kinds of compounds. Perforation 11½ is found the most but some varieties with this perforation are very scarce. One soon comes to know which perforations are scarce on the different types of heads and papers.

In classifying a collection of this stamp, then, the following considerations are to be kept in mind: first, three different settings; second, two kinds of paper to each setting (I have found no chalky paper variety for setting 3); third, five possible types of heads. Not all these types exist in each setting and the fact that three of these types are very rare in any setting cuts down the apparently possible list of varieties very considerably. Lastly come the perforations.

In order to show how this classification works, as well as to describe some of the oddities I have seen, I give a summary of my collection of this stamp.

I find in setting No. 1 only Type I on both chalky and ordinary paper. 11½ is the commonest perforation. Other perforations vary from 11 to 14 and compound. Shades run from pink to carmine. The centers do not show so much difference. A very interesting variety of No. 116 is the stamp from the upper row of the sheet having a large comma in the top margin. I have found this in setting 1 and one copy in setting 2, its position being over the C or the RR of the word CORREIO.

Setting 2 shows only three stamps on chalky paper, all of Type I. On ordinary paper, I have a large number of Type I, mostly perforate 11½, besides seven other perforations. Shades do not vary a great deal. Of Type II, one copy; of Type III two copies, although the latter is supposed to be much scarcer than the former. All three are of the 11½ perforation. I have never seen any Type IV. Type V makes its first appearance in setting 2 and is scarce in any perforation except 11½.

Setting 3 I find only on thin paper but two copies (Type V) are on quite yellow paper whereas the rest are on fairly white though not chalky paper. On this last paper are a few Type I and about twice as many Type V. Again 11½ is the commonest perforation. There are some very pretty shades of setting 3, Type V.

Just a word, in closing, about cancellations. This stamp appears during the period of modern cancellations. In the way of fancy ones I have seen just one, a Maltese cross. But there were at this time a number of travelling post offices in Brazil and one finds the cancellation "AMBULANTE" in a circular handstamp with the date. As most of the cancellations are from handstamps, one finds occasionally parts of the date inverted in relation to the rest of the cancel.

The 100r stamp, like the rest of the 1894-97 series, is lithographed and of course abounds in flecks or spots of deeper color due to bits of matter sticking to the stones. One finds also white spots due perhaps to faults in the stones or to something on the paper. There are to be found very worn impressions, in fact, almost any type of freak that can result from careless manipulation of machinery or long use of stones.

It is with every assurance that one can find ample material for specialization within easy reach that I suggest Brazil No. 116 as a subject for study.

WHY PRECANCELS? A SYMPOSIUM

Prof. A. F. GAMBER, Editor, Valley City, N. D.

If two heads are better than one, then the opinions of several collectors on a subject are worth more than that of just one. Going on this assumption, the editor asked a few precancel collectors to state in a few words their reasons for their faith. Here they are:—

First, Rev. Hiram Van Voorhis, Dunmore, Penna. Mr. Van Voorhis is an example of a collector who has gone precancel with a vengeance: "They sharpen my wits and quicken my powers of observation; they teach me American geography and industrial life; they afford me a truly intriguing and not-too-expensive means of becoming a United States specialist; they provide me with an absorbing mental let-down so essential to a professional man; they strengthen my bias as a student; they give me choicest pleasures and lots of them."

Next, Albert L. Jones, Wabash, Ind. Jones is one of the oldtime precancel collectors, one of the first to write on the subject of precancels more than twenty years ago. For one reason or another he lost his interest for some time, but of late it has been revived, as witness the following: "You have a crust to ask me to give my reasons for precancel collecting within so small a space! It can't be done, but I'll do it. Why do I collect precancels? For pleasure, of course. I could collect pillbox wrappers, but probably I'd be alone in my hobby. I want my collecting to include contacts with others. I get that in precancels, as we have our society, magazines, catalog, etc. If I select with care a group of precancels to collect, I can form a collection that will be distinctive and outstanding, and possibly even the leader in that class." Mr. Jones has conclusively proven the truth of this last sentence by his own acts. Until a year ago he led the fraternity with his coil collection, which he disposed of to the editor. Since then he has built up the best Indiana collection in the country.

Follows next, C. A. Carroll, conductor of the Bureau Print chronicle: "The chief charm of precancels lies in the fact that I can secure, by my own efforts, and from the original source, the majority of the items I desire for my collection. I can get them, both common and rare, directly from the mails, and I get the kick of an army mule from picking up a really rare specimen." Mr. Carroll specializes in Bureau Prints, having probably the most artistically mounted and written-up collection extant, and in Georgia, his present habitat.

Then comes Dr. J. M. Brooks, Golden City, Mo. The Doctor was another of the oldtime precancel collectors, who lost his enthusiasm, but who has returned to his old love with unimpaired zest: "I collect precancels because I derive pleasure from being able to add to my collection at every turn, and at a minimum of expense if I choose. I find them my greatest incentive to learn more about the cities represented in my collection—educational, if you please." The Doctor favors his home state heavily, but is also a general collector, like very many of the state specialists at present.

Here's the testimonial of E. J. Newcomer, Vice-Pres. of the Precancel Stamp Society, specialist in the Pacific Coast States, and general all-round good fellow. I first formed acquaintance with him in the halcyon days of revalued stamped envelopes, and from then to now our friendship has steadily ripened: "Being a scientist, I am interested in small differences. They are often important in science, and may be so with stamps. I find, in precancels, an opportunity to exercise this interest to a greater degree than is possible with other stamps. They also afford an indoor sport to offset the outdoor activities incident to my profession." Mr. Newcomer is in the employ of the Department of Agriculture as an entomologist in the small fruit region around Yakima, Wash.

Lastly, but far from leastly, N R. Hoover, elder half of the new ganized firm of Hoover Bros., York: "Precancels are an outlet collecting urge in all philatelists want to collect their own countr who can't stand the pace of comp United States in regular postage, o are in the opposite class, well able so, and have done it. Mr. Hoover collects ever in precancels, though it is a quest the new duties assumed with the purchase will leave him very muc for his own collection. Maybe Fr len was right when he said one ca a collector and dealer too.

MISSING AIR MAIL LOCATED

Three Lindbergh Sacks Found in Merida, Yucatan

WOOSTER, O., April 18.

Here's what happened to your missing covers sent to Mexico City from Brownsville. The Mexico City P. M. says, freely and briefly translated:

"Possibly due to the movement of the plane, three sacks of correspondence from Brownsville on the first flight worked into the interior of one of the wings, where they were found April 9th at Merida, Yuc. Among the mail were found the enclosed, which you will note have been backstamped March 10th, to preserve their philatelic value."

I'd rather have had it April 10th, myself, but all credit for his good intentions. Hundreds of collectors will, however, rejoice that their covers have arrived home.

AIRPORT DEDICATION

The Philatelic Mission, by Mr. Eugene H. Brown, Box 533, Santa Rosa, California, notifies us, under date of April 17, 1929, of the dedication of the Santa Rosa municipal airport, announced for May 4th and 5th. A special cachet has been authorized by the chamber of commerce of that city; and it is planned to show the features of the late Luther Burbank, whose home was in Santa Rosa, on it. Already a good number of letters have been received, and Mr. Brown has offered his services in taking care of mail that may be sent him for the occasion. Again, we must interpose the thought that too short a time is allowed collectors who may read this notice to take full advantage of it.

NEWS FLASHES

—We learn from Gibbons Stamp Co., that no mail will be carried in the new British airship on its trial flight across the Atlantic. Due notice of a mail service will be given the public.

—In Mr. Focke's article on Papua last week, the word "margin" was used twice where "frame" should have been inserted. Any reader of the article would be apt to correct the error where it occurred.

—Herman W. Boers advises us that the house in which Lindbergh was born in Detroit has been purchased by the Swedish Engineering Society, and will be kept as a memorial to the famous aviator. It will be used as permanent club quarters for the society whose members are of Swedish descent or connections.

MAINE COLLECTORS MEET

WATERVILLE, ME., April 20.

The Maine Association of Philatelic Clubs will hold its spring Convention at The Worster, Hallowell, Saturday, May 18 at 3 P. M. The program will include talks, an exhibition, a contest for the best display of U. S. commemoratives, dinner, and a private sale of stamps. The exhibits will include 20th century Newfoundland, U. S. departments, and a unique collection of locomotive stamps, assembled by a railroad man.

The member clubs are the Androscoggin of Lewiston and Auburn, Augusta, Collectors Club of Portland, Kennebec of Waterville, and Penobscot Valley of Bangor. Any non-club collectors desirous of attending should communicate with me at Waterville, Maine, for dinner reservations. These state conventions are rapidly growing in popularity and interest, and are attracting attention outside the state. They afford an excellent opportunity to become acquainted with Maine collectors. Visitors welcome.

THEN AND NOW: CONTRASTS

By EDWIN B. HILL, Ysleta, Texas.

In these days of perfection and perforation and minor varieties one old in collecting turns back the pages of memory to the days when the stamp was the thing, and condition little entered in. Those were the days when boyhood joys were enhanced by possession of a new variety or the collection—meager at best—enriched with a triangular Cape or an early U. S.

It is more than fifty years since the writer commenced collecting. In that time he has seen three collections pass from his possession. Values have soared beyond the clouds. The time came when he no longer could hope to complete issues as in the old days. It came to him then—and that within the last several years—that to be a collector of collectors was a hopeless task. So he chose his own destiny, and foresook the ways of today.

Condition—that bugaboo of the present—had no charms for him, in a way. It is true, he has two collections, one of perfect and the other of damaged stamps. His soul is content—content with the waifs and strays, and with the finer things,—finer, but alas! fewer by far.

Every collector is a law unto himself. It is his to judge which stamps shall go into his collection. If he prefers parts of stamps because he cannot afford whole ones, that is his justification. Better to have the part than to have none is his theory, and his theory is excellent for him.

For the last fortnight, as time and opportunity came, the writer has been garnering into an ancient and battered Scott International, nineteenth century edition, the stamps he has acquired by gift and purchase the last ten years,—damaged in nearly every instance, some worse than others. Nearly every stamp has its history of remembrance and interest. Some were sent from remote places with pleasant notes of cheer, and perhaps wonderment underlying the message. One letter, with several rarities, came from a foreign land. It was a curious letter, with the asperities of the purist outpoured upon the head of anyone so unwise as to collect damaged stamps. The reply courteous brought a somewhat more acrid answer, which has caused the party of the first part many inward chuckles of joyous pleasaunce. Here was a collector who religiously destroyed damaged stamps. A friend of the writer told this man to send them to one who appreciated those sad ruins, and who would cherish them. It was a point of view wholly unknown to the purist. It was his bit of missionary work in lieu of a letter. It is his contribution which has made the blank spaces bear the glory of fruitage.

The writer does not collect as an investment. He is not interested in any way in the financial outlook of either of his collections. It is the joy he has and is deriving from the bits of paper which make life more bearable and more of a joy to him daily. If he had it all to do over again, he would collect as he collects today.

The beginner in stamp collecting has much to learn, and, having learned in part, there is much to undo. He must learn that the men who are peers in the game have also laid down laws for the observance of lesser men,—laws which they would enforce and compel others to obey. But why should not one be individual, and a law unto himself? If the writer prefers his collection of damaged stamps, and his little garnerings of counterfeits and reprints and fakes, to possession of his perfectionists, who shall cry him down? It is his, and being his, he alone is responsible.

Sympathy goes out to the beginner. He should be allowed to follow his own inclination. If he prefers a country in perfection to a general collection, that is his to say. Just now the specialist is in the saddle. Several years ago the general collection was the thing. But new issues were the bugaboo. Then nineteenth century was the vogue. And then came specialism to discourage the tyro, and to encourage the sated. The other year the writer saw a fine collection of Canada. It was complete. Recent inquiry disclosed the fact that the man had lost interest. He had laid aside his album. Why collect? He had everything in the one country he loved. The collection was on the market.

Collect as you will, and what you will, in any way and in any manner that gives you pleasure. Do not allow your inclinations to be swayed by what the other fellow chooses to assure you is his way, and therefore the only right way. Be yourself. Each to his own. If you love perfect copies, get them. If you are content with philatelic ruins, acquire them. Expect neither praise nor blame from those who differ from you. Yours is the joy and the glory and the peace beyond words—a peace which comes to the true collector as he searches the highways and the byways of life for the bits of paper certain to come to him in time—if the time holds out.

EDITORIAL

A CORRESPONDENT in Washington says that the Ohio River stamps may usher in an era that will be marked by a drought of commemoratives. There evidently is some backfiring as a result of the prolificy of such issues, and it seems that mutterings have come from those who have not secured stamp recognition for persons and places that in their opinion are as deserving or important as those that have been honored by issues. Evidently, work and worry are entailed by the issue of commemoratives and it is certain that any financial returns that accrue from them are inconsequential when coupled with the strain and stress involved. Collectors are reconciled to the special issues and they can view with equanimity either a famine or a feast of commemorative stamps.

IN sending the following notice, Mr. Perham C. Nahl, Oakland, California, says that it must be followed literally by those who wish to take advantage of the service. However it is doubtful whether many of our readers would have been in a position to patronize this flight, even had word appeared in the previous issue which it just missed. "On May first, the Boeing Air Transport, Inc., operating CAM No. 18, will inaugurate an overnight service from San Francisco (Oakland airport) to Chicago. The Boeing people will furnish cachets to be used on air mail covers for the first trip from Oakland and San Francisco. All covers for dispatch from Oakland and San Francisco must be sent to Perham C. Nahl, 6043 Harwood Ave., Oakland, California, in order to receive cachet. Covers should be here by April 27 at the latest so that cachets may be applied in time. Send covers in separate envelopes for each city, with no communication except the words, 'Oakland, First Night Flight,' or 'S. F., First Night Flight,' and signature." We print the foregoing not only to tell of this private cachet, but to emphasize that news of impending flights must be received very early in order to be of any use to our readers.

SCOTT STAMP AND COIN CO.
1 West 47th Street, New York, N. Y.

IN a court case at Portsmouth, England, the defendant was fined on the charge of using "washed" stamps, even though he claimed to have bought them at post offices. It was demonstrated by the prosecutor "that the cancellations could be revived by further chemical treatment." The case is reported by Stamp Collecting and this London weekly observes: "It would be most useful to collectors and dealers if these chemicals could be supplied to the trade, and no doubt a number of 'mint' stamps would lose their status; at the same time, some doubts that might exist could probably be settled." It is a coincidence that we received from Philadelphia some time ago, a type-written letter on plain stationery asking if we wanted the formula of a liquid that would restore to an appreciable degree pen marks that had been removed chemically. No name or address was on the sheet.

* * *

THE following letter has been received from Mr. L. S. Slevin, Carmel, California, who interposes remarks that are much in order: "May I suggest that your paper urge collectors and dealers, too, in some cases, to quit spoiling stamps? The following practice still survives when we should know better in this day and age. Writing on stamps with indelible pencil, ink, rubber stamp impressions, or other markings. Attaching hinges to O. G. stamps, postal cards, covers, etc. It is a crime to stick a hinge on O. G., and a stamp with an accumulation of hinges is an abomination, causing thin spots when attempts are made to remove them. I have a 10c, 1847 issue which would be superb if it were not for a wad of sealing-wax on the back. This form of boorishness, however, I think was discontinued some time ago." Our correspondent rightly assails any mistreatment of a stamp, and the objections that he cites are self-evident. Some of the disfigurements are a heritage of the days when a stamp was not treated so tenderly as it is now, when condition has become of paramount importance. Decades ago, some of the big dealers adopted the plan of writing or marking the stamp on back with initials or characters as guaranteeing the genuineness of the specimen, but we think that this custom has become obsolete. The question of hinging O. G. stamps is one that meets a division of opinion. There are many experienced collectors who feel safe in using peelable hinges, which may be depended upon not to mar the gum, and it will be a long time before collectors generally will refuse to hinge their O. G. stamps. As for sealing-wax that is found occasionally as having been used on stamps, the probabilities are that collectors were in no way responsible for its presence. We have several covers where the wax was used to affix the stamps by the senders of the letters in the old days when gum was wanting or regarded as a weak reed on which to lean. There are a number of solvents of sealing-wax which will remove the substance.

* * *

PROFESSOR FREDERICK S. EATON, New Haven, Conn., in our opinion, is a good example of the occasional benefactor who appears every so often to devote himself unstintedly to the promotion of a divisional unit of philately, because of a sincere belief in the merits of the cause. Time, energy and money are spent by such men in fu ing in an unselfish way, the lines th peal to them as having real claim recognition. When Mr. Eaton bega task to whip stampless covers into there must have been times when quired all his hardihood to progress has kept Stampless Covers alive as seminator of information on the spe and the receipt of the March numb dicates that Mr. Eaton and his f have put their shoulders to the and have shoved their vehicle on tively solid ground. Perhaps it formulating the varieties of the stamp covers, as most of them ar are included under the embracive of "stampless covers," in what m called a catalogue sense is the gr achievement of the band of wo Auction sales of these covers are velopment that some years ago have been called impractical becau the difficulty of describing the cover now there is a seventh sale of advertised.

Air Mail News

BY DONALD E. DICKASON,
Wooster, Ohio

(Our subscribers are urged to send air mail news direct to Mr. Dickason and especially advance news concerning first flights, with names of cities served. The scope of this department will not allow the treatment of flights from other than the purely philatelic standpoint.)

(Coöperators will find their names listed each week. If your letter calls for a reply please enclose a stamped, addressed envelope. This is your department as an air mail collector, so make your contribution as generous as possible, and pardon any brevity on the part of the Editor.)

*****

Each week brings a bigger coöperator list than the last. 45 this time. They are Lt. Col. Edward G. Huber, H. Markham, Hilda B. Scagliola, S. W. Norton, John G. Kuespert, George T. Street, Clarence E. Wells, Harry Leonard, Anna M. Schaffer, *Anthony Edelblut, Erwin Strasser, E. G. Emerson, Arthur K. Storey, Vernon J. Hoyer, W. C. Jackson, Dr. Wm. Evans, Frederick D. Markee, Paul A. Freeman, Norman Tulp, A. Jos. Steinhardt, Kenneth Tallmadge, J. P. Penning, R. A. Brooks, H. G. Burwick, Marcus E. Rawlins, Nic. G. Johnson, Todd Fagan, Geo. H. Keiley, Ross Shumaker, A. C. Roessler, *Major C. M. Lopez, Archie D. Simpson, Howard Maloney, Osborne B. Bond, Hugh M. Troland, Jr., James R. Marshall, Hon. W. Irving Glover, Robert Herrera, J. Frank Braceland, Jr., Wm. J. Prinzing, H. C. Skinner, Nelson E. Willits, Maurice S. Petty, Carter Glass, Jr., and Edw. C. Lovell.

Just a word of explanation, which probably isn't necessary. Wherever possible, I try to answer these good coöperators in this department. Where a personal reply is in order, I use that method, but it would be a physical impossibility to send a proper note of thanks to everyone sending in information and covers. I hope you will permit me to acknowledge your help through the weekly lists, at the same time assuring you that I'm glad to discuss anything at all by correspondence.

*****

Mr. F. D. Markee writes us:—The Enid, Okla., Airport will be dedicated May 20. The Chamber of Commerce will be glad to handle covers. Special cachet is assured. Send your covers ready to go.

Official Flights

The Spokane, Wash., Chamber of Commerce will apply a special cachet to air mail when service is extended to Spokane early in the summer. They are receiving covers now. * * * Raleigh, N. C., expects soon to have air mail service. Ross Shumaker, Box 1107, says he'll be glad to look after covers sent in to him.

*****

Major Lojez says he has two letters direct from Brownsville with the black cachet, but they're the only ones reported. The inference is that the magenta will be the best, as being actually applied at Brownsville, whereas the most of the black were applied later at Washington. Several more folks have reported letters from Mexico short paid, but no postage due collected. Letters have been received from Mexico as late as April 4th.

*****

Cleveland C. of C. says, "It is possible that the Chamber will supply a special cachet for the new transcontinental service May 1, if there is sufficient demand." I have a hunch if they receive a lot of covers, they'll recognize the demand. Go to it. May be more of these, shouldn't wonder.

*****

As announced previously in the "Stop Press," Springfield, Ohio, goes on CAM 16, with a special official cachet, May 1st. * * * Who's seen an air mail "Permit"? And how about first day covers of permits? Yes, they exist. Let's hear from you, "Sevard". * * * Effective May 5th, the first Sunday after May 1, the anniversary of the starting of the New York-Atlanta route, a full seven day schedule will go into effect on this route. No cachets announced, but these first Sunday flights have a habit of producing some surprises.

*****

Nelson E. Willits received an unusual cover from the 1st Canal Zone flight. It was a Canal Zone air mail stamped envelope (2c) franked with a 3c Canal Zone surcharged stamp, and 2 ½c Republic of Panama stamps postmarked Ancon, and bearing the first flight cachet. Some funny ones surely do get in on these first flights sometimes.

*****

In answer to a number of queries, it has been officially announced that the British dirigible, R-100, is to carry no mail on her forthcoming trans-Atlantic flight.

*****

J. Frank Braceland, Jr., reports another interesting crash cover. This bears the following note, signed by the postmaster: "Air mail damaged when the Chicago-Dallas mail plane fell and was destroyed by fire on the morning of March 22, about six miles south of Harmon, Illinois."

*****

George T. Street gets over a fine bit of air mail publicity. In the Jan. 26 number of Havana, the magazine of Cuba, he has a leading article on the "Air Mail Between the U. S. and Cuba." The article occupies several pages in this finely gotten up magazine, and is illustrated with three-quarter size pictures of several first flight covers. Very good indeed.

Airport Dedications, Etc.

Santa Rosa, Calif., dedicates probably first week in May during the Rose Festival, a three day celebration. Chamber of Commerce has a cachet. * * * Elkhart, Ind., American Legion Circus and Airport Dedication, June 14, 15, 16, different color each day. A specially designed envelope will be sold at the airport, and if you send 10c for each, E. G. Emerson, 635 Bower St., Elkhart, will stamp, address and mail them for you. Your own prepared covers should go to Mr. Emerson, too. * * * Beverly, Mass., dedication set for June 10, and the C. of C. will look after covers and cachet.

W. C. Jackson sends the figures on recent Ft. Worth events. The first anniversary mentioned several weeks ago had about 500 letters mailed with the special C. of C. cachet, 150 purple, 100 red, 100 green, 100 blue, 50 bi-colored. The Southwestern Aeronautical Exposition used a different color for each day. About 600 letters were mailed each day from the 9th to the 16th, and 350 the 17th. This was also by the C. of C. * * * Several readers report late covers from Buffalo, dated April 1st, though the Show closed the 30th of March.

Here's the first Lindbergh cachet for this year. The Jr. Chamber of Commerce of Saginaw, Mich., are sponsoring a special mailing on May 21st, and will

Junior Dictionary

P. P.—A postmark frequently met with, especially on old letters. The letters are the initials of "Poste Payé" i.e., postage paid.

P. R.—A watermark found in many of the stamps of Roumania. The letters are for "Posta Romana", that is "Roumanian Post".

Pre.—An abbreviation for "piastre" overprinted on the 1876 provisional issue for Turkey.

Precancelled.—Stamps sold by a post office already obliterated as a convenience to business firms despatching postal matter in quantity.

Postal Guides.—These are official guide books issued by the Post Office departments in many countries for disseminating postal information.

Postal Service.—An overprint found upon certain Indian postage stamps which were not, however, used for postage. These stamps served to indicate the amount of duty to be paid on parcels received abroad, and their use was thus purely fiscal.

Postal Fiscals.—Stamps originally issued for revenue purposes only, temporarily, or indefinitely, allowed to be used for the prepayment of postal charges with official sanction.

Postally Used.—A philatelic expression distinguishing stamps used for postal purposes from similar varieties used fiscally or on telegraph forms.

Postat E Qeverries Se Perkohesme Te Shqipenies.—Found on the Albanian stamps issued in October, 1913. It means "Post of the Government of the New Nation of Albania."

Poste Aerienne.—This inscription is found on a Tunis stamp issued May 5, 1919, for air post use. The 35c pictorial stamps of 1906 was thus overprinted, and used in connection with aerial service between Gabes—Djerba—Zarzis—Ben Gardane.

Poste De Geneve.—Found on all the early stamps of Geneva.

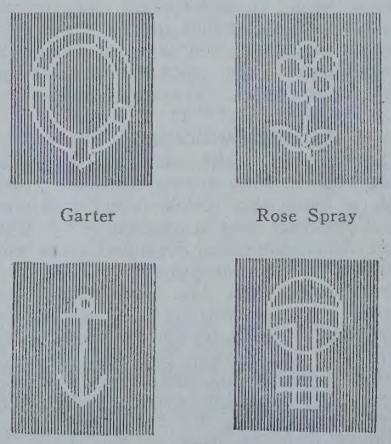
Sheet Sizes

The size of a stamp often has direct bearing on the number contained in a sheet. The larger the stamp the fewer in the sheet is the usual rule though the actual printing area may be equal to that of a sheet containing two or three times as many stamps.

Again the method of production has frequently been an important factor in determining the number of stamps in a sheet. The embossed stamps of Gambia were printed in small sheets of fifteen, not because fifteen was a convenient number but because of the difficulty of embossing a larger number of specimens at one operation. Where stamps were engraved by hand as the early Mauritius, New South Wales, etc., the difficulty of reproducing the same design even tolerably alike on several impressions led to small plates being used. Then in the case of some locally produced stamps the size of the printing press available has had to be taken into consideration in deciding on the number of stamps in a sheet and in the case of type-set stamps the number of impressions has had to be limited to fit in with the amount of type available! We thus find sheets of stamps of all shapes and sizes ranging from the small sheets of ten for some issues of Labuan (2 rows of 5); 12 (6 rows of 2) for the 1882 issue of British Guiana; 30 (3 rows of 10) for some of the old stamps of St. Vincent; 50 (5 rows of 10) for the dollar stamps of North Borneo; up to the large sheets of 240 for the British stamps.

Types of Watermarks

It is interesting to note what a variety of different designs have been adopted for watermarks by different countries. Some, like those of this country, consist merely of letters, while others consist of more or less elaborate devices having some symbolic reference to the country using them. Thus in the stamps of Great Britain we find an Imperial Crown, as the emblem of royalty; in the early stamps of Jamaica is a pineapple, signifying the abundance with which that fruit is grown in the island; Western Australia provides us with a Swan—the black variety of which is indigenous to Australia only; Hungary shows its famous iron crown; China, the wonderful ying-yang symbol, typifying the two great elements of nature, and so on.



British Watermarks

In most sheets of stamps the watermark is so arranged that one complete device is apportioned to each stamp. This is, however, by no means an invariable rule. Sometimes one large design spreads over the whole sheet, so that each stamp shows but a small portion of it; again, the design may cover only a few stamps in a sheet so that the majority are found without watermark; or, again, it may consist of a repetition of a device—like the "multiple" watermark of modern British Colonials—repeated so closely that each stamp shows portions of several watermarks; lastly it may consist of the repetition of certain letters—like the "U S P S" on our own stamps—so arranged that one letter should show on one stamp.

Spanish Exhibition Stamps

There will be no lack of postage stamp issues to advertise the exhibitions at Seville and Barcelona. The British Post Office issued only two stamps, 1d and 1½d, for the British Empire Exhibition in 1924, and these were not sold at all post offices, but had to be purchased within the exhibition. Spain has just issued an elaborate series of twenty stamps, thirteen for ordinary postage in four different designs, one for express letters in a fifth design, and six denominations for use on air mail.

Twenty stamps at one issue is a generous number, but the collector who wishes to keep pace with the Spanish output must prepare to multiply the series of twenty six times. In addition to the set as issued and sold in Spain itself, the stamps have been overprinted for each of the several colonies and protectorates, including Cape Juby, Spanish Guinea, Spanish Morocco Protectorate, Spanish Sahara, and Tangier.

All the stamps are of large oblong form. The designs for the ordinary postage series represent:—

1.—An ancient Spanish galleon afloat, with Seville in the background.

2.—A miniature of the exhibition poster design.

3.—View of the exhibition; and

4.—King Alphonso in a crowned medallion with a glimpse of Barcelona and the statue to Columbus in the surround.

The express letter stamp is a curious allegory of speed, represented by a deer on the run, and the air post stamps are all in one design showing a machine in flight.—Postage Stamp.

Hard and Soft Paper

One reader wants to know how to tell the issues on hard paper from those printed on soft porous paper. These varieties of paper are a stumbling block to most juniors and to many more experienced philatelists as well. The differences to an inexperienced eye are not very marked, hence the difficulty of distinguishing between the printing by the Continental Bank Note Company on thin, hard paper, and that by the American Bank Note Company on soft, porous paper. The only stamps effected are the 1873 to 1879 issues and certain Departmental and Newspaper stamps. The soft, porous paper used by the American Bank Note Company has a very apparent "weave" and if the stamps are held to the light they appear to be watermarked with numerous small dots. The hard paper of the Continental Bank Note Company, on the other hand, shows no sign of these dots, but has a smooth semi-transparent appearance when held to the light. The easiest way of distinguishing between the two varieties is to take stamps which were only printed by one or other of these companies and compare them very carefully. Any of the stamps of the 1881-88 issues will serve as an example of the paper employed by the American Bank Note Company as none of these were printed by the other firm. The best of the cheaper stamps as a specimen of the Continental paper would be the 6c Agriculture which was never printed by the A. B. N. Co.

Long Island.—In the World War the island of Chustan in the Gulf of Smyrna was used temporarily as a British naval base and the name changed to Long Island. Typewritten postage stamps were issued under local authority but later suppressed by the Admiralty and the existing stock destroyed. They have no legal standing whatsoever.

HENRY PHILIP MANUS

By A. J. SEFI.

he claims of a man upon the symetic interest of his contemporaries of posterity, can be many. We can-point to the subject of this short raphy as a possessor of many phila-medals, or as a contributor to the ature of our hobby. Yet can we al him out as one who has done good honest service towards furthering the interests of stamp collecting. A t collector of the old school, his e ever will be associated with the vth of philately in Holland, his coun-which he has represented upon so y International Juries.

enry Philip Manus was born in the 1851, and began to collect stamps at arly age, and had already, he tells nounted his little collection in a book he late fifties. His father was the of the great tobacco firm bearing name, and which had been founded 1836, so many wonderful stamps otless came to young Manus from office letters. In 1863 he was given of the first editions of the Lallier m, and in 1867 a later edition, in h he started seriously to collect after fashion of the day, taking adhesives, lopes, and Telegraph and Private ps. In 1868 he entered his father's ness, and had to work hard and long, h left him but little time for his ps. The album, however, which was tically complete in everything except very rarest varieties, was never dis-ed and in the course of business neys through Europe, was constantly g added to. In 1888 Mr. Manus ed Maury's shop in Paris and bought w album, "large and thick" compared the book of the sixties. Returning e he started to transfer his stamps he new book, amalgamating as he along another old collection that had acquired, and endeavouring to plete as many countries as possible.
, he says, was not a very difficult in those days, and in studying his ps he found that he had many more ties than there were spaces for.
e spaces were given for the "Syd-View" stamps of New South Wales, he found that there were undoubtmany varieties of these stamps. He ht a number of them, not knowing to deal with them, when, one day, mber of the newly-formed Amster-Philatelic Society, showed him some nstructed plates. It was a revelation that moment the first step was taken rds the getting together of the presreat collection. On his friend's ad-he ordered Collin and Calmans' Catue for Advanced Collectors, and n to rearrange his stamps on loose s and to "plate" everything that he
l. Soon he had a collection of the e world, fairly complete, but mostly ed specimens, as was then the fash-broad. The collection gradually beunwieldly, and in 1900 Mr. Manus led that it was impossible to collect, plate, the whole world "used" and sed," so he then decided to confine elf to the stamps of Great Britain her Colonies.

has never parted with his foreign tries, which he has divided among ons, his superb collection of Holland Colonies, very strong in complete s, going to his son, M. K. P. Manus, completed this collection in the modssues with all the different plates in
s. During the past twenty-eight s the Colonial collection has been ing steadily, and is today one of the general collections of these issues istence. In the Victorian issues he arly complete both used and unused, his reconstructed plates of used lso nearly completed. His Edward-and Georgian issues are complete, the possible exception of one or war-stamps. Some years before the on the advice of Messrs. Bacon, e and Hausburg, he decided to ret his collection in English albums, hich he now has over seventy.

member of the Jury of the Amster-Exhibition of 1910, he showed some s Australians, but from that day he never competed at any Exhibition owing to his almost invariable appearance on the Jury. But for this fact his collection would have secured many of the highest awards. He acted on the Jury at the following Exhibitions:—
Bern, Vienna, Paris, London, Amsterdam, Brussels and the Hague, and though he announced in 1924 that he would be unable to accept any further invitations he was pressed to act in Paris,
New York, Christiana, Strasburg and Monaco. His unvarying courtesy and charm of manner have endeared him to all with whom he came into contact at these Exhibitions, and while not be-grudging him his well-earned rest from the somewhat arduous work, we still hope to see him once more acting as a Judge at some great Exhibition.

Though not competing, he exhibited, hors-concours, at many exhibitions. In 1923, at Brussels, he showed his 1d and 2d Post Office Mauritius, and twelve reconstructed plates of the Post Paids, and at the Hague his reconstructed plates of "Sydney Views" and "laureated"
N.S.W., 44 in number and nearly all complete, to which he added some pages containing over one hundred unused specimens of the same issues.

In 1879 Mr. Manus married Miss Sure Vita and has seven children, four sons and three daughters. Only retiring from business in 1921 he always took an active part in business affairs and acted as Vice-President of the Dutch Tobacco Trade Society from its foundation, until he became its President in 1914, which office he occupied until his resignation in 1922.

This brings our very brief biography to a close up to the present date. We could have written much more. That Mr. Manus should have succeeded in bringing together such a British collection when living in Holland is amazing.
But he has many British sympathies—a Fellow of the Royal Philatelic Society, and a member of at least one other Society in this country he has always been in touch with London.
When the Philatelic Congress of Great Britain chose his name for inclusion on the Roll of Distinguished Philatelists, a suitable expression was given to the respect and affection in which he is held in this country.

The writer cannot close without a personal tribute. When he first met Mr.
Manus he was quite unaware that there had been family acquaintanceship sixty years before. He has the happiest memories of pleasant hours spent at Mr.
Manus's lovely home and of many meetings in different countries. Philately has a good servant in Henry Philip Manus, Gentleman of Holland.—Philatelic Journal of Great Britain.

GROUP COLLECTING

By G. A. TEMPEST.

There are always juniors who prefer their general collections to any form of concentrated specialism. They like to take the good advice of other collectors and to exclude all stamps of value, say, less than 6d each, and so increase the general value. On the other hand there is always the person who advocates the collection of all common stamps which have interesting designs, and who urges that you must collect solely for the pleasure of collecting. Yet few know better than the junior himself how utterly impossible it is to close his eyes to the intrinsic aspect of his collection.

What, then, is he to do? The general collection is a sine qua non, we must admit. Perhaps the small specialised collections which the generalist frequently has, metaphorically, up his sleeve, is also an indispensability. Yet it will be scarcely denied that even the common stamp, the value of which never rises above 1d or so, can be as interesting as the plum, worth hundreds of pounds. There is, however, a plan which will be well worth while trying out. Try group collecting, and mount these stamps in a special album. This can be kept by for interesting study whenever you feel like it, even when the value, from the point of view of £ s. d., may not be so great. Write it up; let it be a real pleasure to look upon—every stamp picked and perfect. That is the beauty of it—You can afford to pick your stamps without needless expense.

Here are a few hints for group collecting. Readers will doubtless recall the articles in the first six numbers dealing with various groups, for example, railway stamps, air stamps, picture stamps, these are well worth consulting. Arrangement may be made irrespective of countries, and just by designs, for in this collection for once we will be free and disregard convention; or, in the case of a large group such as "air stamps," by countries, with any available details of air routes. Each page should give many hours of pleasure to the owner, while still being but a side-line. More subjects of interest are:—

1. "Lindbergh" Stamps.—It will be remembered that no American citizen, or even the President, can have his portrait upon the stamps of U. S. A. until a certain time has elapsed after his death. The difficulty with the new Lindbergh stamp was to bestow an adequate honor, without actually portraying the Atlantic hero upon it. This was surmounted by showing his famous airplane, "The Spirit of St. Louis," in flight between the two continents, Europe and America. The name of the machine was written in minute letters on the front, which are visible on the stamp. Cuba also issued a stamp overprinted, "HOMENAJEA-LIND-

EMILY KING,

BERGH," last year, and numerous South American republics issued stamps for Colonel Lindbergh's triumphal aerial tour of these countries. A collection of such stamps could be completed with written notes on "the great lone achievement," and, if possible, a portrait from some journal added.

2. "Columbus" Stamps.—Of course, America takes first place in these issues. Several years ago I hunted through the catalogue for these, and made out a list surprisingly large. The popular U. S. A. series of 1893 will naturally leap at once into your mind, as this is probably one of the best examples we have. Cuba also has statues, and Chili "heads." The above are merely a random selection.

3. "Waterfall" Stamps. — Jamaica (the beautiful Llandovery Falls issue of May 1, 1900). Others are from Tasmania, U. S. A., etc. This group is especially interesting, the stamps portraying, as they do, examples of natural beauty. Those who are interested can obtain further information from the Italian journal Filatelia (printed in English), for September, 1927.

4. Englishmen on Foreign Stamps. —This group is prompted by the recent Greek issue commemorating the "Battle of Navarino," which has a portrait of Sir Edward Codrington. (The error "Sir Codrington" will of course be included.) Other examples, which readers will readily recall are: Lord Byron, who died in the service of Greece was immortalised for philatelists on the well-known Greek set of 1924 inscribed with his name, in English characters. Mr. J. D. Bourchier (the correspondent to The Times). Bulgaria, Admiral William Brown. Argentina, Lord Cochrane. Chili, etc.

5. "Music and Postage Stamps."—This subject has been previously exhaustively detailed.

6. "Sports" Stamps.—The numerous Olympic Games stamps issued by various countries, notably Holland, Greece, France, Belgium, and Uruguay, all fall into this class. The most recent set was issued last April by Holland, consisting of seven different values, each of different design. Of course there are other sports stamps besides "Olympic Games" issues, for example "big-game hunting" designs are on many stamps. Newfoundland gives quite a large range on her interesting emissions.

7. "Royalty" Stamps.—Whilst the portrait of King George is a familiar feature on most of the stamps of the Colonies, the colonials with designs showing portraits of the other members of the Royal Family are much fewer. Newfoundland again provides the greatest range, but Queen Alexandra appears on Canadian and other stamps. A hunt through the catalogue will show up other examples. An interesting collection could also be made of different portraits of the King, from the ordinary ½d stamp of Great Britain to the caricature issued a year or two ago by New Zealand.

8. "Map" Stamps.—Here is large scope, for there are numbers of map stamps in existence. The "world" Christmas stamp of Canada would, of course, head the list, being the only one of its kind, followed by examples from the countries in Part I of the Gibbons Catalogue, e.g., Newfoundland (1908), Ireland (1922), New Zealand (1923). Foreign countries such as the U. S. A., Reunion, Jubaland, have issued map stamps as well as many others.—Junior Stamp Magazine.

LEEWARD ISLANDS, 10s AND £1, 1928

By HARRY E. HUBER.

The two new high denominations, 10s and £1, added to the Leeward Islands Federal series, by Statutory Rules and Orders No. 15 of April 26, 1928, were announced by the Crown Agents in their bulletin for July-September, 1928, as being on order, in the Nyasaland keyplate design, receipt size.

The DLR-1888 keyplate design (the original of which contained the head of Queen Victoria, but altered as to the sovereign's head in 1901, and again in 1911) was favorably received (despite the fact that the design leaves much to be desired), because of the resultant economy effected. The keyplates are furnished by Messrs. De La Rue & Co., Ltd., without charge, and the Colonies pay merely for the overprint, or duty plates.

In 1908 an improved design of keyplate was introduced, known as the Nyasaland type, and first used in that year for the stamps of the Nyasaland Protectorate. In this the head of King Edward VII facing the left, is on a horizontally lined ground, within a pearled oval, requiring a border plate, rather than an overprint plate, for completion, its use is more expensive than the DLR-1888 keyplate, which requires only simple name-and-duty plates. At the same time, a keyplate was made up for a stamp in the receipt size, 25x30mm, intended for high denominations, in which the pearled oval is surmounted by a Crown, and the whole superimposed on a shield with garlands of fruit and flowers.

Originally, with the head of King Edward VII, the receipt size design was used by none of the British Colonies in the Western Hemisphere, and the conventional size design by Jamaica, only, for the 2d gray, issued February 16, 1911. In the following year when the new keyplate with the head of King George V substituted was made available, the design was adopted by Jamaica, and subsequently used for all values from 1d to 5s, and by St. Lucia, for the 4d. The receipt size keyplate was used by Bermuda for the 2s6d, 5s, 10s and £1, issued March 30, 1918, and for the 2s and 4s issued June 19, 1920. British Honduras adopted the Nyasaland keyplate design, conventional size, for all denominations of the series, introduced with the 5c, 25c and $2 on August 1, 1922.

The Leeward Islands Postage & Revenue stamps, ever since Federal stamps were first issued on October 31, 1890, have been printed in the DLR-1888 Postage & Revenue keyplate design, and it is a most welcome departure that the 10s and £1 should be in a different design.

These two high denominations (mentioned by the Crown Agents in their October-December, 1928, bulletin as having been dispatched) were received at Antigua in November, and distributed to the several Presidencies for issue on Saturday, December 1, 1928. In London, they were released by the Crown Agents to stamp dealers about the same time.

The stamps (25x30mm) were typographically printed by Messrs. De La Rue & Co., Ltd., from Nyasaland receipt size keyplate No. 1, in sheets of 60 (12 horizontal by 5 vertical), with a double marginal line, and comb perforated 14. The keyplate No. 1 is in both the left and right side margins, opposite the first and fifth stamps, i.e., four times to the sheet. The 10s is printed in red and green on green script CA paper, and the £1, in black and violet on red Roman CA watermarked paper.

The keyplate design (center only) embodies the head of King George V on a horizontally lined ground, in a pearled oval, surmounted by a Crown, and all superimposed upon a shield with conventional foliate ornamentation.

The duty or border plate design bears at the top "Ten Shillings" or Pound," curved, with the denomin expressed in numerals, i.e., 10sh o in the two corners, and "Leewar lands" at the bottom, in colorless l ing and numerals. "Postage" read ward at the left, and "Revenue" do the right.

By the same Statutory Rules and ders No. 15 of April 26, 1928, a these two denominations to the Lee Islands Federal series, the 10s was celled from the Presidential series Kitts-Nevis, and the £1 from tho Antigua, Dominica and St. Kitts. stamp was authorised for Montserr Order in Council of March 24, 192 it was never requisitioned. The 10s a stamps of St. Kitts-Nevis exhausted ing 1928, but at last word the £1 of tigua and Dominica were still to be mission for the flight was consist- denied by the U. S. P. O. D., and anamanian Government finally took atter up through their Minister in ington, and the State Department ted to get the flight approved, but t success. The Panamanian Min- o informed his Government, but the f stamps went on, just the same, preparations for the flight went y forward. The PAA Vice-Presi- n Panama cabled north to try to proval for the flight, and Mr. Glov- lied with a flat refusal of permis- o carry any foreign mail.

PAA sent some 4,000 covers to New York Office "to protect col- ". The Miami-Nassau flight had ,000 covers, but the price is still g from 50c down, and within reach , so why should they worry about or collectors, with 8,000 other cov- the flight? "Special Correspon- evidently with the wish father thought, predicts that these covers rate four or five times the value CZ covers, if not more, since there not many "professionals" aboard. "professionals" he means dealers, I who put up the $2,000 for the s for those covers, and I should at framing an illegal flight like showed all the earmarks of the of "professionals" who will wreck bby if their work is not curbed. ial Correspondent" also states that would seem to be ample foundation lescribing the Panama covers as by Lindbergh". I do not know "Special Correspondent" is, but I challenge him to come out into the open, and, under his own name, give us all of the inside dope on the "Outlaw" flight. Knowing as much as I do (and I might add that I am keeping some of it up my sleeve), I am absolutely certain, in my own mind, that friend "Special Correspondent" could give us some interesting reading that would cause some people to squirm.

However, there is one sure thing. Whoever was framing the flight had all plans perfected for Col. Lindbergh to carry the Panama covers from Cristobal to Miami, and those plans were only abandoned at the last moment through fear of involving Col. Lindbergh in unpleasant proceedings. The Zone mail was distributed between the plane of Col. Lindbergh and that of Capt. Merritt, and it was definitely planned for Lindy to carry the Panama covers through, so that there would always be a doubt as to whether the Zone mail was actually carried by Col. Lindbergh or Capt. Merritt, while the Panama covers would be "Lindbergh carried", beyond any doubt. Is there not a possibility that this was the reason that the PAA had 4,000 covers prepared? Such a precedent had been established on other first flights down in this neck of the woods, but not with the mail under the orders of the P. O. D. of Uncle Sam. Capt. Merritt's plane was in the same class and under the same orders as Col. Lindbergh's, as long as it was carrying a part of the Zone mail, so attempts to laugh it off on the score that Capt. Merritt carried the covers into Miami are not worth much.

That "Outlaw" Flight is costing both the U. S. P. O. D. and the PAA hundreds of dollars in first flight covers not sent. Does it stand to reason that the dealers who put up money to get covers on the flight, and now find that they cannot sell them until the 4,000 PAA covers are assimilated, are going to put up another $2,000 at once, to get covers on other PAA first flights? Does it stand to reason that those of us who might have put up some real money to get covers through, and are now glad we did not get in, are going to risk a repetition of the postage plus one cent for envelope sale?

History tells us that George Washington, caught with the goods, spoke up like a sensible kid, and said, "Yes, Father, I did it with my little hatchet." He did not try to get away with the idea that someone needed that particular tree for firewood, or that some neighbor, who had nothing to do with it, and whose opinion was of no consequence in the matter, had requested him to use his little hatchet. Let's have the truth! Let's get confidence in getting a square deal restored. If, as appears from all the evidence at hand, some PAA Officials saw some easy money in 4,000 covers, and entered into competition with dealers, and even went so far as to help frame a prohibited flight, let's have some tangible assurance that such action will not be repeated. Such stuff has been pulled off in the past, where a company did not have a contract to carry mail for Uncle Sam, or managed to put over a practically closed flight by some famous flier, but today those covers are not particularly sought after by collectors, who are in the hobby because it has been kept fairly clean. Anything that smells bad is not attractive to the average Air Mail collector, either in the U. S. or abroad.

AN OLD-TIME COLLECTOR

I knew Anselmo. He was shrewd and prudent,
Wisdom and cunning had their shares of him;
But he was shrewish as a wayward child,
And pleased again by toys which childhood please;
As—book of fables graced with print of wood,
Or else the jingling of a rusty medal,
Or the rare melody of some old ditty,
That first was sung to please King Pepin's cradle.

Mr. Kenneth Tallmadge, Temple Theater, Saginaw, says he'll look after covers sent in, and will carry out all special requests as to position of cachet, number, colors, etc., that may be sent in. Now don't work him too hard—he doesn't know what that's letting him in for. He's also having special envelopes made, one with a picture of Lindbergh, one with that of Lindbergh and Herrick, and he'll address one of those to you if you'll simply send the postage. Better enclose a little extra for the envelopes, even though he doesn't ask it.

The 2nd All American Aircraft Show at Detroit surely brought out the cachet colors! There are some that I never even realized were in the rainbow, and certainly never expected to see come from a rubber stamp ink pad. My thanks are due to Postmaster Kellogg for autographing a number of the covers I received.

ATLAS STAMP CO. (P. C. Smith) LEXINGTON, MASS.

U. S. CARRIERS

One of my important clients has decided to collect the Carrier stamps of the United States and as my stock of these issues is exceedingly small, I am particularly anxious to purchase choice pieces on the entire cover. While it is the rarities that are especially desired, I am also anxious to acquire the less important pieces, where they are nicely tied to the cover. If you have a single choice item or if you have several, it is requested that they be submitted, at your lowest net price. Only choice specimens are desired, for damaged copies will not be of interest.

As usual, I am also in the market to purchase anything choice in the way of general U. S. Issues, including postmasters, general adhesives of both nineteenth and twentieth century, departments, newspapers, postage dues and revenues. In the way of early issues, mint blocks and singles in addition to choice covers are preferred. In the late issues, errors are wanted, such as inverted centers, part-perforates, blue papers and the like. The current issue rotary press is also being found now and then on double paper and sheets showing these varieties are desired.

In the way of departments, I require mint blocks and choice covers, Newspapers in mint blocks and postage dues in mint blocks and singles. Used copies are not desired at this time.

Anything choice in revenues is likely to be of interest, especially the inverted centers and fine blocks of the early issues. In the way of late issues, I would like a copy or two of the 1914 $50 violet #4106 uncut.

I also offer the collector, who is particular as to condition and choiceness, an unusual stock of U. S. Issues from which to make selections.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., P. O. Box 2175, Middle City Station, Phila., Pa., who will also be pleased to pass on oddities and varieties of all U. S. stamps. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, cor. Robbins Road and Locust Ave., Lexington, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

United States

Harding Variety

I have just been shown a curious oddity in the way of the 2c black Harding, perforated ten, wherein the knife which separates the rotary sheet of four hundred into four panes must have been out of working order, for a block of four shows the vertical gutter which falls between the two panes, between the two perforated vertical pairs, thus—giving us a block of four with gutter between.

1862, 2c Splits

The faker of cancellations is again active in producing splits tied to the cover. Among such varieties, which have been noted lately, are those bearing postmarks of New Orleans, as well as those bearing "Paid" cancellations from Lancaster, Penna., which are different from anything ever seen from that town before. Neither of the varieties mentioned were sufficiently good to fool one posted, but collectors are again cautioned against buying such things unless they are fully guaranteed. It seems that here of late the faker is more active than ever, due to the constant and substantial demand for fine United States items.

14c Indian, New Shade

Mr. Daniel J. Shoonmaker has submitted for inspection a block of the current 14c Indian, which was printed from an over-inked plate on paper that was heavily moistened, thus—giving us a very beautiful combination in the way of a shade differing from any that has been noted before. It might be designated as a rich deep blue, although two people will hardly agree on the designation of a shade today.

Air Mail Envelope, Albino

Albino envelopes of our current issue, that is—envelopes which are properly embossed but without ink, are noted from time to time, and are found in practically all issues. Mr. F. B. McGown is the first to call attention to an albino of the air mail type. The envelope has the border printed in red and blue as usual, but the blue of the stamp is missing, the impression, however, being clear.

In reply to numerous letters which are received from time to time submitting albino envelopes for inspection, it will be of interest to note that these do not command much attention even from the envelope specialist, and they do not bring much more than the normal specimen.

Canal Zone

Mr. R. S. Carter sends clippings from the Panama-American of April 3rd, stating that the Scadta Air Mail from Colombian Republic was scheduled to arrive at Cristobal on 4 o'clock of April 3rd, thus inaugurating the first air mail service between that country and the Canal Zone. It is stated that it would carry mail back to Colombia on the following day. The latter point, however, is in dispute for there seems to be some question as to whether this German company is going to be permitted to carry mail from the Zone to South America, and at the time the article was written, the dispute had not been settled.

It is stated that a Pan-American Airways plane leaves the Zone on April 4th for South America, inaugurating the new service. Although this company is advertising a passenger service to Colombia, we are informed that it has authority to carry mail to Buenaventura only. Mail dispatched to Bogota, for instance, would have to be returned by steamer up the west coast through the Canal and then down the east coast. The Scadta Company cannot be expected to pick up air mail at Buenaventura for delivery to other cities, unless the well-known Scadta stamps are affixed.

Brazil.—The 20 reis, type of A75, has been issued in slate purple according to Mr. R. Roberts. This stamp is watermarked CASA DA MOEDA.

China.—A new issue is expected shortly and will show portraits of various Nationalists, and will include the following values: ½, 2, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 10, 12, 25, 30 and 50c, 1, 2 and 5 dollars. This information comes to Gibbons' Stamp Monthly from Mr. Shan Wen Lien.

Cuba.—Champion's Bulletin furnishes the information regarding a new series due in May, commemorating the inauguration of the "Capitol" at Havana. There will be five values: 1c, 2c, 5c, 10c and 50c, and they are to be highly attractive.

Czechoslovakia.—One sheet of 100 stamps of the 1922 air mail stamps 50s on 100h is to be found with inverted overprint reports Champion's Bulletin. The Wenceslas Commemoratives will be issued next May.

France.—In commenting on the new Joan of Arc stamp which was issued March 2nd, Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin considers it a very poor production and a discredit to France. The stamp is considered too small for the design, even had it been well engraved and printed. Had the stamp been well produced there is no doubt that it would have been a most popular issue. The stamp commemorates the 500th anniversary of the relief of Orleans by the French Forces led by Joan of Arc.

Gambia. — From official sources Gibbons' Stamp Monthly learns that the 2½p, 4p, 7½p, 10p, 1sh6p and 3sh values will be withdrawn from issue on the exhaustion of the existing stocks.

Italy.—We learn from Stamp Collecting that a special series will be issued for the fourteenth centenary of the Abbey of Montecassino, consisting of ten values with "Surtax" printed in Rotophotography by the Government Polygraphic Office.

Libia.—A commemorative issue will be made on April 7th in connection with the Tripoli Fair, consisting of six values (30c+20c, 50c+20c, L1.25c+20c, L2.55c +50c, L5+L1); designs are by Aleardo Terzi showing flora and fauna of this country. Stamp Collecting reports this information as received from S. Bayer.

Madeira.—Champion's Bulletin announces that an immediate rarity is provided by the 1esc of the new series, five copies of which have been found without indication of value. It is thought that a sheet of 100 copies must have got into circulation.

New Zealand.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin states that from a recent supply of the current stamps the 4p now comes in deep violet instead of bright violet, while the 6p also varies slightly in shade, and both values are printed on a different paper with white gum instead of yellow gum.

Portugal.—Another of the numerous surcharges on the Ceres type comes to hand from Mr. R. Roberts. This time it is the 80c on 1E50 pale mauve, perf. 11½.

Roumania.—We have received Mr. R. Roberts the L7.50 bright marine, no watermark, and L10 watermarked wavy lines horizontal, of the infant King Michael. Both perf. 13½.

Russia.—We understand that roubles of the large Lenin type in green has appeared. Champion's Bulletin chronicles the appearance.

Tanganyika.—The 5sh is now or[ange] in a fuller, deeper carmine than b[efore] and the 10sh in a distinctly brighter deeper blue according to Gibbons' Stamp Monthly.

Transjordania.—The new line graved postage due stamps have bee[n] ceived from Mr. R. Roberts. All v[alues] are in the same type and perforate[d] Colors and values are 1m brown orange, 4m green, 10m carmine, olive, and 50m blue.

Liechtenstein

—One of the Small European States that Charm the Collector.

The Principality of Liechtenstein, [whose] veteran ruler, Prince John II, die[d] cently, is one of the tiny European [states] whose stamps hold a fascination fo[r the] collector. As in the other small S[tates] this attraction has been turned to ac[count] by a somewhat prolific array of stan[dard] sues, designed more for the collector [than] for the use of the inhabitants o[f the] country. Curiously enough, Liec[hten]stein figures in the earliest postage [stamp] catalogue (compiled by Alfred Pot[ter] published in Paris, December, [1861] where it is noted that the stamps i[ssued] were those of Austria, denominat[ed in] kreuzer. Austrian stamps continu[ed to] be used exclusively up to the end of [1911] although the local Parliament was [Liech]ting over a long period for sep[arate] stamps as the most useful indicati[on to] the outer world of the independen[ce of] the State. In January, 1912, three st[amps] printed in Vienna, with the portra[it of] the Prince, were issued of the so-[called] Postal Union denominations, 5, 10 [and] 25 heller. From that time the five [post] offices in the Principality sold only L[iech]tenstein stamps of these values, whi[le for] other denominations Austrian st[amps] were used.

A more extended issue appear[ed in] 1917, and in 1919 a concession was g[rant]ed to a syndicate for exploiting Lie[chten]stein postage stamps in the stamp m[arket] The company's big set of twenty-[seven] stamps, with values up to 10 krone[n] not worth the paper they are printe[d on] and Liechtenstein got into bad r[epute] with collectors until the postal adm[inis]tration was handed over to Switze[rland] From 1921 the stamps have been i[n the] Swiss currency of the franc, divide[d into] 100 rappen (equivalent to centimes).

Last November, on the seventiet[h an]niversary of Prince John's accessi[on, a] set of eight stamps was issued, the[ir] rappen values bearing an up-to-date [por]trait, while the four franc values [have] two portraits, one showing the Pri[nce] the time of his accession (1858), an[d] other at the age of eighty-eight (19[28]). These stamps were withdrawn from [sale] on January 31st, a few days befor[e the] Prince's death.—Postage Stamp.

ANDORRA AND ITS POSTAGE STAMPS

By ALBERT H. HARRIS.

Andorra has issued postage stamps, and nobody seems to have bothered overmuch about it. They were not heralded by the lavish press notices which Governments now circulate when they are about to launch a speculative issue. No New Issue Service has distributed them. So far as we are aware, no single press notice concerning them appeared until after the issue of the stamps.

Where Andorra Is

Andorra lies in a fertile valley, high up in the Pyranees between France and Spain. Its area of 191 square miles exceeds that of many another small stamp-issuing community, as does its population which, at the last census, numbered 5,231. The inhabitants are mainly engaged in farming grain and potatoes, and stock raising. Some iron mining is also done, and there are coal deposits capable of being profitably worked on the Spanish side. It is thus self-contained and one may infer that with less than 28 people to the square mile it is also probably self-supporting.

Its History and Government

The early story of Andorra is not told in any of the works of reference we have consulted, but its independence dates from 1278 when it was established by Charlemagne as a nominally independent State under the joint and equal sovereignty of two princes, appointed respectively by France and Spain, by which two countries the integrity of Andorra was guaranteed. The French nominee was the Comte de Foix, to whom, eventually, the French Republican Government succeeded at the time of the Revolution, and the French Premier, by virtue of his office, is therefore titular holder of the rank of Prince of Andorra. For practical reasons, however, the rights of France are preserved by delegating them to the Prefect of Police at Perpignan, which is the nearest French town.

The Spanish nominee was the Archbishop of the neighbouring Spanish town of Seo de Urgel, and this nomination has remained unaltered to the present day.

The emoluments of office do not appear to be large. The Prefect of Police receives 960 francs per annum, and the Archbishop, 460 francs. Since 1882 France has agreed that payment shall be made bi-annually, so that every two years three deputies of the governing council of Andorra make a pilgrimage into France, carrying the money to the Prefect of the Department of Pyrenees-Orientale, in which the town of Perpignan is situated.

The actual government of the country is conducted on democratic lines. A Council of twenty-four members is elected every four years by the heads of the families in each of the six parishes. This council nominates a "First Syndic," who presides over its deliberations, and in whom is vested the executive power.

The Local Courier Service

In postal matters Andorra is claimed by Spain, and for the purposes of the Universal Postal Union, ranks as a subsidiary of the Spanish Post Office, and has hitherto used ordinary Spanish stamps. There is also a French courier service in the country; that is to say, one has also been able to buy ordinary French stamps in each of the six parishes, and letters franked at the ordinary French tariff are carried by a piéton (rural postman) over the mountain passes as far as the town of Porté in Pyrenees-Orientale. This courier, however, being very irregular, and in winter very often not operating at all, the Andorrans prefer the Spanish service which is carried daily by the highroad which runs from Andorra la Vieja, the capital, to Seo de Urgel in Spain.

The arrangements which have existed hitherto for the sale of French and Spanish stamps in Andorra, and how the mail is collected, we have been unable to ascertain. It has been stated (in the loosely worded paragraphs which have appeared in the general press since the appearance of special stamps) that the local delivery of letters has been free, and that there has been no local post office. But these are both unsupported and contradictory, as obviously no sort of delivery service, however restricted may be the mail, could operate without a base; nor presumably would it be worked without somebody being remunerated. We are informed by Senor Carlos Lenze (in an interesting letter from Andorra la Vieja on April 18th) that prior to Jan. 1, 1928, there has been no obliteration for Andorra, correspondence not being postmarked until it reached Porté or Seo de Urgel, according to whether it was sent by French or Spanish courier. This would seem to dispose of the possibility of identifying French or Spanish stamps used in the Republic earlier than 1928, unless on letter-sheets dated internally from Andorra, and postmarked at the receiving post towns.

Melville's "Phantom Philately" (p. 19) on the other hand, states that there is a postmark "Correos-Andorra" although not often used; and that "there are post offices at Old Andorra and Soldeu."

The New Andorran Postal System

As from Jan. 1, 1928, however, the Spanish Post Office decided to exercise its rights, possessed by virtue of the inclusion of Andorra in the Universal Postal Union as its subsidiary, to establish an internal service capable of conducting all the usual facilities, such as registered letters, parcels post, and the issue of money orders. The first office to be put on a proper footing was established at the capital, Andorra la Vieja, and to link up the capital with the rest of the territory, branches were successively opened in the five other parishes.

The six parishes which form the Andorran postal system are: Andorra la Vieja (capital), Encamp, Ordino, Canillo, La Masana, and San Julia di Loria.

Ordinary Spanish stamps were in use at these offices until the end of March. Whether each has its own cancellation we do not know. Soldeu, mentioned by Melville (ante), is not referred to.

The Provisional Series

Towards the end of March a report gained currency on the Continent that the Spanish Government Printing works had a distinctive series in preparation. On March 28th, according to information for which we are indebted to Senor Lenze, one hundred complete series of Spanish stamps, from 2 centimos up to 10 pesetas, were received by the office at la Vieja, from the Direction des Postes at Madrid. Our correspondent secured some of them, and kindly franked his letter to us with a complete set. The envelope was registered, and bore the postmark "Andorra la Vieja" in the usual type of Spanish cancellation. It was posted on April 18th, by which date, he said, the first hundred series had been sold out, and no further supplies had arrived, although they were understood to be on order.

The stamps are those of the ordinary current Spanish issue, overprinted "CORREOS" and "ANDORRA" in two lines.

Express:—20c rose (black).

The bracketed figures are the colours of the overprints. We do not know whether they were overprinted in whole sheets or less, and have no information as to the setting. Nor have we any information as to the numbers on the back of the stamps, the only copies that have been through our hands being one series on entire cover.

In anticipation of supplies, the stamps were advertised by Senor Lenze in the Philatelic Magazine of April 28th (p. 797), retail at 20/- a set; wholesale, ten sets for £8, or one hundred sets for £14. We presume the supplies duly arrived, but from the fact that we have not seen the stamps offered in any other advertisement, and only in one London dealer's shop, it is clear that up to the moment of writing supplies have not been widely distributed. No statement has reached us of numbers printed; whether supplies are scarce, or whether they are being held back is a matter that time will tell.

Grounds for Issue

We hold no brief for the stamps of Andorra, nor do we decry all new issues as speculative, for after all it is not unusual for even small communities to become more enlightened than their ancestors, and the much abused postal services of all countries do, on the whole, march with the times. Whether the commercial and intellectual progress of the Andorrans now cries aloud for a national postal service we do not know, but since development of means of communication is always desirable, it is not impossible that it can be justified by other than philatelic considerations. The evidence tends that way, for it is by no means necessary to equip six parishes with post offices in order to provide collectors with a speculative series of stamps. And if the offices are justified, the peculiar political status of Andorra demands an indication that its allegiance is not entirely Spanish. It is no fault of a small community if the number of stamp collectors in the outside world outnumbers the interior population, and we see no fault if they supply as many stamps as may be demanded.

Local Protest

According to the Echo de la Timbrologie (No. 778, 31/5/28, p. 813) the action of Spain in providing the overprinted stamps has brought local sentiment to a head, and led to a debate in the National Council, as a result of which the Syndic laid an official complaint before the French Prefect at Perpignan, apparently representing the Spanish action as a breach of neutrality. The Syndic is reported to have asserted that Andorra is perfectly capable of organising its own postal service, even to issue stamps and to spend the proceeds without anybody's assistance; to which the Prefect rejoined in the official formula that he would report their representations to the French Government.

Provisionals Reported Exhausted

The Times (11/6/28), in quoting the above, rounded it off by saying that several values of the provisional stamps were sold out at the Andorran Post Office, and that the old practice of prepayment by contemporary stamps of either France or Spain had been reverted to. But no authority is given for the statement, and there is nothing to show that the French courier service, for those who preferred it, has ever been abandoned. When working, it is probably more convenient for correspondence directed to the French side.

Pictorial Rumours

For the statement which has appeared in several journals, that a pictorial series is in preparation, we can find no more ground than the original report that the Spanish Government Printing Works were preparing a "distinctive" series. This statement was closely followed by the appearance of the provisional stamps, to which it may have referred. It seems to be taken for granted that such a series will appear, and, in view of the apparent local feeling against the postal service being dominated by either one of the high contracting parties to its independence, the eventual appearance of such a series seems highly probable. It must in fairness be stated that up to the present there has been no evidence of any attempt on the part of either the Andorran or the Spanish Post Office to exploit collectors, or to cater for them in any way.

Bogus Issues

Just as an attempt was made to foist upon stamp collectors a bogus issue of Brunei stamps long before a special series for that State was authorised by the British Colonial Office, so Andorra was exploited many years ago by an enterprising swindler. That very useful handbook on bogus stamps, "Phantom Philately," records imperf. pairs of two designs, one for the centimos values, the internal configuration being hexagonal, and the other, with oval centre, for the peseta values. The following are known thus:

5c green.	50c bright red.
10c slate-purple.	75c lilac.
15c blue.	1p grey.
20c brown.	2p scarlet.
25c dark brown.	5p grey-brown.
40c grey.	10p orange.

The inscription is in every case "Republica de Andorra" in the upper part of the design; the word "Correus" figures twice on the centimos values, and only once on the peseta values. The paper is thin white wove, watermarked in script capitals R.A. (multiple). No date of attempted issue is stated, but we observe that Senor Galvez in the Madrid Filatelico (No. 352, May, 1928, page XVIII) is offering an "unissued" series of Andorra, comprising twelve values, to which he gives the date as 1875. His price is 2½ pesetas. Possibly these are the same labels.

Senor Galvez, in the same issue of his journal, publishes a warning against a new bogus issue of Postage Due stamps. He illustrates a 5 centimos denomination, of plain design, consisting of a large figure "5" with "Centimos" below, and the words "Multa" and "Andorra" respectively at the top and bottom of the design, separated from the inscription of value by thin rule, the whole enclosed in a thick frame, and perforated. On reference to Andorra, Senor Galvez states that nothing is known of them there.

That is all we can find out about Andorra and its postage stamps. The facts that are missing we have endeavoured to indicate so that others may track them down and bring them to light in their study of the world's newest stamp issuing country.—Philatelic Magazine.

BIOGRAPHY FOR STAMP COLLECTORS

By FRED. J. MELVILLE.

If Captain James Cook had been born in any other country than Britain, the chances are that there would be stamps produced in his honour in this 200th year after the event. But English ways are English ways, and we should not desire any change in them, which would break the stolid, solid continuity of the royal theme which has decided the image and superscription on our stamps for eighty-eight years.

Of our great and illustrious men and women it may be truly said their name is Legion. There would be a superfluity of celebrities with claims for stampic recognition, if once the British Postmaster-General departed from tradition, and set out to make of our stamp issues a miniature reproduction of Lodge's "Portraits of Illustrious Personages of Great Britain." And to our thinking the memory of the great ones loses nothing by not being proclaimed upon our stamps. They would not be truly great, if postage stamp publicity could serve to enhance their posthumous fame.

Other lands, other manners, and it seems to be the trend of stamp designs to delve deeper than ever into the vasty ocean of international biography. While we can rest content that without philately's artificial aid, Shakespeare, Cook, Shaw, Horatio Bottemley, etc., will be recognised and known through world, there may be some excu other countries to press upon our exclusiveness (as well as upon a rant world at large), the claims native celebrities to world-recogn

MAJOR GUY W. A. CAMP

DISTINGUISHED AND ABLE PRESIDENT OF THE SOCIETY OF PHILATELIC AMERICANS

Major Camp has had considerable newspaper experience commencing as a reporter on the Buffalo Morning Express. He was also general manager of the National Illustrated Magazine, and later the Life Association News, which he resigned from in 1928 to be manager of the Executive Service Corporation with offices in the Pershing Square Bldg., N. Y. City.

During the World War he was stationed in the midwest, engaged in drilling and routing drafted men to rendezvous. Major Camp is considered an expert on military law, having seen considerable service in the infantry. He began collecting as a boy, blossoming out as a dealer for several years while in his teens, when he again reverted to collecting. He assisted in organizing the Washington, D. C., Philatelic Society, was Washington correspondent for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY in the late nineties, and was the discoverer of the first and perhaps the only known copy of the used 12c, August, 1861 type.

Major Camp, a few years ago, was drafted for the S. P. A. by V. W. Rotnem, then President, when the affairs of the society were in an unsatisfactory condition. He re-wrote its by-laws, was forced to serve on the Board of Governors by the New York Convention, and

SHIFTS IN PHILATELY

PHILATELIC PUBLICITY GROWING MORE AND MORE ALONG EDUCATIONAL LINES

By Major Guy W. A. Camp,
President, Society of Philatelic Americans.

There is no denying that the standards of every day life are shifting so rapidly that an appreciation of an accepted pattern is barely formed before it changes, and this notwithstanding our synchronization through the adoption of the same ideas and mechanism.

Evidence of this tendency to shift can be discerned in philately which appears to be throwing aside her cloak of aloofness to enter a new field of activity, while her followers are diversifying in pursuing various alluring lines of endeavor that attract. Something is happening, something still somewhat obscure and unacknowledged, yet sufficiently discernible to enable one to determine that a wider and more glorious field for the collector is rapidly developing. What its ultimate end will be time alone can tell, but we can be sure of this at least, that it will be to the advantage of all concerned.

Most of us can easily remember the day when there were but three classes of collectors—those who purchased with the investment equation uppermost, those who studied their items seeking minute differences, which would enable them to determine various types or the position occupied in the original sheet, and those who wanted to fill up vacant spaces in their printed albums, the last by far the largest class.

While these still remain prominently in the foreground there is steadily forging to the front a fourth class, which is not only demanding recognition, but is receiving it, and that is the educator class—a group of inquisitive students wanting to know the whys and wherefores, and seeking acquaintance with the political and historical background of favorite countries, as well as the interesting events which were responsible for their rise or fall.

Up until ten years ago the educational value of stamps received but scant consideration. However, about that time the matter was introduced to the attention of the authorities of the Maryland Academy of Sciences at Baltimore, with the result that Philately was given a place as a sub-section of the Section of History in March, 1919, and was finally given recognition as a full section of the Academy on May 1, 1925, with a Chair of Philately. This was the first scientific recognition given to Philately, and the first question to be investigated by the new section was to ascertain the best and most logical method of incorporating the science of philately into that of pedagogy. This was probably the first real definite step in educational lines.

The theme was further developed at the Convention of the S. P. A., held in Baltimore shortly after the establishment of this Chair, when a large group of boy collectors was assembled in the auditorium and addressed by one of the officials who demonstrated how the postage stamp speaks and showed how to ascertain its message. The avidity of the youthful mind to grasp the details was surprising to many of the older heads present, who also obtained a new light on the subject.

On the last evening of the Convention a story was broadcast over the radio of what the current one cent stamps reveals, when parents were shown the educational value hidden in stamp collecting. This brought forth several hundred requests to the Academy for more detailed information. Then an essay contest, with suitable prizes, was held among the high school students on a subject intended to bring out how stamp collecting helps with the studies, in which there were a large number of contestants.

Since then philatelic publicity along educational lines has grown with leaps and bounds. The writer, in common with many others, has received numerous invitations to address the pupils of public schools. He has had requests from Sunday School teachers for talks on the Holy Land illustrated with stamps, and in the event of being unable to accept he has been urged to send the stamps. Letters of inquiry have been received from places so small that they failed to appear on the map asking how to teach American History in the rural schools by means of stamps, and where they could be procured. All of which indicates that the education value of philately has penetrated even into the country districts. In New York City a regular weekly feature of one of the big radio stations is the broadcasting of a philatelic talk. Philately has come to be accepted by the press as a news essential, and it is not unusual nowadays to see connected with items in the daily papers regarding prominent persons that are stamp collectors.

In the New York Times of April 7, an article on the sudden death of Col. J. Benkard concluded with a statement that for many years he was a stamp collector and told of the value of his collection. In referring to the same incident the Herald-Tribune gave a more lengthy account of the same, even noting it in the headlines. In the last mentioned paper there was a write-up of John Drinkwater, which the author concludes as follows:

"In spite of the knowledge he showed of the character of Lincoln, Mr. Drinkwater admits that he does not fully understand America.

"'But there is a specialized American

MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS

subject,' he said, 'about which I know more than ninety millions or so Americans. Look at these books—they have been my favorite reading for the last few days.'

"He proudly displayed two books, one called, 'Specialized United States' and the other 'The Postal Service of the Confederate States of America.' They deal exclusively with postage stamps."

In another part of the Times referred to appears a write-up of the Clark stamp. One must acknowledge that such a number of references to Philately in papers like these New York dailies shows that the press believes its reading public to be generally interested in the topic. Five years ago the person who predicted that philately would take its place in the regular news of the day would have been laughed at.

The aloofness of the philatelist has also shown a remarkable change. His clanishness is rapidly disappearing and is being replaced by the fraternal spirit. This has spread to organizations. Perhaps the most active in this line has been the Collectors Club of New York, which has exchanged many fraternal visits with other philatelic organizations during the last two years.

And now this spirit has spread to the two large national philatelic bodies, The American Philatelic Society and the Society of Philatelic Americans. A gracious evidence of this is found in the recent action of the A. P. S. which had set the dates for its coming convention and exhibition at Minneapolis on the same dates that had been selected by the S. P. A. for its annual meeting at Cleveland. Each organization learned of the action of the other at approximately the same time, whereupon instead of controversy, as would have obtained in the old days, the S. P. A. voluntarily decided to hold its convention a week earlier so that its proceedings would not militate against the success of its sister's affair. Influenced by the same spirit of good-will and friendliness, and only after a great deal of trouble, the A. P. S. voluntarily changed the dates of its meeting to a week later, and in notifying the S. P. A. of its action, it not only expressed regret that such a situation had been created, but the Exhibition Committee invited the S. P. A. to occupy a booth space at the Exhibition with its compliments.

Such an example of courtesy shows better than words could express the rapid growth of fraternalism between the two Societies, a development that is bound to bring them close to each other in working for the benefit of organized philately with a friendly rivalry between them only in trying to surpass each other in the accomplishment of good to the cause.

And they have much to do. The ranks of organized philately must be cleared of those who persist in unethical conduct and purged of those who defraud through petty pilfering and crooked dealings. Working together these two bodies can accomplish that which would be almost impossible did they work independently of each other, and when organized philately has rid itself of the undesirables and made its membership a badge of honor and honesty before all the world, it will rapidly progress to a point that now baffles the imagination.

Surely philately is entering a new era of prosperity that will be for the betterment of all concerned.

BRIEF HISTORICAL SKETCH

THE SOCIETY OF PHILATELIC AMERICANS ORIGINALLY THE SOUTHERN PHILATELIC ASSN.

By WM. LYCETT, Secretary.

The World's Fair and celebration of the four-hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America in 1892-93 seemed to have had the effect of bringing stamp collectors closer together, for even though a progressive organization, the A. P. A., was in existence at the time, there was created a sentiment that there should be more. A number of national societies were formed, but none remained long in existence, the A. P. A., now named the A. P. S., excepted. Throughout the Southern States were scattered many collectors who decided that a strictly Southern society would better meet their needs, and on February 1, 1894, they organized the Southern Philatelic Association, the name being the suggestion of J. H. Conley, who is still an honored member and was the first treasurer. We refer to his article elsewhere for particulars we would otherwise give. J. M. Chappell, Jr., Macon, Miss., was chosen President, and B. Russell, Alexandria City, Ala., Secretary. The first Convention was held August 15, 1894, at San Antonio, Texas, when A. M. Rareshide was elected President, and J. M. Chappell, Jr., Secretary.

A constitution was adopted, one feature of which was that the active membership was restricted to residents of the eleven states of the Southern Confederacy, with associate members from other states. This provision was changed within a couple of years, a reorganization effected, new numbers given the members, and not a few Northerners admitted, among the first of whom were Charles E. Severn, Fred G. Fuessel, Gus Fabian, John A. Klemann, Vahan Mozian, and E. A. Hill, who are still members.

The move was not, however, as successful as anticipated, for from a membership of 387 reported in 1896 there was only an increase of a little over 100 in the following eight years, or some 500. In 1904, during the declining health and resultant death of Mr. Kelley, its secretary, the Society passed into chaos, and almost lost its entire membership. In 1906, with a basis of 18 members in good standing, Secretary R. L. Doak gathered up the ends and was able to report 99 members the following year, on December 31, 1907, but 228, with 35 applications pending on February 1, 1909. Professor Doak continued as Secretary until August 15, 1912, when he was elected Vice-President, and C. V. Webb was elected Secretary. There was a membership of 295 on November 1, 1912. The following year (September 13, 1913) C. W. Kissinger was elected President and Mr. Webb re-elected Secretary, and what has been called the Kissinger-Webb regime began, lasting till after the World War. With the advent of these two and others, the Association began to advance at once, both in numbers and influence, reaching a membership of 1,838 in six years, growing successively as follows: 1913, 356; 1914, 656; 1915, 945; 1916, 1,492; 1917, 1,704; 1918, 1,838. And then came the debacle, resulting from the World War!

The President and Secretary, with the help of J. E. Guest, Sales Manager, and the assistance of a corps of efficient officers, had built up an organization truthfully claiming to be "the largest stamp society in the world." But the United States entered the World War, Messrs. Guest and Webb entered the service, and while the largest membership ever reported was given at Niagara Falls Convention, in 1918, by A. E. Gorham, who succeeded Mr. Webb as Secretary, the momentum was lost, and the change of name made at the same Convention hurt rather than helped; the Sales Department, under new and capable management, was robbed; dissenters organized another society, and the Society began to retrograde so that Secretary Webb, who had been released from the service and returned to his post, reported but 1,131 members to the San Francisco Convention in August, 1919. In 1920, Samuel Bennett, of Millville, N. J., was elected Secretary, and Mr. Webb was made Treasurer, and both were re-elected in 1921, when a membership of less than a thousand was reported to the Minneapolis Convention.

The next Convention was held August 9-11, 1922, in Atlantic City, N. J. A membership of 840 was reported, and the first move was made toward rehabilitation of the Society by authorizing the

Latvia

Among the most interesting of the countries that were one of the direct results of the Great War we place Latvia as one whose stamps reflect the terrible hardships, thru lack of finances, which the new governments had to go thru. Stamps printed on the backs of German War Maps, school pads, unfinished bank notes, any kind of paper that could be printed upon. With the exception of the questionable occupation issues, a complete collection is within the limit of the average collector.

ASK TO BE PUT ON OUR BARGAIN COUNTER LIST.
METROPOLITAN STAMP COMPANY
1482 BROADWAY NEW YORK CITY

During the same period, besides all indebtedness being paid, the funds have increased proportionately to the membership; all funds are in good condition and well administered. A workable Exchange Department has been established under the successive management of G. W. Chapman, Carl O. Selander, Wm. Wyer, and J. I. Buell, and is exchanging thousands of dollars' worth of stamps between the members. The Sales Department, under the management of Dr. A. E. Hussey and his daughter, Miss Helen, is now selling over $2,000 monthly, increasing all the time. The Library has been added to, and is being used by many members. A high-class monthly magazine is used as the official organ. The Secretary endeavors to keep the members fully informed at all times of what the Society is doing.

During the last twenty years Conventions have been held in the following cities: 1908, Columbus; 1909, San Antonio; 1910, Kansas City, Mo.; 1911, Galveston; 1912, Harrisburg; 1913, Wichita; 1914, Indianapolis; 1915, Reading; 1916, Washington; 1917, Minneapolis; 1918, Niagara Falls; 1919, San Francisco, 1920, Pittsburgh; 1921, Minneapolis; 1922, Atlantic City; 1923, Washington; 1924, New York; 1925, Baltimore; 1926, Cincinnati; 1927, Philadelphia; 1928, Washington; and the 1929 one is scheduled for Cleveland.

As can be seen from the foregoing, the S. P. A. is a virile organization, that has been in existence 35 years. Twice during that period it has been at death's door, but each time recovered, starting anew, regained lost ground, and today, having profited by experience, is on a firm basis, managed by capable officers, who serve its membership well and faithfully, and will continue so to do. Its Sales and Exchange Departments are excelled by none; its Library fills the needs of medium collectors. It has a slogan, "Service Plus Action," and lives up to it. It is a Society that Protects and Promotes. The writer, its recording officer, inscribes this record with pride in the Society, which he is happy to share with all stamp collectors.

S. P. A. SALES DEPARTMENT

A. E. HUSSEY, M. D., MANAGER

By a Life Member.

The statement that the strength of a stamp society is largely dependent on its Sales Department is correct. While many other agencies are necessary to complete success, the fact still remains that the Sales Department is the keystone, and that its successful conduct is one of the main criterions of what the Society is.

The Sales Department of the S. P. A. has always been an outstanding department since the Society's organization, thirty-five years ago. It has had its ups and downs, and once, eleven years ago, it was almost closed out altogether and started with a new and inexperienced manager, whose confidence was imposed upon and the department so unmercifully robbed that it took years to repay the participants, and the Society almost went out of existence. But it recovered, the Society has more than regained its lost ground, and, to its honor, all claims have been met, while the dearly bought experience has brought about changes in laws and methods that make such a thing impossible in the future, and the department more solid than ever under the management of Dr. A. E. Hussey, of Cincinnati, Ohio, ably assisted by his daughter, Miss Helen, the Society's star recruiter.

The Doctor, though, follows only in the footsteps of worthy predecessors. Going back over twenty years, we find Charles Roemer, of San Antonio, Texas, took control of the department on January 1, 1907, when the Society had only eighteen members in good standing, and in a year and a half had sales of $634.64. But by that time, with the help of Secretary Doak, Fred G. Fuessel, and L. T. Brodstone, the membership had reached 200.

Mr. Roemer continued in office till August 8, 1915, when, seeking retirement, he was replaced by J. E. Guest, who served three years till sent to camp during the World War, in August, 1918. The last report of Mr. Roemer, made July 15, 1915, showed that 652 books, of a face value of $10,045.98, had been received during the year, and that 365 books valued at $5,651.57, were in circulation. During the year there had been sales of $12,214.32.

Energetic Mr. Guest immediately made a record, and on his call to arms there were 1,565 books, with a net value of $24,455.41. These were returned to their owners, and H. S. Swensen, an attorney of the same city as Mr. Guest, was forced to inaugurate a new department, Mr. Guest rendering valuable aid.

Mr. Swensen's first report, made in August, 1919, showed 724 books, valued at $14,396.78, received by him. He continued till August, 1923, when the department was taken over by Dr. Hussey. Mr. Swensen was a good sales manager. As the President said: "He simply had problems to cope with that were entirely unsolvable." The Department was robbed.

Dr. Hussey started with 56 books, valued at $3,725.72, received from Mr. Swensen. Immediately the progress began that has kept up unceasingly ever since. One year later he reported 454 books in the department, valued at $11,624.30, and sales during the year of $1,396.24. These have increased steadily till his report made to the last Convention in Washington, August, 1928, showed 2,127 books, value $71,165.44, and sales during the year of $17,042.74. His last report for the month of March showed 2,575 books in the Department valued at $80,919.09, sales for March were $2,140.10.

These figures are large in proportion to the membership of the Society. They reflect the careful management, strict attention to business, fine quality of material, and prompt returns that mark the conduct of the department. The robbery of years ago can never be repeated. The departmnet is now built on a rock and cannot be shaken. It is circulating circuits of the finest U. S. and B. C.'s mint and used, old issues and new issues, stamps of all kinds, also Jumbo and ior circuits, satisfying the medium lectors. There are all kinds of sta for all kinds of collectors, and effo made to satisfy the individual taste the members. All of which one of Society's oldest life members bears timony to, and invites other philatelist verify.

A NOVEL SOCIETY PROJECT

Stamps to be Purchased Monthly from Dues and held for Distribution

APPLETON, WIS., April 25.

At a meeting of the Appleton Philatelic Society held last evening resolutions were adopted that will be of interest to stamp clubs generally. A condensed draft of the resolutions is given here and any further details can be obtained by writing the secretary:—

(1) Each member shall be assessed the sum of 50c on the first day of each month, for the purpose of purchasing stamps in the name of the Society.

(2) Such purchases shall be made from time to time and shall consist primarily of sheets of mint U. S. purchased at face.

(3) All such purchases shall be laid away three years. At the end of such period, they may be laid away for further periods not to exceed one year, or they may be divided pro-rata among participating members.

(4) No member shall be eligible to participate in such voting or in the division of any stamps which have been acquired with assessments made prior to the time of his own allegiance with the Society.

(5) A member resigning from the Society shall receive a cash refund of all monies paid into this fund by him, not yet distributed or divided, without increase or interest, within one year of such resignation.

(6) In case of the death of a member, the same procedure as in case of resignation shall be followed, except that a fair and just bonus, to cover increase in value, may be added to the refund if so directed by vote of the Society. Any member expelled, suspended or dropped from the rolls by action of the Society shall automatically forfeit all benefits except by vote of the Society.

AIR FLIGHTS AND CACHETS

—The American Legion of Oyster Bay, N. Y., will have a Memorial Day celebration in which Theodore Roosevelt and Quentin, his son, will be especially honored. A feature of the celebration will be the printing of four memorial envelopes and the use of a special cachet. For information write H. K. Robinson, Oyster Bay, N. Y.

—We are indebted to Carter Glass, Jr., for a cover with a cachet in purple:—"Commemorating the Landing at Cape Henry of Capt. Newport and Party, April 26, 1607," and bearing an April 26, 1929 postmark. "D. W. Washburn, P. M." lends official coloring to this non-official marking.

—U. S. Army Air Maneuvers at Columbus, O., May 15-25. Air Mail cachet different color each day. Send covers Linn's Stamp News, 20 E. Chestnut St., Columbus, O. Non-official.

—June 14-16, Elkhart, Ind., will have an airport opening. E. G. Emerson, 635 Bower St., will handle your air mail and take care of the cachet.

—Henry O. Meisel calls our attention to the prosperous condition of the Flying Mail Association of which he is Sec.-Treas. Already no fewer than thirty-two members are on the list and any reader interested in the organization should write Mr. Meisel at Clintonville, Wis. Bulletins are regularly issued to each member free of charge.

—A non-official air mail cachet will be used May 28, 29, 30, at East St. Louis, Ill., in connection with the Gardner Trophy Air Races. Send your letters to L. H. Forman, 805 Spivey Bldg., E. St. Louis, fully prepaid before May 25.—NELSON F. GERKEN.

—A new airport at Massapequa, Long Island, will be dedicated May 12. A cachet will be used, and covers should be sent at once to Brady, Cryan and Colleran, Inc., 393 Seventh Ave., New York. —DONALD E. DICKASON.

—John H. Newman, court reporter at Juneau, Alaska, sends us the Alaska Empire of April 15, describing the arrival of the first plane on a non-stop Seattle—Alaska flight. The return to Seattle was made April 23, Mr. Newman sending the Empire under a cover bearing a Seattle, April 24 postmarking. Unofficial but a pioneer.

—Frank F. Wills writes us that an air service is about to be established in Newfoundland. He also informs us of the death of Hon J. A. Robinson, who in 1919, as Minister of Posts initialed the mint "Hawker" remainders, "J. A. R."

Lists about $3300 and is very strong in the better class items listing up to $20, as can easily be seen, the average catalogue value per stamp being over 60 cents. A wonderful buy for a collector who wishes to fill up in fine 19th at minimum cost or for a dealer to retail. We have taken this in trade and will sell it at exactly the same price we allowed, viz. 625.00
7. 20th Century used. Collection of 5500 different used 20th Century, mounted in a Scott's International Album, all in fine condition, including many scarce items. Many 20th Century stamps, as collectors know, are far scarcer used than mint and almost impossible to obtain. An unusual opportunity for collectors of used 20th to obtain a very fine collection of these at an almost give-away price. Will list about $1000.—Our price only one-fifth catalogue or 195.00
8. Junior Collection. About 7000 different stamps in fine condition mounted in a Junior Album. Just the thing for a beginner and will give a fine start at the lowest possible price. Lists about $700. Net price 135.00
9. Br. Cols., Mint 20th. Lot of 70 different, all mint, listing $22.50. Net price .. 7.50
10. Br. Cols., Mint 20th. Lot of 60 different, all mint, listing $17. Net price 5.75
11. B. N. A., 19th only. Good little collection of 100 varieties of this popular group. Contains many desirable and scarce stamps of Canada and Newfoundland in nice condition which are almost never offered under half catalogue. Will list about $80. Our price less than one-quarter of this, or 19.00
12. Scandinavia. Collection of 300 different 19th and 20th Century, all in superb condition. List $20. Our price 5.50
13. Denmark. Collection of 70 different mint 20th Century stamps listing $21.37. Cheap at 7.00
14. Finland. Collection of 86 varieties, all in superb condition. Lists $13.49. Our price 3.25
15. Nicaragua, Salvador and Panama. A very pretty little collection of 300 different, mint and used, containing many scarce items and very few "Seebecks." A very fine lot listing over $55. Our price for quick sale 12.50
16. Peru. A good little collection of 71 different 19th Century, including several scarce items of the early issues. Catalogue price $31.79. Ours 4.75
17. Sweden. Collection of 270 different 19th and 20th Century, mostly used, in very fine condition. A beautiful collection of this country, practically complete with the exception of the great rarities. Lists nearly $100. We ask 22.00
18. Sweden. A very pretty collection of 200 different, all in superb condition. Lists nearly $20. Our price 5.00
19. Swedish Colls. Collection of 51 different, complete except for three varieties. A very fine mint collection at way below market price. List $25. Our price 9.75

GRAF ZEPPELIN MAIL

It is expected that the Graf Zeppelin will be on its way to the United States when this issue of the WEEKLY appears. The return trip from Lakehurst, N. J., is scheduled for about May 10. The rate on letters (one ounce) will be $1.05, and 53c on post cards. The P. O. Dept. does not guarantee the dispatch of this mail. It will be sent by steamship if the return flight fails unless you write return address on envelope with the notation "do not mail by steamship." It will thus be seen that considerable uncertainty exists and the Dept. intends to place all responsibility for non-delivery of mail upon the sender.

H. L. LINDQUIST FOR DIRECTOR

At a meeting of the Phila. Chapter 18 A. P. S. held April 18, Rev. C. C. Sylvester was unanimously elected Secretary to take the place made vacant by the resignation of the Sec.-Treas. Hopkins. Mr. Hopkins is leaving Philadelphia. It was voted to withdraw the nomination of H. M. Konwiser for director-at-large, this nomination having been made at a previous meeting of the club. H. L. Lindquist of New York was substituted and it was voted to inform all A. P. S. branches of the action taken.

Philip H. Ward, Jr., exhibited one volume of the U. S. collection of Edward R. Wood, Jr., which was awarded a gold medal at the New York exhibition. The outstanding pieces were the 5c '67 grilled all over, the special prints of '75 on hard paper and of '80 on soft paper complete, including the rare 2c and 5c on both papers. The Panama-Pacific inverted centers were shown in mint singles of the 1c, 2c and 4c, together with mint blocks of four of each. Of the 2c only one other block is known to exist.

UNITED STATES LOCAL STAMPS

I am a great believer in the future of these stamps and have built up a good stock by large purchases from the Ferrary sales in Paris, and by the purchase of Local Collections such as Brennermann, Grant, etc., etc. The "Locals" were mostly used between 1842 and 1860, and very small numbers have been saved. Look and see how many your local dealer can show you, and you will soon learn that a great bulk of them are much rarer than "catalogue" prices indicate.

The following are a few of the better varieties I have in stock, but approval books of common or scarce "Locals" can be sent on approval at very reasonable prices:—

ADAMS & CO.

A NOTABLE MILESTONE

RESUME OF TWO THOUSAND ISSUES OF THE GREATEST OF STAMP PAPERS

By C. E. Severn.

new generation of stamp collectors arisen since the first number of the EKLY appeared on January 7, 1891; to the collector of to-day who does concern himself with philately's past, eems as though the paper has always ited. When the first number of the EKLY was distributed, two thousand ks ago, it was hailed as a daring and el venture by the C. H. Mekeel Stamp Publishing Company of St. Louis, a e corporation, but the projectors of enterprise had every confidence in ultimate success and expended in the egate thousands of dollars in firmly blishing the paper. Naturally, there many predictions by the more conative collectors that a weekly stamp ication could not attain permanency r conditions as they prevailed y-eight years ago, but it was not long re all philatelists were impressed by intelligent perseverance that was ifest in the management of the r and the general disposition was gard the WEEKLY as a fixture.

e editor of the WEEKLY was I. A. eel whose genius later had its fruiin the general publishing field; and e time of his death in February, Mr. Mekeel had attained a national ence as a publisher and successful ness man. One of the early conors to the WEEKLY was C. E. rn of Chicago, and in 1894, he be- the paper's Chicago correspondent. nose days, a column or so of notes week from the different stamp cenwas a feature of the paper. Several later, business vicissitudes were ntered by the corporation that pubd the WEEKLY that made a readjustof its business necessary; and by rder of court, I. A. Mekeel became buyer and owner of the WEEKLY. Mr. Mekeel's acumen led him to ure the advertising possibilities of aper and he determined to launch a aign that would thoroughly test . He proposed to Mr. Severn that come editor and part owner of the KLY and early in 1898, Mr. Severn's ice with the WEEKLY as editor and er was made. The paper was edited Chicago, but published from St. , and Mr. Mekeel, free to give his ided attention to the business dement, found a congenial occupation panding the advertising prestige of EEKLY.

r several years the paper flourished these conditions, but it was not before Scott F. Redfield of Smethr Pennsylvania, who was publishing ekly stamp paper at that period, merged his paper into the WEEKLY and became a part owner of the corporation which had been formed under the laws of the State of New York to conduct the WEEKLY. For a time the WEEKLY was printed at the plant of Mr. Redfield at Smethport, Pa., published by Mr. Mekeel in New York, and edited by Mr. Severn in Chicago. At this period, the Boston correspondent of the WEEKLY was Willard O. Wylie of Beverly, Mass., and so capably did he discharge his duties that he was recommended to the notice of the owners. After Mr. Wylie had proved his ability further by planning special issues from start to finish, he was invited to become one of the corporation. In the meantime, the WEEKLY had purchased W. W. Jewett's Weekly Philatelic Era, an excellent publication that almost divided with the WEEKLY the regard of the collecting public and Mr. Wylie was placed in charge of the Era as a separate publication. By his conduct of the Weekly Philatelic Era, Mr. Wylie further emphasized his fitness for philatelic newspaper work, and when the Era was consolidated with the WEEKLY, Mr. Wylie, who had bought a tenth interest in the company, was made managing editor.

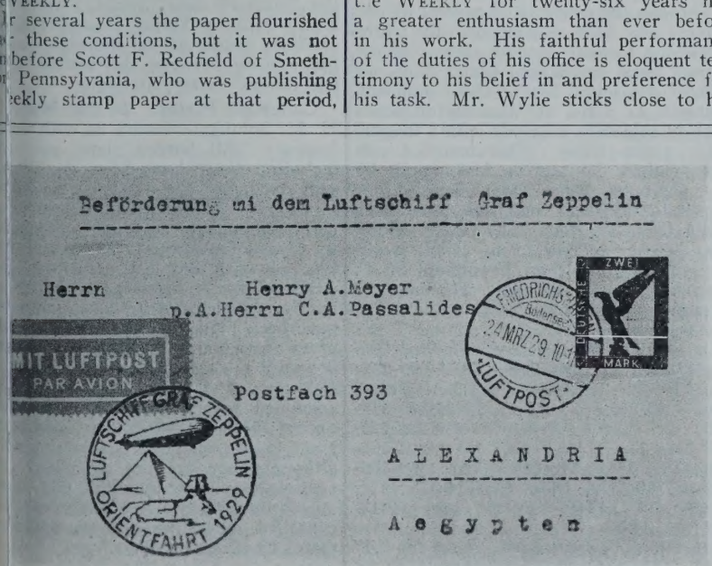
The interests of Mr. Mekeel in a general publishing sense were becoming more and more important and such were the demands made upon his time by affairs of magnitude that he could not give freely of his services to the corporation, although the paper continued to hold its warm place in his affections. It was advisable to re-incorporate the company under Massachusetts laws and publish the WEEKLY from Boston under Mr. Wylie's direction; and it was at this time, or in 1904, that W. W. Jewett entered into a contract with the publishers of the WEEKLY whereby he was to print the paper in his plant at Portland, Maine.

At the death of I. A. Mekeel in 1913, the controlling interest in the company became vested in the estate of I. A. Mekeel and two years later, the two hundred and fifty-one shares were acquired by Messrs. Severn, Wylie and Jewett. Miss Mildred O. Wylie and Wm. K. Jewett subsequently purchased an interest.

Willard O. Wylie, who has distinguished himself as managing editor of the WEEKLY for twenty-six years has a greater enthusiasm than ever before in his work. His faithful performance of the duties of his office is eloquent testimony to his belief in and preference for his task. Mr. Wylie sticks close to his work, but he is known to fame in the political field and on the golf links. He has served as president of the Beverly Board of Aldermen, and during 1925-8 represented Beverly in the Mass. state legislature.

Mr. Jewett's ability as a "boss printer" is shown by the record for typographical cleanliness that he has established in the WEEKLY and his art shows forth in the two-score books, including the Dictionary that the company has published from his shop, one of Portland's best, it is needless to say. The WEEKLY demands a great share of Mr. Jewett's attention, indeed.

Charles E. Severn has grown up with the WEEKLY and knows it in every phase. His long service in the WEEKLY's cause in itself is proof that it is something of a labor of love for him to devote the most of his time to the paper's welfare. Incidentally he has served as president of the Rogers' Park Republican Club and is ex-president of the Business Men's Prosperity Club; treasurer of the Williams, Barker and Severn Co.; ex-president of the Chicago Philatelic Society, and the A. S. D. A.; Fellow of the Royal Philatelic Society, London; and on the Roll of Distinguished Philatelists.



THE RECENT ZEPPELIN FLIGHT

By Donald E. Dickason.

vers from the recent Zeppelin flight have arrived. Franked with the 2 mark stamp, postmarked Friedrichshafen, March 24, backstamped Alexandria, h 28, the covers bear a red cachet showing the Zepp flying over the pyramid. ly watched by the Sphinx. As the ship really did not go to Egypt at all, but alestine, instead, we must conclude that the cachet was made up before the was decided upon.

S. P. A. Branch No. 1

—Passes a Resolution Commending the WEEKLY for this Special Number.

By A. W. Deas, Pres.

At a meeting of N. Y., Branch No. 1 of the S. P. A., held in the Waldorf Astoria in the City of New York on Thursday, April 11, your circular regarding the special number of Mekeel's Weekly Stamp News to be issued May 6th, featuring the Society of Philatelic Americans was read. Realizing the compliment and courtesy your paper is tendering this society, the Branch unanimously instructed me to express its appreciation of the honor you are showing the society and to extend its most hearty thanks for your action.

EYE OPENER NO. 104

The 5c blue Pan-Pacific, #403, is a scarce baby. We purchased our supply of this stamp in 1915 at 5c each, hence we are able to offer you very finely centered full O. G. copies at 60c each or $3.40 per block.

Don't miss this real bargain.

Michigan Stamp & Coin Co.

YES, I DON'T!

Letters like the following come along often enough to keep me cheerful:—

"I have noted your ads for many years and have always hoped the time would come when I could buy some of the fine things you offer. Your last ad says 'priced from a few cents to many dollars'—I always had an idea you dealt only in hundreds."

The idea that I handle nothing but rarities has spread all over creation, including California, and altho I have spent a lot of perfectly good money trying to choke it to death, it seems to bear a charmed life. Probably it will be sitting beside the driver when I'm taken for my last auto ride, about May, 1962.

Speaking of Japan, likely enough I have handled as many Hiogo and Yokohama cancellations on U. S. stamps, both on and off covers, as anyone in the trade, and let me tell you, all the 1869 issue except the 10c belong to the eel family. Hard to grab. Right now I have the only 1c '69 with Jap cancellation that has swum into my net in over twelve years. It is for sale at a reasonable price.

Still they come. Orders for the Jumbo Jr. packet advertised way back in February. (About 50 diff. U. S. postage, cat. $4 to $5, all for a dollar.) It sure is big value for little money.

6c War Dept., 1873 issue, o. g. and wonderfully fine,—single $15, pair $30, strip of four $60. If I had a block of four I might sell it for $250, if I had a customer. Many other fine departments and other U. S. postage, on and off covers roosting here in the w.k. Peach Orchard.

A QUINTETTE OF S. P. A. LEADERS

Wm. Lycett, Secretary and Master of Society detail.
M. Ohlman, Auction Manager and well known N. Y. dealer.
R. C. Bach, Recorder of the Board of Governors.
Maj. Guy W. A. Camp, President, able leader of the S. P. A
Dr. A. E. Hussey, Manager of the Sales Department.

IMPRESSIONS OF OUR PRESIDENT

By ARTHUR W. DEAS,
President Branch 1, S. P. A.

Five or six years ago when I was located in a large office building, my usual method of getting stamps was to go around to the different offices and ask for the stamps on the incoming mail. In one of the offices I met a man who was a stamp collector, and immediately became acquainted with him. He induced me to join the Branch No. 1, of the S. P. A. He told me I would meet a number of members among whom was one who was described with more or less emphasis as being the leading light, and known as Major Camp.

Of course, one always pictures the person he is going to meet, and I was about as far off in my ideas as anything, for when I got to the meeting place, I was immediately able to pick out Major Camp, because he seemed to dominate the whole room. He appeared to be a gentleman of a little more than middle age, slightly grey, with a drooping mustache and a beard, and of a type that is known as "Southern Colonel," although I understand he got his military title in legitimate service to the United States Government.

Afterwards at the meetings, which I attended more or less regularly, I became acquainted with Major Camp, and I found that whenever he got on his feet to talk, his subject was well worth listening to. One of the most remarkable instances related by him was his wonderful research in the stamps of Austria, and the method in which he discovered and proved what the "Watermark" was. If, for nothing else, that research alone should mark him as a leader among stamp collectors.

For the past few years I have been increasing my acquaintance with Major Camp, and I find that he is a many sided man, in stamp societies, clubs, business life, journalism, and in other activities, he is well known and respected. I don't know of any man who can accomplish more by moral suasion or who can take the friction out of a group of men quicker than Major Camp. I think he is a pretty good living example of "An ounce of prevention is worth more than a ton of cure."

I have had the pleasure of being on committees with him in many matters, and I have always been impressed with the wide range of his viewpoint, and his insistence that the proper thing should be done. His policy in managing the society has been conciliatory rather than aggressive. He has often said, "Those who win by fighting always lose."

I believe that in after years his management of the society will be considered of the very highest type. To all those who have the opportunity of making his acquaintance, I suggest that they do so by all means, so that their enjoyment of the hobby may be further increased.

U. S. Plates and Plate Markings

R. A. BRYANT, Editor.
1 Essex St., Winter Hill, Mass.

Readers are requested to send in notes and data on errors, shifts, defects and all plate markings; also color varieties and new numbers for chronicle. The editor will gladly answer all questions on these subjects.

Through the courtesy of several of our readers who have responded to the notice pertaining to plate number stamps of the current issue surcharged Canal Zone, we present our initial list of these numbers. Norman L. Jetto of Washington sends considerable data, together with a lengthy list of plates he has. This combined with our original list sent in last month by Mr. Cadbury, forms the nucleus of our report. Additional numbers have been taken from lists sent in by A. W. Mead, Dr. Fletcher J. Towlerton, C. W. Holliday, Prof. John Ross Frampton, E. F. Newcomer and Major Thomas O. Humphreys, to whom credit is due. The list follows:

1c, 18730-731; 2c, 18809-827-934-986; 5c, 18851.

Our list is by no means complete course many other plates were used. hope, however, with the aid of co readers to obtain all the numbers next copy we will present the po dues and the 1925 provisionals, and also include a list of 1c plates h the "inverted zone" variety, which kindly sent by Major Humphreys. Holliday notes that on the plates h the spacing between the words "C and "Zone" is very irregular.

Cancelled Plates: 5c Air Mail. H. M. Southgate favors us with th lowing: "All border plates up t including 19630 have been cancelle cept 19614-627-629. . . . 14 wil go to press again, but 27 and 29 dou will. Center plates have all been can up to and including 19619, except the boy with the left pane blue which everyone seems to be holdin but from which nearly 40,000 impres have been made. This plate was o press continuously from early in No ber until the last order was complet February, and will probably be combined with all borders above except 19640-641-642-643, which hav gone to press, and probably never although they are not cancelled. possibly may show up with 19571, th one of the first twelve border plates cancelled, outlasting its contempora plates by about ten days."

Mr. John J. Spencer, whose t treatment of the Vincennes issue peared recently in the WEEKLY, sen following helpful survey of the I.C.A.C. commemorative. "While 'Wrights' are still to be had and b more new commemoratives com eclipse the interest in these stamps, suggestions relative to the varieties offer may not be amiss. Printed

Important Purchase

We wish to announce our latest purchase, the collection and entire stock of the late Ludwig Zissler of Philadelphia. This property will catalogue in the vicinity of a quarter of a million dollars ($250,000.00) and is now being arranged with our already large and comprehensive stock of the entire world. Several readers have kindly written suggesting various topics for presentation in our column. One ardent supporter writes: "From purely selfish motives I make the suggestion that along with strictly contemporary articles certain topics from the past be reviewed for the benefit of greenhorns like myself. For example, one number might take up the issue of 1894, another the Omaha, another the I. R. surcharges, postage dues, etc." O. K. with me, Doctor! Our readers and contributors are the ones who are really shaping our policies. We have made several changes from our original plans, and as our main object is primarily to SERVE our readers this action is reciprocal to the splendid coöperation extended to us. Mr. R. W. Becker of the Philatelic Plate Number Association has kindly placed at our disposal a great mass of data pertaining to all Bureau issues. An advisory board of experts is at your command. What is your problem?

OUR BOOK REVIEW

Postage Stamps of the Gold Coast, by H. A. Spowart. Published by Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., London, Eng. Price, 38c. A handsome booklet of 72 pps., convenient in size, 4x6 inches, and No. 1 of what will no doubt be a series of useful guides. The booklet is fully illustrated, and the text is so written that even the beginner will enjoy its companionship.

RUSSELL OF THE PONY EXPRESS

To numbers one and two, volume eight, of the Collectors Club Philatelist, Mr. Victor M. Berthold contributed an article that in addition to its historical value has a wealth of human interest that is not without a romantic blend. The subject of the readable articles which now appear in the form of a monograph of twenty pages and cover is: "William H. Russell, Originator and Developer of the Pony Express." Mr. Russell, whose name is inseparably connected with the Pony Express, experienced many of the moods of circumstance. He was traduced as well as applauded; he was thrown from the lap of affluence into thorns of bankruptcy and all in all, his career was one of contrasts. He is brilliantly defended by Mr. Berthold against the flings of enemies and others, and he is restored to good citizenship, as it were, by the weight of evidence in his favor. When Russell had sunk his fortune in the Pony Express and was awaiting the promised government aid, payment was effected by the delivery of bonds to apply against the subsidy, by accredited officers of the government; and it was found that a trusteeship was violated by the transfer. A scandal resulted that involved Mr. Russell and other government officers, and while an inquiry was instituted at Washington, it never resulted conclusively, so far as any decision affecting Russell was concerned. Mr. Berthold devotes his time to building up a tight case for Mr. Russell. He draws a picture of the times, and stresses the political dissensions as well as the friction resulting from the organization of the southern route, the Butterfield Overland Mail Company, a few days after the Pony Express was started and which soon passed into the hands of Wells Fargo & Co. The story of intrigue, deception and faithlessness that is revealed is based in great part on records of the times, and is presented in orderly fashion; and we are pleased that there is a man such as the author willing to devote himself to the cause of one who deserves well in the thoughts of collectors; and that so convincingly. Mr. Berthold vindicates Russell, and it is evident that few of the contemporaries of the old freighter did not believe in him, since they were always glad to do him honor when occasion allowed. The book is illustrated by pictures of persons and scenes of early western days, which are a decided element of interest. There is a foreword by Mr. Henry C. Needham, student of early American philatelic history, that is more than a preface; it is an analysis by an acute mind of the subject of which Mr. Berthold treats. We thank Mr. Berthold for his book, which is a true picture with a philatelic cast of a fascinating section of American pioneer times.

ANOTHER STEINMETZ AUCTION

AN INTERESTING REVIEW OF PRICES ON DEPARTMENTS, CARRIERS, CONFEDERATES, ETC.

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

On April 17th, the second part of the Steinmetz collection, consisting of U. S. Officials, Carriers, Locals, Confederate States and U. S. Possessions, were sold by Eugene Klein in Philadelphia. The sale was well attended, there being upward of thirty-five present on the floor. The total sale realized $14,325.45, of which over one-half was taken by those present at the sale. Mr. Klein's low bids previous to the sale amounted to $6,263.20, and his high bids—$12,286.85, showing that the floor carried the high bids up considerably. It is getting to be more and more the custom for those who are serious purchasers at auction sales, to be actually represented on the floor, not that reliable dealers are not giving the buyer every possible advantage, but the individual representative is more familiar with the collecting peculiarities of his client, and can examine the lots with his client's likes and dislikes in mind.

Among the Department stamps, Mr. Steinmetz had very little of outstanding importance, with the exception of the several sets overprinted "Specimen." These were quite choice and the set of Agriculture sold at $24.00, the Interior at $130.00, the Justice at $60.00, the Navy at $60.00, the Post Office at $100.00, the State at $38.00, the Treasury, unusually fine, at $120.00, and the War at $80.00. One little cover of outstanding importance was a beautiful 2c Navy, lightly tied to a small envelope with red Washington postmark. While this catalogues but $8.50, it was well worth the $45.00 at which it was sold. The high denomination States, each cancelled with tiny pen marks and off center, sold around half catalogue. A 2c State nicely tied to the cover sold over double catalogue at $24.00. A "Kicking Mule" 2c War on large envelope reached $20.00. Large envelopes generally with the commoner Departments sold at low figures. Mr. Steinmetz possessed an unusually nice lot of department proofs, which throughout brought half catalogue or more.

Among the Carriers, there were three of the Franklin type, of which an unused copy slightly thin, sold at $55.00, a copy on the cover, but not tied, cut into at top, at the same figure, and a copy with red star cancellation, in addition to pen stroke, used on piece of cover, but not tied, reached $150.00. A strip of three of the Eagle Carrier, along with the 3c 1857 on cover, each pencancelled, the former being tied with an Andalusia, Pa., postmark, sold at $80.00. Among the Baltimore Carriers, a beautiful 1c blue No. 1808 tied with a 3c 1857, sold at $67.50. A superb black horseman tied with a 3c 1857, sold at $12.00, whereas the red "sent" error, pencancelled found a new owner at $26.50. A choice Boston 1c blue on bluish tied with two 3c 1857 used to San Francisco, reached more than double catalogue at $44.00, while another copy of the same stamp No. 1815 on cover with a single 3c 1851, brought $21.00.

Among the Charleston Carriers, the 2c "Conovr's" error No. 1824c on cover, with a good portion of one corner gone, sold at $105.00, in spite of the glaring defect. The same stamp normal on cover reached $62.50, while further copies, not so fine, sold at from $12.00 to $25.00. Among the New Yorks, one piece which stood out, insofar as condition is concerned, was a magnificent 1c buff, tied with red New York postmark, cataloguing $12.00. This went into a small, but choice collection of Carriers, at $51.00.

There were several rare Philadelphia Carriers, but in each case, the condition was poor. A 1c No. 1860, rubbed, sold at $107.50, while a dealer purchased the 1c black, No. 1865, with top line partly cut away, at $130.00. An unused copy of the 1c black on sheet margin of the 1851 1c, showing a large portion of imprint, No. 1868, was also purchased by a dealer at $201.00. This was possibly the finest Carrier in the collection.

Among the Locals, in cases where they were tied to the covers, they brought at least full catalogue, and in many cases much more. Where they were not tied or in average condition, they went at smaller fractions of catalogue price.

I have never seen a collection sold where the value of condition was more strongly emphasized then in the sale of the Steinmetz stamps, for a magnificent copy of a variety brought substantial prices, whereas the same identical variety in average condition brought, say a tenth of the former figure.

The Local which reached the highest figure, was the Blood 1843 3c without shading in background, Scott's No. 5261. This sold at $140.00.

Stampless covers with interesting postmarks of the Local days, brought unusually high prices. Nine pieces with Blood marks sold at $30.00. A Clark & Company, 1c red, No. 6468 on piece of cover reached $60.00, while a fine Crosby 2c carmine, No. 6478 cataloguing $15.00, well tied to the cover, reached $41.00. An Eagle City Post 2c black, cut round, tied to a small Valentine cover, No. 6498, sold at $57.50. A Hampton Dispatch Post hand-stamped on letter sheet used from Philadelphia and not listed, reached $37.50.

The Northern Liberties (Philadelphia) hand-stamps of 1836, said to be the earliest example of a Local and from the "Ferrari" collection, sold at prices ranging from $47.50 to $100.00. A Stringer and Morton on cover brought $50.00. One of the surprises among the commoner stamps was to see two unused Westtowns No. 6846, listing at $4.00, and not at all scarce, sell at $17.00.

Western Franks consisting of the 3c envelope with imprints of the Express Companies, sold at prices ranging i $3.00 to $29.00, the latter being paid a Swift & Company, with blue S Rosa and Petaluma cancellations.

Express Labels brought undoubt the highest prices which they have reached. In a lot of twenty covers, a single item sold at less than $1 and one of Hunter and Company, from Mud Springs, Calif., shield sh and stamped on cover, sold at $3 Heretofore these covers have been d ging along at $2.00 or $3.00, with takers, but in the future they will doubt, command substantial prices.

Among the Confederates, there several outstanding pieces, and in case, they brought substantial figures. 10c blue Montgomery, No. 97e, sol $95.00, while the red variety, No. reached $75.00. An 1863 2c red, tie a small cover with Albany, Ga., postm possibly the finest single copy of stamp in existence, cataloguing at $10 sold at $205.00. A second copy of same stamp, described as fine, but at top, sold at $23.00, again bringing the advisability of prime condition "TEN" cents tied to small cover by "Tunnel Hill, Ga.," postmark, rea $167.50. I overlooked mentioning th green tied to a neat cover with "Charlottsville" postmark, which fou new owner at $150.00. The curious 3c envelope used from the Republi Texas and bearing manuscript postr and described on page 30 of the Confederate Hand-Book, went int Philadelphia collection at $30.00.

Among the Colonies, most of the standing pieces were among the Haw Islands. A Cuba 1899 10c Type I worthy of note, for a straight edge sold at $85.00. Provisional Cuban S and Mr. Steinmetz had a large nu of them, sold from $1.50 to $6.00 most of them going into a well-kn New York collection.

The highest priced stamp of the was a Hawaiian 5c Missionary, N originally cut from the cover and replaced, which sold at $1,200.00.

A Congratulatory Letter

WORCESTER, MASS., U. S. A., April 14, 1929.

Dear Mr. Wylie:-

I suppose any member of the "Five Year" (or more) Club is entitled to a chance to congratulate you and your staff on the continued excellence of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY. I venture to assert that there has never been a copy that careful reading would prove wholly valueless, either to professional, general, or specialist collector, or to the beginner.

In fact I think few, if any, periodicals retain this instrinsic value as does MEKEEL'S.

Certainly I know of none that I am sure still hold value in text and often in advertising after a year has passed. But MEKEEL'S handed to interested beginners seems to have value in text and ad columns not only for the year of issue, but often for many years.

This can mean but one thing. Your text is as accurate as the current information will allow, and your advertisers are the stable, conservative, interested kind that try to make inquiries into orders, and small buyers into satisfied clients.

If it were possible to head each ad with a statement and date:-"Advertisers since 190-" your paper would probably lead all on this continent (perhaps all continents) in exhibited continuous service.

That ought to be laurels enough for ANY paper.

Congratulations and best wishes.

Yours, as ever,

FRANK L. COES.

TWO CLEVELAND S. P. A. LEADERS

DR. NORMAN P. McGAY
Pres. Cleveland Stamp Club
Branch No. 8, S. P. A.

HOWARD W. CODDING
Chairman Entertainment Com.
Organizer Branch No. 8

The President and Organizer of Branch No. 8 at Cleveland are unremitting in their efforts to make the Cleveland Convention a most notable one, wherein they are being efficiently assisted by Secretary Walk. We venture the assertion that their efforts will be rewarded by an exceptional attendance.

S. P. A. AT CLEVELAND IN AUGUST

PLANS ARE BEING MATURED FOR THE GREATEST CONVENTION EVER HELD

By H. J. WALK.

Once again Cleveland will occupy the center of the philatelic stage, when the Society of Philatelic Americans holds its annual convention in that city, August 12, 13, 14, 1929.

The Cleveland Stamp Club, Charter Branch number eight, will be the host for the occasion. Not quite a year old, this organization has made rapid progress, now being on a par with clubs established when many of The Cleveland Stamp Club members were much too young to worry about philatelic investment values.

It is hoped that many members of the S. P. A. who heretofore have not attended the annual convention will add their presence to the 1929 Convention. Cleveland is the most centrally located city in the United States. Within an "overnight's" ride of over one-half of the population of the United States and Southern Canada, it is accessible by automobile, motor bus, boat, train or plane.

The Convention Committee has selected the beautiful Hotel Cleveland as Convention Headquarters. Experienced convention goers know the value of staying at the same hotel where the Convention Headquarters are located. Those who are certain to attend the convention, at this date, would do well to make their reservations, early.

For the members of the Society of Philatelic Americans there will be much of interest. Several slates are in the field, at this time, and competition will be keen. Friends of past conventions will renew old acquaintances—new friendships will be formed. The ladies who attend with their husbands or relatives will be entertained by a special committee, appointed for that purpose.

Pleasant trips in and about Cleveland are planned and,—there's a hint that the entertainment committee may arrange for a boat ride on Lake Erie.

A definite program schedule will be released in the Official Program, which will be in the mails about July 9th. A bourse is one of the features that has already been determined upon. Dealers or collectors attending the convention may make arrangements for a table, and this will be their "exclusive territory" for the duration of the meeting.

The Convention auction will be in the hands of the official Society Auctioneer. This is always one of the most entertaining evenings of the S. P. A. conventions.

Another feature which The Cleveland Stamp Club, as the host, is inaugurating is an information bureau. Anyone desiring may write to the Secretary of The Cleveland Stamp Club, Box 2628, Lakewood Station, Cleveland, Ohio, and they will be furnished with train schedules, hotel rates, or any information requested. Just mention the time you would like to start and the number of people in your party.

The Official Program is progressing very satisfactorily. Mr. Howard W. Codding, the editor, has received contracts for many of the choice positions. A circular will be sent to dealers as a last minute warning to those who have neglected to send in their contract or copy. Those interested in the Official Program may secure the advertising rates by writing Mr. H. W. Codding, at 2503 East 86th Street, Cleveland, Ohio.

"S. P. A. --- FIRST ISSUE, 1894"

STORY OF THE BEGINNINGS OF THIS GREAT PHILATELIC BODY

By J. Hugh Conley, S. P. A. No. 2 (Albany, Georgia).

d you ever have a long-lost and for- n child, and upon being reminded t, find upon inquiry that you were tly the lost and forgotten member of family, and the child was a grown of world-wide fame? If so, you imagine the thrill which came to few years ago when I asked some- if he had ever heard of the South- Philatelic Association!

responding to the Managing Editor's est for a story of the founding of splendid organization which is being red by this special edition of the Weekly I loved while in my early s, it is necessary—or at least more enient—to write in a personal vein. grew up in a small Alabama town, few playmates near my age, and enhanced a natural aptitude for the ed page and resting in the shade, so before I was twelve years old I was practically no supervision running ost office and railroad station. Hand- postage due and newspaper stamps bserving postmarks of distant places o my answering an ad in Youths' panion by C. A. Stegman of St. s (who is still in the business, tho and infirm). Gradually, through mation furnished by sundry dealers copies of Mekeel's and other pub- ons I learned of boy collectors in by counties and States, and corre- dence for exchange purposes devel- a number of highly prized "mail -" friendships. In due time the of better means of contact im- ed itself upon me and it was prob- in the latter part of 1893 that I some of my correspondents that ught to have a society of our own; A. P. S. did not especially welcome rs and besides wanted a dollar down a dollar a year, which would buy a lot of good stamps. This thought was rapidly developed by several interested fellows, so that after much interchange of suggestions we effected a formal organization under date of Feb. 1, 1894. At that time I was 15 years of age.

One of the most active fellows, who had amassed a wonderful collection of 1,100 varieties, was older than most of us, and consented to take the lead as President and principal organizer. I cheerfully conceded to him the honor of being listed as No. 1, and was awarded the next number and the treasurership.

I have before me Vol. 1, No. 1 of "The Dixie Philatelist—official organ of the Southern Philatelic Association; a monthly magazine for stamp collectors", dated March, 1894. Eight pages, eight by five and one-half inches, with the President-elect's portrait on the front cover. I have been impressed with the thought that stamps have assisted in developing the brain of many a boy, and the "Dixie" is splendid evidence in this connection. The first Secretary, Ben Russell, whose home was in a town of only a few hundred people, felt the need of an official journal; none was at hand, so he produced one upon his own responsibility and carried it forward successfully for several years, when he sold his interests to someone at, I believe, Charleston, S. C. The point is that now—though he dropped stamps many years ago—Ben is the proprietor, so to speak, of his old home town, controlling banks, cotton mills, iron mills, lumber mills, farms and what not—and largely so that the people of his county may prosper without the necessity of going far afield. Who knows what part stamps played in his development?

The charter members are listed in this first official journal, as follows: 1, J. M. Chappell, Jr., Macon, Miss.; 2, J. H. Conley, Munford, Ala.; 3, A. M. Rareshide, New Orleans, La.; 4, L. W. Hummer, Macon, Miss.; 5, J. C. Chappell, Macon, Miss.; 6, I. L. Dorroh, Macon, Miss.; 7, Ben Russell, Alexander City, Ala.; 8, M. C. Harris, Galveston, Texas; 9, G. L. Rivers, New Orleans, La.; 10, Edgar Pilie, Jr., New Orleans, La.; 11, W. J. Luce, New Orleans, La.; 12, R. L. Heustis, Mobile, Ala.; 13, W. J. Coley, Alexander City, Ala.; 14, B. C. Harris, Dahlonega, Ga.; 15, Miss May Abadie, New Orleans, Ga.

These charter members were called upon to remit 10 cents initiation fee and 25 cents annual dues. Coupled with this was a general invitation, with the positive notice that only "members residing in the States of Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Georgia, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Texas, Tennessee and Virginia will be active members; all others passive. No passive

THE Society of Philatelic Americans is an organization that has had a colorful career, but which now merits the purple award of success. It is recognized as a society that is filling acceptably a broad field in the philatelic area, due in great measure to the captaincy of able and intelligent men, with a fine sense of duty, who have spared no efforts in its upbuilding. When, at times in the past, there were divisions of opinion as to what course to pursue, in cases of emergency, there always were leaders who sternly dismissed any proposals that were not based on fairness and honesty, and adhered to just measures. By having emerged from difficulties with a stainless banner, the society gained the respect of those who observed the trials of the past, and the result is that today, the Society of Philatelic Americans is known the world over as an organization that deserves the regard of the collector.

* * *

WHILE the S. P. A. was organized as a sectional society in 1894, called the Southern Philatelic Society, it soon outgrew geographical suggestions and became a national body. Finally, the name, Society of Philatelic Americans, was bestowed on the society, as best typifying its principles and personnel, and incorporated in 1923, the S. P. A. has hewed to the line until it has become eminent in its class. There is a distinctive quality to the society that may be well described by the term, popular. While advanced students of the pursuit are largely represented in the membership, yet the general character of the members is such that one thinks of it as representing the substance of collecting, rather than the supercifialities. The roll of members reveals a solid interest in real collecting and embraces a division comprised of philatelists who are intent on stamps and attend to them whole-heartedly. The place of the S. P. A. is secure, and it has all the essentials of a body that will endure. The perplexities of the past have been solved, and through the experience gained by piloting the society through troubled waters, the grasp of the helmsmen is now unrelaxing and expert. The future of the Society of Philatelic Americans is promising, and the growth of the body will be augmented now that the conviction prevails that the society is working out a destiny that will make history for philately. The leadership in the S. P. A. is such as to ensure a shining success.

WE are informed by Mr. Charles J. Rose that on July 13, 1929, Mexico will issue a set of stamps for air mail use to commemorate Emilio Carranza, the good-will flyer, who was killed on his flight to the United States. The values of the set are: 5, 10, 15, 20, 50c and $1. It is understood that the set will be on sale for a limited time, only.

INFORMATION comes that the American Philatelic Exhibition Committee has been busy with the work of planning for the operation of stamp exhibitions. at least on a modest scale, in conjunction with the annual conventions of the American Philatelic Society. This committee consists of Messrs. Mosler, Lichtenstein and Clark, as representing the American Philatelic Society, the Association for Stamp Exhibitions and the American Stamp Dealers' Association, respectively, and it is supposed that its findings will govern the coming exhibition at Minneapolis, which is to be under the auspices of the American Philatelic Exhibition Committee. Mr. Harry M. Konwiser says: "Through the work of a committee of five, exhibition matters have been discussed to the point of producing a definite, standard number of groups for stamp shows, with an efficient means of selecting winning collections in groups and champions in classes, such as employed at dog and horse shows, etc., and giving the average collector a chance at a first. It is expected that for all approved shows, the judging in any one class will be done by one man. This style of judging is current in all sorts of competitions, and when responsibility is pinned down on one man, there is apt to be a studied, serious effort to arrive at just conclusions. This method is an approved form over the sytem of 'many judges'. The arrangement of the classes, judging, rules and other details for the proposed activities were made by Hugh M. Clark, Chairman; F. R. Squiers, H. M. Konwiser, J. A. Klemann, Walter Scott and C. J. Phillips." Here we have minds that are trained and practical working on a plan to encourage the participation of collectors who ordinarily do not feel that the rules are such as to invite their coöperation. Exhibitions through their regulations should have a wide appeal for the active support of collectors, and should be conceived with the idea of making them popular rather than exclusive. We believe that the report of the committee will provide a safe foundation on which to build stamp exhibitions in the future; and further, that they will encourage the holding of them.

As this is to be the 2000th number, it is quite fitting that a Group of Patriotic Cancellations be shown, and these are placed before you in celebration of Mekeel's 2000th issue.

No. 1 is the best of the Flag types I have seen, as it shows the stars and several bars, though not enough to be correct today. No. 2 is a curious enough cancellation. It is a fairly clear design, and am wondering how many of the readers have this cancellation on any stamp? It is quite genuine and authentic, and a very unusual cancellation.

No. 3 was shown me by Mr. Reynolds who was touring with the Governor's party as they went on a tour during the chilly days of an early spring. It is also very unusual, and I have never yet seen one all hit on the stamp. The remainder are not exactly common, and they are very handsome items when found, cleanly struck, on a neat, clean cover.

Since listing some of the imprints which occur on the edges of Patriotic Covers, many have sent me their lists, and I have checked them up as best I could in a hurried way. Some have the same names, but with different set-ups of typing, and with different initials, or names, etc., etc.

My idea was not so much the correctness and listing of all small terms of variance, as to get a list of "who and where" the Patriotics were printed and sold. In the East we do not find some of the covers at all, which were common to Chicago, for example—meaning in unused Patriotics, for the used ones went to all points of the U. S. A., and a few to foreign shores, with a liberal sprinkling to Canada.

As these unused Patriotics were expensive if of the "hand painted" style, as Magnus, many were saved in this unused form, as they were "too nice to write on". You have doubtless found covers wherein the writer refers to the design of their Patriotic envelope? I have seen several such letters. Also there were some writers who added little mss. notes in addi-

Postage Stamp Album

By Luella Danforth.

O, come you dear Postage Stamp Album!
Now take me far away with you,
For I am alone,—and so weary!

Let us journey through dear, old New England!
Where the wild flowers riot in blooming,
And the purple hills in the distance,
Rest the eyes with their beauty;
With the rocks and green grass in the pastures,
Make a picture in sunlight and shadow.

O, come you dear Postage Stamp Album,
Take me West, over rolling plains, dreary,
Where horses are raised in great numbers;
Where vast lands are covered with grain-fields,
Giving life to American tables!

O, farther, dear Postage Stamp Album,
Let us fly in our giant air mail plane
Over masses of flowers in sunshine,
To the Golden Gate of our country,
And then to the land of Columbus,
With gondolas, quietly creeping,
And buildings, so quaint and bright colored;
Such a picturesque country and restful.

O, thanks, you dear Postage Stamp Album!
My soul comes back rested and strengthened.

Likes and Dislikes

By Edwin S. MacCorkell.

There was published on this page a little while ago a request for readers to send in their likes and dislikes of this magazine.

I am glad to say that I have no dislikes. Sometimes there are things I can't understand, Sevard's "Twinkles" for instance, I can't get "onto" it very well.

I like to read the "Precancel Review," Mr. Ward's "Chronicle of New Issues and Varieties," the articles on "Stampless Covers and Cancellations," "Filatelic Fun Forum," and everything on the "Junior Page."

NEW SPANISH EXHIBITION STAMPS

Removing Paper From Stamps

A subscriber writes: "Will you please tell me the best way to get paper from the back of stamps with the least harm to the gum and color? I find that the color often fades when soaked in water and there is probably a better way to proceed." First of all, it should be said that soaking or complete immersion of the stamp in water should not be resorted to; this rule is born of extreme caution as it is known that many inks are slightly soluble and that water from different localities has varying effect. To be on the safe side it is best not to soak any stamp. Wet blotting paper pressed against the stamps will dampen and loosen the superfluous paper without affecting the delicate color of the stamp. When adhering bits of paper are on the backs of unused stamps, they should be dampened without touching the gum with water and removed before the moisture wholly scatters the gum. Pains and patience are necessary for the success of this work. One well-known collector handles a sharp knife so skilfully that he scrapes the old hinges off the gum side of an unused specimen without disturbing the gum.

AFGHANISTAN

By STANLEY PHILLIPS.

Here is another country whose stamps will now attract increased attention, as Afghanistan has recently joined the Postal Union. The European tour of King Amanullah has given his country a good advertisement and a number of stamp collectors are already interested in the modern issues of Afghanistan. I mention the modern issues particularly, as the early circular stamps have already been carefully studied by the philatelic pioneers, notably Sir David Masson, whose book on these issues is a philatelic classic.

These early stamps are rather unattractive to the average collector but the modern ones have designs more intelligible to the European eye. Starting with the reign of King Habibullah (issue of 1907 to issue of 1919) the stamps have a definite armorial motif, while the designs of the present reign are sometimes pictorial in character, though the fact that they are printed locally prevents them from reaching a very high technical standard.

The only thing which need be noted concerning the stamps of King Habibullah, is that certain supplies have been coming from India recently, at comparatively low prices, due to the liquidation of post office stocks (with or without official authority). These supplies now seem to be nearly exhausted, but their appearance has provided the necessary material for a study of the dozen or so stamps of Habibullah, with their varieties. It is worth noting that the stamps of Afghanistan in modern times are nearly always printed in very small sheets, ranging from four to twenty-five or thirty stamps, so that it is quite possible to obtain complete sheets for purposes of study, without a very great expenditure.

The first issue of stamps in King Amanullah's reign consisted of three very large stamps in an armorial design. These are very scarce used, and practically unobtainable in unused condition. No doubt they were found to be too large for practical purposes as the normal correspondence envelope used in the country is quite a small one. The size of the design was therefore considerably reduced, and this small sized issue is a very fascinating one from the philatelic point of view. Numerous shades are found, and of some values there are several settings, often showing distinct type variations in the design. Not less interesting are the Parcel Post stamps of the same period, which show a view of the Ministry of Education at Kabul. Here again, various types and settings may be noted.

Apart from the regular stamps, each year witnesses the issue of a special stamp in honour of the anniversary of the accession of the present King. Curiously enough, those responsible for designing these stamps made an error in their chronology, indicating that the stamp of 1924 commemorated the sixth anniversary, and so on. In 1927, however, the error was discovered, so that both the 1926 and the 1927 stamps are inscribed relatively to the eighth anniversary, the latter being correct.

For further information concerning these interesting issues of Afghanistan, the reader is referred to the volumes of the Philatelic Journal of India and to Vol. 1 of Gibbon's Stamp Monthly, in both of which articles and correspondence have appeared.

It should be noted that the most recent stamps of Afghanistan have the value denoted in a new currency, "pouls." The earlier values had, for the first time, European inscriptions (in English), but stamps issued in mid-1928 were inscribed in French. The difficulty in getting Afghanistan stamps is not quite so great as in the case of Abyssinia. Small supplies come through Afghan merchants in Peshawar, India, but as the country becomes modernised it is probable that it will become safe to send remittances direct to the Post Office at Kabul. At present the best collections of these stamps are being formed by British officers on the Indian frontier.—Filatelia.

SPECIALISTS

We carry an extremely large stock of the early issues of the World. This includes Classics in imperf. pairs, Proofs, Essays, Superb Single Copies, Rare Cancellations, etc.

If specialists would kindly give the name of the country they collect and the type of material in which they are interested, we are sure we could produce some unusual items.

Correspondence and want lists are solicited.

FIRST FLIGHT COVERS
DIRECT TO YOU

Each time that a new city is added to our wonderful air mail system, the Government provides the postmaster of the new-comer with a special first flight cancellation, which is applied to all letters mailed the first day. The collecting of these first flight, or first day, covers, with their official cachets, has developed into one of the most popular branches of present-day philately. The Government has done a great deal for the hobby by varying style, size and color of the cancels, so as to make them especially attractive.

These Government cachets are not to be associated with the many rubber stamps which are being used by contractors, chambers of commerce, clubs, individuals, etc., for application to covers in connection with some more or less important local event. In the years to come, the covers bearing the private rubber stamps are very likely to fall by the wayside, but the thousands of collectors of officially recognized covers (those which bear the official cancellations) assure the continued popularity and increasing value of the latter.

If you are not collecting first flight air mail covers, now is the time to start, while all of the varieties are still available. If you have been attempting to make your own first flight covers, now is the time to stop,—and let us prepare the covers for you. We can do a better job. We guarantee that each cover will reach you and replace any that go astray en route to you.

At a charge of ONLY 20c PER COVER, including all postage, we will address and mail direct to you a first flight cover from each city of the U. S. as it is added to the air mail system. These covers consist of air mail envelopes with red and blue borders. The envelopes are six inches long, the popular, neat, small size which takes up a minimum space in your album. They are franked with picked copies of air mail stamps. We use no stamps that are damaged or have straight edges.

A deposit of $2.00 is all that is necessary to bring you this service. You pay for the covers after you receive them. When you stop the service, the deposit is sent back to you.

Just send two dollars and say that you want service "D." With the next air mail route started after receipt of your deposit, you will begin to enjoy the thrills provided by first flight covers,—Government-recognized mementos of the history and romance of the commercial conquest of the air.

Air Mail News

BY DONALD E. DICKASON,
Wooster, Ohio

(This department covers air mail news from the purely philatelic standpoint. Coöperators will find their names listed each week. If your letter calls for a reply please enclose a stamped, addressed envelope. This is your department, so make your contribution as generous as possible.)

This may be a free ad, but it's for the benefit of the readers of this department. I've just discovered an air mail cover album that strikes me as about the most satisfactory for all purposes that I have seen. It's permanently bound, about 12x16, and is so constructed that when filled with covers it does not bulge, but lies flat. The page is wide enough to mount several covers side by side in each of the 8 pockets on the page without hiding the important parts of the covers. This album is made to order by the Rev. C. L. Young, York, Neb., at a price of $6.00, and if it sounds good to you, get in touch with him direct.

Official Flights

My mistake. I said a few weeks ago that the Pan-American Airways were sending 5 covers to each applicant who ordered that many. As a matter of fact, one local collector got five about two weeks before the rest were sent out. The regular distribution has since taken place, and most of us got one, with a few being allotted two covers.

*****

As announced in the "Stop Press" last week, Springfield, Ohio, goes on CAM 16 May 1st.—R. B. Bryant, 6346 Malabar St., Huntington Park, Cal., is looking for Mexico, No. 711 on first flight cover, or Merida-Vera Cruz first flight. Write him if you have either to dispose of. * * * Advance information, necessarily not final, is to the effect that the June 1st extension to Portland will include only the former cities of the route, Salt Lake City, Boise, and Pasco. Probably no cachets from them, but you know what happened recently on CAM 27.

*****

I recently made mention of air mail from the Pensacola Naval Air Station. This proves to have been emergency service from there to Mobile during the recent flooded conditions. Word didn't get out much till it was all over, and the local postmaster had a big job returning covers. March 17 was last trip.

The late Brownsville business has brought in enough variations from normal to fill a book. Mail has come through with only 5 or 10 centavos postage; cachet on northbound mail applied at Brownsville was magenta in practically every case, including mail returned to the P. M. there for cachet before the P. O. D. announcement from Washington; cachet was also applied as a backstamp to some mail from the north; the Washington cachet was in black only; southbound covers cancelled either 9th or 10th; cover returned for cachet had the cancellation of the 10th struck out, and one of the 9th applied; covers northbound cancelled the 10th backstamped the 9th; covers from Dallas the 8th, in to Brownsville the 9th; northbound covers with the southbound cachet; covers with both north and southbound cachets on the same cover; and finally those 3 sacks of mail for Mexico City that turned up out in the wing of the plane a month after the first flight took place. These were all backstamped as of the first flight, in spite of the month's difference in time. See last week's "Stop Press" for more details. If we get these all listed in the catalog, complete representation will take some hunting. And just as I write this, the mail arrives, and two folks report letters mailed from Mexico City long after the first flight date, but all fixed up with the special cachet, just the same.

Mexican air mail Matamoras-Mazatlan route tried to open March 9. Plane got as far as Monterey, and was stopped by the revolutionary activities. Complete route started over again April 8. Covers mailed March 9th were held at Monterey and delivered a month later, so backstamped.

Western Air Express sponsored just about the neatest anniversary mail yet seen. It is in the form of a cartograph, or picture map of Southern California, showing the air lines to all points of interest. The specially prepared envelope commemorates the 3rd air mail anniversary, April 17th.

Lots of work if you're going to keep up this summer.

Donald Levy shows me a cover carried on the Goodyear baby blimp, the Puritan, on its first delivery trip to Youngstown. Bears that statement, signed by Jack Boettner, Pilot. Dropped over Youngstown, and postmarked there. Nice, even though unofficial.

St. Cloud, Minn., will dedicate May 23-25, no word as to cachet. * * * Watertown, S. D., is scheduled soon, with a big celebration which may include a cachet. * * * Great Falls, Mont., C. of C. returns covers sent them, saying that a change in their local airport may take place, but will not involve any formal dedication. * * * I have yet to find out what those covers from Bellows Falls on March 28 are all about. The Sec. of the C. of C. says any airport dedication is still far in the future. * * * Ellensburg, Wash., held an impromptu Aviation Celebration on the arrival of four barnstorming planes, and a cachet was fixed up and used on air mail April 18 and 19.

*****

Red Bank Air Races, Inc., are in charge of the Air Races to be held at Red Bank, N. J., July 3, 4, 5 and 6, and they will handle covers and apply a special cachet. * * * The Aeronautic Division of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers will apply in St. Louis, May 27-30, a special cachet air mail, which will be used in connection with the third International Aeronautic Assembly. The Post Office Dept. has recognized this as a major event by approving the use of special advertising slogan cancellations over the counter previous to its opening. Covers may be sent to the above organization, % St. Louis Air Board, 511 Locust St.

*****

Pardon us! The address for Mercer Airways, Inc., seems to have appeared recently as Charlotte, La., instead of Chalmette, which is correct. This in connection with a coming dedication. * * * Grinnell, Iowa, is preparing a field but don't send covers yet. A cachet will be used, and local collectors will keep in touch at the proper time. * * * Swansboro, Va., dedicates July 4, with a likely cachet by the C. of C.

*****

National Parks Airways, Inc., contractors of the Salt Lake City-Twin Falls route are preparing a special cachet for use on all air mail originating cities on that route May 20, Lindbergh Day. They'll look after covers sent them at Salt Lake City, and reasonably suggest that covers be either stuffed to bulge or left open so that they may do it. * * * Goldendale, Wash., will not dedicate for some time, but planned a special cachet for their air circus April 24th. Info came too late, unfortunately. * * * Hutchinson, Kansas, C. of C. are receiving covers. * * * New Orleans receives covers; no dedication till 1930.

*****

Somebody who forgot to put in his name, sends a beauty from Lexington, Mass., April 19, commemorating the battle of the Revolution at Lexington 154 years ago. I'd like to know more about this one. * * * And here's another one that has me guessing. Covers sent to Monroe, La., supposedly for a dedication, have come in dated April 17, with a blue cachet, "Annual Meeting Petit Jury Assn. of Louisiana—Selmon Park —Monroe, La.—April 17, 1929", and signed by the president of that organization. Different, to say the least.

U. S. Civil War Revenues

A FEW BRIEF NOTES RELATING TO SOME OF THE MORE IMPORTANT DEVELOPMENTS DURING THE PAST YEAR

By Henry L. Dean, 239 Windsor Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Recognizing that the majority of collectors interested in a specialized line are not, by reason of their location or daily tasks, favorably situated for an intensive application to their hobby, and realizing the advantages accruing to one dwelling in the center of stampic activities it has been my purpose to pass along about once a year such Revenue information and data of importance as is unlikely to otherwise reach the average student. To be sure my conception of the degree of importance may differ widely from that of others, but personally I am not disposed to give serious attention to such things as minute "shifts", real or otherwise, stitch watermarks, or errors in surcharges of the later issues, but will confine my task to a consideration of rare blocks of the first issue, Imperforate and Part-Perforate and the Inverted Heads.

For any not intimately and actively in touch with the subject it is very difficult to properly appraise or determine the real merit of blocks, and whenever they reach the uninformed the invariable result is the establishment of such fantastic ideas of values as to make them unsalable. Possibly, therefore, these notes may partially clarify the situation.

50c Entry of Goods
Part-Perforate

Although considerably rarer in multiple than several other of the 50c titles, "Entry" nevertheless exists in a fair number of pairs, hence I was not surprised last fall to secure a fine block of six (2x3), although it had previously been unknown and unlisted in the Specialized. Still it is my firm conviction that practically all of the 50c, as well as the 25c and $1.00 titles, will eventually be better known in block form, for the bulk are common in singles, and where this condition prevails the larger multiples can confidently be expected to be found. That is why I always counsel against unduly high or fanciful prices for blocks of "cheap" stamps, which possibly may be "unique", but probably are not. I paid $80.00 for the block of six Entry to balance a deal, but this is 40% beyond my valuation.

50c Lease
Imperforate

A block of this stamp is mentioned, but unpriced, in the Specialized, which is difficult to account for since it has long been known. Mr. White had one in one of his earlier collections more than ten years ago. Considered in relation to the 50c Conveyance and Mortgage blocks, neither of which has sold anywhere near their list, I should value a block of four of Lease at about $40.00. Six months ago a block of six (3x2) came to light locally.

50c Life Insurance
Imperforate

Why a block of four is priced at $250.00 is one of the unexplained mysteries as there has never been a sale at anywhere near this ridiculous level to support it. A friend of mine has blocks of four and of twelve (4x3) and there has very recently turned up a block of 24 (12x2) together with an accompanying strip of twelve that fits the block. In addition I have been told of another block held in the West, not quite as large, but of course uninteresting at current quotations.

50c Probate of Will
Imperforate

Although the catalogue price of a block of four has been reduced by $50.00 from last year's quotation, there is still room to drop it $150.00 more in order to reach a reasonable level for the transaction of business. I know of four pieces personally, one of which is my own block of six, which cost $30.00 last year. Perhaps you will infer from this that it came from the "sticks", but if so you're wrong, it came from one of the largest and best known dealers here. There is another large block known in Ohio, so sensible consideration of all the factors should lead to a block price of not over five times the list for the singles.

$1.00 Lease
Imperforate

Another unpriced block and hence the cause of unwarranted jubilation last year by a party who thought he had secured a unique item. He is wrong, for I have long known of a fine "four" in a collection, while a "six" more recently came out in Detroit. Speaking of these $1.00 titles I notice that the Foreign Exchange and Inland are both unpriced. Arthur Ballard had the former, and I have a block of six of the latter.

$1.00 Power of Attorney
Imperforate

For a long time I was foolish enough to think that perhaps I had the only block of this stamp, i.e., a piece of ten subjects (5x2), but I have been brought back to earth by advices from an old collector that he has a block of twenty (4x5). Every time it is the same story which proves the necessity of years of wide research before seriously attempting the pricing game. The only $1.00 blocks really worth considering as of major importance are the Life and Passage Ticket, the former title in fact being very difficult to secure in a clean, sound and four margined pair.

$20.00 Probate of Will
Imperforate

While no new piece of Probate has developed, this appears a timely point to record the existence of a horizontal strip of six inasmuch as a sort of legend persisted in many quarters that all known pieces were vertical. This information should temper the price demands of those who may later acquire horizontal pieces and restrain them from displaying their ignorance by making claims of a unique item. It is an overworked term so loosely used as to generally be discredited.

$25.00 Mortgage
Imperforate

Another new strip of four came on the market last fall, but new only in the sense that it was released from an old but well-known collection. While fairly presentable in appearance it had numerous defects, and though somewhat flatteringly described in an auction, brought only $90.00. As against this I have sold two superb horizontal pairs at $225.00 each.

$50.00 U. S. I. R.
Imperforate

A notable new item in this stamp is a block of fourteen, six horizontally by two deep, with a pair of wing stamps at one corner and another block of six in the lot. This naturally is a fine piece, but as is to be expected this stamp is commonly found in multiple, and I personally know of six blocks of four and one of twelve, to say nothing of numerous strips. A fine "four" I consider worth $100.00, although the last two sold here brought considerably less, so I was really amused at the intimation that the block of fourteen could be secured for $1,500.00. Needless to say it has never been sold, for the most optimistic could not visualize over $500.00 in the piece.

15c Third Issue
Inverted Head

The story of the latest find of this stamp reads like fiction since it was discovered in the otherwise worthless collection of a poor boy here, who was ignorant of its value or importance. The copy was poorly centered, thin and creased, but was sold by J. C. Mc thau for $1,100.00. This is now seventh copy which I can accoun and the fifth I have personally see it is still the third rarest of the I on the basis of present data.

2c Proprietary
Inverted Head

The last time I wrote up the rarities" in Inverts stress was lai the fact that this 2c was the sleep the group, and the catalogue did n flect its value. My statement that i then worth $750.00 prompted a hol let me have a beautiful used exampl which I am going to receive $1,000. hold indefinitely. I know of just copies today, the same number as o $2.50 invert, one more than of th mentioned above, and only two than of the 3c Proprietary, and in parison with the latter do not co that known quantities of 8 and 6 re itvely justify a $2,000.00 differenti the prices.

The above list embraces all of the worth-while items directed to my a tion during the past year, and no will be surprising to many as reve that finds of these old stamps are being made so long after the Civil period. I am confident, however, there are still masses of documen be unearthed in old lawyers' offices, i county court records throughout country, in the possession of va railroads, in the vaults of Life Insu companies, in banks and private and as such turn out periodically I be pleased to be informed of any o better stamps or preferably pieces develop. Friendly coöperation these lines will make possible the tinuation of these notes.

Harry Lindquist: A special selection of most interesting pages from his superb collection of Norway.

John Nicklin: A portion of the fine collection of United States Proofs kindly loaned by our member, Beverly King.

Charles J. Phillips: The first volume of the well-known collection of Hawaii formed by the Hon. E. R. Ackerman, which he recently acquired and to which he has added largely.

O. G. Reichelt: A collection of Papua and Seychelles.

Ferrars H. Tows showed Hayti, first two issues plated, a very complete collection in magnificent condition, all plates almost complete unused and used with a grand lot of covers and rare cancellations.

In addition to those displaying, Elliott Perry and E. J. Milliken of the Collectors Club were present, but did not exhibit. After the displays were over adjournment was made to the dining room where a buffet supper was served.

During supper our president in a charming speech expressed to the members of the Fort Orange Stamp Club and to Mr. Peltz in particular the most sincere thanks for their hospitality and kindness, and for the warmth of their reception. He hoped that when the members paid their return visit to New York they would come in large numbers and not be afraid to make small displays because it had often been found that the small displays of even common stamps, when well studied, were full of interest.

Towards one o'clock in the morning our kind hosts drove most of us to the Fort Orange Club where we were put up as guests for the evening. So ended one of the most enjoyable Inter Club visits that has taken place.

are glad to announce the arrival
n Chicago of Mr. C. F. Adams his extended trip abroad. He was senger on the Pennland, which was ened by giant icebergs off the Grand Banks of Newfoundland, and narrowly escaped destruction.

WE have received cartographs commemorating Southern California's third air mail anniversary, April 17, 1929, from Mr. Robert M. Storms, Glendale, California, and several other friends in California.

WE advise Mr. T. M. Tracy, Cincinnati, that in a departmental order dated March 26, 1929, the third assistant postmaster general said: "Postage stamps may be properly cancelled without disfiguring the stamps. Care should be taken not to cause disfigurement of postage stamps having philatelic value."

THE menu of the annual banquet of the Philatelic Club, Los Angeles, California, which was held recently was made attractive by a block of four Clark commemorative, cancelled to order, in green, "Sandberg, April 8, 1929, Cal.", evidently through the instrumentality of Mr. Sandberg, the P. M. of Sandberg. Los Angeles wants the A. P. S. convention in 1932.

THE Associated Press dispatch telling of the exhibit of Mr. Hind's British Guiana at the Le Havre, France, international philatelic exhibition, under date of April 15th, appeared in scores of newspapers, whose readers may marvel at the existence of a "$50,000 stamp."

MR. J. NICHOLS, New Brunswick, New Jersey, writes: "While passing through Molly Pitcher's stamping-ground recently, I paused a moment and snapped a few shots of Molly's Well, the only one and original well. I send one of the pictures. The well stands on an embankment of the railroad, and is viewed by thousands who pass by rail or auto; and it is a Mecca for out-of-town visitors." We thank Mr. Nichols for the snapshot of "Molly Pitcher's Well, Freehold, N. J."

A THOUSAND SIMILAR BARGAINS IN OUR NEW FREE 30-PAGE LIST

Everything guaranteed genuine forever. All stamps in perfect condition. Anything not satisfactory may be returned for immediate refund. We pay the postage on orders of $1 up. Prices good 60 days.

PLEASE NOTE: Customers are reminded that at these incomparably low prices we shall be sold out of many of these items in a short time, and if possible, we request a small supplementary order. All orders will be filled, no matter how small, if accompanied by postage, but as such orders are filled at an actual loss to us, we request that you send an order of at least $1, if possible. We have approvals of similar materials in all countries if you are interested and send references.

NO STAMPS HANDLED EXCEPT THOSE OF PERFECT QUALITY.

PRICES

These Prices Cancel All Previous Quotations.

While the prices on this list are based on the actual cost and on prevailing market quotations in Europe, they are quoted only for stamps on hand at the time of printing this list. In view of the fact that a new supply of any of the items may cost more or less than the old stock, the right is necesarily reserved to change prices without previous notice.

ALL PRICES ARE NET. POSTAGE FREE.
If Desired By Registered Mail 15c Extra.

In order to avoid the delay necessary for inquiries about references, remittances are requested with orders. Orders are usually filled and mailed the same day they are received.

Cash is refunded for any item not on hand at the receipt of your order. Money will likewise be returned for any item not satisfactory, provided it is returned immediately after receipt.

Bridgeport (Conn.) Philatelic Club

A VETERAN STAMP CLUB THAT HAS ALL THE LIVELINESS OF YOUTH

By R. S. FOSTER, Sec.

FRED J. WIELER, Pres.

The Bridgeport Philatelic Club was organized in 1892, and is still going strong—in fact stronger than ever—having a membership at the present time of forty-two.

Mr. Wieler, the present president, has been in office for the past three years, and bids fair to hold it until he wishes to give it up.

We are extremely fortunate in having good club rooms, meeting in the auditorium of the Welfare Building every Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, where a short business meeting is held and then turned over to the auctioneer. A short and snappy auction is held after each meeting.

The Club still numbers among its very active members two who were with it at the start in 1892. August Munch, who was secretary for over 20 years, and Jas. A. Loveland, a British Colonial enthusiast. Just recently we lost one of our standbys, Dr. W. C. Bowers.

The present officers are: President, Fred J. Wieler; 1st Vice-Pres., Geo. Gordon, Jr.; 2nd Vice-Pres., Gordon Taylor; Sec'y & Treas., R. S. Foster, 1604 Laurel Ave., Bridgeport, Conn.

The Bridgeport Philatelic Club extends a cordial invitation to any and all philatelists to stop in and visit if in the neighborhood.

Lauren Tremper exhibited his collection of Bureau Prints. Of the 1342 varieties, he has 1134. Dr. E. Lindauer showed some unusual covers. Dr. Mitchell showed a number of interesting U. S. covers with unusual cancellations.

C. C. SYLVESTER, Sec.

WORCESTER AT PROVIDENCE

Four members of the Worcester Stamp Society visited the Rhode Island Society, April 23, and entertained the local body. Marcus W. White showed U. S. Envelopes, and in volume after volume discoursed upon dies, denominations and colors. The mounting was attractively done, and all-in-all the exhibit was keenly enjoyed.

W. H. COLWELL.

SEEVER ARRESTED

An elderly man complaining of bad eyesight, very stooped, was arrested, and was held on the complaint of the Reliant Stamp Company. There has been a party of this description making an annual trip through this state and New England, reported selling counterfeits. Any experience with the party answering this description, should be reported, by wire, to the Reliant Stamp Company or Tom V. Binmore.

ATLAS STAMP CO. (P. C. Smith) LEXINGTON, MASS.

U. S. REVENUES

I have endeavored from time to time to bring to the attention of our readers the fact that I am interested in acquiring anything fine or unusual in the way of U. S. issues, including Postmasters, Carriers, General Issues, Departments, Dues, Newspapers, Locals, and Revenues. In fact everything with the exception of envelopes and Match and Medicine. Right at the present time, I am especially anxious to increase my stock of really good revenue stamps, cataloging $10.00 or more. I am especially desirous of purchasing the real rarities, such as the rare blocks, high denominations of the Second Issue, rare Imperforates and especially the scarce inverted centers. Very substantial prices are offered for anything really choice. In the case of the late issues, only exceptional items are desired.

Always in the market to purchase high-grade United States properties and individual pieces. Also offer the interested collector a wonderful stock from which to select. My stock is especially strong in mint singles and blocks in addition to choice early covers—the type of stamps that I am interested in purchasing.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., P. O. Box 2175, Middle City Station, Phila., Pa., who will also be pleased to pass on oddities and varieties of all U. S. stamps. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, cor. Robbins Road and Locust Ave., Lexington, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

United States

"State" Stamps

As previously announced in this column, the series of current postage stamps from 1c to 10c inclusive, surcharged for use in Nebraska and Kansas, were distributed in these two states during the middle of April. Mr. P. R. Crooker sends for inspection the first cover that has been noted, namely—a 2-cent overprinted "Nebr" and used from North Platte, Nebraska, April 18, 1929, at 10.00 A. M. This was on a business communication received by Mr. Crooker's firm, and was not philatelically used. We will look forward for further early covers and will be glad to announce the different varieties as they are found cancelled upon the cover.

The Philatelic Agency at Washington has already received their supply and are making up mail orders, so that they may be posted early May first, the day upon which they will be placed on sale in Washington. As previously announced, they will mail no first-day covers, as covers from Washington will not be actual first-day covers, as the stamps were all previously placed on sale in the two states for which they were issued.

At this time, the Philatelic Agency has taken increased space and new clerks, so that today twenty-two are actively engaged in taking care of the business of the Agency. Sales to date for the fiscal year have totaled $208,000.00, and if all of the orders which are coming in by the hundreds daily can be filled by July first, the receipts may exceed previous expectations and finally reach nearly $300,000.00, quite a tidy sum for the purchase of current issues.

These figures show better than anything else the increased activity in stamp collecting, and too much praise cannot be extended the officials in Washington who have made this possible, for their activities and manner of announcing new issues and new flights has done much to impress the general public with the interest to be derived from stamp collecting.

2c George Rogers Clark

Mr. Samuel J. Smith has submitted for inspection a copy of the 2-cent red and black "Vincennes" variety in which the little ribbon in the upper right corner bearing the date "1929" is defective, in that there is a slight break above the "9". This stamp is the twenty-ninth stamp on the right pane of plate 19729 and 19721. Mr. Smith writes that it is constant on the sheets that he has inspected.

1½c Surcharged Envelopes

Through the courtesy of Mr. P. R. Crooker of Canajoharie, New York, I am favored with a neatly gotten-up list of all known varieties of the 1½c Provisional Envelope issued a few years back. This list is similar to a former booklet covering the 2-cent overprinted varieties, and mentions all sizes, papers, watermarks and knives, including the numerous errors. Its most important feature is an exact illustration of each type of overprint used by the several cities. The list is not issued as a money-making proposition, and if the compilers are fortunate in selling sufficient to pay for the cost, they will consider themselves fortunate. Copies are available at $1.00 each, and are well worth the amount, for those interested in the subject. Blank spaces are left for the checking of any new varieties that may be located from time to time.

I wish to thank Major Harry Morell for notes of interest.

Australia.—Gibbons' Stamp Monthly has received from one of their correspondents information regarding the West Australia Centenary stamp which is due to be issued next September. The suggested design is the famous Black Swan on a plain background with the inscription at the top, "Centenary of West Australia 1829-1929," and with the value, 1½p, in each of the bottom corners. Also the promised Air stamp was expected to be issued the last of March.

British Guiana. — Recent supplies from this colony show some distinct shade variations according to Gibbons' Stamp Monthly. The 6c, after a spell in light blue, has returned to bright ultramarine, while the 12c now comes in a fuller deeper shade of orange, with the value tablet in deep purple. The 24c shows a most distinct shade of bright purple with deeper blue-green label against the earlier washed out dull purple color.

Egypt.—Our attention is called to the 10m, King Fuad type, which is now being issued in bright terra cotta, a very different shade from the original red. Copies are at hand from Mr. R. Roberts.

Mexico.—Information from Victor M. Suarez advises that a new air mail stamp of 35 centavos value will soon be issued. 200,000 will be printed after which the plates will be destroyed. A new commemorative set is soon to appear in memory of Captain Emilio Carranza, the Mexican flyer, who died in this country July 13, 1928, when returning to Mexico City from New York. The issue will consist of six values, printed in two colors, the design being the wo Senor Francisco Gutierrez.

Netherlands. — According to pion's Bulletin three new values a nounced in connection with the aeri vice between Holland and Dutch I They are Fl. 1.50, 4.50 and 7.50, a n copies in all.

Paraguay.—Two Air Mail s have been received from Whitfield & Co. They are both oblong in and each bears the words, "Via A in addition to the name of the coun the top and "Pesos" at the bottom. 2.85P is grey-green and shows a p wings with the usual five pointed s the centre, while the 5.65P is brow pictures a bird with a letter.

Salvador.—M. Champion learn a new issue of Air Mail stamps is to appear.

San Marino.—The stamps men in a recent issue have just been re from Mr. R. Roberts, and are ver examples of line engraved work. T)earance and execution are of a ver order, and reflect great credit o firm who produce them.

St. Kitts.—We have received Mr. R. Roberts the 1sh black on en all through, and the 5sh green an mine on lemon, both script waterm Uruguay.—Mr. R. Roberts sen chronicle the following peso values type of A100, but measuring 2 x29mm, and perf. 12½. They a work of Messrs. Waterlow & Sons, of London, and are of sheets of rows of 10). 2p deep green, 3p blue, 4p violet and 5p maroon.

UNION CO. PHILATELIC SOCIETY

At Roselle Park, N. J., we find the Union County Philatelic Society a very live organization. It was formed in 1923 by Geo. W. Riker, with four high school boys. Mr. Riker served as President until 1928, when Wm. H. Boynton was elected.

The membership is now thirty-seven, and the Society meets every first member shall be allowed to hold office." This was one of my pet provisions, growing out of my deep interest in keeping the Yankees on their side of the line! It was incorporated in the first Constitution, but amended at the first convention, by which time the S. P. A. was attracting nation-wide attention.

The initial official roster follows: Pres., J. M. Chappell; Sec., B. Russell; Treas., J. H. Conley; Ex. Supt., L. W. Hummer; Trustees, J. C. Chappell, I. L. Dorroh, A. M. Rareshide.

A dozen or more advertisements appear, including E. T. Parker, of Bethlehem, Pa., featuring his New York branch office.

Issue No. 2 contains 12 pages, seven given over to a rather ambitious Constitution; twenty applications were posted. No. 3 opens with a delightful article, "The Southern Collector", by Roy Farrell Greene, who is now engaged in editing President Wilson's papers; another evidence of stamp training.

The membership list thus proceeds: 16, C. I. Nasits, Galveston, Texas; 17, C. W. Kissinger, Reading, Pa.; 18, S. E. Simpson, Tuskegee, Ala.; 19, M. E. Hummer, Macon, Miss.; 20, C. A. Peterson, Chicago, Ill.; 21, C. L. Shelton, Chattanooga, Tenn.; 22, L. F. Cromer, Galveston, Texas; 23, J. W. Shaw, Fayetteville, N. C.; 24, I. Kornick, Memphis, Tenn.; 25, B. A. Cattlaw, Chicago; 26, G. H. Nimocks, Fayetteville, N. C.; 27, H. Flackskamm, St. Louis, Mo.; 28, Theodore Baa, New York; 29, D. C. Bowling, New Orleans; 30, Rev. John Davis, Little Rock, Ark.; 31, N. Wheat, Rock Springs, Texas; 32, G. H. Thompson, Fayetteville, N. C.; 33, C. P. Drake, Comache, Texas; 34, E. W. Heusinger, San Antonio, Texas.

Messrs. Kissinger and Heusinger appear to have been assigned other numbers at some reorganization period, as the former originally held the number now being distinguished by Editor Severn of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

ON CANADA—Add 15c for 3 Mos. and 25c for 6 Mos.

SEVERN-WYLIE-JEWETT CO., BEVERLY, MASS.

Copies of Nos. 4, 5 and 6 are not available. No. 7 dated September, 1894, covers the first convention, held at San Antonio, Texas, and lists twelve additional members, bringing the number to 110. The issue of April-May, 1895, carries member No. 215, located at Simla, Punjab, and an even fifty applications.

I am indebted for all the above historic data to Mr. Russell. Upon my rejoining the S. P. A. a few years ago, Secretary Lycett asked me for data concerning the parent society, and as I had scarcely thought of stamps for more than a quarter-century, I wrote my old friend and he promptly replied with the information that many years ago his stamps and complete files had been destroyed in a bank fire, but that in his boyhood trunk, stored in an attic, he had located six copies of the Dixie Philatelist and was forwarding them to me. These historic documents comprise the only existing authentic record of the origin of the Southern Philatelic Association, and are now in the custody of the Secretary, who arranged for my use of them in preparing this story.

Of the 15 charter members I am perhaps the only active collector, and as previously indicated, my stamp interest was in abeyance many years. Mr. Dorroh, No. 6, is now a successful attorney, and Mr. Coley, No. 13, is the proprietor of an important business, in their old home towns.

So far as I can learn, the remaining eleven are no longer living. President Chappell died some ten years ago.

The S. P. A. has undergone several reorganizations, one under the direction of Mr. Joel H. DuBose, of Atlanta, Ga., who holds No. 85. Unfortunately he has none of the data which would be of value to bring the history to a more recent date. As one of the charter members it is a source of deep gratification to me that the original initials have been preserved and that "No. 2" was still available to me upon my reinstatement in 1924.

And now may I be permitted to mention why I love Confederate stamps above all others, though I collect U. S. in all branches and such foreign stamps as delight my eye? Briefly, the Yanks raided Munford in 1864 and after the battle, in which there were several fatalities, some of them located the post office and took possession of all cash and valuables, throwing the entire stock of stamps upon the floor and trampling upon them. All the men of the community being in the army, my mother was running the post office and only a few years ago described this incident. My collection is not large, but it includes a beautiful "TEN" with perfect cancel "Shelbyville, Tenn., May 20," tying stamp and applied the second time—the cover addressed to my mother—then unmarried—by her brother; a second cover postmarked Shelbyville, May 30th, but "Due 10"—indicating stamps were all gone, or Uncle Henry' dime had gone. To support these (and numerous others without st I have the original telegram receive nouncing this soldier's death, as res wound four months earlier, on headed "U. S. Military Telegraph", 1865—the rate from Augusta, G Alabama being $5.00; also the Bibl ered with homespun woven by my mother around 1855, which this s carried four years, and which was sent home by the hospital chaplain. here is a strip of four ordinary 10 tiny cover from a Texas soldier r —routed via Aoreauville, La., a Woodville, Miss.—evidently the d was so great it looked like forty was about right.

And on my father's side, he home each week and the letters we served, but only three had stam removed these three 35 years ago, a visit to the old home recently the original covers, addressed t grandfather! He was on the firi most of the time, where stamps we available, the letters being endorsed 10." While these stampless cove of great interest to me, they are i supported by a Springfield rifle st 1863, captured from a Federal sold May 6, 1865—just four weeks afte eral Lee's surrender. This muzzle has never been separated from its der flask. The site of this engage Waynesville, N. C., is indicated by stantial pyramidal marker ins "Last skirmish of the War Betwe States—1st Lieut. R. T. Conley in mand of Confederate Forces."

My oldest cover—also stampless folded letter dated 1827, red Nas Tenn., postmark, addressed to my father at Huntsville, Ala.—12½ cer 100 miles. I saved a few of these a large boxful in grandmother's about 1892—and all the "remai later were burned.

I purchase such covers and stam I may, but my advice to all youthf lectors is to select as a background fighting granddads, and especially who liked to write home. For in such a fire-eating Rebel as another tive who wrote to my mother on a sheet of captured note paper bea reproduction of the U. S. flag—' souvenir of the battlefield I send y once loved, but now hated banner, I am resolved to fight against unti forever driven from our beloved I

But perhaps all these fellows we lectors at heart, and how glad l These items, of small intrinsic enable me to appreciate even the r Union Patriotics now becoming s sirable, which perhaps I could no done when I insisted no Yank s hold office in the S. P. A.!

It is my purpose to attend the land Convention and I am hoping i be the most successful in the histo the S. P. A.

DO YOU KNOW

What Bureau Prints Are?

U. S. Precancels, printed by two-color process on the Rotary Press, with the precancellation applied by the Bureau in Washington BEFORE the stamps are gummed or perforated! They are genuine major U. S. varieties—not to be confused with home-made city type precancels. Bureau Prints are made by the same process as the "Molly Pitcher" and "Hawaii 1778-1928" issues, and are just as distinct varieties, of interest to U. S. specialists as well as precancel collectors. Buroprints were first issued in 1916, but not generally until 1923.

SPECIAL OFFER: To introduce and explain Buroprints, our chart with 15 diff. Buroprint precancels mounted on it, showing all the major types and varieties of the 1923-29 issues (value 25c), and our price-lists—for only 10c.

PRECANCEL BITS

By Art Bledsoe.

A commemorative precancel is merely what it says, a commemorative stamp, one that is issued for some special occasion or event, precancelled in the same manner as a regular stamp. A block is four or more stamps joined together so that they will form a square cornered piece. Thus four would be a block, five would not, six would, etc.

An imperf. or in full, imperforate stamp is one that has not been perforated, or in other words, one that has no separation holes between it and its joining stamps. Imperf. precancels are rather scarce and do not show up often.

A precancelled envelope is an envelope which has its stamp precancelled in the same style as any other precancel and is used for the same purpose. One cent envelopes are now becoming rather common in precancelled condition.

Compound perforation means a stamp that has two sides whose perforation measures one size and two sides, whose perforation measures another, such as the current issue, which measures 11 two ways and 10½ the other two.

An invert is the name upside down. A double means two impressions of the name on one stamp.

The perforations found in the center of your stamp are not placed there by the Government, but are placed there by large firms so they may identify the stamps they have bought and thus check up on any theft, etc., that might occur. Many different designs may be found, each company having their own special design, most of them being initials. While these are O. K. to collect, if you are interested in them, they do not add any value to the precancel, they decrease the value a good deal as most collectors do not care for them and class them as damaged.

It is rather hard for me to tell you the best thing to collect. I suggest that you start collecting everything. Get you a blank loose leaf book, such as is sold by the 5 and 10c stores and mount what you get by states, as a starter. After you get a fair start, look them over and see what you like the best, some states, values, issues or whatever it is. Then collect that, which pleases you the most, getting a good album and mounting carefully, when you have enough. Or, if the whole thing pleases you, remain a general collector and chase them all. Prof. Gamber is a strong supporter of the general collector. I'm a home state collector, which same is a mighty joyful pastime. I get as much kick out of getting a new Kansas stamp as regular U. S. collectors get out of an 1847! The joys of precancel collecting are many and you can take your choice.—Precancel Bee.

EYE OPENER No. 109

Best cash offer will buy any of the Philatelic or other literature listed below. Bid on each item separately, the highest bid received for any of these items before June 1st will be accepted.

THE BOSTON REVENUE BOOK—bound in cloth and practically like new, over 400 pages, compiled by TOPPAN, DEATS, HOLLAND AND BOSTON PHILATELIC SOCIETY in 1899, a very much sought after reference book and commanding a very high price when sold by auction.

CANADA—a book of over 300 pages by Clifton A. Howes and published by the NEW ENGLAND STAMP COMPANY of Boston in 1911; handsomely bound in red cloth, size 8x11, and practically new, together with thirteen extra plates of illustrations of the rare Canada stamps. This is a great reference book and scarcer than hen's teeth.

STANDARD STAMP CATALOG of 1879, published by F. Trifet of Boston, illustrating the postage stamps of the world, also pricing all U. S. and foreign stamps at prices of that period, in fact, one of the most interesting books in our possession at this time.

This book lists the 5c 1847 at 5c, the 10c 1847 at 40c, the 5c 1851 at 10c, the Justice Dept. stamps at 92c, for complete set, Wood block Triangle Cape of Good Hope stamps are listed at 75c and $1.00 each, all other high priced stamps are listed at prices that will amaze you. Paper covers, but in very good condition.

HARPER'S WEEKLY for the years of 1861, 1862 and 1863, bound in three separate volumes and in very good condition, filled with thousands of Civil War pictures and sketches of forts, boats, prisons, battle scenes, pictures of Generals and other interesting pictures of that time, will be sold as one lot. Best offer gets them.

Every item listed above will be sold to the party making the highest bid. If you want any of these items, better send in your offer at once, as such items are very seldom offered and this is your opportunity.

tion to the printed sentiments of the design. I've seen several of these, and the notes are often amusing and interesting, as they showed the trend of the times in an unmistakable manner.

Some good sized lots of pre-stamp covers with interesting postal markings are in; but they are difficult things to trace, as they are often faint, and some have very broken lines, etc., so it takes a considerable amount of time to accomplish this work.

In order to keep up with the list of imprints on Patriotics, I have made an additional list to accompany my list in the Forum of Feb. 11. These you can place together, and keep your files up to the present date:—

STRAY NEWS ITEMS—

WE have the suggestion from R. L. Maurer that the United States Post Office Department issue a stamp as a tribute to Hon. Myron T. Herrick, late ambassador to France. Mr. Maurer expresses the hope that we may "start the ball rolling," but we have gone the limit in mentioning his suggestion.

R. H. MOWER, 12 Geary St., San Francisco, is circulating a neat little pamphlet on "Postage Stamps as Merchandise." It will be sent anyone on request.

WE have only 12 copies of Stevenson's U. S. Grills in stock. The book will not be reprinted. Price only 15c.

Great Commoner Among Stamps

AN ADVENTURE IN SPECIALIZING WITH THE UNITED STATES 3 CENT ROSE, 1861 ISSUE

A SERIES OF THREE ARTICLES

By Ralph H. Houseman, Syracuse, N. Y.

SECTION I—SPECIALISM AS IT RELATES TO THIS STAMP
SECTION II—CHARACTERISTIC CANCELLATIONS OF THE 3 CENT ROSE, 1861
SECTION III—DATE CANCELLATIONS OF THE 3 CENT ROSE, 1861

SECTION I

The question of just how minutely one should specialize in stamp collecting is a proposition of perennial freshness. Differing conceptions, both as to the philatelic pleasureableness and the financial profitableness, of specialism, have been frequently advanced, winning many an ally or strewing the field with many an antagonist. The writer will not intentionally revive old controversies. In the compass of three articles he will endeavor to tell the simple story of his personal experiences, both as to the alluringness and feasibleness, of choosing a specific stamp for specialism. The hope is entertained that some who have hitherto been interested only in general collecting may begin the delightful adventure of one or more attractive side-line specializations.

The advanced collector today is seldom to be found who has not chosen some United States stamp for cancellation specialism. Such side-lines in philatelic collecting have become such an obsession with many that they confess a diminishing interest in the general and diffusive method of accumulating, and have settled upon either a few countries or a few issues of a single country, with the intent of making an exhaustive study of their cancellations, and incidentally their shades, watermarks and paper varieties. What to such an one at first is only a fad, soon develops into a gripping habit, furnishing the pursuer both fascination and adventure.

We select for the purposes of these narratives a stamp of more than sixty-five years' standing, around which much of romance and historic association clusters—the 3c rose and shades of the U. S. issue of 1861. It is the most abundantly known United States stamp of equal age. Its specialization collecting is the more feasible and appealing because of its availability. The grills of 1867 and 1868 are not included within the scope of these articles.

For a second time within twenty years this stamp has again taken primary place with cancellation specialists. The 3c green of 1870 to 1882, in the opinion of many, has shared first place more often. This 1861 stamp of less vivid color, but of more sentimental and historic value, is now again rapidly rivaling in favor its rich-hued successor. Then, too, the 3c rose of 1861 has the admitted advantage of ten to fifteen years seniority.

The profusion of shades of this stamp, its numerous and varied town cancellations on the stamp itself—which are found less commonly on the 3c green—together with its more intimate association with spectacular and epochal national events, combine to lift it into a place where there are few rivals in the galaxy of the stamp world.

Several leading firms in the metropolitan area, and dealers elsewhere, give it as their judgment that inquiries for cancellations on this stamp have exceeded in number, during the past two years, those for any other stamp.

Perhaps no stamp issued by our government prior to 1890 is more prolific in shades. These range from pale rose through a score of variations of rose until one arrives at a dark brownish rose. When thirty or more shades are carefully graduated on an album page one has an attractive exhibit.

This stamp presents a by-product that few issues have offered in the same proportion: namely, the double perforation. There are six varieties of these. In the vertical type we have a double row of parallel perforations at the right, or at the left, or at both right and left. In the horizontal type we have the top, bottom, or double at both ends. These are not easily obtainable now-a-days. Diligent inquiry and search will bring measurable success.

There was less uniformity and standardization of the paper stock in the printing of this stamp than in other issues. The 1,722,000,000 stamps put into circulation, over a period of seven years, would partially account for this. The above total printed included the grills. The paper ranges from very thin, approximately onion and India paper of the present day, to very thick and heavy. Some papers were exceedingly white, and almost enamelled on the reverse. The vertical and horizontal laid papers are distinct varieties often difficult to fix with certainty.

Pairs and strips of this stamp are not as abundant as reports would sometimes lead one to believe. However, when these are pursued persistently the returns are satisfying. Some have conjectured that because of the unusual conditions obtaining during the war of the rebellion, with tens of thousands of men absent from home, and official communications from Washington, D. C., being despatched in unusual number, that letters requiring more than the normal three cents must therefore be uncommonly

TWO CENT COLUMBIANS

We recently purchased an enormous quantity of this stamp tied up in bundles of 5,000. These are absolutely unpicked for cancellations or anything else. The majority are still on small pieces of paper, which makes the study of cancellations easier. We offer these at the following rates:

1 5,000 package guaranteed to be unpicked .....$ 3.00
1 50,000 package 25.00
1 100,000 package 45.00

The above represents a great opportunity to the cancellation student and also for those who wish to make a study of various minor plate varieties, shades, "Broken Hat", etc., on this stamp.

Please add the postage to your remittance. The shipping weight of 5,000 is 3 pounds, 50,000 11 pounds, and 100,000 22 pounds.

FINE SALE OF CONFEDERATES

COLLECTION OF ROBERT M. STONE SOLD BY W. T. POLLITZ IN BOSTON

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

On Friday, April 5, 1929, Mr. W. T. Pollitz sold at auction in Boston, the collection of Confederate States on the original cover, belonging to Mr. Robert M. Stone of Boston. This collection of covers was possibly the finest lot of Confederate items that has come upon the market, via the auction route, in a number of years. Mr. Stone was quite particular in his choice of covers, hence, they sold at exceedingly attractive quotations, the catalog being disregarded in most cases entirely. While there were none of the great rarities in the lot, there were unusual strips and individual items which brought prices tending to show that the demand for fine Confederates is beginning to equal the demand for choice U. S. issues. Everything described is on the entire cover, unless otherwise noted.

Among the Provisional Issues, a 5c Baton Rouge, showing an advertisement in corner, cataloging $85.00, sold at $137.50. A Charleston 5c amber envelope superb with dated cancellation, cataloging $30.00, brought $37.00. This is a very scarce item in fine condition, as fully 90% are fair only. A Macon 5c yellow, slightly rubbed, sold at $54.00, while a Mobile 5c tied to an advertising cover, reached $37.50. A superb pair sold at $90.00. A 2c black lightly tied on advertising cover, found a new owner at $156.00, while a Petersburg 5c on slightly torn cover, but stamp superb. reached $92.50. One of the choicest pieces in the sale was a New Orleans 2c blue, superb strip of five, tied to a neat cover with a New Orleans postmark, and this sold at $510.00. A 5c on Patriotic cover reached $55.00. A superb pair described as with "boardwalk margins" showing a New Orleans postmark, a "Missent", also Port Lavaca, Texas, dated postmark, changed hands at $45.00.

There were several "Blockade Runners" in the Stone collection and regarding these, Mr. Pollitz gives some interesting details, which it might be well to repeat. In late May of 1861, the Postmaster General ordered that all postal communications with the southern states should cease after May 31st. The express companies then undertook to transport the mails between the north and the south. On August 10, 1861, President Lincoln proclaimed that all commercial intercourse between the states was unlawful. On August 26th, the Postmaster General ordered the arrest of anyone furthering the written intercourse between the north and the south. Most of this business of carrying letters "thru the lines" was done by the Adams Express Co., they having two clearing houses, one on the north side at Louisville, and the other on the south side, at Nashville. Covers so carried and bearing postmarks of the Express Company, as well as the post offices in which the letter originated, sold at prices of $97.50, $110.00, $118.00 and $152.00, the latter price being paid for a neat cover bearing label of the American Express Company tied by blue Nashville, August 24th cancellation.

Official Envelopes, that is, envelopes overprinted for use of the several departments of the Confederate States, sold at prices ranging from $10.10 to $58.00.

Among the general issues, single copies of the 5c green sold from $4.30 up, a superb copy with Smithfield, Va., postmark reaching $25.75. One cover showing the same stamp with the "University Alabama" advertisement on the back, found a new owner at $35.50. Among the 10c blue of Hoyer & Ludwig, the choicest piece was a superb copy with flaw in upper left star tied with a Tudor Hall, Va., postmark, and this sold at $36.00. Other copies brought from $20.00 to $27.00, in accordance with desirability. Among the 5c blue, No. 203, a superb copy used with a 5c green from Chattanooga, sold at $50.00, while four copies cancelled Austin, Texas, on the same cover, reached $57.00. A small neat cover with red circular Pittslvania Court House, Va., May 16th, reached $80.00. A fine single 2c green brought $140.00, and a superb 10c rose in the real carmine shade sold at $126.00. Another outstanding item in the collection was a superb copy of the 10c rose used in connection with the 10c blue, on a forwarded cover showing Charleston, S. C., and Flat Rock, N. C., postmarks, both stamps in superb condition, which was knocked down at $400.00. A pair of the 10c rose from Mobile brought $220.00, and single copies in fine condition of the ordinary stamp went at prices from $26.00 to $91.00, the latter being paid for a superb copy on a small cover from Little Rock, Ark. A strip of three of the 10c Patterson along with a single tied to a Lexington, Va., cover brought $36.00, while a superb copy in a deep shade, from Warrenton, Ga., reached $22.00.

A 2c brown in a very fine pair along with the 10c, No. 210, both neatly tied, containing a printed letter, making an appeal in behalf of the Wayside Home of Charleston, reached $315.00. A magnificent strip of five of the same stamp with four enormous margins from Sparta, Ga., sold at $387.50, whereas a single copy from Richmond sold at $60.00.

In the case of the Outer Line variety, Mr. Stone had but two items, but both very choice. A superb copy on a neat cover from Chattanooga sold at $120.00, whereas a vertical pair of which but two are known, used from Richmond, sold at $700.00. A very fine pair of the "E cent, with one stamp slightly cut reached $180.00. Among the latt sues, it is noted that a superb st three No. 211 sold at $46.00, a copy with green circular Chester House, S. C., at $20.50, one with cancellation from Augusta, Ga., at and a superb pair on official cover the Confederate Post Office at Prisoner's letters showing the Con ate stamp used with a 3c 1861, s prices varying from $20.50 to $50.0

The 10c blue, No. 210, on cove from $1.00 up to $18.50, the latter paid for a fine copy tied to cover the rare straight line Goodson post The two copies of the 20c green carried the mail from Mexico City to Brownsville on March 9th and from Brownsville to Mexico City on March 10th. We had covers on both trips and supplied them to subscribers to our first flight cover service at only 65c for the two covers.

When the San Juan to Miami air mail route started on January 9th, we mailed first flight covers direct to our patrons from Santo Domingo and charged them only 35c per cover for them. In the March "Monthly Journal" these covers were listed at $4.00 each, more than ten times what they cost our FDC patrons.

There may be other bargains like these coming along, so you'd better hurry that request for the dope about our first day cover service.

DOLLAR VALUES

COLUMBIANS AND OMAHAS

These stamps are in large demand and very small supply. Particularly desired with clear town cancellations. We have a fair supply at present. Prices in accord with the present market, which is breaking records for rapidity of advance. It looks like a good time to get aboard.

CONTRACT AIR MAILS

Some collectors are finding difficulty in completing their sets of these comparatively common covers. In many cases the numbers carried were not half enough to go 'round. We have most of them at present, though some lines are very short. Your want list will receive our careful attention.

PATRIOTIC COVERS

We have in stock the remains of several considerable collections of Patriotic covers. To clear them out we have put a discount of 40% or more on regular prices. We have reason to believe the boom in these covers has only started and recommend these approval selections to those beginning collections. Also some fine Lincolns and others for the more advanced.

WE WANT TO BUY

Anything in fine stamps, U. S. or foreign, singles, accumulations, collections. Lots of commemoratives in full or part sheets, etc. Send what you have at your own price.

TREASURE HUNTING

By Captain A. C. Townsend.

III.

As stated in my preceding article, Washington simply reeked with treasure around 1886, and for a few years I built up my collection and made enough money selling duplicates to buy myself a bicycle, tennis rackets, and about everything else that a growing boy wanted. I was the envy of a good many playmates who did not know the secret of my pocket money, and suspected me of having a rich father.

Sets of cardboard proofs of U. S. stamps were common, and I bought a good many for a dollar or two and sold them for five dollars, until I discovered that a good many of them were on India paper and could easily be soaked off, making them worth quite a bit more.

In one of my rambles I found a man in the Dept. of Justice who had a little screen on his desk to keep the sun from his face, and that screen was covered on both sides with Justice stamps he had taken a fancy to paste on it. They were all a bit sun-faded, but I bought them and had a great time soaking them off.

Another discovery was a gunny-sack full of Treasury Depts. The owner, a department clerk, told me that when he heard they were to be discontinued he had simply torn off all that came into his hands, taken them home and dropped them in the sack. I dickered with him on the price, and we finally agreed on $75.

I had no such money, so went to my father for it, and was promptly refused. He simply could not realize the value of stamps, and my collecting was a continual source of irritation to him. He claimed that I wasted entirely too much time on them that should be spent in study, so my request for so much money was emphatically turned down.

Then I went to a business friend, the Treasurer of our church, who was much in sympathy with boys and had a host of friends among them. When the story was told him he questioned me closely to see if I knew what I was talking about, and then loaned me the money. I promptly sorted and sold the lot to the only Washington dealer at that time for $225.

Then my school days came to an end. High School was over, and I went to work. Father put me with a friend to get some knowledge of engineering, and between hard work during office hours and my love for tennis, stamps were entirely forgotten.

Two years later, on an engineering job at Danville, Va., a family with whom I was boarding spoke of having a lot of Civil War letters from the husband, and I at once offered to buy the lot.

We went down cellar and there, in a wooden box, was the finest lot of Confederates I have ever seen—a number of the 1861 5c green and 10c blue, many of the 5c and 10c of 1862, and a lot of the later issues. In taking the letters from the envelopes, there fell from one of them a block of 17 of the 5c green that had been sent home for postage and never used.

I bought the lot for $15 and sold them for $30 when I got back to Washington—I didn't even keep one for my own collection!

About that time I met H. F. Colman. I had decided to study law and had started in at night school. Colman lived near me, and when I told him I had sold my beloved collection to get school fees he didn't believe me. He thought stamps were a lot of nonsense.

He was then in the Genl. Land Office. I took the Civil Service examination, passed, and by chance was assigned there and put in his room. We often walked to and from office together—and I still talked stamps. Colman still said I was nutty, or words to that effect. But one day he ran across a set of proofs and asked me what they were worth. I told him I would give five dollars for them. He bought them for a dollar and brought them to me with a good deal of doubt in his eyes. When I gave him the five dollars he looked astonished!

He said, "Say, honestly, can you sell those things for more than that?" "Like a streak," I replied. "How much will you get for 'em?" "Ten dollars." "Well, I'll be doggoned," said H. F. "How long has this thing been going on?" And right there was the start of H. F. Colman as a stamp merchant. Last year he retired wealthy, and is living in his fine home on the Pacific coast. We had dinner together when he went thru Chicago last November, dear old boy.

During the next few years he and I did a lot of profitable stamp business. I finished law and, having realized long ago that I didn't want to practice, rolled my diploma, put it in a trunk and opened a stamp sales office, with Colman as a silent, but very active, partner. In the next article you will be told of the finding of the first Ten Cent Baltimore.

Guarantees By Stamp Dealers

ARGUMENT IN FAVOR OF ESTABLISHING A TIME LIMIT ON RETURN OF FAKES

By HERMANN FOCKE.

On page 248 of the issue of April 8 the question is once more raised as to the definition of the "guarantee" that a stamp dealer should give to his customers of the genuineness of the stamps he sells. Though I have never dealt, but, as one might call it, just dabbled in stamps for about 44 years, on the other hand I have sold many things for over 30 years and, therefore, have, I believe, a rudimentary idea of the ethics of business, and may for that reason be excused for expressing my humble opinion on the above subject.

In my present line of selling produce and merchandise in general I naturally assume the moral responsibility of supplying my customers with the quality of goods which I am offering them. If it be a parcel of coffee, I sell on a sample, which is supposed to represent truly the quality of the entire lot, although this is, from a practical standpoint, impossible to guarantee. If, therefore, it develops on closer inspection that the quality of the lot is not equal to that of the sample, I am called upon to adjust any possible loss that may arise therefrom to the buyer, and eventually accept the cancellation of the sale; but a claim must be made within a reasonable time, which according to the size of the parcel sold is accepted to be from ten to thirty days.

In a way this should apply also to the sale of stamps or any other article, and to expect that a dealer should give a permanent guarantee, and that this guarantee should even be regarded transferable to a second buyer who acquires the stamp or stamps from the dealer's first customer, is in my opinion well nigh preposterous, because for the same reason it might be assumed that the dealer's guarantee or responsibility should be binding to his children and children's children after his death.

A guarantee of genuineness would apply, I presume, principally, to stamps of an exceptionally high value, ergo the so-called classics of which only a limited number is ever offered for sale, and of which more or less dangerous forgeries may exist, but most of these are either stamped with some well-known expert's mark, or they are so well described in the many philatelic works, that a buyer could convince himself of their genuineness to his entire satisfaction, before he makes the deal binding.

If, however, he is not satisfied, he then may ask the dealer for his guarantee in writing, but it should rest with him to take steps at once to obtain further proof, so that there shall remain in his mind no doubt about the genuineness of the purchased stamp, and thereupon he should release the dealer of his further responsibility.

This method would solve all the other questions raised in the article under reference, such as the amount to be refunded, interest on the original investment, and proof as to the dealer having been the seller of the particular stamp.

It may not always be possible to obtain infallible proof of genuineness of a certain stamp within a short time. Philatelic history has proved this on more than one occasion, and the time limit might be extended to as much as one year, but not more. I, myself, have had my experience where it took almost a year to obtain positive proof of a stamp being a forgery, in having bought, many years ago, from a small dealer in South America, a wonderful specimen of Switzerland No. 1, the famous pigeon of on a written guarantee that my would be refunded if it should be that the stamp was a forgery.

The stamp was on a wrapper, as sender the address of a prin Basle and addressed to a party in other town in Switzerland, with marks of both places, and I should have thought of any possible frau I not had knowledge of the dan forgeries which existed of this par stamp. To make certain, I sent th to a well-known dealer in Euro have it expertised; he passed on it ably, and so did several Swiss spe of his acquaintance, but not entire isfied, he sent the piece to a famo lector in Switzerland, who after careful study pronounced it to be, out doubt, the best executed coun that he had seen.

My man refunded the money furnished him with the docum proof, but insisted, nevertheless, th stamp was genuine.

On the other hand I have pur repeatedly valuable stamps from ble dealers, without guarantee, whi terwards turned out to be forger prints, etc., but the discovery was after a lapse of time, and I never of making a claim, because I had to take steps to find out my mist time. I could also cite several in

FLORIDA STATE PRECANCELS
YOUTH WILL NOT BE DENIED IN RICHARD GARDNER OF QUINCY

By Prof. A. F. Gamber, Precancel Editor.

Down in Quincy, Florida, resides a youth of about 17 summers whose Florida precancel collection leads the world in its class.

A little over three years ago, while in the office of the Rotnem Stamp Company of Minneapolis one day, he conceived the idea of such a specialized collection. With him, to decide was to act, and he has been acting on that decision ever since. Just to give you an idea how decisively he acts: I remember his coming into the office of the Rotnem Company during the summer of 1927 to make a bid on just one Florida item that was listed for a coming auction sale. He made his bid on an auction sheet by writing the word "MINE" opposite the lot number. Effective, to say the least.

I have his collection here before me as I write. To me it is the most interesting and striking one I have ever seen, for the age of the one assembling it; striking in quantity (735 varieties from a state which is not at all prolific in its issues); striking in the immaculate condition of each item; striking in the arrangement and attractive mounting. Any man of mature years might well be proud to own this collection just as it stands. I surely would, for one.

Draw a little closer, precancel friends, while we dwell for a moment on what this go-getting youngster has gathered from the four corners of these United States. Florida's precancel towns divide themselves rather sharply into two classes, the smaller towns using rubber handstamps only, of which there is a constantly increasing number, and four large cities, Jacksonville, Miami, St. Petersburg and Tampa, which have used electros almost exclusively. At this moment I can't think of any other state where this cleavage is quite as sharp.

Bradenton and Deland are of the former category—tourist towns, using most of their precancels on tourist parcel post. You see he has most of them here, all in fine condition. In spite of its size, Jacksonville is a very hard town to come anywhere near completing. The type II (state name spelled out) is scarce, some of them really rare. Here he has the 8c 1908 in perfect condition, and, wonder of wonders, one of the Parcel Posts, the 15c, first one I have ever seen. In the FLA type he has a fine showing of the perf. 12 and 10's, and a better one of the old perf. 11's. Here are most of the doubles, and a strip of five of that real rarity, the old 10c double, one inverted, fit to be framed. In the 1922 set he has all but one or two (I doubt if the 17c is known reading up). In the short set of the old issue in the current tiny type he is complete, as well as in the 1922, 1923, and 1927 issues.

Lake City and Lake Worth won't detain us, anyone who can boast of one or two from each place is lucky. Here is a nice lot of Leesburg, then comes Miami. Those multigraph productions are mighty hard to find, he has nine of them. Not so good in the printed type on the old series, but nearly everything since 1922. Monticello, another handstamp town, everything known and then some. So with Orlando, with one or two exceptions. Five pages of Pensacola, there ought to be a law against any one person having so much from so hard a town. Plant City is well represented, considering its scarcity. His town of Quincy uses nothing but 1c and 1½c, here they are in quantity.

St. Augustine, that charming town, with the spell of Spanish colonial days still upon some parts of it, is all here. And now for St. Pete, like Jacksonville, hard to get in the earlies. Believe it or not, here are 11 pages of that city. That 50c double of the 1912 issue in the type still in use, takes my eye. And how about those two immaculate Parcel Posts in the big handstamped type? Who could ask for more? That boy's good, no joking!

And Tampa's earlies are not so easy to come by, either, though its heavy cigar shipments have distributed them more widely than those of the three other big cities have been. The handstamps are an exception to this, as they are used only in emergencies, when the supply of printed precancels is temporarily exhausted. The best Tampa type is the typeset one, catalogued as type IV. It would be interesting to know why this pretty type was ever resorted to, and why it was so quickly discarded. The reason that would occur to most precancel collectors is, that it was used because the electro was either mislaid or damaged for the time being. Anyway, this collection contains the fullest showing of them that I have yet seen.

We may conclude this write-up with a glance at his array of West Palm Beach, which is quite full and very interesting.

If there is a moral to all this, I think it is that juniors, if they be really in earnest, can hold up their end with adult collectors all the time. No man with all the precancel knowledge in the world could have built better or faster than has this boy. What boy, did you say? Why, Richard Gardner, of Quincy, Florida. If you want fuller information about his way of collecting, or have information on Florida precancels that you think he can use, drop him a line, he's quick on the corresponding trigger, and as likeable a chap as you'll meet in many a day. When I asked him for a photo to accompany this, he said to run one of John Gilbert's and let it go at that. It might, you know.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., CELEBRATION

There was a sound of philatelic revelry by night when a monster meeting was held on April 26, 1929, at Ferguson Hall, Y. M. C. A., of Lincoln's Home Philatelic Society, and the junior stamp clubs of Springfield, Ill. The programme was an inspiring one with music by the Y. M. Orchestra; America by the Boy Scouts, and addresses by Jack Pugh, Boy's secretary Y. M. C. A., and the inimitable Raymond F. Bahr; all of these features were topped by the lecture, "Charm of Stamp Collecting," given by Henry A. Diamant of St. Louis. Mr. Diamant was at his best and gave a rousing resumé of philately's attractions and his day's stay in Springfield was a pleasant one for him, as well as his hosts. Over one hundred were present on the occasion when the flower of Springfield's philately established its entente with the younger collectors of Lincoln's city. The programme bore a 2c Lincoln issue. Dr. Macnamara and others are doing men's work for collecting in their city.

A REVIEW OF PRICES REALIZED ON THE BRITISH COLONIAL SECTION

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

On April 12 to 20, 1929, the Scott Stamp & Coin Company sold at auction at the Collectors Club in New York, the British Colonial portion of the E. M. Sperling collection.

The outstanding piece of the four session sale, was a copy of the Canada 1851-12p black, lightly cancelled. The variety had margins on three sides, while at the top there was but a trace of margin, with the line slightly touched above the "12". This copy which catalogues $1,000 00 came from the Ferrari collection and being one of the most popular stamps of North America, brought $771.00, in spite of the small margin at the top. A proof of the same stamp on India paper surcharged "Specimen" was purchased at $15.50. Among the Bahamas were several errors, a Special Delivery 5p with double surcharge selling at $27.00. With inverted surcharge the same stamp reached $71.00, while a cover showing a double surcharge, one inverted, found a new owner at $41.00. The vertical pair of the 1p surcharged "War Tax" of which one copy was normal and the lower variety double surcharge, one inverted, went into a famous collection of West Indies at $75.00. The same stamp in horizontal pair double surcharge, one inverted, reached $82.50. The Bangkok issues brought good prices throughout, few items going at less than half catalogue, and some brought substantial quotations, such as the 90c listed at $50.00, selling at $45.00. Barbados, 1878, 1p on half of 5sh sold from $40.00 to $75.00, depending upon condition and variety. In Bechuanaland, the very scarce 2p with green surcharge, No. 27, which is missing in most collections, sold at $42.00. A rare Bermuda 3p on 1 penny went at $74.00, while a piece of cover showing a British Columbia 1865 5c rose and 10c blue Nos. 3 and 4, the former stamp badly damaged at the bottom, found a new owner at $140.00. The later issues of the same colony brought very substantial figures, ranging from three-quarters to well over full catalogue. Not a single country in the entire sale brought better proportions of catalogue quotations, tending to show that the higher Gibbons' prices are more in line than prevailing Scott quotations.

A fine copy of British East Africa 1898 50R lilac mint sold at $60.00. Among the early British Guiana an 1852 1c, No. 6, sold at $87.00, while a rubbed copy of the 4c sold at $20.50, again tending to prove that it pays to buy superb copies in all cases. An 1856 4c, No. 14, the finest of this country in the collection, sold at $240.00. Canada throughout brought substantial prices and wherever the stamps were described as "very fine", they reached full catalogue or more. An 1852 6p, No. 15, on thick paper sold at $28.00, the 10p, No. 7, at $47.00, the 6p, No. 13, at $82.00, and a vertical strip of four with imprint of the 10c, No. 16a, full o. g., and very fine, passed into a well-known Canadian collection at $105.-00, although it catalogues as individual stamps but $60.00. A Cape of Good Hope 1sh dark green, No. 6a, in block of four mint brought $72.00, while a Cayman Islands 2½p on 4p, No. 20, reached $55.00. Ceylon went at fairly low proportions of catalogue with very few exceptions, while an error No. 146a, of which it is said but three copies exist, sold at $26.00.

Two very popular stamps to British Colonial collectors, are Lagos 1884, 5sh and 10sh, No. 24 and No. 25, very fine mint copies of each brought $40.50 and $90.00, respectively. The 1914, 10sh, mint superb, sold at $32.50. A New Brunswick 1851, 6p olive-yellow, with small thin spot, reached $33.00, while the shilling touched at top, sold at $111.00. Fine copies of this stamp are quite rare and are difficult to obtain. Among the early Newfoundland, all of the rarities were in second rate condition, so brought but small proportion of catalogue. Unfortunately, the same remarks applied to many of the other rarities, such as the Nova Scotia, 1 shilling, cut into at top, close margins on other sides with heavy cancellation which sold at $33.00. Among the St. Vincent were some really choice specimens such as the 1871 5sh rose, superb, cataloguing at $150.00, selling at $176.00. The ½p on half of 6p, No. 30, mint, brought $23.50, and the three rare surcharges, No. 31, No. 32 and No. 33, the latter however with a thin spot, sold at $49.00, $48.00 and $101.00, respectively. A Southern Nigeria £1 1902 mint, reached $31.00, while the $25 Federated Malay States, No. 17, sold at $36.00.

A mint Togo, 2m, No. 63, reached $265.00. Turks Islands when in fine condition brought good prices, the 2½ on 1sh, No. 31, selling at $50.00 and No. 38 at $34.00—nearly full catalogue. The high values of the late issue of Zanzibar which have always been difficult to obtain brought prices which reflected their rarity, in most cases, going over catalogue. The 1908 20R, listing at $30.00, selling at $36.50, the 30R at $55.00, and the 40R, in spite of a gum crease, at $31.00.

The sessions were well attended and the Scott Company announces the selling of the Sperling French Colonies at an early date.

FORGED MALTA INVERTED SURCHARGE

Mr. R. Forbes-Bentley, Birchircara, Malta, writes under date of April 16, 1929: "During the last three months, three prominent dealers have reported to me that they have been offered copies of the three pence overprinted POSTAGE, 1926, with inverted surcharge. The stamp is Scott No. 122, and Gibbons 149. I think it is necessary that collectors in general be warned against these stamps, as the specimens that have been submitted to me are undoubted forgeries."

GRAF ZEPPELIN RETURN TRIP

(Clipping from E. D. Mullin)

Upon the strength of information received from the Post Office Department, we announced that the mail for the return trip of the Graf Zeppelin should be sent immediately to Lakehurst, N. J. According to the best available information, the Graf is now scheduled to leave Germany May 15 for Lakehurst, N. J., and the return trip is tentatively set for May 25. Mail must be marked "by Graf Zeppelin from Lakehurst, N. J.," and the Government reserves the right to send the mail by steamer unless instructed upon the cover to return to sender.

MAJ. CAMP CONGRATULATES US

NEW YORK, May 6.

My Dear MEKEEL'S:

Congratulations! Congratulations! CONGRATULATIONS!

Your May 6th WEEKLY, just at hand, is a humdinger—the best number I have ever seen.

You have done a hard job royally and I appreciate it.

Please accept my thanks, both personally and for the Society, for the wonderful manner in which you have given our story to the philatelic world.

Yours sincerely,

GUY W. A. CAMP,
President S. P. A.

BERG STOCK TO BE SOLD

We recently announced the death of Th. Berg who had become well-known in the stamp trade as a firm believer in the value of British Colonials. A stock of approximately $50,000 in value is to be disposed of by O. Mathieson, Winterton, N. Y., the administrator of the estate. Advertisement in our next issue.

AN ODD "NEBR" VARIETY

Joseph J. Gloeb, publisher of the Precancel Bee, calls our attention to a very interesting variety of the 2c "Nebr" stamp. He submits a pair upon one of which the overprint is a trifle taller than the other. The difference is clearly marked and sufficient to attract the attention of a casual observer. We quote from Mr. Gloeb's letter written from Omaha under date of May 1:—

"Note closely on the pair of 2c that the types vary somewhat. The overprint on the upper stamp shows the type a little taller than the overprint on the lower stamp. I drove out to Fremont this A. M. where I got these stamps. I bought two sheets of the 2c, and I noticed that the 5th and 6th rows showed Nebr in taller letters—this happened on one sheet. On the other sheet I noticed just the 5th row showing the taller letters. I don't believe the types used were of different character or size—it looks to me like a stretching of the plates when they were curved, consequently making the letters in certain rows appear taller. Yet, it seems funny that two rows on one sheet, and only one row in the other shows that variety. These will probably not be classed as errors but will nevertheless constitute a variety."

HE GUM THAT FAILS

Many users say that they make the stamp stick, and others by saying that the gum should masticated off the backs of the We yield the palm to the chap rote to the New York Times as and long may he spread humid-humor:

WO-CENT STAMPS FOUND TO BE STICKIEST

I got a sheet of the pale pink sort recently and found that they were all short on gum. One letter came back to me because the postage had dropped off. I daubed paste on the others.

So now I buy stamps as I buy strawberries, selecting the ripe, red ones.

I should add that I am using the same stamp-moistening machine that I got sixty years ago, and it has not yet run dry.

Sevard's Twinkles

Have you ever heard of a one-legged man having a pain in the foot of his missing leg? Of course, that is possible, and occurs in theory many times. Since Gray wrote his famous treatise on human anatomy, no advance has been made, except for an appendix, yet we feel that any publication which pulsates from the heart of New York City, especially in the auricles, is pretty far from a Maryland ventricle box permit. Have a heart.

We read that over 2,600 towns here and about are asking for air mail airports. Each one will in turn ask for a dedication cachet, and we suppose we are supposed to develop temperatures over such measly things. As a branch of stamp collecting, such cachets lack rank, and at present, the position of the official hostess for them hasn't been decided. For local history, these cachets are all they are intended to be,—advertisements for using air mail in that particular section, but to stamp collectors, they do not add to any philatelic history but what has been written previously. The import of any stamp or cover is merely in proving an assertion of philatelic history. Local import must not be confused with national progress.

Pen cancels today are not rare. One finds them in large cities, as well as in small communities. But the ones from rural towns are interesting, in that the pen cancel is usually composed of written words, like Special Delivery, Insured, Registered, with dates, town names, and official P. M.'s. Special mail in a small community is not to be taken lightly, and hence, the heavy pen and ink sketches.

The box cancel is a small rectangle containing the town's name, with the state abbreviation. There is no date in connection with this cancel, and is supposedly to be used for other than first class mail matter in smaller offices. These rectangles often appear on first class matter in colors. They are not rare, although most copies seen are from the Corn Belt states. A busy postmaster with farm machinery spare parts coming in and mail orders going out, must be excused for violating a few regulations.

Many have often noticed the crimp in the envelope paper on the circular dies, especially below or near the N in CENTS. Any embossing press has a tendency to crimp paper by reason of the uneven drawing up of the paper. In large quantity work, like that of embossing the 2c envelope, one may encounter many reasons for finding a crimp, but the continual finding of the crimp in the same place should result in a remedy for its elimination. The majority of the crimps appear on the die A size 13 envelopes with 1925 horizontal watermark. Whether the crimp will continue with the 1929 watermark is a condition to be studied. Nobody is going to put a crimp in the envelope collecting if we can help it.

SUPPLY EXHAUSTED

At the eleventh hour a number of our subscribers sent in long lists of names with requests for sample copies of our May 6 special number. We also received requests for copies in bulk, running as high as fifty in number. It was impossible for us to accommodate all of the orders received after we had gone to press. We requested early in April that addresses be sent in, and it could hardly be expected that a large surplus of a special number of this character would be printed.

EDITORIAL

OUR advertising columns may be depended upon to present the news of the week in a practical way that is apt to make some of the reading columns none too colorful by comparison. We select the advertisement of Mr. Charles J. Phillips as illustrating the predominant news value that a paid announcement may have. We find that Mr. Phillips has been empowered to sell Mr. Arthur Hind's incomparable collection of United States and Confederate States intact for the sum of $550,000, or somewhat over a half million dollars. Mr. Phillips, who handled the great Duveen collection, may be congratulated upon having been entrusted to dispose of the wonderful accumulation belonging to Mr. Hind. Thus in placing himself in Mr. Phillips' hands, Mr. Hind has bestowed on him a mark of distinction and confidence. Mr. Hind by no means is retiring as a collector, but his collection of U. S. and Confederate States is so exceedingly complete, reposing as it does in eleven extra large volumes, that he rarely has an opportunity to add to it. The inference is that as a consequence of this difficulty, Mr. Hind's interest in this group has ebbed, but the statement may be made with certainty that he is not losing his collecting inclination. The decision to sell the lot intact is one that will be approved as there is a popular regard for Mr. Hind's U. S. and Confederates that would be succeeded by regret if it were known that the stamps comprising this matchless showing would be scattered all over the philatelic domain. It is safe to say that the collection is the most magnificent one in the world of the whole group, and the condition of the stamps is said to be exceptionally good. The price placed on it will make an impression, and now that the collection will be transferred in right, title and interest, Mr. Hind's monumental achievement will be followed with a keen eye. Truly, this collection may well be called, "Americana." The term extends beyond philately by implication, and the day is coming when collectors of Americana will recognize stamp issues as typifying an important place in our "ana."

WE wish again to say that we do not wish to be represented as favoring the issue of special stamps to mark various occasions that interested persons are promoting. Several enthusiastic readers evidently have written to say that we are campaigning for several commemorative issues, but such is not the case. We mention suggestions of the kind without bias, in a news sense and usually our stand is a neutral one.

THE Washington Philatelic Society scores in graciousness, and we are glad that the members were considerate enough to send resolutions of sympathy to King George. Many collectors felt that the King's illness was brought home to them a little nearer than to the man on the street because of philatelic kinship; and though they may have wanted to show their solicitude, they did not know how to proceed to do so. The Washington philatelists took means that were successfully adopted, as will be seen from the following notice that has come to us in an envelope bearing the return card of the Washington Star, a newspaper that may have carried the story. At any rate we are pleased to have the news: "Sympathy for a fellow stamp collector, King George of England, in his recent serious illness, expressed by the Washington Philatelic Society in formal resolutions, has brought an acknowledgment from the British Ambassador, Sir Esme Howard, conveying the thanks of Queen Mary. In a letter from the British Embassy, dated April 8, Ambassador Howard writes: 'Gentlemen: I transmitted to His Majesty's Principal of State for Foreign Affairs the kind message of sympathy which you addressed to His Majesty the King on the occasion of your annual banquet of December last. I have now been instructed by Sir Austin Chamberlain to convey to you the sincere thanks of Her Majesty the Queen on behalf of the King for your kind interest, which was warmly appreciated.' King George is the owner of what is reported to be the most important collection of stamps of Great Britain and British Colonies in the world. His collection has served to pass the hours of enforced idleness on former occasions of indisposition, and he may be assumed to have found diversion in studying his stamps when his condition has permitted during his recent illness."

* * *

WE have had in hand for some days a special dispatch to the Indianapolis News telling of a stamp famine in Nashville, Indiana, caused by an innocent wish to conform to the fitness of things. A committee in Nashville having in charge the preparations for the Brown county blossom festival, used green ink on its stationery, and with an eye for a color scheme selected two of the one cent green for the postage on each letter. Before a halt was called, so industrious was the committee, the stock of the one cent stamps of the local office was exhausted. Thereupon, the tourists passing through that charming town were forced to abstain from postal card activities, thereby depriving Nashville of a bit of attention. The hopeful P. M. of Nashville felt that the deprivation was only temporary and that in response to his cry of distress, a supply of the humble one cent stamp would soon be installed. The postmaster at Nashville, Indiana, should be given a cheer for not at ing to furnish a provisional st during the crisis.

Air Mail News

BY DONALD E. DICKASON,
Wooster, Ohio

(This department covers air mail news from the purely philatelic standpoint. Coöperators will find their names listed each week. If your letter calls for a reply please enclose a stamped, addressed envelope. This is your department, so make your contribution as generous as possible.)

OFFICIAL FLIGHTS

Mentioned the Mazatlan, Mexico, route last week. Started March 9, halted at Durango, and carried on to Mazatlan April 8. Leslie A. Boone now reports that only about 30 letters made this complete first trip, and less than 200 from Matamoras Apr. 8th, 1st complete service.Still another mention of the Brownsville flight, then I'm going to leave that for a while. Mr. L. B. Gatchell, editor of the Contract Section of the catalog, tells me that the postmaster at Brownsville was undoubtedly working under great difficulties due to the illness of his wife, who died the following week. Not that all the responsibility for the varieties previously noted belongs to him, but I simply mention this in the hopes that you folks that started a bunch of hot letters in that direction may be led to wait a bit next time till you know what it's all about.

*****

There's a lot of other good information in the advance copy of Mr. Gatchell's department in The Air Mail Collector, dealing with contracts, but I haven't room to give it all here, if I did have nerve enough to grab it. Look it up in the May issue, if you haven't already seen it.

*****

The C. of C., Albuquerque, N. M., is offering to receive letters for the first flight that they hope to have on a new route soon. Nothing announced, but if you like to be safe, that's one way.The early bird was about the only one who got in on the first flight out of Baltimore on the New York-Washington shuttle route May 5th. Notice came just a few days prior to the opening date, too late even for our "Stop Press". It's worth noting, incidentally, that this stop is in effect only for the shuttle morning and evening planes, and not the regular night trip to Atlanta. Full service will doubtless be given as soon as the Baltimore field is lighted.

*****

The Oakland Chamber of Commerce has been holding covers for the much mentioned speedboat service for some time, and the end is not yet. Therefore they fixed up a special cachet and mailed all these out May 1st on the first night flight from the Oakland airport. They will provide the speedboat cachet when, as, and if that service starts in the future.

*****

Just as I was writing these notes, the mail brought in an interesting cover from Townsend F. Southard. He'd heard that the Eaker flight to Panama, dawn-to-dusk, would carry mail, and sent a bunch of covers to Brownsville for it, addressed to David, C. Z. The Brownsville P. M. sent it by the first FAM flight to Mexico City. It shows postmarks of Brownsville Mar. 9, Cristobal Mar. 17, Transito-Panama Mar. 20, David Mar. 23; thence returned to sender unclaimed—David Apr. 6, Panama-Transito Apr. 14, Miami Apr. 23, Fort Lauderdale (missent) Apr. 24, and West Palm Beach Apr. 24—and all for 27c postage.

DEDICATIONS AND OTHER UNOFFICIALS

Pontiac, Mich., dedication June 15 and 16. Probable cachet by C. of C.Durant, Okla., has postponed for several months, but C. of C. will hold covers—Ditto on Amarillo, Texas.A cachet will be used at the Newark, N. J., Aviation Show soon to be held. Valentine Feind, 280 S. 8th St., Newark, kindly offers to look after covers. Time will be either July or September.Tarkio, Mo., will dedicate May 21. Matter of cachet still uncertain, but it looks like a fine chance for a Lindbergh tie-up.

*****

Several unusual dedication covers in recently. Belgrade, Mont., dedicated Apr. 22. Nobody provided a cachet, so the P. M. obligingly wanting to do something for those who had sent in covers, hit them all with the registry hand stamp instead of the regular postmarker. Thanks!Goldendale, Wash., was another place that evidently had to make a last minute provision for cachet. It's obviously a mimeographed job, and it looks like the stencil had been cut in a hurry. The most evident slip of the typewriter is the year date of 1928 instead of 1929. A few have the 9 added in ink. Date was Apr. 24th.

*****

Bay City, Mich., is another city not sure yet about a cachet. They'll probably have one if they get the covers coming in. Probable date is early June. Palestine, Texas, mentioned a few weeks ago, mailed only 250 air mail, and 50 2c letters March 30, with their dedicatory cachet, provided by the C. of C. Ought to be good.Walla Walla, Wash., C. of C. is taking letters for their dedication, soon to occur.

*****

The Cape Henry, Va., cachet applied Apr. 26, commemorating the landing of Capt. Newport and Party in 1607, came through in good order, applied in black and red by local civic organizations. The American Legion at Waynesboro, Pa., sponsored the dedication of the local airport April 27th, and applied an attractive cachet in purple.Corsicana, Texas, also chose Apr. 27th, but, instead of a cachet, attached a printed red, white, and blue sticker, with the commemorative dedication statement and signed by the Mayor, R. W. Wheelock. In addition, all my covers bore the signature of P. Mayer, Postmaster. Bet their hands were tired.

*****

New ones coming thick and fast. Among the ones reported or confirmed this week are McAlister, Okla., July 1, possible cachet by C. of C.; Sumter, S. C., sometime in the early summer, also a possible cachet if they get in a lot of covers; Santa Rosa, Cal., postponed to May 18; Niagara Falls, N. Y., June 13th, a cachet now assured by C. of C. with probable flight to Buffalo; and Wilkes-Barre, Pa., now practically sure of a C. of C. cachet—early summer.Supplementing last week's note, local Chambers of Commerce are coöperating with the CAM 26 contractors, and will have a special folder for mailing on May 20th, with the special Lindbergh Day cachet. The various Chambers will doubtless address these for you if you send postage.

PERFECTION IS THE KEYNOTE OF MY NEXT AUCTION

This sale will be held on May 27th and will include an unusually large number of lots described as very fine, superb, and perfection. There are over 400 lots of United States, including a perfection o. g. block of four of the 50c perf. 10 no wmk. with side margin. There are numerous other 20th century blocks, rare coils, etc., and scarce early imperforates. The foreign are also a wonderful lot, particularly strong in British Colonials. If you are an active bidder at auction it will pay you to write for a catalogue, which will be mailed free on request. [01c

Collectors We Have Met

Once in a while we run across a collector who is not afraid to spend money to get a certain stamp to fill in a set, no matter what the cost may be. Anyone who bids at auction or attends a large sale, knows that stamps often sell at full catalogue or double catalogue value. Now what is the collector going to do who is always crying for 50% off catalogue prices? The louder he cries the more fussy he claims to be getting, so that if he is sent a superb stamp at only 25% off catalogue he immediately gets peeved and says that he can do better elsewhere.

There are many inconsistent collectors. They want superb copies at 50% discount, but it is strange how they will buy straight edges or damaged ones at 60% or 75% off catalogue. Certainly it would be better and cheaper in the long run to buy a fine copy at 25% discount instead of a poor copy at 75% discount.

Many collectors also get the idea that because stamps of certain countries can be bought at big discounts that they can buy United States and mint British Colonies, and a host of other popular stamps at such discounts.—A. C. LeDuc.

Panes

In printing the larger sheets of stamps the impressions are arranged in two or more blocks on the plate and these sections are, in the printed stamps, referred to as panes. For instance, many of the current stamps for certain British colonies are issued in sheets of 240 specimens, but these sheets are divided into four panes of 60 stamps each. A narrow strip of margin separates the panes vertically and a wider strip horizontally.

Around each pane (or the block of stamps if the sheet is not divided into panes) of most of the British and British Colonial stamps printed by De La Rue & Co. since 1887 what is known as a Jubilee line is shown. This is a line in the same color of the stamp—or in the color of one or both sections of the design if the stamps happen to be bicolored—which is placed about one-eighth of an inch from the outside margin of the outer stamps, so as to prevent undue pressure occurring on the edges of the plates. At first the lines were continuous, but for the last eight years or so the lines have been cut into lengths corresponding with the height of the stamps on the side margins, and with the width of the labels on the upper and lower margins. They are known as Jubilee lines from the fact that they were first used in 1887—the Jubilee year of the reign of Queen Victoria.

Junior Contest

BEACH CONGER, JR.

Before announcing the names of the winners of the contest, I would like to state that, because of the quality of the entries, it was impossible to pick first, second, and third places for the prize winners. I have classed the winners in two groups, the first four all having obtained the score of 100, and the next six having received 98¾.

The contest on the whole was a huge success, judging from the number of responses received. There was an allowance to be made for several answers which could be made to one question, but all were taken into consideration and judged carefully. A large number of contestants received the next highest grade of 97½. Better luck next time! The answers follow:

Kionga

In 1916 certain stamps of Lourenzo Marques were surcharged with new values and the word Kionga. There seems to be little known about these stamps or how much use was ever made of them. They were supposed to have been used in a part of German East Africa occupied by a Portuguese Colonial Force. This area of Kionga was transferred to the colony of Mozambique after the end of the World War, and now constitutes a part of that territory.—A. C. LeDuc.

Be Proud Of Your Hobby

By A. HIPPCHEN.

There are many collectors who are real honest to goodness philatelists, but they keep under cover; for some reason or other they do not want it to be known that they collect pieces of paper. This may have been all right in the past, but today, no one need fear anything or anyone's opinion if he is a collector. The stamp collector today is looked upon as a man more than the average man; he is looked upon as a little farther advanced; he is looked upon as a man of character because he collects stamps. He is just so far ahead of the man that does not collect stamps, that he is better posted on things in general, he therefore has more knowledge than the non-collector. The non-collector with a blank look in his face will ask the question, "Why collect these pieces?" What is there to it! He at once admits that he is so far behind the times, and little does he realize how much he is missing, a wonderful fascination, a wonderful recreation.

You have every reason to be proud that you are blessed as one of those that enjoy the most wonderful of all hobbies, Stamp Collecting. Be proud, admit that you are a real collector, let everyone know that you are a collector of postage stamps; talk stamps, give others a start by donating a few stamps to them, that they may also enjoy this hobby. Do not be selfish. Everyone has some duplicates, send a few to a friend, or give a few to a non-collector; tell him what he is really missing, joys derived from the art of stamp collecting; tell him in your own way, just what a kick you get out of it. You must realize that a lot of fellows cannot understand until they are shown. You being a collector, are a much wiser man, you are farther advanced; it is therefore up to you to try and help your fellow man. You have not the slightest idea how much good you may be doing. You know full well that a man that collects stamps has no time to be downcast; his stamps keep his mind on the finer things of life, his mind is continuously traveling to various countries, he sees the beautiful art of nature depicted in his stamps. The fascination and pleasure of collecting is almost unexplainable in words. Therefore I say again, tell others; get others interested in collecting, talk stamps, sing stamps, and even dream stamps; there certainly is a lot of satisfaction to it. You will agree with me.

I am talking from a purely hobby point of view, not as an investment; not for what you get out of it in a monetary way, but from the pleasures you derive, from the joy of things we do in this hustle and bustle of life. We always look toward getting a kick out of things we do, and if you can tell me a better thing, a better hobby whereby you can get a bigger kick, tell me about it.

If you were a golf player, you would tog up in a golf outfit, short pants, woolen sox, spiked shoes, carrying a couple sticks in your arm, you would walk miles to the golf course, or ride if you had a gas buggy, and you would feel proud that you are one of these ball chasers, still as one who collects postage stamps you keep it under cover. So put on your stamp togs, put your stamp book under your arm, go to your nearest stamp club, or to a non-collector's home, show them you play stamps, show them that it is your hobby and be proud of it. It may be out of order in this article, but I am going to mention that the Postage Stamp Club of Chicago is a real philatelic club with club-rooms in the heart of Chicago. Don't blame me for mentioning this, as being the president I am somewhat interested in the club.

MODERN AUSTRALIAN RARITY

By Donald McDonald.

t cannot happen very often in these s of keen Philately that a high-value tish Colonial stamp should be issued, form its proper function, and then ost completely disappear from mortal , yet this has occurred with a stamp ed in Australia in 1922 and which seems definitely to be in the class of ties. The stamp in question is the £1 mmonwealth of Australia (1915-1922 e) overprinted for use in New nea with the inscription "N.W. PACIFIC ANDS" in what is generally known as fifth or uniform setting (S.G. No.). Readers will remember that in arly days this overprint occurred on values up to £1 in three minor varie- but that in 1918 this anomaly disap- ed and an overprint came into use ch was uniform over the whole sheet.

various values were issued in the wing order:—
18.—½d, 1d, 2d, 1/-.
19 (first half).—2½d, 3d, 4d, 5d, 6d, 5/-.
19 (second half).—9d, 10/-.
ey were chronicled in due course in philatelic press and came on the et in the ordinary way in both mint used states. But at the same time hroniclers began to list the £1 stamp ving appeared to complete the series, from the chronicles it of course got the catalogues. But nobody seemed to have seen it; it was never found ocks or auctions; and we know now the announcement of its birth was ature, but the fact remains that it nto the catalogues and there it has ined ever since.

1923 there was published an official f the numbers of stamps overprinted New Guinea, and from this it ap- d that no £1 stamps were prepared een August, 1916—when the old rint alluded to above was in use— July, 1922, and, further, that during latter month a parcel of 960 £1 s was sent from Melbourne to New ea.

t still no £1 stamps with the uni- overprint appeared on the market o fresh chronicles of its occurrence published, even in the Australian als. The writer had been search- dealers' stocks and auction cata- s for it since 1919, and had done est to ransack the philatelic litera- of England and Australia in search ything authentic about it, all en- without result. Consequently in in the course of an article on the n-West Pacific Islands stamps, he doubt upon its existence, and sug- d that the 960 stamps of 1922 must been a remainder with the old over- This article was reprinted in Aus- , and the only comment which ed the author was that several of ealers in Sydney had never seen a of the stamp, and, further, that was not one in the collection of Mr. . White, the finest extant. But in ourse of some correspondence on bject of the article with Mr. A. A. blum, the well-known Australian list, occasion was taken to ask him tely for his views on this question, t last, a year or so ago, Mr. Rosen- was able to state "the £1 5th setting btedly exists as I have recently two copies; they are in the pale and brown shades of the last print- f the £1 Commonwealth bicoloured iffer considerably from the 4th set- (the old overprint).

here at last was authentic informa- of the existence of the stamp—ap- tly to the extent of two copies in ontinent of Australia—which was enough to encourage the writer to continue his search, and this, at last, after eight years, has just been rewarded by the discovery of the mint strip of 3, which drifted into the offices of a famous Strand auctioneer, buried in a large five-volume general collection.

To have to search for a stamp in the London market for five years after its issue argues a considerable scarcity, and to be unable to get any information for four of those years from the Australian continent about an Australian stamp makes it evident that we are dealing with a very rare item. The little issue, appearing by itself without any notice or advertisement, must have passed almost entirely to its legitimate function of stamping wireless telegrams in the Radio stations of New Guinea, after which the cancelled copies would eventually be officially destroyed. There is of course a possibility that the edicts as to destruction may have been evaded, as they have been once before, and that some cancelled copies may yet appear on the market, but it seems unlikely after so long a lapse of time. As to unused copies, they must be very scarce indeed—Mr. Rosenblum does not mention the state of the two copies he saw—and a strip of 3 must be almost unique.—Gibbons' Stamp Monthly.

BY APPOINTMENT TO H.M. KING GEORGE V

THE PHILATELIST AT HOME

By A. O. Crane.

After inditing his previous contribution to the Monthly Journal, entitled "The Philatelist on Tour," in which he dealt with the philatelic possibilities of a trip abroad, it occurred to the writer that it would be only fair to pen a further article in consolation (if consolation be needed) of the great majority of stamp collectors who must be content with stay-at-home lives, at the same time presenting to them, for their especial benefit, certain aspects of their hobby which, perchance, have not before appeared in print.

At the outset, let it be stated that the writer can confirm from actual experience the opinion expressed by another writer in the Monthly Journal that those who pursue their travels through the medium of their stamp collections enjoy, in some respects, a pleasanter and certainly a more comfortable trip than those who journey by steamer and train—and occasionally less up-to-date means of transport. To quote but one instance out of many he wots of, the student of the current pictorial series of Iraq postage stamps has the advantage of beholding modern scenes and of examining ancient ruins and sculptures in that interesting country without experiencing the manifold discomforts of travel by still primitive railway and river-steamboat communications, eked out with sundry Ford car services, or the trials of existence in a fly-infested desert country where the summer shade-temperature climbs to 127 degrees and only highly-chlorinated water is fit to drink.

Then, again, Philately at home affords delights peculiarly its own. What could be more enjoyable than, say, on a chilly evening or a wet afternoon, when you can't go out and trim that hedge and you've finished putting up that shelf for the wife, to draw your favourite chair up to the fireside, and then, with pipe on and album supported comfortably on your knees, "Gibbons" at your elbow to remind you, if necessary, of what your stamps depict, a handy encyclopedia within easy reach, and the sharer of your joys and sorrows (even, perhaps, of your philatelic ones!) contentedly engaged on some knitted arrangement for the youngster, to set out upon a quiet philatelic ramble along the ever-fresh, never-ending and yet never-tiring highways and byways of your stamp-collection? Even if you are brought back, at the end of your rambling, to more material matters by your good lady remarking, "It's time for supper, dear," or, "Will you put the cat out?" you may take it from the writer that he has wished in vain for many an actual journey to be brought to an end in some such manner as that!

Travelling, no doubt, offers certain special facilities for the acquisition of postage stamps; but it is at home that the collector experiences the deeper delights of his hobby. After all, the owner of a general collection, small though it may be, has the world at his hand. Without moving from his arm-chair, and without a farthing of expense, he can at will transport himself in imagination to any spot within the four corners of the earth, lingering wheresoever and for as long as he listeth. For him, space, time, expense and discomfort are annihilated. Nay, for him, time can even go backward; for he has power to see the world, not only as it is, but also as it has been. An instant after viewing the Panama Canal, he can stand and watch the Roumanian Army crossing the Danube, as they did in 1877; a turn of a page, and he can behold the arrival of Vasco da Gama's fleet off Calicut, or the landing of Columbus in America.

Denied though he may be the opportunity of seeing the world for himself, the stay-at-home philatelist, by the very nature of his hobby, yet finds himself at every turn brought into intimate contact with oversea lands and peoples. Every stamp—or, at any rate, every postally used stamp—in his collection is, as it were, a little bit chipped off that corner of the world, past or present, from which

THE CHRYSALIS EMERGES

For many years—aye, 42 of them, Mr. Krassa backed and still backs his belief in stamps as an investment by putting every Dollar he had to spare in the "Sound Old Issues."

In time the safes began to get overcrowded and it used to be a well known Nassau Street saying, "Krassa has it but can he find it?" This has all been changed now. The stock has been sorted and filed in stock books. Hundreds of rare and desirable classics can now be inspected by local buyers. Either Mr. Homan or Mr. Krassa will be found ever ready to display stamps to collectors.

WHEN ordering stamps write "As per advt. in MEKEEL'S"

it hails, and each has made a romantic journey before finally coming to rest in his album. Each brings him a silent message telling him something of the geography, the political standing, the activities and aspirations of the country of its origin, its scenery, its history, its passing events, the customs of its people, its industries, its flora and its fauna. Moreover, he can cause these romantic journeys to be in a measure associated with himself, by sending his specimens wandering afar, to return in the fullness of time, as so fascinatingly suggested by the Rev. W. G. Iremonger in his articles on "Wanderings of a Philatelist."

Although, in the formation of his collection, the stay-at-home collector does not enjoy those special facilities that fall to the lot of his globe-trotting brother, he has, by the very fact of his possessing a fixed base, a field all his own for the acquisition of postage stamps, putting aside, for the moment, the usual recourse to dealers. It is a field, too, that can be worked without expense — an important consideration in these strenuous days of post-war reconstruction, with taxation and the cost of living so high that the average collector finds it incumbent on him to apply his wonted expenditure on his hobby to more important purposes, leaving his cherished collection, not without regret, to struggle along as best it can for the time being.

Fortunately, by an unusually pleasant freak of fate, the changed conditions which have obliged the ordinary collector to curtail his expenditure on his hobby have induced other new conditions which make it possible for him to keep his collection more or less up-to-date, at least, without expense; to wit, a freer exchange of correspondence as between country and country. Taking advantage of his settled position, the stay-at-home philatelist has here an opportunity for the accumulating of specimens that ought not to be missed—and yet which very often are missed. Many collectors have an oversea mail of their own; many more have relations with foreign or colonial correspondence that permit them to retain the covers, as, for example, in the office of a business firm having oversea connections; still more have friends or acquaintances who become possessed or who can become possessed of foreign or colonial stamps in one way or another, but who are not themselves collectors. The philatelist who has most of these different avenues open to him should be the luckiest; but let him profit by them to the full for the garnering of the material thus brought within his reach. Let him exploit, as far as he may, not only his own direct source of obtaining stamps, but also those indirect channels open to him through his friends. To do this successfully he must not hide his light behind a bushel. Absurd though it may seem, there are still many adult philatelists with a tendency to pursue their hobby in seclusion and to feel ashamed to own themselves in public as its devotees — an attitude reminiscent of the old days when stamp collecting was at best regarded as a hobby suitable only for schoolboys. In the present more enlightened age, the general public recognize the educative and recreative value of Philately, and adult philatelists of today have every reason to pride themselves on their choice of a hobby. Do not then be reluctant in speaking of your hobby to your friends, even though they themselves are not philatelists. On the contrary, cultivate the habit of referring to it as often as you do to other elements of your everyday life. Show your collection on every suitable occasion. By these means you will, in a surprisingly short time, awaken in your friends, perhaps not an interest in Philately, but an interest in your interest in stamps, and, as foreign or colonial stamps come their way, they will think more and more of your regard for them, and with friendly kindness will put themselves to the small trouble of saving for you the stamps they get. Oversea friends can be particularly helpful in this way. For your part, you must see to it that you show the highest appreciation of their efforts on your behalf, being especially careful not to betray any lack of interest in even the commonest and most utterly spoilt specimens that are brought to you, as otherwise you will only discourage your recruiters. It is permissible, of course, to give tactfully a little instruction in the detachment of stamps from covers and their storage prior to their being handed over to you, in order to prevent damage occurring through the non-philatelist's natural ignorance in such matters as these. With the exercise of a little patience you will in this way be able to organize an efficient little stamp-accumulating service that will bring you in, very often, an amazing variety and number of specimens from which to select at your leisure the choicest copies for your collection. The better-class duplicates you can exchange with philatelic acquaintances or through the medium of exchange-club sheets, or with one of the several dealers who maintain an exchange service, these dealers being usually very fair in their offers. The duplicates you cannot dispose of to the advantage of your collection should be passed on to a junior collector, who will doubtless find a use for a large number of them. It all helps to keep the hobby alive.

This system of collecting without expense will generally enable the ordinary stamp-loving citizen to keep his collection more or less running with the times; while, apart from this purely philatelic consideration, it provides a valuable medium for propaganda work and, more particularly, for realizing the social possibilities of our hobby, which, it is to be regretted, are not more widely recognized. After all, there is not the slightest reason why a little circle of friends, both philatelic and otherwise, should not discuss stamps as they would, say, old furniture, or gardening, or wireless; and he who puts into operation the scheme outlined above will very often find himself, without any conscious effort on his part, the only philatelist of a little group who are, nevertheless, all talking about stamps. The ladies, above all, should not be overlooked; for the temperamental constitution that renders them, except in a minority of cases, impervious to the charms of our hobby, makes them at the same time ideal stamp recruiters!—Gibbons' Stamp Monthly.

AN UNSEVERED PAIR

A Philatelic Romance

She was more beautiful than the Queen on the stamps of Nova Scotia.

She was a beginner and I an advanced specialist, but I won her, won her through the medium of the perforation gauge. This is what happened.

"Mr. Tete Beche, will you show me how to use the perforation gauge?"

"I shall be most happy, Miss Roulette," I replied.

"How do you do it?" she said. "Do you count the holes in the stamp before you put it on the gauge or after?"

"You don't count the holes at all," I said, "bring the gauge and I'll show you."

She brought the gauge. It was an "Ideal" one. We put it to an ideal use.

"It's this way, you see," I said, putting the edge of a penny stamp along the 14. "When the teeth of the perforation exactly fit the round dots on the gauge it's 14."

"I see," she said; "but how do you know it's 14 in the first place?"

"I knew this one was already because I've gauged it before. But if I didn't know I'd look at the stamp and make a guess. If it looked like 14 I'd try it, and then if it didn't fit I'd try 13½ or 14½, and so on until I got it right."

"I see. Let's try another stamp," she said.

We tried a dozen others. The light of evening was beginning to fail. We had to look so closely at the stamps our heads almost touched. Anything else you might teach one without coming so close, but to teach the use of the perforation gauge you must get very close indeed. She was an apt pupil, and we bent together over the little bit of grey cardboard until it became too dark to see.

But even when it got too dark to see we still sat very close together, and Miss Roulette sighed and remarked what a pity it was that the evenings got dark so soon. She declared it was a shame to light a lamp while it was still daylight, and yet it was such a bore that there hadn't been light enough to finish the lesson.

"Still, I think I'll remember how to do it," she said, and then she sighed again.

"Miss Roulette," I said, "I'm going home to-morrow."

"Oh, yes," she said, "and you'll be sure and try and get me a set of those funny provisionals. The ones with the red line and the blue line, and one dot not there and the other one up above."

I promised I would be sure and get it, and then we drifted on into talk a rare stamps and great finds.

All the time making up my mind to s of the subject that was nearer to heart than philately. I am natural shy man, but when I really make up mind to a thing I generally carr through.

"Of all the great stamps which w you soonest have in your collecti she said.

It was now quite dark and my c age was rising.

"There is something I would ra have," I said, "than any stamp in world."

"An entire envelope or something that sort," she said, puzzled.

"No, guess again."

"What is it like?"

"Well," I said, "there's a head beautifully modelled, and I might that it is not perforated, but Roule and I have never been able quite to g it yet."

"What can it be?" she said.

"Can't you guess?"

"No, I give it up."

"It's a young lady with an enthus for stamp collecting," I said in a whi

She gave a little start of surprise.

"Miss Roulette," I cried, eagerly love you better than my collection, w rather have you than a post office fu 'post office' Mauritiuses, and I cou go away without telling you."

She bent towards me in the twil She didn't get up and run away or anything, and my heart was be faster then when I found the 1½d red with an error in the lettering.

"Dear Miss Roulette, don't say n pleaded.

She didn't say anything at all, but hand slipped into mine, and somehow lips got very close in the darkness, I knew that I had gauged her corre

Next month the philatelic journals nounced a philatelic wedding, and started on our honeymoon with ou albums and a perforation gauge to tinue our lessons at leisure.

In our home there is a little bit of cardboard bearing the famous leg "The Ideal." Little wonder we trea it and look fondly back to the deepe gloom of an autumn evening when we used it together and became for e more an unsevered pair.—New Zea Philatelist.

THE INDIANA STAMP CLUB

A YOUNG ORGANIZATION THAT HAS GOT A STRONG HOLD ON INDIANAPOLIS

By L. O. WARD, Sec.

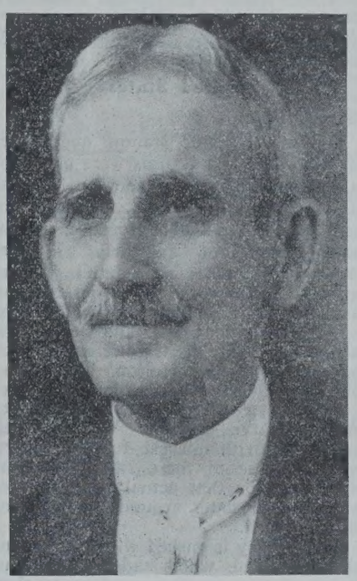
Early in the fall of 1927, three collectors in Indianapolis compiled a list of stamp collectors with the idea of forming a stamp club. Notices were mailed out that designated December 2 as the date for the first meeting. Much to the surprise and pleasure of the originators of the idea, 25 collectors attended the first meeting. H. H. Coburn was elected President; Le Grand Payne, Vice-Pres.; L. O. Ward, Sec.-Treas.; and Dr. Ert J. Rogers, Travilla Ioor and Kenneth Loucks the Executive Committee. At the meeting of December 16 the name of Indiana Stamp Club was accepted together with the Constitution and By-laws practically as drafted by the Executive Committee.

Under the guidance of H. H. Coburn the Club developed into a real live organization, meeting the first and third Friday nights in each month. Our membership roll began to grow until we had forty members. The Club began to be recognized by other clubs of adjoining states as well as in Indiana. The local post office contributed much valuable information to our records, and Postmaster Bryson assured us of his earnest cooperation in every detail. Postal Cashier Brown also gave the collectors of Indianapolis a great deal of assistance. Raymond V. Bahr, of Springfield, Ill., visited many of our meetings and always had a message of interest, and we all enjoyed his experiences. The Club has always felt very much indebted to Mr. Bahr for his many presents of air mail covers and other stamps to be auctioned off for the benefit of the Club.

A. W. C. Brumfield, our jovial auctioneer, assisted the officers greatly in arranging programs. Many of the talks were given by members of the Club while others were contributed by collectors and persons of note, outside. Brumfield handled many an auction for the Club, usually highly amusing as well as profitable.

In May, 1928, the meeting place of the club was shifted from the C. of C. Building to the film plant of H. H. Coburn Motion Picture Corp., on invitation of Mr. Coburn. The studio room was the scene of the balance of the meetings in 1928. In addition to stamps we had other forms of entertainment supplied by Mr. Coburn, such as visits through his film plant and the showing of movies of former years. This was all very interesting and took our minds off of stamps on the hot summer nights.

The first meeting of 1929 was held Jan. 4, at the C. of C. Building. Le Grand Payne was elected Pres.; Marion Clarke, Vice-Pres.; L. O. Ward, re-elected Sec.-Treas.; and Floyd Shockley, C. O. Warnock and G. M. Padgett, Executive Committee. In appreciation of the work done for the Club, H. H. Coburn, retiring president, was presented with a token of appreciation in the form of a parchment.



LE GRAND PAYNE
Pres. Indiana Stamp Club

With the new year came many new applications for membership. The membership was soon boosted to over fifty. President Payne appointed many committees to cover almost every angle of stamp collecting and to handle other details of the Club. The program committee has functioned very well this year so far. Probably the meeting most amusing was March 1, when the "Veterans of Vincennes" told of their experiences at buying and mailing letters February 25 at Vincennes. It had been the first experience of a first day rush for most of them and from what they said probably will be the last.

The Club boasts of members who have very cherished collections. President Payne has a U. S. collection that is a top notcher. Dr. Ert J. Rogers is a specialist in general 20th Century, and Marion Clarke has a very interesting collection of U. S. Commemoratives with a history of the events commemorated. Floyd Shockley, G. M. Padgett and J. H. Zix are air mail enthusiasts. A. P. Vestal is a collector of U. S. Revenues and playing card stamps. Miss Johnson, who claims to be the first woman collector in Indianapolis, has had and disposed of more stamps than most of us have ever seen. H. Edgar French, New Castle, Ind., in addition to a very fine general collection is a specialist in South and Central American countries. H. H. Coburn has some prized stamps and he is now making a collection of stamps cataloguing $1 and over. The rest of us have our pets, and under the skin we are all related to that dear old hobby, Philately.

ATLAS STAMP CO. (P. C. Smith) LEXINGTON, MASS.

U. S. REVENUES

I have endeavored from time to time to bring to the attention of our readers the fact that I am interested in acquiring anything fine or unusual in the way of U. S. issues, including Postmasters, Carriers, General Issues, Departments, Dues, Newspapers, Locals, and Revenues. In fact, everything with the exception of envelopes and Match and Medicine. Right at the present time, I am especially anxious to increase my stock of really good revenue stamps, cataloging $10.00 or more. I am especially desirous of purchasing the real rarities, such as the rare blocks, high denominations of the Second Issue, rare Imperforates and especially the scarce inverted centers. Very substantial prices are offered for anything really choice. In the case of the late issues, only exceptional items are desired.

Always in the market to purchase high-grade United States properties and individual pieces. Also offer the interested collector a wonderful stock from which to select. My stock is especially strong in mint singles and blocks in addition to choice early covers—the type of stamps that I am interested in purchasing.

GEORGE THE FIRST

Washington is called the Father of His Country. On St. Valentine's Day, 1842, a cover of no mean historic value was mailed in New York City. A fine copy of the first postage stamp bearing Washington's portrait and which is also the first type of engraved postage stamp issued in the whole western world was used on this cover and tied to it by a very rare postmark.

The stamp was produced by Rawdon, Wright & Hatch, who were joined by Mr. Edson before they engraved and printed the U. S. 1847 issue more than five years later. The cover and contents are of the greatest philatelic interest and because every U. S. postage stamp is a direct descendant of this first engraved adhesive, the stamp is truly the gran'daddy of all U. S. postage stamps.

If there is another cover just like this known to philately it is not known to me. Stamps and covers of this character have helped to make the Westfield Peach Orchard famous.

Jumbo Senior

About 100 all different U. S. postage, revenues, etc., total cat. value $10 to $20, for only five dollars. (Remittance must accompany orders). This packet is made up to a standard and not down to a price, so I know what I'm talking about when I say it's a hum-dinger.

GREECE AIR MAIL

Mr. P. J. Drossos, Athens, Greece, writes: "I am enclosing one of the 468 covers flown from Athens to Alexandria on the first flight on April 1, 1929. The Greek special cachet reads: 'Aerial Communication between Great Britain-Greece-India. The First of the Experimental Flights. April 1, 1929.' All the cachets were applied in violet ink." We are indebted to Mr. Drossos for two covers that were sent on the first Athens to London flight. The cachet was the same but of smaller size, and the wording was: "India-Greece-Great Britain" with the date of April 11th. Mr. Drossos says: "The total number of flown covers on the Athens-London first flight was 422 and not 430, as some were not sent off as they were not properly franked. No mails were carried from India or Egypt to Athens, or from England to Athens, nor have the necessary arrangements yet been made for the service. Mails may be sent only from Greece. The cachet of the return flight was always applied in black ink. The other cancellation is the usual Athens air mail marking."

United States

"State" Stamps

The new "State" stamps overprinted for Nebraska and Kansas were placed on sale at the Philatelic Agency on May 1st, as previously announced, although the stamps were available for use in the states themselves, as early as April 15th, as we note Mr. C. O. Conkey reports the use of the 1c from Newton, Kans., on April 15th, this post office having received the 1c, 6c and 8c on that date. The Philatelic Gazette reports that an inquiry at the Holton, Kans., post office elicits the information that they have none and do not know when they will be placed on sale. We, however, will await with interest further reports as to the use of these stamps and are of the opinion that actual first-day covers will bear dates around the 12th and 13th of April.

The Agency is rushed with orders, and while thousands which had been made up during the two weeks previous to their being placed on sale were sent out on the first day, nevertheless, it will take several weeks to complete the numerous orders on hand. There were a good number of local collectors, as well as those from nearby places at the Agency on the first day. Those who have viewed the stamps are disappointed in their appearance, and in the case of the 7c black with black overprint, the surcharge is hardly noticed without close examination.

Several of our readers have made inquiry as to why the states of Nebraska and Kansas were selected in order to try the experiment. It has just been learned that the post office inspector responsible for the surcharge, is the one in charge of the inspectors in these two states, hence, the scheme is being tried out under his supervision. If it works out satisfactorily and in accordance with his expectations, no doubt, other states will follow, although it is stated at Washington that fully a year will have elapsed before any conclusion will have been reached. The quantity of overprints made are supposed to be sufficient to take care of the requirements of these two states for one year, with the exception of course, of the larger post offices previously listed in this column where the unsurcharged stamps will continue to be on sale.

It is suggested that those having access to quantities of these stamps in unused condition, should watch them carefully for wide-spaced varieties in blocks, such as have been found on the Hawaiian and Molly Pitcher issues. There is no likelihood of any inverted overprints, in view of the fact that the stamps are printed and surcharged on the same press. The sheets are not fed individually to a hand press for overprinting.

Canal Zone

Both the United States and the Philippine Governments have made it possible for collectors to obtain fine copies of current issues at Washington. In view of the fact that there has been complaints from quite a few that stamps from the Canal Zone were not being received in well-centered condition, the suggestion was made to the Panama Canal Commission at Washington that arrangements be made to purchase Canal Zone stamps at that point. The matter was referred to the Executive Department at the Zone, and they reply under date of April 15th that they have reached the conclusion that because of the nearness of the United States to the Canal Zone that there is no material delay in filling orders for stamp collectors by the post office at Balboa Heights, which is now the Canal Zone Philatelic Agency.

While I have personally always found it most satisfactory to buy stamps from the Zone through an agent to whom I gladly paid a commission, nevertheless, there has been complaint here of late that the Zone authorities encourage the sale through dealers, which is not satisfactory to them. This further information has been conveyed to the Panama Canal authorities at Washington, and if others are interested in having the Canal Zone stamps on sale in this country, a letter to Mr. A. L. Flint, % Panama Canal, Washington, D. C., will no doubt help to influence their decision.

Mr. V. Nazar calls attention to the various spacings to be found on the 1½c flat type overprinted "Canal Zone." It is found on the same sheet that these vary from 8mm to 9½mm.

Transparent Envelope

The Markilo Company, manufacturers of celluloid envelopes, which are used quite extensively by the stamp fraternity, has just designed something new which will aid collectors of entire covers. This consists of a transparent celluloid envelope, punched at the sides for use in a special binder, the envelope measuring 8½x11. Within the envelope is a transparent support, somewhat similar to the standard approval card, although made of the same transparent material as the envelope. Entire covers may be mounted in the little pockets and seen from both sides. While it was designed for Bank Notes, it will appeal especially to the cover collector.

Antigua.—The Crown Agents Bulletin states that 1p has reverted to red, and the 1½p has been printed in brown and supplies of both have been despatched to the Colony. Also the 1/- black on emerald has been printed on script paper.

Brunei.—The Crown Agents Bulletin announce that the 4c has been changed from maroon to orange, and that supplies have been despatched.

Falkland Islands.—The new issue of stamps for this colony will consist of an ornamental vignette of King George under which are representations of Penguins and a Whale. The name of the Colony appears at the top and the duty immediately below on the right and left of the stamp. "Postage & Revenue" is shown at the foot. The following values are on order according to the Crown Agents Bulletin ½p green, 1p red, 2p grey, 2½p blue, 6p purple, 1sh black on emerald, 2sh6p red on blue, 5sh green on yellow, 10sh red on emerald, and 1 pound black on red.

maker's watermark in the sheet and this enables us to identify two makings of paper, "Wheatley Bond" and "Serra Bond."

In 1920 the same San Martin design was repeated (again with the two perforations in some values) on paper showing a new watermark, a sun enclosing the letters "RA," repeated at close intervals throughout the sheet. In 1921 there was a reversion to a watermark of a single sun with a face, similar to that of the 1896 issue, but in the following year a larger variant of the Multiple Sun with "RA" was used. Finally, to bring the story of the San Martin type to a close, a further 1922 printing of the 2c and 20c was made on paper without watermark in its texture, but which had the Multiple Sun and "RA" device applied as an overprint in grey.

Another interesting group consists of the 5c stamps in the design of the Pan-American Postal Congress issue of 1921, which showed a female figure with a letter in each hand, standing with outstretched arms before a globe. The issue of the 5c in a reduced size of the Pan-American type was the result of the discovery of forgeries of the 5c San Martin type, which were being circulated on a large scale. So urgent was the need that this forged stamp should be replaced, that there was no time to change the design, so that the first printing bore the inscription "Buenos Aires" and the date of the Congress at the foot. This was followed by a stamp, still in the Congress design, but with "Republica Argentina" at foot. The first printing of each of these was on paper without watermark. This was followed by a printing of both on paper with the second Multiple Sun and "RA" watermark, while the 5c, inscribed "Republica Argentina" also figures in the printing on paper with the grey overprinted "watermark" described above. It is worth noting that some very marked retouches have been discovered in this 5c stamp.

In 1923 another San Martin portrait replaced the earlier one. The values from ½c to 50c had a dot below the figure of value, and the watermark was the second Multiple Sun and "RA." Why it should have been decided to erase this dot, is not known, but later printings of these values (on paper with the same watermark) appeared without it. In some cases faint traces of the dot remained, but the 5c is the only value in which specimens with a clear dot and without any dot may be found se tenant.

The peso values of this series are found with two watermarks, first the Honeycomb, and later the Multiple Sun and "RA."

Not many months ago there was delay in the arrival of supplies of paper from Europe and as a temporary expedient certain values of the series without stop were printed on Postal Savings paper, watermarked "AP" (AHORRO POSTAL) in a lantern shaped device. Only small printings were made on this paper and the 20c, 10c and 1 peso are scarce, in the order named. When the new paper arrived it was found to differ from the previous supplies of Multiple Sun and "RA" paper, the central circle of the Sun being of a different size.

In the Postal Centenary issue of 1926 there are a number of interesting flaws, resulting in the dates which appear on some stamps reading incorrectly.

As retouches have been discovered in the Pan-American type of 5c, it is quite possible that flaws and retouches may be found in other of the modern issues, which certainly provide the collector with a field of considerable variety. To these may be added the same issues with the overprints of various Government departments, some of which are very hard to obtain.—Filatelia.

NEW ZEALAND'S RAREST STAMP

From the New Zealand Stamp Collector we take the following paragraphs relating to this important discovery:—

"The discovery of a copy of the 1d orange on unwatermarked paper and perf. 13, which was reported in last month's journal, has evidently created a considerable stir. The various newspapers throughout New Zealand reported the find, and at least one editor has since been inundated with enquiries from people who either themselves possessed or knew someone else who possessed another copy of this stamp. However, investigations have not yet brought another specimen to light.

"When the stamp was first found, it was referred to Mr. R. F. Joyce, an acknowledged authority on the 'Full-face' issues, and subsequently it was sent to Dr. Prins of Auckland. Both of these gentlemen have now given written opinions as to its bona fides.

"Collectors in New Zealand will be interested to learn that the stamp will not leave the Dominion as it will in future adorn the very fine collection owned by the Hon. Sir R. Heaton Rhodes."

As Mr. Joyce's opinion on the stamp should be of interest to collectors and will be of value for reference purposes in the future we print it hereunder:—

"KAIAPOI, May 10, 1928.

Never since Mr. A. T. Bate discovered the two 3d Pelures has there been such a find in New Zealand stamps as the stamp you send for inspection. We have no evidence that the 3d pelures were anything more than a trial, found unsatisfactory, and never issued. Your stamp on the other hand is the 'Lost Atlantis' of New Zealand stamps, first of the Dunedin Perfs., and incidentally, the rarest New Zealand stamp—so far only one copy known.

Having had the opportunity of comparing it with the many perf. 13's in Sir Heaton Rhodes' magnificent collection, I can say without any hesitation that it is genuine, and a very early perforate stamp, probably late '61 or early '62, and a true mate to the 2d and 6d of the Richardson printing.

That the stamp might exist has been suggested before and one is at first astonished that it has not been discovered before in sufficient numbers to adorn a number of collections. The explanation is perhaps not far to seek. I suggest that as perforated stamps were coming in to Dunedin in plenty from overseas, and as Ferguson and Mitchell had a perforating machine they tried it out on some stamps. Now, as we all know, Dunedin is the home of Scotchmen, and a careful Scot would not use any but the lowest denomination stamps for experimental purposes. As there was no half-penny stamp out at the period he would naturally start with a penny. Now, there was a very little use for the penny stamp in Dunedin early in '62. The lowest letter rate was 2d, newspapers for the most part were free, and soldiers who used the penny in exercise of their special privilege were at this time stationed in the more northern parts of New Zealand. So it is unlikely that Ferguson and Mitchell would have many penny stamps on hand, and as any tampering with the postage stamps might meet with disapproval they were not likely to jeopardise the value of a whole sheet without first having the sanction of the Postmaster. One can easily understand then that a small block was done, of a sample of the lowest value, and taken along to the Postmaster, whose approval was gained and perhaps the contract that we know was entered into was founded on this first effort.

Whoever had the block, one can quite easily understand that they would use them up for postage purposes right away, and as so many thousands of 'Full Face Queens' have now gone through expert hands, the block must have been a very small one for the solitary copy to come to hand at this late hour.

You ask me of its value. Very difficult to say. If the stamp had been allowed the freedom of European and American markets, I should not be surprised to hear of its changing hands at a figure of £1,000 or over. I think there are quite a few collectors who would pay £500 to secure it. Apart from its rarity it is such a magnificent copy in every way. Were it of a common variety the most critical collector would call it almost superb. You have added a new sun to our universe and it should be the brightest star in the Southern Cross.

Congratulations,
R. FRANCIS JOYCE, F.R.P.S.L."

Concerning this, Mr. R. J. G. Collins writes:

"I cannot refrain from making some reference in this column to the discovery, which I was fortunate in making recently, of a magnificent copy of what was hitherto an unknown variety, of the 'full-face' issue. I refer, of course, to the 1d orange printed by J. Richardson at Auckland on thick white wove unwatermarked paper, and perforated 13 by Messrs. Ferguson and Mitchell at Dunedin.

"It was a coincidence that this stamp should have come to light just at the time when my article on the Dunedin perfs. was being set up for the N.Z.S.C.

"Apart altogether from its market value, a discovery of this description would excite the most phlegmatic specialist, and such a discovery must, I imagine, be somewhat akin to that of an explorer who is the first to encounter a new land.

"Various theories will no doubt be propounded to explain this variety, and in an opinion which Mr. Joyce has given and which is printed on another page, it will be seen that Mr. Joyce believes that the 1d, the 2d pale blue, and the 6d were in the nature of an experiment in perforating the stamps by Ferguson and Mitchell. With Mr. Joyce's theory I am in full accord.

"As to the exact date when the experiment was made, there is, at the present time, only the circumstantial evidence that the 1d and at least one of the 2d pale blue and one of the 6d stamps are all cancelled with '18' in an oval of thin bars, an obliteration which does not appear to have been in general use from about July, 1862, to some time in 1865.

"The earliest dated copy of a perf. 13 stamp is given in the 'History of New Zealand Stamps' as 'December, 1862,' but the majority of these varieties are found cancelled from about the middle of 1863 to the end of 1864.

"It will be seen that Mr. Joyce suggests that the 1d, 2d pale blue and 6d were possibly perforated late in 1861 or early in 1862, and if this is correct then there must have been an interval between the experimental perforating and the general use of the machine for various stamps in the Dunedin Post Office.

"The earliest recorded dated copy of the 2d deep dull blue on unwatermarked paper and perf. 13 is in July, 1863, and Mr. B. Goodfellow believes that these stamps were printed by J. Davies and not by Richardson (vide London Philatelist, Vol. 33, page 11). Davies commenced printing the stamps in February, 1862, and although Richardson's contract did not expire until April, 1862, it is unlikely that the Government would have allowed an outside printer to produce stamps after arrangements had been made to do the work officially.

"The 1d, 2d pale blue, and 6d values are accepted as having been printed by Richardson, and hence would have been in stock not later than February, 1863, and if the perf. 13's were not the result of an experiment, a few sheets must have been run through the machine with a stock of pelures or of the stamps with 'star' watermark. Against this supposition the comparatively large size of the holes would presume an early use of the machine and secondly the '18' obliteration on all three values would appear to allocate these stamps to a date not later than June or July, 1862."—Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly.

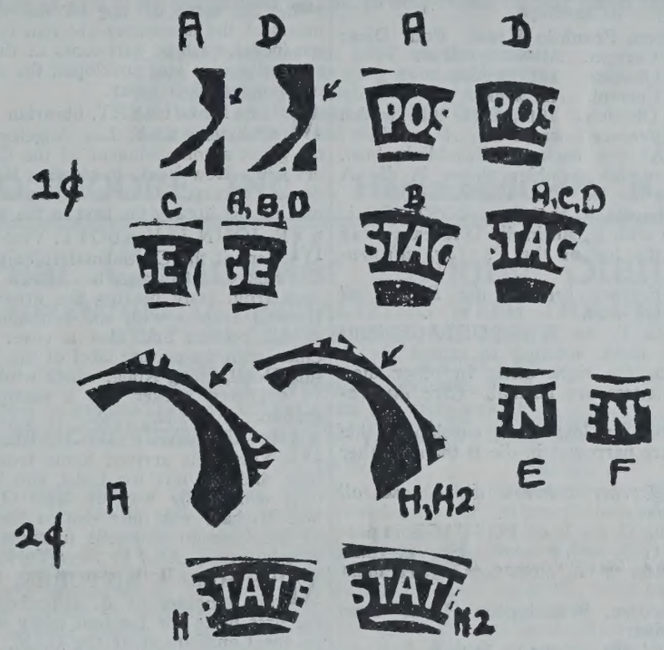
U. S. 1916 ENVELOPE DIES

A SERIES OF DIE TESTS AFFORDING A DEFINITE METHOD OF STUDY

By H. Clay Reed.



Many of the descriptions of the 1916 United States envelope dies, as given in the standard Bartels envelope catalogs, are too vague to be of real value in distinguishing the various dies. For this reason the following series of "die tests" is presented, the merit claimed for them being that they afford a definite method of distinguishing the various dies, no matter whether the specimen to be tested comes from a new or a worn hub. Those who have followed the 1916 issues during the past twelve years have noticed minor variations in some of the dies, which may be due to retouching of master dies or electrotypes. For instance, numerous specimens of 2c die A might be assembled, each noticeably different from the others, yet all unmistakably die A; these die tests are accurate for all such examples.

Several dies which are adequately described in the Bartels' 1924 and 1929 catalogs have been omitted, but every die now current is described here. As a perusal of the article will show, only a few of the 1916 dies are now in use. With a few exceptions, however, the obsolete dies are not scarce, and a complete collection of them may be made for a relatively small outlay.

To the practiced eye each die "looks" different from every other; the experienced collector can distinguish each die at a glance, by the general appearance of the stamp—in case of Washington heads, by the different shape of the head on each die; but this ability is the result of practice, and until that is acquired, a more objective test is necessary. Hence, these "tests" are submitted.

It may be mentioned that the 1916 dies have been in use for five different envelope contracts, which can be distinguished by different watermarks in the paper. In the first contract, the watermark consists of the monogram "US" with the date 1915 through the letters. Succeeding contracts are watermarked with the same style of "US", but with the dates 1919, 1921, 1925, and 1929 respectively. Two or three varieties of watermark are found in each contract, the date being horizontally across the top or bottom of the US, or diagonally through it.

Two styles of envelopes are used, high back and low back, which fact is sometimes of aid in separating various dies of entire envelopes. One-cent die C, and 1½c, 2c, and 3c dies H and H2, are found in high back only, with the exception of Bartels' number 2885. One-
